WANER GETS BIG CONTRACT

2ND YEAR PLAYER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Among his trophies for the New Year, Lloyd Waner, the "little poison" of the Pittsburg Pirates, will be able to count one of the most substantial contracts that has ever been given to a player for his second year in major league baseball.

This plump little contract, according to advices from Pittsburg, when combined with what Lloyd realized in the 1927 season as a member of a world's series team, will give him a larger return than his brother Paul received for his first two years in big baseball. Paul, however, played two years in San Francisco before he was passed on to the Pirates to make a reputation that is second to none for modern ball players.

Lloyd Waner went to the San Francisco club heralded as a better batter than Paul. Every baseball man who knew about Lloyd in his home state of Oklahoma told the California club that it had a player who would surpass his brother and make a reputation up and down the Pacific Coast.

Lloyd did not run out in front as some of the enthusiasts had predicted, and the San Francisco club at last let him go for comparatively nothing. Perhaps no bigger baseball blunder as to the merit of a player has ever been made on the Pacific Coast—and that, too, where the men who develop ball players are known to be smart.

More money has been realized in California on the transfer of minor league players to the majors than in any other state. It began years ago when Fred Carroll and players of his rank began to get away from the coast and go east. Some marvelously good players have come out of California and they continue to come. They play baseball all of the year in that state and they play it because they like it.

When Lloyd Waner got away and began to show his superior skill in Pittsburg, the Pacific Coast owners said it was the last time that a player would escape them without a sufficient tryout. Recently there has been a great deal of talk about some major club buying that admirable pair of infielders, Lary and Reese of the Oakland California club. They are two of the cleverest young players in the United States in handling ground balls.

Cal. Ewing, who owns the Oakland club, will not sell Lary and Reese unless both can go to the same team. He thinks they are stronger when working together than they would be if separated. That may be true. A major league manager, however, would not hesitate long about separating them if he did not get results.

The price asked for these two players bowled over some of the major league investors, who would gladly hand over a big sum if they were sure they had two more Waners. They are less certain about the Oakland players because they have never batted as well on the coast as Paul Waner batted.

INSIDE SPORTIN' DOPE
By A WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

If the customers ever get time in the Christmas rush, Mac, I hope they will accept my best wishes for the happiest kinda Christmas they've ever known. If they've did their best to bring joy to kiddies' hearts and did something to help the other fellow what's kinda had the brakes go against him lately, I'm sure they'll all remember this Christmas. For after all, Mac, the real joy doesn't come in buying a lotta presents for folks what can afford to buy the same things for themselves; it is found in making the youngsters happy and remembering the birds that's nearly done and out. It's a great old season anyway, and as for me, as I said before, I hope the customers will all be happy over the holiday and beyond.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, things has been looking up in the local hockey world. The sr. Petes took a fall outa the dope Tues. when they slipped into Oshawa and whitewashed Sammy Lowe's good intermediate crew. And it always takes a pretty fair branda hockey to do that. On top of that win along comes Mister Red Legon and sez they can count him in with the Petes for the season. Mister Legon will help a whole lot, and his coming was about the nicest Christmas box that Mister Eddie Wright is likely to find in his sock this year. Now, if Mister Frankie Collins would also elect to play for the Petes this winter the local crew would be all set. And even without the oil king, the lads is going to make plenty of trouble in the sr. race. They gotta coupla young goolers which is real clever; this Mister Clark can play hockey about as well as he can fly a plane, and that's considerable; and fellows like Mister Kane, Mister Legon and Mister McFee up in front will battle like nobody's business. Mister Ray Rose is going to be skipper of a fighting gang this season, make no mistake about that, and if they can be shook down into a team what will work together they will supply plenty fireworks before the campaign is gone very far. Spotting 4 or 5 players to the pros. leaves a lotta building up to do, but the Petes seem to be making a pretty good job of the reconstruction.

Well, Mac, they ain't nobody going to have no time to wade through a long letter Christmas Eve. Anyway, I don't think I got my Christmas shopping done, for I just found 2 bits in my hip pocket, and I don't generally figger I'm through buying until I'm broke, and not always then if somebody ain't wise to me, if any.

Once again, customers, a merry, merry Christmas.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

MINOR LEAGUES TO MEET AGAIN

Club Owners to Discuss the Major-Minor Draft Problem.

ON JANUARY 9TH.

CHICAGO, December Press. — The minor league club owners were summoned yesterday by President Mike Sexton of Rock Island to an extra session at French Lick Springs, Ind., on January 9, to take up again the major-minor draft problem, since the major leagues refused to accept the minors' Dallas pronunciamento.

In their regular winter meeting at Dallas, the minors voted to forbid the five big minors from continuing under the modified draft, a system which permitted the majors to draft only those players from the big minors that had originally come from the major league teams.

This left the five big minors free to sell the players they had developed themselves, at fancy prices. The smaller minors complained however that the majors sought to evade this restriction by first signing up all the college and sandlot players in sight, leaving no recruits for the bush leaguers.

The five big minors at Dallas took this order in silence, but when the major leaguers assembled in New York they told the minors that the action did not suit them at all and if the minors persisted the whole major-minor agreement was off.

The wording of the summons to his league presidents and club owners, President Mike Sexton of the minors said, in issuing the call, is broad enough to bring up the whole major-minor question again.

TRIO MEET FIRST DEFEAT

French Tennis Players Lose Three Matches to Penn. Athletic Club.

ON WORLD TOUR.

PHILADELPHIA Pa., Dec. 24 — Canadian Press. — The French tennis trio, composed of Jean Borotra, Jacques Brugnon and Christian Boussus, met the first defeat of their world tour when they were beaten in three matches by Philadelphia players on the indoor court of the Penn Athletic Club here yesterday.

Borotra, renewing his rivalry with William T. Tilden 2nd, former national champion, was beaten in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4. Brugnon was more valiant, but no more successful against Manuel Alonzo, losing 12-13, 3-6, 6-1.

Borotra teamed with Boussus, the 17 year old left handed Gallic star, in a double match and they were beaten by Tilden and R. N. Williams in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4.

The appearance being the first of the French stars on an indoor court since they began the tour which has already taken them through South America and which will later take them to Australia and South Africa, they were obviously troubled by the limited space and the brilliant overhead lights

Borotra, in his singles match with Tilden, played his usual colorful game, bounding about the court to make what seemed to be impossible gets at times, but Tilden's service, tearing across the net with its old time speed, kept him constantly on the defensive.

—The year that is passing has been good to us. And your loyalty, your confidence, your friendship was the greatest factor in this success.

—We acknowledge our appreciation with the sincere hope that you will enjoy a Most Happy Christmas and a Very Prosperous New Year.

BELANGER READY FOR NEW YORKER

TORONTO, December 24.—Even in New York the claims of Frenchy Belanger to the flyweight championship are generally recognized. One well-known authority intimates that Izzy Schwartz is not lacking in nerve when he tells the conqueror of Newsboy Brown, Frankie Genaro, and Ernie Jarvis, to go and get a reputation before he will consider a match with him. He quotes the latter as saying that Frenchy is not much of a fighter, but that he "can hit," which elicits the comment from the expert in question, "That's done it for me. Hitter, eh? Feed him to my eyes. There's music in them wallops, pardner."

In the meantime Belanger is not losing any sleep over the matter. He is sitting pretty at present, and Schwartz's pretensions are not causing him any uneasiness. He is eager to try conclusions with Genaro again if only for the purpose of proving to the New Yorker that he is away off his base when he says that he cannot fight.

This remark has apparently hurt French a great deal more than the punches handed him by the grapevine artist from New York, and he will be ready to show Frankie a thing or two when they come together next month at the Coliseum.

MANAGER CALLS REPORT "HOKUM"

Sharkey's Pilot Scores Alleged Delaney Story of Match.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 24.—Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, yesterday classed as "hokum" Jack Delaney's reported assertions in Bridgeport Thursday night that the Sharkey-Heeney heavyweight elimination bout at Madison Square Garden on January 15 was off in favor of a Delaney-Heeney fight.

Since his return from New York last Tuesday, Sharkey has done some sixty rounds against both light and heavy bags, in addition to regular gymnasium work, Buckley said, and has experienced no trouble with his injured hand.

"He hasn't boxed yet, and he won't start boxing until a couple of days after Christmas," the manager added. "Of course, we can't really tell about the hand until then, but it seem to be perfectly O.K. now. If it isn't, he won't fight, but it looks as though the fight would go through just the same."

PICK EASY MARKS.

NEW YORK, December 24. — Paolino's board of managers is pursuing the same course of tactics that swelled Luis Firpo's knockout record.

According to information at hand Paolino's first spasm will be a knockout affair against big Pat Lester. Philadelphia will be the scene of the torture some day next week. If he gets away with it and the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission does not take a hand Paolino will be asked to sample a bit of boxing at the hands of Battling Levinsky at the Motor Square Garden in Pittsburg, January 2nd.

The fans are anxious to see the Basque woodchopper about whom so much has been written, and he no doubt will be a good magnet for the promoters. This is the reason Paolino's advisory board has been able to select his opponents so carefully.

During the latter part of January Paolino will show his wares at Los Angeles, and this is where the Basque may meet his Waterloo, George Godfrey has been chosen to act as the party of the second part at Paolino's debut on the Pacific Coast.

The Spaniard took a chance with Harry Wills when the latter was thought to be good enough to scare off the other heavies. Paolino stopped the giant negro in four frames. But Godfrey is not Wills. Godfrey is in the full bloom of manhood and fighting better than ever. The turtle defence of the Spaniard will not be a puzzle to Godfrey, who knows just how to fiddle around and pick his opening.

Godfrey versus Paolino is good attraction for Los Angeles, but it may mean the exit of Paolino Uzcudun.

BOWANVILLE JUNIORS WIN 4-1 IN GAME AT LAKESHORE TOWN

CANDLER STARS.

Scores All Four Goals for the Winners—Locals Shape Up Well.

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., Dec. 24. — (Special.) —Playing indifferent hockey here last night in the opening contest of the local O.H.A. season, caused Peterborough juniors to go down to a 4 to 1 defeat at the hands of the local "home brews." The game for the first two periods was replete with thrills and interesting plays, but the third was a "run away" for Bowmanville, due largely to the fact that the visitors persistently refused to find the local net in efforts to score. The game at the end of the first period was 0-0, and the end of the second 1-0 for Bowmanville

The Petes were strong on skates, but as stated above, continually missed the nets and therefore did not get enough goals They had plenty of chances, oftentimes taking risky shots and being generally careless in their manner of attack. The game was a clean contest from a players' standpoint, penalties being few and far between.

One thing that particularly impressed the fans was the clever backchecking of the Peterborough players. They were like fiends in this respect and only their tricky work saved them from suffering worse defeat. Time after time the Bowmanville forwards broke through the firing line but fell weak when attempting to evade the back division.

Without the services of Chandler, Bowmanville would have been lost. This lad scored all four goals and put up a generally splendid exhibition of hockey. He, together with Jones, the diminutive centre player of the Peterborough squad, starred. Lebarr tallied Peterborough's lone counter after a minute of play in the third.

The teams:

Peterborough — Goal, Mien; defence, Calladine and Lebarr; centre, Jones; wings, Kenneally and Allen. Subs, Shields and Cripps.

Bowmanville— Goal, Hooper; defence, Williams and Osborne; centre, Chandler; forwards, McMullan and Rundle. Subs, Jackman, Mutton and Adams.

Referee—Smith, Whitby.

FILES HIS PLANS FOR NEW ARENA

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Announcing that his projected sports arena had been incorporated under the laws of this State as the Metropolitan Coliseum, Promoter Humbert J. Fugazy revived his widely announced plan to enter sports promotion as a rival of Promoter Tex Rickard with a plant on the east side of Twelfth Avenue between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth Streets.

In his announcement—the latest in a series of announcements which to date have not borne fruit—Fugazy revealed that he had engaged offices at 1,612 Broadway, across the street from his present headquarters, from which he intends to operate after the first of the year with an enlarged office staff. The arena will have a seating capacity of more than 30,000,000, and will be equipped with all modern conveniences as a sport arena and convention or exposition hall. The work of excavation will commence as soon as weather conditions permit, a mimeographed statement said.

Fugazy Files Plans.

Subsequent to the announcement it was learned Fugazy had filed plans for the proposed building, the first positive step in a realization of his plans. Last April he said he had purchased the property from representatives of William Randolph Hearst. The plans were filed with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings, and specify a one-story public assembly hall to be known as the Metropolitan Coliseum, Inc., with Fugazy as President and T. W. Lamb architect, at an estimated cost of $5,000,000.

The plans calls for seats for 30,794 persons, divided as follows, 12,638 stadium and box seats, 6,202 seats in the mezzanine balcony, 7,964 seats in the balcony and 4,000 arena seats. There also will be accommodations for 5,000 standees in an exhibition hall.

The site overlooks the Hudson River on the west and De Witt Clinton Park on the south. It contains 115,000 square feet of ground area and is part of the entire city block bounded by Eleventh and Twelfth Avenues and Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth streets, which was acquired several months ago by Mr. Hearst. Contracts for the sale of the westerly part of the block to Fugazy were signed some time ago, and title to the property will be passed in February.

SCOUT NEWS

FIFTH PETERBOROUGH CUB PACK.

The meeting of the Fifth Peterborough Cub Pack opened with the Cub howl. The senior sixer, Garry Johnson, and assistant were in charge. The voices of the boys being rather weak, the cub howl was repeated several times, after which Tom Alcock took the boys in a merry chase, then followed a game of "Kelly Says Do This." The boys who were out the most had to go through the mill. The sixers were instructed and then the pack was called to order and the "Seventh Bite' 'taken up. In the Council circle the new Assisting Scoutmaster, Harry Wilkes, was introduced to the pack by the Senior Sixer. He gave a short speech straight to the point. The Cub master then gave a short talk, and B. MacPherson's Six were instructed to put on a short play for next week, and every fellow was asked to come out and cheer them.

The fees were collected and the meeting came to a close, all having enjoyed a jolly evening.

'THIRTEENTH HOUR'

What is "The Thirteenth Hour"? Chester M. Franklin, who directed the mystery drama of that name at the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer studios, gives the following version:

"To the young flapper, stepping out to a school party for the first time, 'The Thirteenth Hour' is the zero hour—unless she is home in bed by that time, she'll get a warm reception from her folks the next day.

"To the milkman, it is the start of his day—the hour for him to pile out of bed and and start delivering his milk. To the radio fan, it is hour that reception of distant stations is the best— constant sitting up until the thirteenth hour produces what is known as radio eyes—half closed and half open. The 'Thirteenth Hour' in radio causes almost as many divorces as the third party in the eternal triangle.

"But in the story 'The Thirteenth Hour' it is that hour when the majority of people are asleep— when thieves and murderers roam about. It is that hour, commonly known as one a.m., when the murder in the story is committed and its psychology is carried throughout the picture to sustain suspense until the last scene. The darkness, the quietness, the mystery of 'The Thirteenth Hour'—all effects that were so successful in Shakespearean dramas — are used in the new picture, making it one of the most thrilling detective stories ever filmed."

Adding to the mystery of this sinister hour is a thread of occultism, for in this gripping story its seemingly most benign character, a harmless, lovable, mild, little old professor, who appears to have no interest in life outside his books, drops that character as though it were a mask when the clock strikes the thirteenth hour, and emerges in his true role, that of a criminal, a master crook with a brain as evil and dark and dangerous as any found inside of a mad house.

With Lionel Barrymore in the leading role, the cast of "The Thirteenth Hour," which comes Monday to the Capitol Theatre, includes Charles Delaney, Jacquelin Gadsdon, Fred Kelsey, Polly Moran, Napoleeon, the German police dog, and others of note. It was adapted to the screen by Edward T Lowe, Jr.

OREGON ICE JAM THE BIG THRILL IN ICE "FLOOD"

One of the biggest ice jams which has occurred on the Williamette River, in Oregon, in years, provides the climax of "The Ice Flood," the Universal-Jewel production featuring Kenneth Harlan and Viola Dana, coming to the Regent Theatre, Monday.

A company of more than sixty persons, headed by George B. Seitz, the director, and Mr. Harlan and Miss Dana, travelled from Universal City, California, to Klamath Falls, Oregon, in order to obtain the big scenes.

In addition to the ice flood, scores of impressive scenes made in the big woods and the lumber camps of Oregon were recorded on celluloid for the picture.

The company spent almost three months in Oregon, waiting for the ice to reach the proper state of congestion before the big and dangerous scenes were made.

When it did come, the scenes were shot in less than two hours, and are said to equal any physical thrill ever made for the screen.

"The Ice Flood" was written by Johnstone McCulley and adapted to the screen by James O. Spearing, Frank Hagney, Fred Kohler, DeWitt Jennings, Kitty Barlow, Billy Kent Schaeffer and others, play the supporting roles in the picture.

CRAMER FOUND SERVING TERM

...ged Accomplice of Hickman Has Been in Jail Since Last August.

PRISONER UNCONFUSED.

PENDLETON, Oregon, Dec. 24.—(Canadian Press.)— Peering through the bars of his cell here yesterday, William E. Hickman smiled when informed Andrew Cramer, the man he named as slayer of Marian Parker, had been in jail at Los Angeles since last August.

Without confusion he said that the man he had been associated with in the kidnap plot probably had taken the name of Cramer.

A slight laugh escaped Hickman's lips as the dispatch from Los Angeles was read to him.

"That is strange," he said. "It can't be."

Then he added: "Perhaps the man took the name of Cramer just to get me in bad."

In Trouble Before.

Speaking in a straightforward manner, the young prisoner said said that the men he described as Cramer had been in trouble before. "He said he had been in a kidnapping in Denver and knows how to do it. I fell in with the plan because I wanted the money."

When reminded that he had mentioned June Dunning in his confession here yesterday, Hickman said: "Well, if you can find her, perhaps she can explain who this other man Cramer is."

Special attention was directed to Cramer's quoted statement of: "I know Hickman. I don't know why he picks on me. Of course it is impossible for me to have been in on that killing."

Referring to this, Hickman said: "Yes, I know Cramer."

Asked where he was before last August, when Cramer was sentenced to jail, Hickman declared he was in Kansas City and later went to Chicago.

Hickman then rambled on, telling about his movements, how he rented a room at the Paradise Arm Apartment in Chicago, on Washington Boulevard and paid $11 a week for the room.

COUNCIL EXPECTED TO BE RE-ELECTED

WARKWORTH, December 24. — It is believed by a great many that the present members of the Township Council will be re-elected by acclamation. Reeve, W. H. Nelson; Deputy Reeve, James Sykes, Jr.; Councillors, Oscar Laver, A. Merrill, and W. Partridge.

The members of the Agricultural Society have decided to open the skating rink, and preparations are being made to get it in shape for skating as soon as possible.

The most important feature of the Young People's entertainment of St. Paul's Church, which is being held in the Town Hall on Monday evening, December 26, is a three-act play, "Dummy." Besides this, there are many interesting numbers given by the Sunday School.

"The Monkey's Pa..." and "Whiskers," two plays which will afford much fun, are being given in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening, December 28, by the Sunday School and Young People's Society of the Presbyterian Church.

The members of the Ladies' Association of St. Paul's Church met at the home of Mrs. William Anderson on Tuesday afternoon. The business for the year was finished and work for the coming year was planned. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. George Walker.
Vice-President—Mrs. W. J. Harper.
Secretary—Mrs. A. M. Smale.
Treasurer—Mrs. William Smooker.

Severe Cold Wave Sweeps Over Florida

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 24 (Canadian Press).—An unusually severe cold wave which has held the Everglades section on the south-eastern tip of Florida in the grip of freezing and near-freezing temperatures continued yesterday, leaving truck and fruit growers, exhausted from a four-night fight against frost, and faced with the necessity of lighting smudge pots again last night.

A minimum temperature of 27 degrees, the coldest in many years, was reported to the local weather bureau yesterday from the Everglades. This brought an announcement from Richard W. Gray, Government meteorologist, that all unprotected truck crops in that region had been destroyed.

Thin ice was reported to have formed at unprotected points and even the most systematic frost combatting measures, which included the use of household oil stoves and gas-heated pipes, as well as smudge fires in groves and gardens, were believed to have been mostly ineffective against the cold. The temperature here on Thursday night dropped to 41 degrees.

British Government To Investigate Craze For Betting On the Greyhounds

LONDON, Dec. 24 (Canadian Press Cable).—Those who have invested money in greyhound racing companies' stocks received an unpleasant jolt when they learned that the Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, told a deputation of members of parliament Thursday that the Government had its eye on the consequences, moral and otherwise, of the craze for betting on greyhound racing, and promised to investigate the matter with a view to making a full statement with reference to it when Parliament reassembled in February.

As a matter of fact the more canny speculators in greyhound racing had already prepared to draw in their horns, for some of the latest greyhound racetrack propositions had been given a very poor reception. If the Government is concerned over the morals of the population with regard to this so-called sport, why did it not voice its apprehension six months earlier and take action then? This question is being asked in more than one quarter now.

People who profess to be qualified to judge of this latest speculative enterprise have been more than apprehensive for some time that the whole thing is being overdone. It is somewhat reminiscent of the earlier frantic running after moving picture propositions, in which many a modest investor lost his money but gained a rueful experience.

The greatest American ace was Captain E. V. Rickenbacker, credited with 25 victories. He was an automobile racing driver and went to France as Pershing's chauffeur. There he entered the air service and soon became squadron commander. He was a fearless leader and never asked his men to do anything he would not do.

Frank Luke, with 18 planes to his credit, was the second American ace. He liked to hunt alone, and would seek out German planes far behind their lines. At last, while attacking three German balloons, he was attacked by ten German planes. He brought down two, and the three balloons, before he was himself killed.

Major Victor Raoul Lufberry was the third American ace. He was first a member of the Lafayette Escadrille, but joined our colors when we entered the war. His death occurred when his gas tank was ignited by fire from a German Fokker. Forced to jump, without a parachute, he was killed.

One of the distinguished air fighting forces was the Lafayette Escadrille, made up of Americans—among them Norman Prince, Bert Hall, Victor Chapman, Norman Hall, William Thaw and many other renowned fliers. They did great work in bringing down German planes and took part in many thrilling combats.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CHRISTMAS EVE

Standing in a circle around the fallen Christmas tree, under the roots of which, in a little hollow nest were some round bunches of red fur, the animal boys looked eagerly to see what Uncle Wiggily would do.

"Maybe that's the Fuzzy Fox in there, waiting for a chance to bite Uncle Wiggily!" quacked Jimmie the duck.

"If there's any biting to be done, Jackie and I want our share!" barked Peetie Bow Bow.

"This isn't the Fox!" said Mr. Longears with a laugh as he hopped nearer the snug little nest that had been torn apart when Toodle and Noodle, the beaver boys, gnawed down the Christmas tree. "It's just a bunch of Red Squirrels!"

"Yes, that's what we are," chattered a voice coming from one of the little bundles of fur. "We're Red Squirrels and please don't eat us all up! Please don't!" Some little Red Squirrel boys and girls huddled in the dry grass with which their nest house had been lined,

"What is the idea of that?" mewed the Bob Cat.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Jackie. "As if Uncle Wiggily would hurt you!"

"You will not be harmed in the least, my dears," said the old rabbit gentleman kindly. "But where is your father and mother?"

"They went out early this morning to look for some nuts to bring back for our Christmas dinner," said a little Red Squirrel boy. "And they haven't come home. We didn't know what to think when we heard the tree crash down. We were so frightened!"

Up the snow-covered hill leading to the place where the Christmas tree had been gnawed down by the beavers, came leaping a Red Squirrel gentleman. Behind him came his wife and they were much excited when they saw the crowd about what had been their home.

"I don't see any smoke," her husband answered, somewhat out of breath. "But something has happened. The tree over our root nest is down."

"Oh, dear! What shall we do?" sighed his wife.

"Now, don't worry," said Uncle Wiggily kindly. "There has been a little accident, but no one is harmed in the least. I did not know that cutting down the Christmas tree would spoil your home. So I am going to invite you and your husband and your little children to come and live in my hollow stump bungalow for the rest of the winter."

"That is kind of you," chattered the daddy Red Squirrel.

"But may be my children will be in the way," said his wife.

"Bless your tails, no!" chuckled Mr. Longears. "I have forty 'leven little bunnies of my own—or forty twelve if you count Baby Bunty, the orphan. A few more will make no difference. Come along!"

Then some of the boy animals tied long ropes of wild grapevine around the fallen Christmas tree to drag it out of the woods, and Uncle Wiggily went on ahead with Mr. and Mrs. Red Squirrel and their little boys and girls to show them the way to his bungalow.

"I can see where I will need a lot of extra Christmas presents," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, as he looked at the Red Squirrel family. "It's a good thing I got that long stocking of Mrs. Blue Heron.

Mrs. Longears and Nurse Jane welcomed the Red Squirrel family and when the Christmas tree had been put in the woodshed, ready to be set up later, Uncle Wiggily looked at the clock and said:

"Why, it will soon be Christmas Eve!"

"Why, so it will!" squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Of to bed with you, children! It was a bit early, but no one, even the new little Red Squirrels, teased to stay up later. They knew the quicker they went to sleep, the quicker it would be morning.

And when it grew dark, why, it was Christmas Eve, the most wonderful and mysterious of all nights. Such a scurrying around as there was in the hollow stump bungalow! Such strange noises in the chimney! The Christmas tree was set up, the stockings were hung "by the chimney with care, in hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there," and then—Well, so many things happened in the night that I haven't roome to tell you. But I will say that the tre suddenly blossomed with lights and glittering ornaments. The long stocking Uncle Wiggily had found on the Heron lady's line was stuffed bulging full. So were all the other stockings and I'm sure yours was, too, or else your tree was well laden. And then, all over the land, as morning came, was heard the jolly cry:

"Merry Christmas! Merry Christmas!"

That is what I wish you and what Uncle Wiggily wishes you—the merriest Christmas in all the world! And when you have finished looking at your presents I shall have some more stories for you about Bella, the Doll, and about many toys. But now—Merry Christmas and good-night.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24 (Canadian Press).—Refusing to lose her Canadian nationality, Miss Margaret Barrie, Ottawa nurse, has resigned from the Chicago Municipal Hospital rather than obey the decree issued by Mayor ("Big Bill") Thompson of that city. Mayor Thompson, in his battle against all things British, has invaded the civic hospital in that city and issued a decree that all Canadian nurses must sign an oath of allegiance to the United States or lose their position, so Miss Barrie writes to her brother here. Twenty-three nurses in the Chicago Municipal Hospital are affected by Mayor Thompson's order, writes Miss Barrie.

Window Display Of Striking Beauty

The Canadian Department Stores have excelled themselves this year in their window decorations for Christmas. The scene placed there this week, with a snowy atmosphere to a reindeer train and a sleigh with Santa Claus aboard, has been replaced to-night by an extremely effective arrangement showing ingenuity and artistic taste. A small girl sits reading a book in a living-room interior, and the story of the Christ Child, which she is apparently enjoying, is reproduced in the background of the window, where the Crib and the Holy Family are portrayed, in lifesize figures, with the Magi and shepherds in adoration of the infant Redeemer. The whole arrangement is particularly appropriate and attractive.

Community Choir Concert

(By Jeanette).

The concert given by the Community Choir in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last evening was very successful. A large number of people, numbering between five and six hundred, were in attendance, and listened with manifest enjoyment to the exceptionally fine program, which included a number of Christmas carols and several of the outstanding portions of Handel's "Messiah," a musical theme particularly appropriate to the Yuletide season. The Choir, which included members of the various Roman Cathalic and Protestant churches of the city, was led by R. J. Devey, organist and choirmaster of Knox United Church, with G. F. Liddle, holding a similar position in George Street United Church, at the piano, and M. E. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, playing organ accompaniments.

The most interesting portion of the programme was the singing of old-time Christmas carols, those songs which in an earlier day were composed to combat the spirit of irreligion and worldliness which threatened to swamp all remembrance of the Christmas Miracle, and which seized on the imagination of their generation, have also inspired the hearts and voices of modern songsters, who sing them with just as great a relish, the melody which filled these ancient lays making a strong and lasting appeal.

The traditional Welsh carol, "Deck the Hall," was a bit of music that kept the audience absorbed in its words and presentation. The attractive tenor voice of Edward Jones, clear and sweet, with that vibrant quality that enchains the hearing, carolled the stanzas, first in Welsh, then in English.

Another extremely effective carol was the oldest known of this type, "God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen," sung in very sweet, rich voice by Mrs. H. F. Doig, with a humming accompaniment and chorus by the choir.

The old French-Canadian carol centering about the crib at Bethlehem, "Une Creche de Noel," was sung in admirable style by Miss Daisy Murray.

The selections from "The Messiah" were beautifully rendered in every instance, with outstanding solo voices and choral accompaniment. The recitative, "Comfort Ye, My People," with air, "Every Valley Shall be Exalted," had a soloist in Harold Lee, tenor, and chorus, "And the Glory of the Lord." Mrs. G. F. Liddle, contralto, sang the air, with chorus, "O Thou That Tellest," and the very fine bass voice of Mr. George East was heard to much advantage in the recitative, "For Behold, Darkness," and the air, "The People that Walked in Darkness." The chorus, "For Unto Us a Child is Born," was a notable example of the excellent training imparted to this Community choir, the eighty or more voices combining in a burst of splendidly-attuned melody that filled the big church and echoed back softly in the noble words.

Miss Daisy Murray was soloist for the recitatives: "And lo! the Angel of the Lord" and "The Angel Said Unto Them," with a chorus, "Glory to God," and Miss Greta LeBarr sang very daintily the air, "Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion." Mrs. Walter Byers had the air, "He Shall Feed His Flock," and "Come Unto Him," both sung with reverent effect, and followed by the mighty "Hallelujah Chorus" for which the audience stood, as usual.

One of the most effective numbers on the program was the singing by an octette of "When the Sun Had Sunk to Rest," a Christmas tale of the Nativity, with a reiterated refrain in the "Gloria in Excelsis Deo" ("Glory be to God in Heaven") as sung in Roman Catholic churches at Christmas time. The noble Latin words rolled out in an inspiring and beautifully sung chorus by the eight fine voices, that included those of Mesdames H. F. Doig C. Crowe, Weller, Miss D. Murray, and Messrs. Crowe, Willis, Wood and East.

Two carols in which the audience joined were popular favorites, in the well known "Silent Night" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."

Mr J. Wearing acted as chairman last evening, and explained the idea of the Community Choir as an effort to create and inspire a proper Christmas atmosphere; to cultivate a love for the old Christmas music and also to make feel at home old country people who are accustomed to music in their own land.

A fitting conclusion to a fine program of Christmas music was the glee, sung by request, "Hail, Smiling Morn," the rousing, buoyant music ringing out in a salute to the New Year that follows the Yuletide season.

ROTARY HEARS STORY OF RAIDS BY CORN BORER

Dominion Entomologist Tells of Invasion of Continent By European Pest.

RAPID INFESTATION.

G. M. Stirrett Describes Methods By Which Borer Can Be Controlled.

Much of interest concerning the infestation of large sections of the United States and Canada by the European corn borer and something of the romance of the fight that is being made by the government experts on both sides of the border against the inroads of this pest were revealed to members of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon to-day by G. M. Stirrett, Dominion Entomologist.

Mr. Stirrett, who is in charge of the fight against the corn borer in Kent county, was introduced by Rotarian Dr. M. A. Morrison.

His address was full of interesting information about the destructive insect which was not detected on this continent until 1917 in the United States, and until 1920 on this side of the international line. Mr. Stirrett pointed out that the carrier of infection was broom corn and added that fifty per cent. of the insects to found in Ontario had come from other countries, mentioning the Oriental fruit moth, the Hessian fly and other pests. The area of infestation by the corn borer had rapidly increased until a large section of the northern part of the United States and a strip extending from Chatham in Ontario throughout the province and into Quebec were infested. The degree of infestation varied widely and commercial damage had been done in some sections only. For instance in Peterborough county the infestation was only 1 to 2 per cent., that is there would be only one or two corn stalks out of one hundred containing a borer, while in some districts there was an infestation of 100 per cent. with many borers to a stalk as against only one in Peterborough county.

Mr. Stirrett after describing the life cycle of the pest which entomologists agreed to be the most destructive that had ever come to this continent, proceeded to discuss methods of control. Particularly he stressed the desirability of the farmers getting rid of the corn stubble by careful plowing and exercising care that the stubble was not uncovered later. The governments on both sides of the line were also fighting the corn borer by introducing parasites to destroy the pest. Many millions of these had been imported from Europe but it was not expected that these would begin to get in their work until about fifty years.

The speaker was heartily thanked for his instructive address.

FOUR MILLION FACE FAMINE

People of Shantung Already Subsisting on Grass and Bark.

MANY CAUSES.

PEKIN, China, December 27 (Canadian Press). — At least four million in the Province of Shantung and a part of Chisli are facing extreme famine, which must be expected to become more severe as winter progresses, a committee of observers reported to-day.

Thousands in Shantung were found to be already subsisting on the bark of trees, chaff and grass. While the Chinese famine relief blamed drought and locusts, the committee thought that "civil war, banditry, and exorbitant taxation" were also equally to blame for Shantung's plight.

Around the City

Possibly due to the fire 'Don'ts" and precautions published by the Examiner, through the courtesy of Fire Chief Gimblett, there were no fires whatever to mar the Christmas observance within the city. The last calls came in late on Saturday afternoon, when overheated pipes required attention at 436 George street south and a motor car took fire on George street, just south of King street, Neither fire did serious damage.

The fire brigade also received a call from Norwood at 2.45 on Sunday morning but a phone message cancelled the trip half an hour later.

Great Britain Has Rainy Christmas

LONDON, Dec. 27 (Associated Press).—The weather prophet who promised England a snow white Christmas of the Dickens type was the most unpopular fellow in the Empire Sunday, for it rained nearly all day.

Christmas is a quiet, indoor holiday for most of the people of England, but as it fell on Sunday this year, great crowds turned out and filled the cathedrals and churches to overflowing to hear the Christmas sermons.

Yesterday was "Boxing Day," always a popular holiday, known as such because the dustman, post man, newsboy and many others carry collection boxes from door to door to get their annual reward for having rendered faithful service.

GIFTS PROMISED FOR NEW CHURCH

At the morning service of Mark Street United Church on Chirstmas Day, the Rev. A. E. Thornley, the pastor, gave out some information that was particularly interesting to the congregation.

For some time past a number of men of the church have been actively engaged in getting under way a campaign to finance the building of a new church and the fruits of their labors have been satisfying. Private persons both in and outside the city have responded with promises of donations amounting to $8,500 and it is expected that in a short time this campaign will be a more extensive one. It will be oragnized at a meeting which will probably be held in the near future.

SCOUT LEADERS TO MEET HERE

Annual Ontario Conference Will Be Held in Peterborough in February.

EXECUTIVE BUSY.

Peterborough is to be honored this year through the decision of the executive of the Boy Scout movement in Ontario to hold the annual conference here in February. This was the information given The Examiner by J. J. Turner Scout Commissioner, of this city.

Last year the conference was held in Hamilton and proved an event of unusual interest. The Scout commissioners also met and as a result the Boy Scout movement in Ontario was greatly benefitted.

Realizing that such a conference, if held here, would be worth the effort, the local Scout officials sent an invitation and backed it at a meeting of the executive held recently in Toronto. As a result, the favorable decision was reached

Though the details of the conference as to time and place are not yet available those interested in Scout work will be busy soon preparing for the annual conference.

Traffic problems are not new. More than 300 years ago coaches so congested London's narrow streets that the government had to take control.

HICKMAN SAYS HE KILLED GIRL WITHOUT HELP

AUDITORS HORRIFIED.

Victim First Strangled To Death, Then Body Cut Up and Scattered.

LOS ANGELES, December 27. — William Edward Hickman has made a confession detailing the murder and butchery of 12-year-old Marian Parker, and his confession is in possession of the Los Angeles District Attorney, who is on the train with Hickman.

Hickman's sang-froid collapsed on Sunday night, and it was yesterday morning when he began mumbling a recital of his full moves in the murdering of the little girl. According to members of the group guarding Hickman, the killing was so horrible as to stun his listeners.

He admitted to District Attorney Keyes that he strangled the school girl to death and then dismembered the body. He said that he scattered the forearms, lower legs, vital organs and lower torso of the girl about Elysian Park, done up in newspaper bundles. This was done an hour after he had bartered the girl's upper torso to her father, Perry M. Parker, a little after 8 p.m. on December 17. Hickman confessed he was alone when he kidnapped the child, murdered her, and dismembered her body.

No anaesthetic was used. The officials say the girl suffered untold tortures before death relieved her from terrible agony. The strangulation, death butchery took place in the Bellevue Arms Apartment, where Hickman continued to live the day after she was kidnapped. The complete and detailed confession of the murder and mutilation, according to Keyes and Police Chief Davis, made a story so revolting that the average mind cannot conceive the torture and brutality.

YOUNG SLAYER IS DISPIRITED

WILLING TO DIE.

ABOARD HICKMAN PRISON CAR, Sanluis Obispo, Calif., December 27 (Canadian Press). — Although crowds gathered at all the stopping points for the train bearing William Edward Hickman toward Los Angeles, no disorders had been encountered up to this morning when the prisoner and official party were started on the last lap of the trip to the Southern California city.

Hickman was said to have told Keyes that he would be willing to plead guilty to murder and kidnapping and would accept the imposition of the death penalty without delay. He seemingly had adopted an attitude of indifference after unburdening himself under a withering fire of questions from detectives.

The youth showed no spirit as he was led out to face the crowds and cameras, shackled to a big detective. He was so broken as the journey neared its end that he could not hold up his head.

26 PERSONS MISSING

The Maramara proceeded to Constantinople. She was slightly damaged.

Predicts Rise In Deaths By Autos As New High Speed Cars Enter Market

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., December 27 (Associated Press). — Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., State Commissioner of Health, predicted in a health talk broadcasted by radio station WGY, that new high-speed automobiles would increase enormously the danger to life and limb. The prediction was based on advertised speeds of fifty-five to sixty-five miles. "There is only one reason for advertising this feature," Dr. Nicoll said. "That is to sell more cars. Many people are going to purchase a machine largely on account of its speed. Now what does that mean? Just so many thousand more death-dealing vehicles on our highways."

Quoting statistics, the Health Commissioner said that 1,666 persons, one-quarter of them children, were killed by automobiles in this State in the first nine months of this year, and that more than 61,000 others were injured in the same period.

"The large number of deaths due to automobiles," Dr. Nicoll said, "exceeded the combined total of deaths in this State caused by typhoid fever, smallpox, scarlet fever, infantile paralysis, measles, and diphtheria. What does it avail the State of New York to spend large sums of money to prevent disease, only to have the people killed by automobiles."

Dr. Nicoll also prophesied that unless motorists drive at conservative speeds "the time will come when every car will be equipped with a governor to prevent a speed greater than twenty miles an hour . . . for no longer can the Empire State countenance the loss of six lives and the maiming of 225 persons every day."

THIRD RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION IN QUEBEC DESTROYED BY FIRE

Summer Retreat of the Maizerets Seminary Razed to Ground.

HISTORIC LANDMARK.

Caretaker and Family, With Household Servants Have Narrow Escape From Death.

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 27 (Canadian Press).—The nerves of religious officials in charge of institutions in Quebec City, already shaken by two disastrous fires, were further disturbed destroyed the summer retreat of the Maizerets Seminary, located in a Quebec suburb.

Joseph Pageau, who had charge of the building, was almost overcome by smoke, and was under doctors' care yesterday. He and his wife, four children, and aged father were aroused by the crackling of the flames and forced to make a hurried retreat in cold weather in their night clothes. A staff of ten servants saved themselves in a similar manner.

With the destruction of the building, another historical landmark of old Quebec disappeared. The original building on the site was destroyed in 1775 by the troops of Montgomery and the present structure was erected in 1776. During the 150 years of its existence the seminary housed many generations of scholars, many of whom entered the priesthood.

The seminary was a large structure and three storeys high. Joseph Pageau and his family resided in the second floor in the centre of the building, his father on the third floor and the servants occupied quarters on the ground floor. The eastern section of the seminary was unoccupied, having been closed for the winter months.

Makes Escape

The flames were discovered about four o'clock yesterday morning. The servants made their escape by a door that gave access to a yard, but the members of the Pageau family experienced greater difficulty owing to the dense smoke, which prevented them from leaving by the main stairway. They were forced to run the gauntlet of fire and smoke to reach a staircase that led from the side of the building. When the firemen arrived the flames had gained considerable headway. The firefighters' efforts to extinguish the fire were handicapped owing to the fact that the building was isolated and some distance from a fire hydrant. Firemen were forced to lay twenty-five lengths of hose before reaching the burning building.

No estimate of the damage could be obtained last night, but it is believed that it will be of large proportions.

Another Alarm

Another alarm in a religious institution was given Saturday night when six revolver cartridges were found on the radiators in the Hotel Dieu Hospital here. No explanation has been given as to how they came to be placed there.

NEW SOURCE OF FUR.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 24.—Furriers have begun importing thousands of skins of the baby hair seal, a species heretofore considered valueless. Pelts of the young animals, however, have been found satisfactory and since countless thousands of the animals are to be found in the North Pacific, the fur trade has an almost limitless source of supply.

Silk cocoons produced in Spain in the past year weighed 2,500,000 pounds.

Report No Sign Lost Freighter

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Dec. 27 (Canadian Press). — The ice-breaking tug James Whalen, which left Saturday morning with two Canada Steamship Lines captains aboard to search the upper end of Lake Superior for the missing freighter Kamloops, returned at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and reported absolutely no indication of the fate of the freighter, which was last seen December 6th off Whitefish en route to Port Arthur. The principal search by the Whalen was around Manitou Island, off Keweenaw, on the south shore of Lake Superior. The only sign of life they saw except that on their own boat was a wolf and an eagle. The weather was fine and permitted a very thorough search. This will conclude the season's effort to locate the missing boat.

SEMINARY FIRE LOSS $15,000

OCCUPANTS SAFE.

QUEBEC, Dec. 27 (Canadian Press). —Following a survey of the damage caused by the fire which swept the Quebec Seminary building at Maizerets yesterday, it was announced by the religious authorities that the loss was estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000. It was also made known that the Seminary authorities intend to rebuild at once.

The building at the time of the fire was unoccupied with the exception of the caretaker and his family, all of whom escaped.

CLASS VISITS HOME.

Baraca Young Men Hold Christmas Service at Protestant Home.

Christmas morning the Young Men's Baraca Class of the Murray Street church, held its meeting at the Protestant Home, instead of at the church. The meeting was led by the president, L. H. Ingram, and after the singing of some Christmas hymns, a short address was given by Mr. Joseph Wearing, teacher of the class. The residents of the Home were made honorary members of the class and a Christmas gift of $15 was made by the class to the new honorary members. The old English carol, "The First Noel," was rendered as a trio by Messrs. H. H. Graham, W. H. Kidd and Joseph Wearing. The meeting closed in time for morning church.

THE WEATHER

The lowest temperature on Christmas day (Sunday) was 3 degrees below zero, early in the morning. The temperature moderated later in the day and the weather was all that could be desired. It was a white Christmas in this section of Ontario, but in Toronto and other places in the western part of the province, there was no snow On Monday the temperature was 10 above zero in the morning, and 20 above in the afternoon, and to-day it is still milder.—W. ALD. HANCOCK NOT IN FIELD FOR COUNCIL

Declines To Run For Seat on Municipal Body For Year 1928.

26 NAMES ON BALLOTS.

Electors To Vote on By-law For Daylight Saving.

The big surprise of Saturday's qualifications for the municipal election was the announcement of Ald. W. J. Hancock that he will not be a candidate. When he had not turned up at the city building at 8.40, one of the old Aldermen sent out a hurry-up call for him, but he maintained his position that he cannot run. The time spent at meetings, he said, is too much of a drain. Alderman Hancock was Chairman of the Board of Health in 1927, in addition to serving on the Aldermanic Board.

It had been expected, too, that ex-Alderman E. Mel Turner would attempt to regain the seat on the Council which he gave up to run for Utilities Commission, but he did not file his qualifications.

There are five members to be elected to the aldermanic board and fourteen names will appear on the ballot. Those who have qualified are: G. A. Macdonald, C. H. Ackerman, S. A. Lowe, James Hamilton, Bertram Halpin, E. A. Stinson, Walter Stocker, M. T. Breckenridge, R. S. Cotton, D. J. Holland, H. C. Huffman, F. T. Tuggey, J. R. Paquette, and J. E. Haggart.

For the Board of Education, where five are to be elected, there are eight contestants: J. A. McNabb; J. J. Craig, E. R. Wilson, H. M. Yeland, F. H. Dawson, E. Bruce Fowler, Mrs Kate Morris, and H. J McCannan.

The two contestants for the Mayoralty, R. Denne and N. Phelan, and the two who will contest the Utilities Commission, John Crane and W. H. Bradburn, filed their qualifications.

There will be 26 names on the ballots, from which a total of twelve is to be picked, and in addition there will be the by-law on daylight saving.

DIVERS DESCEND TO VESSEL AGAIN

Prepared To Bring Up Any Bodies That Can Easily Be Reached.

(Canadian Press).—Though sea conditions were slightly worse, divers on the salvage ship Falcon were preparing to descend to the sunken submarine S-4 late this forenoon to cut away more of the tangled wreckage and try to recover any bodies of the crew which might be within easy reach. The temperature of the sea, which was choppier than yesterday, when four divers went down to the wreck, was again in the forties. The Falcon and the naval tug Sagamore were each moored above the sunken submarine by four anchors. The first diver down to-day, it was said, would take with him large white sign boards, the idea of Commander Ellsberg, which read "This way forward" and "This way aft." These are expected to show the diver where he is when he descends, and he will not be forced to lose precious minutes groping about on the bottom to recover his sense of direction.

KITCHENER, Ont., Dec. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—An eastbound Canadian National Railway train crashed into a small sedan at the Strange street crossing here Saturday night. Mrs. Gordon Musselman of this city, was almost instantly killed, while her father-in-law, Aaron Musselman, of Waterloo, Ont., sustained a fractured skull and is in a serious condition at a hospital. KING OF HOBOES IS VISITOR HERE

Joseph Leon Lazarovitz Spends Christmas Here With Compatriots.

WILL WRITE BOOK.

Royalty shared in the city's welcome to Santa Claus. Such was the startling information that came to hand this morning when the "King of Hoboes," Joseph Leon Lazarowitz, Esq., World's Champion Jewish Hobo, paid The Examiner a friendly call in the course of his wanderings during which he has travelled some 308,000 miles.

The "King" is a hobo in every sense of the word. He is a total stranger to work, he knows not where his next meal will come from, and depends on the hospitality of Jewish friends or good natured police for shelter during his nights on the road.

Lazarowitz is something more than just a regular Knight of the Road. He collects autographs, write-ups (his own, of course) and other information which he will eventually write into a book entitled, "The Life and Adventures of a World's Champion Jewish Hobo." He boasts, and has the papers to prove, that he has been identified by police chiefs, governors and officials in the main cities of America and other countries.

He has been on the road since he was fourteen, and is now twenty-two years of age. He has two more years to go before before he will have visited every country in the world except Russia.

Coming here from Toronto, the Hobo King called upon Mr. and Mrs. S. Seigel and was also identified by Rabbi Fine and Chief of Police Newhall. Mr. Max Gishman motored him about the city, showing him the Lift Locks and other points of interest. A ticket purchased for him by Peterborough friends assured him passage on the noon train to Belleville.

IN POLICE COURT.

This morning two local men faced the Police Magistrate, charged with being intoxicated, and both paid a fine of $10.00. A third man, Elmer Liddell, appeared on a charge of being drunk while in charge of a car. He came to the attention of the police on Christmas morning when his car smashed into another motor on the Hunter Street Bridge. The Liddle car was proceeding west when it met the other, the driver of which suffered cuts about the face. Liddle received a cut on the leg.

SEARCH PARTIES UNABLE TO FIND GRAYSON PLANE

Los Angeles Turns Back To Cape Cod After Cruise.

DESTROYERS GO NORTH.

Operator at Sable Island Says Plane's Call Not Known To Him.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (Canadian Press).—The dirigible Los Angeles informed the Navy Department at ten a.m. today that she had reached Emerald Bank, midway between Cape Sable and Sable Island, and had changed her course for Cape Cod in search of the Dawn. She reported visibility excellent and the sea smooth.

Destroyers Searching

Aboard the U. S. DESTROYER STURTEVANT, Dec. 27 (Canadian Press).—The search for Mrs. Frances W. Grayson and her three companions aboard the missing airplane Dawn was being prosecuted today in northern waters by this destroyer and her companion ship, the U.S.S. Mahan, as they sped towards Sable Island, in which vicinity the plane was believed to have come down.

The Sturtevant was making twenty knots an hour and was headed for Halifax, while the Mahan was doing twelve knots and was laying a course directly for Sable Island

Operator Tells of Call

HALIFAX, Dec. 27 (Canadian Press).—G. H. Masson, in charge of the Government wireless station at Sable Island, has furnished additional details of the circumstances under which he states he picked up the Dawn late Saturday night. He says that the letters NCE were also received in addition to the words "something gone wrong" and explains that they are apparently the last letters of the last word in the message.

At the time the message from the Dawn came through the wireless station at Chatham, Mass., was calling the Grayson plane. The call sign of the amphibian, WMU, was of no significance to him, he states, because it was not registered either at Sable Island or Cheboucto Head. The steam East Side told him, after several inquiries, that the letters WMU were the call signals of the Grayson plane.

MUST RESIGN FROM BOARD

Member of Board of Education Cannot Be Nominated For Council.

ACT VERY CLEAR.

Each year, at the time of municipal elections, there is considerable confusion relative to the qualifications of candidates. This year has proven no exception and therefore the following information may not come amiss:

An amendment to the Municipal Act incorporated this year makes it impossible for a member of the 1927 Board of Education to qualify for a contest for the Aldermanic Board unless he has, three days before nomination resigned from the Board of Education.

There was, a few years ago, a dispute as to the legality of the election of Aldermen Denne and Greene, who were members of the Board of Education. The amendment, which follows, makes very definite the obligation to resign:

"A member of a Board of Education or of a public or separate school board of a city, town or village, or a member of a High School Board, is ineligible unless he has at least three days before the day of nomination filed his resignation with the secretary of the Board."

DUKE GIVES FILM TO RAILWAY MAN

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 27.— (Canadian Press.) The Duke of York, at the request of E. J. Anderson, a young railway porter at Hitchin, Hertfordshire, recently had a film of seven reels made of the tour of himself and the Duchess of York through Australia and New Zealand last May.

Knowing that General the Earl of Cavan, a Hertfordshire man, accompanied the Duke on his tour, Mr. Anderson wrote and asked him if a film had been taken. He learned that there was no official film, but that film records had been taken at vaious places during the tour and had been presented to the Duke of York.

"Lord Craven approached the Duke of York for me," said Mr. Anderson to a Daily News reporter, "and when the Duke heard that I wanted to show the film on behalf of Earl Haig's Fund, he immediately asked that the series of films and photographs which he had collected in Australia and New Zealand be made up in one completed film This was done on H.M.S. FIRE DESTROYS NORWOOD STORE

Owner and Family, Living Upstairs, Have Narrow Escape.

ON SUNDAY MORNING.

NORWOOD, December 27. — Fire which broke out about three o'clock on Sunday morning completely destroyed a three-storey brick building in the business section of Norwood. The proprietor, George Salome, and his family, living above their store, which was on the main floor, narrowly escaped in their night attire, their home furnishings and stock of dry goods being a total loss.

Though the origin of the fire has not been determined, it is thought that it started from heating pipes. On awakening, the occupants found the rooms full of smoke. Mr. and Mrs. George Salome and their daughter, aged six years, and Mr. Salome's brother, who was visiting at the home for Christmas, made their way to safety. However, the blaze had made such headway that the village fire brigade was called upon to protect adjacent buidings. There was no possibility of saving Mr. Salome's property. George Duffield, of Norwood, is the owner of the building, and it is understood that he had carried considerable insurance. The Salome property was also insured.

The school time story of the Bell of Atri is recalled on hearing of an incident in connection with the fire. Willing hands pulled the rope on the Norwood fire bell to save their townsman from injury by the fire demon, but many of the villagers, thinking it a part of the Christmas heralding, failed to heed its message.

ROME SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE

ROME, December 27 (Associated Press). — Rome was shaken yesterday by an earthquake of unusual violence, lasting about four minutes. The first shock was at 4.07 p.m.

A fissure was opened up in the populous quarter of the city, the ceilings in several houses fell, and the cornice of a church broke off, injuring a priest who was passing by. The priest was removed to a hospital.

The tremors were distinctly felt at the Vatican. The Pope was in his private study, and was not a little surprised to see books and papers moving perceptibly and the furniture wobble in the room . Servants rushed in to ascertain if any objects had fallen near the Pontiff. He told them to urge the others in the Apostolic Palace to observe a tranquil attitude.

The shock varied from five to six degrees, according to different localities in Rome itself, increasing to seven or eight degrees at the towns of Rocca di Papa and Velletri.

The spectators at a football game in the Appian Velodrome felt the shock distinctly and a stampede was threatened in the stands, but officials quieted the half panic-stricken football fans.

Reports from Naples, Avezzano, Florence and Milan indicate that there was no shock at those centres.

Village Disturbed.

The central point of the disturbance seems to have been in the Rocca di Papa district, about 20 miles from Rome . At that place and Velletri, as well as several other small towns, fissures were opened both in the streets and in a number of houses, and the inhabitants were for a time in a panic. A few walls fell.

In Rome firemen were quickly summoned and took measures to prevent accidents through the cracks caused by the quake, and they also cleared away much of the debris.

Rome was visited by a slight earthquake on October 11 last. The centre of the quake at that time was Avezzano. No damage was done in the Eternal City, although houses were rocked and the streets quivered under foot.

NAVY DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES TO AID IN SEARCH

Trans-Atlantict Plane Long Overdue at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

DESTROYERS TAKE PART.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 27. — (A.P.)— The navy dirigible Los Angeles will start its search for the missing plane, the Dawn, early this morning at a point 20 miles off Cape Cod, Lieut.-Commander Rosendahl, the airship's commander, advised the navy department in a wireless message last night.

The message which was sent from the Los Angeles while in flight read: "Present intentions to be at a point 20 miles east off Cape Cod at daylight Tuesday morning. Then will search along a line to a point 20 miles east of Sable Island. Returning, will search 20 miles westward of this line from Sable Island to Cape Cod.

"It will probably be necessary to head for Lakehurst at dark Tuesday. Thirty-eight officers and men aboard including Commander Pierce and Lieutenant Commander Muller of the medical corps, who volunteered for the flight."

A message also was received by the department from Rear-Admiral Andrews at Boston, who said that Assistant Secretary Warner, in charge of aeronautics, was keeping in close touch with the Boston navy yard on the search.

The navy department was requested by the Grayson rescue committee in New York to "extend its search over a 500 mile radius off the coast."

Destroyers in Search.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 27 (C.P.)— By sea and the air the United States yesterday swung into an intensive search for Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson's amphibian trans-Atlantic plane, the Dawn, now three and a half days overdue at Harbor Grace, Nfld., on the first leg of an attempted flight from New York to Europe.

The navy destroyers, Sturtevant and Mahan left Boston and Provincetown, respectively, late yesterday under orders to search the seas from Cape Cod, where the Dawn was last sighted, to Sable Island, off Nova Scotia, where the Canadian government wireless station early yesterday picked up what were believed to be radio signals from the Dawn's emergency sending apparatus.

At the same time the Los Angeles, giant navy dirigible, was ordered out of her hangar at Lakehurst and into the hunt, to proceed directly to Sable Island, scanning the seas en route before joining the destroyers in a minute scrutiny of adjacent waters.

Patrol Sable to Island.

Inasmuch as the Dawn's emergency wireless set had a maximum sending radius of 50 miles, naval officials in charge of the search planned to concentrate most of their efforts within that radius of the Sable Island station, which heard the calls. They planned to keep a close watch, however, for any traces of the plane which might be found between here and the island.

The Mahan, in command of Lieut.-Cmdr. George N. Baker, left Provincetown, where she had been on S-4 salvage duty, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Sturtevant, carrying Commander I. I. Stewart, the officer placed in charge of the search, cleared from the navy yard at Charlestown here shortly before 4 o'clock.

The Mahan was under orders to steam slowly across Machias Bay and watch for any traces of the Dawn, until she was joined by the Sturtevant. Both destroyers were then to steam north at a 20 to 26 knot clip, keeping in close radio touch with each other and reporting any discoveries to the navy yard here.

Circle Shore Line.

On reaching the Island, they will separate and circle the entire shore line during the daylight hours. At night the search of necessity must be restricted, while fog will force the vessels to heave to until visibility becomes high enough to continue the hunt.

The Los Angeles, according to advices received at the navy yard here, left Lakehurst yesterday afternoon under orders to proceed up the coast, across Cape Cod and directly on to Sable Island, keeping a close watch all the way. Capable of a speed of 96 knots, she was due at Sable Island at 3 o'clock this morning.

CHRISTMAS CONCERTS

ST. ANDREW'S S. S., STIRLING.

STIRLING, Dec. 27.—Monday evening, December 19, a Christmas entertainment was held in the basement of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for the pupils of the Sunday School. Those in attendance enjoyed the program, which consisted of a playet entitled, "An Old-Fashioned Christmas," choruses, recitations and solos. The distribution of gifts from a well-laden tree gladdened the hearts of the children.

ST. JOHN'S A.Y.P.A., STIRLING.

STIRLING, DEC. 27.—The A. Y. P. A. of St. John's Anglican Church had a Christmas entertainment in the agricultural rooms, Monday evening last, Miss Moyer acting as chairman. A play, "Away Down East," was given by five young members; recitations by children; also short speeches by some of the gentlemen present. Gifts from a prettily decorated tree added to the enjoyment of the children. A lunch was served.

BETHEL UNITED S. S.

EAST EMILY, Dec. 27.—The members of Bethel United Sunday School held their annual Christmas tree and concert in the basement of the church on Tuesday night, December 20.

The program was as follows: Chorus by the school, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing"; song by the Primer Class; recitation, Alberta Wright; recitation, Melville Bannan; recitation, Lewers Deyell; recitation, Roberta Deyell; dialogue, Dorothy Sherin and Marjory Ruth; recitation, Tommy Lowes; recitation, Marion Deyell; recitation, Gerald Lowes; chorus by the school; recitation, Dorena Lowes; reading, Mrs. S. Switzer; recitation, Ed. Spencer; dialogue, "Aunt Susan's Christmas Orphans."

The children were very much excited over the arrival of Santa Claus' coming with the sound of bells. The presents were taken off the tree by the jolly old fellow and given out.

This brought the evening to a close, every person very much pleased with the pleasant evening spent.

AT DELORO HALL.

MARMORA, Dec. 27.—Deloro Hall was the scene on Friday evening of a merry animated throng, it being the occasion of the annual Christmas tree. At 7.30 all the children of the village were assembled in the basement for the rendering of an impromptu entertainment. For participating in this, each received a Christmas cracker. At 8 o'clock Santa Claus' arrival was announced, and upstairs clambered one and all to greet this famous personage on his return In the centre of the hall stood a magnificent Christmas tree, decorated profusely and fenced around. Colored lights of all description glittered steadily and intermittently, and with the wonderful tinsel decorations, the tree was such a vision of splendour that all assembled were wrapt in admiration for many a moment. Santa Claus, impersonated by C. Nicholson, responded to the requests of juveniles for a ride around the tree after the singing of a few familiar choruses. Then came the distribution of family packages which had been placed at the base of the tree in alphabetical order, in addition to which the children each received a bag of candies and nuts and an orange.

SALVATION ARMY, CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, December. 27.—There was a good attendance at the annual Salvation Army Christmas tree and entertainment, held in the Salvation Army Citadel, Bridge Street, last Friday night. Although the hall was not packed to capacity, the older members present, recalling the concerts of many years ago, declared that the entertainment was quite as good as any they had heard. The program began with the singing of an old familiar Christmas hymn, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and a prayer by Mrs. MacMillan, wife of Capt. MacMillan, officer commanding the local corps.

As chairman for the concert, Captain MacMillan took the opportunity to address the audience briefly before proceeding with the program. He said he had thought of asking some prominent citizen of the town to be chairman, but as he and Mrs. MacMillan had only been in Campbellford a few months, he thought it too good an opportunity to get acquainted with his people to let slip. After wishing everyone a very merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year, Captain MacMillan said that the program would not be a lengthy one, but he hoped that everyone would enjoy it. He also hoped that there would be a considerable amount of religious benefit received by those present.

"If," recitation by little Betty Bennett.

"A Little Wish," recitation by Lily Pickering.

"An Interrupted Recitation," a unique number in children's entertainments which was very well carried out by a girl and a boy.

"A Boy's Christmas Recitation," recitation by Arthur Battman.

"Black on One Side," dialogue by two of the younger boys.

Recitation by little Joe Bennett. Joe was trying to eat candy and say his lines as well. The result was that the Captain smilingly asked the little fellow to repeat it. Joe did and had better results the second attempt.

"The Secret," a dialogue by Mrs. Pickering's twins in costume caused the Captain to remark that there were three ways of spreading news, the press, the telephone and secrets.

"The Songs My Mother Sang," a recitation by Mrs. MacMillan, was the high light of the entire program, Mrs. MacMillan was assisted by musical accompaniment, which added greatly to the effect of her number.

Cornet solo by Captain MacMillan.

Tableau, "The Story of the Cross." This was a very colorful interpretation of the journey of the Wise Men of the East to the place where the child Christ lay in the manger and their offering presents to Him.

This concluded the program and Santa Claus arrived to take charge of the remainder of the proceedings. He had gifts for everyone and seemed in the best of spirits as he distributed them among the audience. This is his third visit to town in the last three days.

Gilmour Memorial S. S.

The annual Sunday school concert and Christmas tree of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist church was held in the church on Friday evening Dec. 23, with good weather and good attendance. A well rendered program was given by the young people of the Sunday school with special emphasis placed on the rendering of the Christmas pageant entitled "The Nativity." The program is as follows:

Opening hymn—All Hail the Power of Jesus Name.
Chairman's address—Rev. Edgar.
Recitation—Dorothy Tedford.
Song—Primary girls
Dialogue—School Master Abroad.
Song—Eunice Hammond.
Dialogue—Love and Doughnuts.

Recitation—James Moore.
Dialogue—Typewriter Lady.
Recitation—Braden Mann.
Recitation—Vera McGregor.
Recitation—Young Men's Class.

Recitation—Jean Mann.
Trio— Fred, Harry and Jean Metcalfe.
Recitation—Ida McGregor.
Recitation—Hazel Tighe.
Dialogue—Primary class.
Chorus—Bible class.
Dialogue—Friday Afternoon Composition.
Pageant.

The surpliced choir, after singing in the distance appears with lighted candles singing "Silent Night Holy Night," and greets the narrators awaiting them. The wise men, richly dressed in oriental costume, bring their offerings of gold, frank, incense and myrh.

The curtain is then pulled and in scene II Mary and Joseph and the Babe in the manger are seen. As the pageant draws to an end the choir slowly retreats singing, "Yes, Lord, We Greet Thee."

After the pageant was seen in beautiful tableau form, Santa Claus unloaded a well laden Christmas tree and presented our faithful organist, Miss Mabel Paul with a beautiful gold wrist watch, accompanied by the following address :

"At this joyous Christmas time, we, as individuals, have pleasure in recalling our list of friends and proffering to each one our estimation of that friendship in terms of appreciation of various degrees.

"Now the members of Gilmour Memorial church has been doing likewise, and has decided unanimously that you are one of the outstanding friends of the church. Your loving interest in our service of praise has been never failing and your devotion has been to the point of self-sacrifice. As organist of our church, for many years, you have rendered gracious assistance and and have contributed largely to the helpfulness of our offerings of praise.

"It is with these thoughts in mind that we ask you to accept this wrist watch as a token of our esteem and gratitude. It is accompanied by the good will and good wishes of all, and may you long enjoy the happiness you have always found, in doing faithfully the task that comes to your hand, as unto Him whom having not seen, we love.

"Signed on behalf of the church and Sabbath school.

"Wm. S. Edgar, Pastor.
"Mrs. J. Gordon Mann,

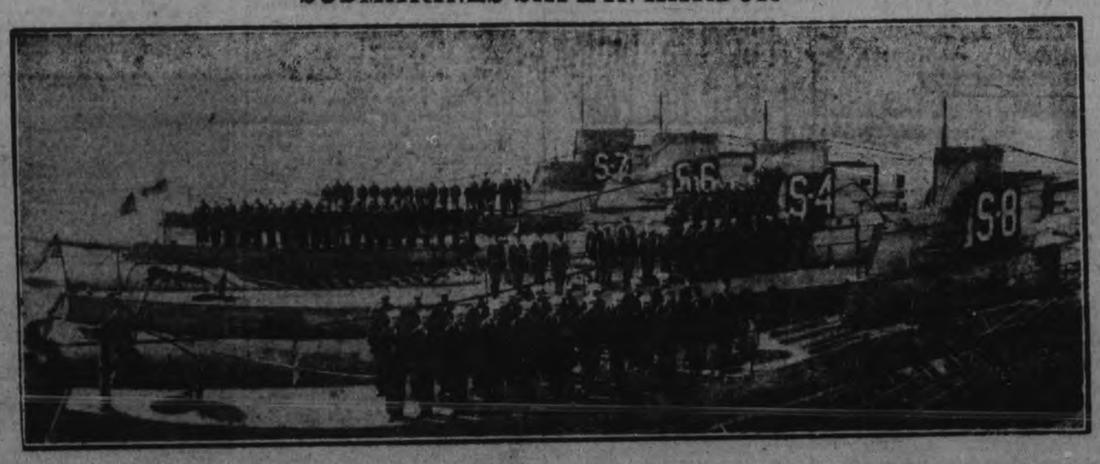
SUBMARINES SAFE IN HARBOR



Here is a view of a United States submarine flotilla, including the S-4, which now lies at the bottom of the sea outside the harbor of Provincetown, Mass., her entire crew of 40 men believed dead, suffocated by poisoned air, breathed and re-breathed until its life-sustaining oxygen was exhausted. The last six survivors are thought now to have succumbed, as their pathetic hammer signals have ceased. In the above photo the S-4 is the third from left, the others being the S-7, S-6 and S-8. At the time they were engaged in fleet manoeuvres off San Diego, California, and the respective crews are seen assembled on the decks.

A PROBLEM OF THE WINTER

Commandant Frank Ham of the Salvation Army, referring to the fact that his organization looked after sixty-three families for Christmas, declares that the conditions as regards unemployment and the consequent suffering and want in homes where the bread-winner is out of work are worse than the public perhaps realizes.

Unfortunately Christmas hampers are not unexhaustible; their contents soon disappear, and the twin foes, hunger and cold, have a long winter in which to compaign.

These families to which it was necessary to bring Christmas relief are likely to remain a problem at least until outdoor work offers employment.

This year, those social service organizations which so splendidly arose to the occasion at Christmas will be able to find many opportunities during the next few months to lend a helping hand in cases where destitution challenges the community.

The problem will have to be faced; why not face it in a businesslike and systematic way by co-operation among the various agencies?

NO LACK OF CANDIDATES

Peterborough's municipal election promises to be of unusual interest by reason of the fact that a keen fight looms up everywhere where vacancies in the local governing bodies are to be filled.

The battle for the Chief Magistrate's chair and the contest for the Utilities Commission should both prove to be of an exciting nature, because all four candidates are widely known and have the enthusiastic support of many personal friends and acquaintances.

The Board of Education campaign will find all five retiring members, E. B. Fowler, Dr. J. J. Craig, E. R. Wilson, Dr. H. M. Yelland, and J. A. McNabb, again in the running, and three other candidates, Mrs. W. R. Morris, former member of the Board; Herb. McCannan, and Frank H. Dawson, battling for places.

The electors will have a wide range of selection in choosing five Aldermen next Monday, inasmuch as a field of fourteen candidates will be at the barrier.

The list includes four members of the 1927 Council, Ald. Charles H. Ackerman, Ald. George Macdonald, Ald. R. S. Cotton, and Ald. Walter Stocker; an ex-alderman, James Hamilton, and nine other aspirants, none of whom has ever sat in the Council, although several of them have gone through a municipal campaign.

With so many entries the contest for Aldermanic honors should be particularly interesting.

THE COMMUNITY SANTA CLAUS

At the risk of bringing blushes to the cheek of a citizen who, although a military man and therefore an admirer of brass bands, does not believe in taking one with him when engaged on a mission of good cheer and friendly helpfulness, The Examiner begs leave to introduce "Jim" Abraham as Peterborough's Community Santa Claus.

It is possible that we should have said Captain James Abraham, but the fact that the "Jim" slipped into this article automatically as it were gives the best clue as to the kind of a fellow he is.

"Jim" Abraham is the president of the Canadian Legion, the School Attendance Officer, a member of the Board of the Children's Aid Society, and head over heels into many other activities, and wherever he is he works with every ounce of energy he has for the betterment of Peterborough and the happiness of its citizens.

And so because of what he is and because he is as he is, it is perchance only natural that at a time when the happiness and plenty in the majority of the city's homes serves to accentuate the suffering and want in the abiding place of the unfortunate, the role of liaison officer should fall upon the shoulders of "Jim" Abraham.

The work he has done in linking up the charitable organizations of the city and the homes where assistance was badly needed is known perhaps only to the active members of such organizations and to the families to whom Christmas cheer has been extended, and they do not know half the story.

The Examiner suggested some time ago a central committee to act as a clearing house for Christmas relief; as a matter of fact Mr. Abraham has been such a committee in himself with the co-operation of Relief Officer Arthur Metheral, and the responsibility of looking after the large number of families needing assistance this Christmas has been effectively discharged.

"Jim" Abraham will be the most surprised man in Peterborough when he reads this halting tribute to his efforts on behalf of the unfortunate, but The Examiner believes the people should know how much credit is due him for the fact that in many a home where the wolf has been persistently at the door there was food and fuel and things to bring joy to childish hearts this Christmastide.

CHRISTMAS TREE HARVEST.

This year the usual flood of complaints regarding the export of Christmas trees from Canada to the United States has been conspicuous by its absence, the result, doubtless, of more accurate information on an interesting subject. From the sentimental point of view it would certainly be a pity were the supply to be stopped of these slender evergreens that bring such joy to thousands on thousands of children in the homes of the cities of the continent, and only clear evidence of material economic loss could justify prohibition or restriction of the outflow upon the forests and swamps of Canada. It is, therefore, with real satisfaction that we find the Canadian Forestry Association coming to the rescue with the assurance that no real reason is forthcoming why every family should not have a Christmas tree. Last year from six to ten million trees were used in North America, or about one tree to every twenty people. This number looks formidable, yet accepted authorities declare that not only is it not a menace to the future supply of soft woods, but, under proper regulation, may even be benef[illegible]

For example, the [illegible] Association of the United States, in a recent statement, declares that where the trees are cut from dense timber forests to thin the stands, the practice is beneficial to the forests and provides a use for what might otherwise be merely wasted. Certain practices, however, should be discouraged, such as cutting the young trees along the highways, or cutting off the tops of from 20 to 30-year-old trees. The employment of particularly large trees for street decoration is also objectionable. Dr. C. D. Howe, Dean of the Faculty of Forestry in the University of Toronto, and other Canadian authorities, take the same view. Dean Howe remarks that an area of 20,000 acres—just thirty square miles—if set aside and managed for Christmas tree production, would supply the present demand for each year for all time. The average size of the trees sold in New York, the Canada Lumberman states, was six feet. From Frank Newman, forester in charge of the Nursery Station at St. Williams, in Norfolk County, it is learned that white spruce Christmas trees of that size can be grown inside of ten years.

As The Lethbridge, Alberta, Herald points out, too, Christmas trees, to an ever-increasing extent, are coming from farmers' grown-up pastures, swamps and wastelands, many settlers making quite a comfortable little income from this business each year, especially when conveniently situated to a considerable market. In 1925 the revenue derived by Quebec farmers from this source was estimated at $100,000, substantially greater returns being obtained in the Maritimes. Because of the annually increasing demand, the opportunity is now offered in certain sections to plant woodlots and, when the time comes, to practice a thinning-out process each year, thus assuring a steady yearly revenue. The problem thus simmers down to one of proper harvesting, a requirement where the individual and national interests are identical. No prudent farmer would think of destroying what could easily be made a valuable and perpetual addition to his yearly returns. Thus a little thought and care in the selection of Christmas trees will easily remove any cause for alarm and provide infinite happiness for the juvenile participants in Yuletide celebrations.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

WINTER AIR MAIL SERVICE.

More than average interest attends the opening of the air mail service between the mainland of the southwestern peninsula of Ontario and Pelee Island in Lake Erie. That the proposed service has attracted wide attention was clearly disclosed in the letters and telegrams read at the inauguration ceremony, held in Leamington on Tuesday evening, and dating from such various near and remote points as Long Island, Kansas City, Chicago, Detroit and Montreal, not to speak of Missouri and California. As it happened, the first flight with mail originally would also have been made on Tuesday but for conditions described as almost unprecedented in December. Fog still remains the worst and still unconquered foe of the mariner and the aviator, though the new beam radio may in the end provide the means of its circumvention.

Hitherto experiments in the direction of establishing air mail services in Canada have been mainly attempted in the St. Lawrence River valley, particularly the north shore and the intervening area between that river and the ice-free Atlantic seaports of St. John and Halifax. This was not, however, the pioneer effort, for the service really started in the north, where railways are as yet absent and the topographical and climatic conditions offer formidable difficulties to delivery by courier. Only thereafter did the department essay air mail service in the older and more settled districts. The success that attended the carriage of mails to and from ocean liners in the Lower St. Lawrence encouraged further experimentation.

According to its present program, the department will conduct an air mail carriage service to and from ocean liners arriving at and departing from their winter terminals, thus saving considerable time in the transit from the ports to such business centres as Montreal and Ottawa. A twice-weekly service will be given between Moncton, N. B., to the Magdalen Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The north shore of the Lower St. Lawrence, heretofore served in winter by means of dog teams, will be covered by a weekly service from Rimouski. This program also includes the Pelee Island arrangement for an air mail service from the mainland.

Not only is this expansion due to a desire to enlarge and accelerate the benefit of the mail service, but it is also concerned with the encouragement of civil aviation in accordance with the policy advocated and followed by the Department of National Defence. Only by providing opportunities for useful employment can the annual crop of trained pilots be induced to stay in the country, for the number of posts available in the forestry survey and kindred branches falls considerably short of the airmen available. As mail airplane pilots, young airmen have a field that carries a strong appeal to Canadian youth and enables them to cultivate qualifications that the Great War revealed them to possess in marked degree.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT

There are plenty of candidates who are willing to tell the electors of Peterborough how to make a good start in the New Year.

The local municipal election promises to be a fight all along the line, a condition that should result in a splendid vote being polled.

The Christmas season has once more proved the nearest approach to an Old Boys' Re-union that Peterborough is likely to experience for some time.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Ills., December 27. — Canadian Press. — The lowest prices yet this season were touched in the corn market on Saturday by the December delivery. Prospective large receipts of corn next week had much to do with rolling values down.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled, ½ to ¾c net lower; wheat unchanged to ¼c off; lots showing ¼ to ¾c drop, and provisions varying from 7c to 10c decline to a rise of 5c.

Much of the corn expected to reach Chicago in the coming week is reported to be in the nature of shipments from Western and Southern markets to fill previous sales, but indications point also to some increase of consignments from nearby territory. Another bearish influence was the fact that Saturday's deliveries on December contracts here kept mounting up, and finally established a total of 575,000 bushels. On the other hand corn export business Saturday was fairly good, aggregating about 200,000 bushels, chiefly at the Gulf of Mexico. Wars in the corn market put special stress on a statement Saturday from a leading unofficial authority that all basis for general crop shortage assumptions regarding corn has been destroyed, and that expectance the yield as a whole would be of high quality has become a disappointment. It was added that whether or not the latest government crop figures turn out to be unjustified the statistics at present indicate that too much corn appears to be a fact.

Despite corn weakness, wheat prices held steadier than usual. The fact that the Liverpool wheat market was relatively firm had a stabilizing effect and so did word that notwithstanding the holiday conditions export buying of North American wheat to-day was placed at 400,000 bushels. A contrary influence was an unofficial estimate that the total 1927 wheat crop of North America is 75,000,000 bushels larger than last year with a present surplus of 61,000,000 bushels in excess of 1926.

Oats went lower with corn.

Inactivity prevailed in provisions, and the market tended to sag.

PIMPLES BROKE OUT ON FACE

Lasted Nearly a Year. Healed by Cuticura.

"My skin trouble began with pimples breaking out on my face. They gradually grew worse and spread to my body. They were red and itched very much, and when I scratched them it caused more pain. Scratching caused eruptions which disfigured my face. At night I could not sleep on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted nearly a year.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. The sample helped me so I purchased more and in five months I was healed." (Signed) Willie A. Yaremko, 9924-88th Ave., Edmonton, Alta.

When his father die, the farm was left to Rastus. Shortly afterward it was sold to his brother, who also died and left it to Rastus. Then he deeded the 160-acre place to his four sons. Life Buried Alive Is Made Possible

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 — It has been learned that medical research experts have worked out a set of principles in recent times by which human life may be sustained indefinitely in a sealed chamber. These medical experimenters have made it possible to be buried alive and still go on living. Dr. Alvan L. Barach has greatly simplified principles developed by Barcroft and Haldane in England during the war and has made the operation of the original oxygen chamber virtually automatic. The idea may be applied to submarines.

Egyptian Scientists Measured World

LENINGRAD, Dec. 27 (Associated Press Cable).—Russian scientists have just completed the study of what is said to be one of the most remarkable Egyptian parchments in history. The parchment has been decoded, after years of painstaking labor, by Professors B. B. Turalieff and Struve—Russia's most celebrated Orientalists—and is said to shed new light on the mathematical studies of the ancient Egyptians, establishing that the problem of measuring the earth's surface, as well as the globe, was solved by the Egyptians in 1800 B.C., whereas the solution of this problem heretofore has been attributed to Archimedes, who lived in the third century, B.C.

The famous collector, B. C. Golenshin, acquired this rare document years ago. It passed through various hands until 1912, when the Moscow Museum of Fine Arts acquired it. In the intervening time Russian scientists have been giving it intensive study.

HE WAS GETTING BY TOO CHEAPLY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—James Moore is, or was, ambitious. He wanted to get rich, and cared little what hardships had to be endured in order to save his money. The other day when he was hailed into court after being found asleep in a subway train, he became indignant and explained his system:

"I always sleep in the subway, because it costs me nothing. I get $35 a week as a mortar mixer; at night I work in a restaurant and get my meals free. I'm going to be rich."

"Well", said the judge to Moore, "it won't cost you a cent to live for the next three months. You'll spend it in the workhouse."

"But neither will I make any money", wailed Moore. Later he was released.

"All my earthly goods I have in store,
To my dear wife, I leave for evermore.
I freely give, no limit do I fix.
This is my will, she the executrix."

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith, busy making an ice box cake as her contribution to Fay's dinner in celebration of Grandpa and Grandma Lane's forty-ninth wedding anniversary, scarcely saw Cherry that Saturday afternoon when her sister dashed home from her matinee engagement with George Pruitt to change for her evening date with Bill Warren. But her one glimpse of her, when Cherry appeared briefly at the kitchen door to be inspected, admired and kissed goodbye, showed her a radiant, breath-takingly beautiful girl.

"Do I look potent?" she cried, twirling on the tip of her golden slipper, her golden chiffon skirt belling out like a ballet dancer's. "I'm just in the mood to get proposed to tonight, old thing!"

"Bill?" Faith laughed, though her heart lunged with fear. Cherry in this mood of reckless excitement was always dangerous—

would be an ideal match, except for one minor flaw—I don't happen to love him. Good-bye, darling. I shan't see you in the morning, if you're going to Fay's early, but I promise to stick a note under your door telling you the glad news if I get engaged. 'Bye, Rhoda! You're going to Fay's too, rren't you?"

"Yes," Rhoda answered without looking up from the bowl of mayonnaise she was whipping.

When Cherry was gone, like a bright comet that had flashed briefly across the dull sky of domesticity, Rhoda looked at Faith with doubt and perplexity in her China-blue eyes.

"Maybe I was all wrong about Nils and Cherry. I thought he was awfully in love with her and he hasn't called her up or anything. Do you suppose she's really going to get engaged tonight?"

"No one," Faith sighed, "can safely predict what Cherry Lane will do, but I should say she meant for that bit of bravado to reach Nils' ears."

"I'll tell him, but I don't understand," Rhoda worried, shaking her golden head. "I'm going to the last performance of the San Remo opera with him tonight."

Faith, knowing Nils' determination to pique Cherry into a keen interest in himself by ignoring her completely after he had proposed to her, could not but admire the blond giant's strength of character in sticking to that determination, but all evening she was tormented with the unreasonable wish that he had been less strong. He was going away on Sunday without seeing Cherry again, and Faith knew her sister well enough to be sure that "out of sight" really meant "out of mind," unless—

She frowned as she aimlessly turned the pages of a magazine which she could not read, what tangible evidence did she have that Cherry was at all in love with Nils Jonson? He had piqued her curiosity, had made her violently angry, and had, in her opinion, grossly insulted her by not making the slightest attempt to win her after having proposed to her.

Suddenly a deeply buried worry struggled to the surface of her mind, made her speak to Bob with strangely passionate intensity:

"Bob, dear, I wish you'd go with us tomorrow! Please, darling! I don't often ask you to do anything for my sake—"

At the last minute Faith abruptly declined Bob's offer to drive her and Rhoda and the baby to her brother's house.

"If you're so terribly busy that you can't take time off to spend a few hours with the family, you're too busy to drive us over and call for us," she told him in the cold, resentful tones that he sometimes, in teasing her, called her "wifely voice." "I can drive the car as well as you. You won't be needing it, I suppose?" she added with un-Faith-like sarcasm.

She purposely delayed her departure until ten o'clock, the hour when Cherry had said that her all-day date was to begin, but Cherry had not appeared, and she had either been asleep or pretended to be when Faith had tip-toed into her room early that morning to get the baby and her clothes. Of course there had been no note telling of her engagement to Bill Warren, though Faith had involuntarily looked for it as soon as her eyes were open.

She found Fay and Aunt Hattie hectically busy in the kitchen of the old Myrtle Street house, which had been so transformed since it had become the home of the James G. Lane, Juniors.

"Reckon Bob's had too much of the Lane family since he got married," Aunt Hattie said, cocking a wise eye at Faith. "You two ain't quarreling, are you?"

"Of course not, Aunt Hattie. He is really awfully busy on plans for the Hemingway country home I was telling you about," Faith answered calmly. "Put Rhoda and me right to work, Fay. That's what we came for. Have Grandpa and Grandma come yet? Did they get Bob's flowers?"

"Junior's gone for them now," Fay answered happily. "Aunt Hattie said they just had a fit over the roses Bob sent. I'm awfully sorry he couldn't come. Would you mind looking at the leg of lamb, Faith? The odor and the heat sort of make me dizzy," she added self-consciously.

"Oh!" Faith arched her brows significantly. "Really? I'm awfully glad for you, honey. Is—is Junior pleased?" She mustn't let Aunt Hattie or Fay see that she was envious—

"Oh, Junior!" Fay laughed, color flooding her commonplace, pretty little face. "You'd think he was the only prospective father in the world, to see him strut! But he's so adorable! I sometimes think I'm really the luckiest girl in the world! There never was a sweeter husband than Junior, the business is doing so marvelously well, we're alone—not that I minded having Father Lane, of course, but—and we're going to have a baby."

Junior's noisy, boisterous return with the excited old couple saved Faith the necessity of a reply, and after that there was little time or opportunity for feminine confidences. Grandma and Grandpa Lane had to be kissed and fussed over and listened to; dinner had to be finished in a whirl, with too many cooks, as Aunt Hattie said, spoiling the broth—

In the midst of the hubbub Fay called Faith aside and whispered worriedly: "I meant to ask you to bring your carving set and dessert spoons. I don't know what I'm going to do without them—Oh would you, Faith? You're sure you don't mind? Junior could go—Well, but take Bob a basket of the dinner, won't you? There's so much—"

CHRISTMAS EVE AT OUR HOUSE.

(By FLORENCE SCHELL, Stayner, Ont.)

When it's Christmas Eve at our house,
Wif stockin's in a row,
I go to bed 'n' shut my eyes—
'Cause Santy comes, you know.
He's such a shy old man, Dad says,
He wants my eyes shut tight,
I must not peek—not even once,
'Til Santy's out of sight.
You 'ist know how a fellow feels,
When Santy's down below,
A-fillin' up your stockin's
From top to very toe.
I told my Dad the other night
I hoped I'd get a train,
'N' he 'ist winked 'n' looked at maw
'N' said—"Get busy, Jane!"
I don't know what he meant, unless
That she would write a line
'N' send to Santy Claus herself—
Ol' Wouldn't that be fine!
'Cause Daddy does what Mama says,
'N' Santy'd do the same.
'N'en he wouldn't make a 'stake
'N' leave a top or game.
It's only little boys who play
Wif teddy bear 'n' doll,
'Cause I'm a great, big, big boy now,
They won't do me 't all!
When it's Christmas Eve, at our house,
It's as 'citin' as can be!
'Cause Santy comes that night, you know,
'Ist to goodest boys likejme.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The slip-over raincoat may be seen in white rubberized crepe with green leather collar. The buttons and hat are also of green.

The slipover raincoat is the last word in rainy weather apparel. The slight advantage that it offers in the way of security against rain may be offset by the added inconvenience of putting it on and off. But it is smart, and to be smartly dressed in rainy weather is the ambition of every up-to-date woman nowadays.

Rainy days are not half so gloomy as they used to be, and many women who wear rather dark neutral tones on bright days invariably wear bright colors when it rains. I was on the campus of one of the famous women's colleges on a rainy afternoon a few days ago. A distinguished novelist was to speak in the chapel and apparently every girl in the college was going. And such a lovely vision of color I believe I never saw. There were a bevy of the yellow slickers, so popular a few years ago, but most of the girls wore colored raincoats—reds, violets, greens, blues—which were reflected in splotches of limpid color on the wet pavements. The umbrellas were as colorful as the raincoats.

Small wonder that rain doesn't keep young women at home nowadays, when rainy-day clothes are so lovely

There has been some talk of return of the slender long umbrella—but in this country at least, and especially among the younger women, the short rather stubby umbrella persists in favor.

The rather flat umbrella suggesting the Japanese parasol may not shed the rain quite so satisfactorily as the more curving sort, but it is decidedly picturesque and very popular. And in the estimation of the young girl of today the right sort of umbrella is a consideration of great importance.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

CHANCE.

We plot and plan, design and dream,
For many a man has many a scheme,
And many a vision many a woman,
We regulate the future years,
Forgetting, as each dawn appears,
That men and women are only human.
And then we meet some speeder riding,
Visions and plans and dreams deciding.
So many a far mer counts the yield
Even before he sows the field,
Measures the wheat and weighs the clover;
Yes, here he'll put the corn away,
And here aloft will store the hay,
And here the fruit when summer's over.
He counts the lambs within the fold,
And counts too long, and catches cold.

We dream, design, and plan, and plot.
And this we'll have, and this we'll not.
And here we stand, and there we wander.
We answer everything we ask,
Whether it be a truth, a task,
Or some to-morrow that we ponder.
And then we meet a maid on Monday
We hadn't heard about on Sunday.

SAVING THE TONSILS

Every effect is a cause, and every cause is likewise an effect. Diseased tonsils may cause a variety of symptoms and disorders in the body, but the "sick" tonsils are, themselves, an effect of causes which can be easily ascertained.

Removing the tonsils is a dangerous operation and is never justified, in view of the fact that enlarged, diseased, or pussy tonsils can always be cured through removing the causes, which are mostly due to dietetic errors.

The tonsils are composed of lymphoid tissues and contain arteries, veins, lymphatics and nerves the same as other glands and tissues of the body. They grow because of a supply of blood, and enlarge because the lymphatics are able to carry away waste products which a toxic blood stream deposits.

Clean up the blood stream, stimulate the lymphatic circulation, and the tonsils will function normally and regain their proper size. To cut out the tonsils because some of the crypts contain pus is about as sensible as to remove one's head because of a nasal catarrh.

The one who at any age has swollen tonsils may consider the causes to be: Overeating, the use of too many carbohydrates and hydro-carbons, bad food combinations, neglected moth hygiene, constipation, and general auto-intoxication.

In bringing about a cure of diseased tonsils after they have already become enlarged or pussy, one's food supply must be cut down to the minimum, using only fresh fruits, leafy vegetables, and a small amount of meat and eggs for protein. Increased physical culture exercises will assist the body in increasing the circulation and hurrying along the processes of a cure. Local treatments are seldom necessary, especially with children, but the ultraviolet ray treatment will help in reducing the [illegible] of the adult tonsils.

I have a special fasting and diet schedule which I will be glad to send to any of my readers who are anxious to cure themselves of any kind of tonsillar derangement. When you write, just ask for the article called "SAVE THE TONSILS." Over ohe hundred thousand of these have been distributed already, and thousands have written to me telling of their cures.

Questions and Answers.

Question: A. H. B. writes: "Several years ago in cranking my car I had a sudden "crick" in the last joint of the back which caused a miserable pain at the time and more or less ever since. It is in the back, extends down the front of the right leg and mainly in the hip joint. Is worse at night and early morning, but wears off thru the day. Am past sixty."

Answer: You probably strained your back enough to either displace one of the vertebrae or move the sacro-iliac out of position. As several years have elapsed since the injury, it will no doubt take a long time to bring about a cure. The best treatment is with osteopath or chiropractic treatments, and the use of hot applications to your back. Most practitioners using manipulative therapeutics have electrical appliances or therapeutic lights which will produce better effects in the treatment of your back than any form of heat that you can use in your own home. Until such treatment is started, have some member of your family apply hot compresses to your back once or twice daily for ten or fifteen minutes with several changes of hot towels.

Question: Aldina asks: "What is 'lemon milk' and how is it prepared?"

Answer: Lemon milk is a kind of sour milk or substitute for buttermilk and is made by mixing the juice of one or more lemons with a pint of sweet milk and shaking vigorously together. Lemon milk is very easily digested, and may be taken by anyone. It should, however, be used as a meal itself or taken the same way as a milk diet, that is, a glassful every hour.

CANNIBALS IN U.S.

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 27.—Anthropologists examining the fossilized remains of a civilization believed to be about 4,000,000 years old believe that men who lived on this continent at that time were cannibals. On Harold Cook's fossil bed ranch in western Nebraska have been found macerated human bones, indicating that many an unlucky cave-man furnished the piece de resistance of feasts.

MUNICIPAL NOMINATIONS

man on motion by W. T. Curtis and E. J. Leeson, and all the nominated candidates were called upon to address the gathering.

Mr. Lancaster expressed the hope that the proceedings would be conducted in the spirit of the Christmas season and extended the season's greetings to the audience with the wish that the New Year would be a prosperous one for the village of Havelock. He drew attention to the statement of assets and liabilities contained in the financial statement for the village for 1927, which shows that the cash assets exceed the liabilities by the magnificent sum of over $5,000.00. The debenture debt of the village was also very small, he said. Reeve W. T. Curtis was the first speaker called.

Mr. Curtis said in opening his address: "I am glad to greet you all again and have you present at this annual nomination meeting. I am sorry that it came on a holiday evening as that no doubt accounts for the small attendance.

"I think the financial statement for 1927 is a particularly good one. I am satisfied with it and think you, as ratepayers, ought to be, too. Taking into consideration two school levies amounting to $600.00, which do not appear in the assets the surplus is increased to $5,600.00, the largest surplus we have ever had. Some people said that the $3,000.00 which had been rebated to the village by the Hydro Commission would account for a large portion of the surplus, but after deducting this amount received from the Hydro the surplus would still be the largest the village had ever had."

In speaking on the new drainage system Mr. Curtis said that some had condemned it but he was glad to say the numbers were few for those in touch with municipal matters had been dreading an epidemic for years and those who know the condition the ditch was in and look into the present condition will say it was the best expenditure the council has ever made.

Mr. Curtis next dealt with the county road system, pointing out that all the new road work done in the county this last two years had been done in Belmont. In closing, Mr. Curtis said that he had told the ratepayers that he did not intend to seek re-election again, as he had had eighteen years in municipal work and was a little tired, but matters had changed since then, and the paving question has come up in the meantime. He thought with seven or eight years' experience in the county council, he would be in a better position to serve the ratepayers than a new man. With the surplus and careful management the rate next year can be lowered two or three mills and still pay the town's share of paving the streets.

"If we have an election I hope and expect you," he said, "to all come out and give me your support."

R. Sanderson

R. Sanderson, the second nominee for the office of reeve was next called.

Mr. Sanderson said he had been nominated for the reeveship on several occasions before but he had always withdrawn for reasons of his own. This year he had been approached by a number of ratepayers requesting him to allow his name to go before the electors, and possibly some would say that there was no use in his entering the contest when the council had such a large surplus. In looking over the financial statement he said he found that they had not spent much money and therefore there was no reason why there should not be a big surplus, as all the material bought for the streets cost a little vore $300. Taking into consideration the $2,000 rebated to the town from the Hydro, the reduction in the debenture, county and street lighting rates the council had a good chance to make a good showing.

In speaking on the drainage system Mr. Sanderson said he had opposed the by-law and he thought he was right at the time. No man who is sick and out of work is going to make many improvements and he considered Havelock was sick at the time. Property could not be disposed of at its real value and when the town had gone thirty-five or forty years with it when the town was prosperous he said he thought the village could go a few more. However, it has passed and he hoped it will be a success. He criticized Reeve Curtis for taking too much credit for the drainage system , pointing out that he was away when the fight for the by-law was on and that he was not at the special meeting of the county council when the request was made for the grant for pavement purposes.

"If there is an election I am a candidate for the reeveship and I want your support. I have served you on the council and I believe I can serve you as reeve," he concluded.

F. Haig.

F. Haig asked for the support of the ratepayers again this year. He thought the council had done well last year and he had been in favor of the ditch all the way through.

E. J. Leeson.

E. J. Leeson said he had served the village to the best of his ability during 1927 and he thought the business of the town was in good condition. He had been in favor of the drain as every member of council was and he thought it would workout to the satisfaction of everybody. The rate had been reduced four mills, between $1,500 and $1,600. had been spent on the streets and there was a good surplus left. He also had every reason to believe that the village would get paved streets in 1928.

H. Gordon.

H. Gordon said he had given his best attention to the business of the village during the year drawing to a close. He also had been in favor of the drainage system and $1,000 had been saved by making the tile in the village. If there was an election his name would again be before the electors and he asked their support.

C. H. Brewster.

C. H. Brewster re-elected by acclamation for two years on the Hydro Commission, was asked to give an account of the work done by the local commission. As far as he was concerned he said he had done everything he had had a chance to do, as the Hydro was a peculiar institution, as all one had to do was to do as he was told and if he did that he is doing well. He said he did not want the office and had he had been about two minutes late in getting to the meeting he would not have been re-elected. He concluded by thanking the electors for past favors and wishing all the compliments of the season.

None of the nominees for school board was present.

Contest in Manvers.

BETHANY, December 27. — A contest seems likely in Manvers with more nominated for each office than there are seats.

Those proposed are:

For Reeve: F. S. Gray, Bert Richardson.

For Deputy Reeve: W. A. Corbett, John R. Burns.

For Councillors: Alex. Potts, O. H. McGill, Charles McNeil, L. H. Staples, J. A. Youngman.

DOURO, Dec. 27. — A contest seems assured here with two in the field for reeve and six for councillors, as follows:

Reeve: John Leahy, Arthur Carveth, Martin Coughlin (withdrew.)

Councillors: Arthur Carveth, John A. Crow, John D. O'Shea, Thomas Fitzgerald, George Bolton, Austin Allen.

Belmont and Methuen.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 27. — Nominations for the townships of Belmont and Methuen were held in Belmont town hall on Monday afternoon December 26th, and resulted as follows:

Reeve: F. Breckenridge, W. E. Griffith.

Council: N. Whitney, E. Spencer, C Barrons, G. Sanders, C F. Steenburgh, M. Petherick, A. C. Buchanan, W Burdy.

Mr. Purdy resigned.

Stirling Reeve Unopposed

STIRLING, Dec. 27.—The annual municipal meeting was held on Monday afternoon in the old Town Hall. There was a good attendance of ratepayers anxious to hear how their money had been expended during 1927.

The first hour of the time was spent in nominating men to rule the destiny of the village for 1928, with the following result:

Thomas Montgomery was nominated for reeve, and as there were no other candidate for the office, Mr. Montgomery, who was the efficient reeve during 1927, will be at the head of the 1928 council.

The following were nominated for seats on the council board for 1928: Jetty Thompson, Samuel Hatton, Lindsay Meiklejohn, and W. H. Patterson, who were members of the 1927 Council; also the following new men: Wilson Harlow, E. Sandercock, Delbert Utman, and J. E. O'Donnell, all of whom retired except Mr. O'Donnell. A lively time followed when the councillors were called upon to give an account of their past year's doings, which has been no sinecure on account of the planning and building of the new municipal building, as well as carrying on the ordinary work of a municipal council. The financial statement as presented at the meeting showed the corporation to be safe in that respect, the debenture debt being $20,219.96 and the permanent assets $100,631.37.

The nomination for school trustees to fill the place of those whose time of service had expired also took place at the meeting. Messrs. J. S. Morton, Dr. C. F. Walt, and H. C. Martin were re-elected to fill the positions for the next two years.

NAVY DIRIGIBLE

by the Canadian government station on Sable Island, no word has been received from the Dawn since she passed over the French Cable Company's relay station at Orleans, on Cape Cod, approximately 70 miles southeast of here, at 7:25 p.m., Friday evening.

The Sable Island message, relayed early yesterday to C. H. Harvey, Canadian Marine and Fisheries Department agent at Halifax, N.S., merely said:

"At 9:45 p.m., Eastern Standard Time (Sunday) heard airship Dawn saying something had gone wrong, but could not get her owing to storm interference. At 10:45 p.m. heard nothing from her. Particulars of signals: Interrupted Continuous Wave, 625 meter wavelength, call sign WMU."

The Dawn's call letters are WMU and the "Interrupted Continuous Wave" described in the message identified the signals as being produced on the plane's emergency set, which has a range of 25 to 50 miles.

GILMOUR MEMORIAL

The song of the angels on the first Christmas Day, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace and goodwill toward men" was the text from which Rev. W. S. Edgar preached the yuletide sermon on Sunday morning at Gilmour Memorial Church.

"This is part of the wondrous song sung by the angels on the plains of Bethlehem so long ago, on that memorable night when the Christ Child was born.

"The humble shepherds were the only human beings who heard the angels sing this Christmas lyric. Angels! How the word revives memories that bless and burn. Angels! Messengers of almighty God, visitants from a higher world, where there is a better order of society than this world of sin and death. Angels! God's messengers of mercy, His personal representatives who go anywhere, any time, under any conditions to do their Master's will and fulfil His divine purposes.

"Once more Christmas is here with its gladness, its charm, its tender associations. The Christian calendar — would be infinitely poorer without this joyous festival, for it softens the heart of the hardest men and for a day we have a semblance of the Kingdom of God on earth. The most selfish and unlikely people pack up parcels and write letters of goodwill—which seems to show that none of God's creatures is wholly vile. There is a spark of Good even in the worst of men and the Christmas season brings this Good to the surface. It does even worldly people good to remember the birth of the little Child who changed the course of the world's history.

"Christ's influence in the world today is even more dominating than gains a greater hold as the years go by. What we Christians are doing is to seek to bring about a perpetual Christmas, a Christmas which lasts all the year round instead of only a day of goodwill and sweet charity in each year. We desire three hundred and sixty-five such days of this spirit of gladness and goodwill in the course of the twelve months.

"Glory to God in the highest;" then it comes down to us here—"On earth peace and goodwill towards men." Thus it speaks of Christ as the Peace-bringer.

"He brings Peace to the human soul. To this fact many of you present can testify. Most of us can look back to a time inour experience when we had no peace with reference to the concerns of the soul, and the things of eternity. We often thought about these things, but everything regarding them was dark and hazy. Consequently we had no peace in our soul, no settled calm in our spirit. But whenever we opened our hearts to Jesus Christ and submitted to His will, the peace of God that passeth all understanding filled our souls. The peace that Jesus gives, not only fits for death, but also fits for life; it enables us to live peaceably with all men. When we have the peace of God in our hearts we can bear with the sins and follies of men without losing control of ourselves. The peace that the believer in Christ enjoys comes from a sense of pardon. He knows that the guilt of his sin has been taken away and therefore the future holds no terrors for him.

"Christ will ultimately be the Peace Bringer to the whole world. The world's hope of peace is in Him who had power to say to a single sinful soul, "God in peace; thy sins are forgiven thee." The Lord of the world in man is Lord of the world of man. The angels were right in proclaiming peace on earth as the result of the advent of our Lord. Christianity, which renews the individual heart is the only power that promises any renewal and pacification of society. The reformation of all outward evils and abuses must be the result of a genuine redemption and regeneration of humanity by the power of the living Christ. One who expects the petition of the Lord's prayer to be answered, and who believes that Christianity is yet to develop new powers and win larger dominions to triumph completely on the earth can easily hold the doctrine of a coming day of peace. Shall we, whose Lord is at the right hand of God in power and glory, fail in this faith, when the prophets rejoiced in that day long before the Messiah appeared, when the angels anticipated it, while the Savior was yet in swaddling clothes and when the early disciples could discern its dawning through the darkness of their troubled age?

"Christianity has already created wonderful results. It has greatly mitigated the barbarities of warfare. It has stirred up a powerful public sentiment which hates, condemns and sets its face against war. It is rapidly undermining all systems of irresponsible government that empower a few men to plunge the nations into the welter of destruction. The kingdoms of this world are destined to become the Kingdom of our God and His Christ, not in the sense that they will be consolidated into one kingdom but rather in the sense that they will be pervaded and possessed of the Spirit of Christ; so that however diverse their forms of government may be, each and all of them shall be administered in accordance with Christian principles and peace will possess the earth just in the degree in which the religion of Christ shall become thus known and honored among the nations."

Weakness Of Corn Affects Other Grains

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—Liberal receipts of corn had an early bearish effect on the corn market to-day and tended also at times to weigh down other grain. Arrivals of corn in Chicago to-day totalled 775 cars. Opening unchanged to ¾c. off, corn subsequently showed a moderate general setback. Wheat steadied at 1-8c. decline to an equal advance and later receded a little all around. Oats were easy. Provisions likewise inclined downward.

Opening pirces were: Wheat, December 124 7-8, March 127 1-8. Corn, December 80, March 84 3-8. Oats, December unquoted, March unquoted.

Price Trend Upward At New York To-day

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(Canadian Press.) — Price movements in today's stock market lackened uniformity but the main trend appeared to be uward with General Motors and United States' Steel common in the vanguard of the advance. Call money was marked up to 5½ per cent, following the calling of about $25,000,000 in loans and this has a tendency to restrict speculative operations.

Buying of Steel common was influenced, in part, by widespread report that J. P. Morgan would be named chairman of the Board of Diretoors of the Corporation after the regular monthly meeting this afternoon. Favorable steel trade reports also were a factor. Steel rallied from an early low of 152 5-8 to around 155. General Motors moved up more than two points.

FALSE ECONOMY

A Service Club offered to build and present to the City Council a wading pool in King Edward Park, to cost the Club $1,500 or more.

The City Council turned down the offer, depriving the children of that district of all the fun and healthful recreation they would have had this last summer and every summer to come.

Why? Because the Council declared a caretaker would be needed and would cost money.

Dressing rooms could have been built for the use of the football players and other sportsmen—and the caretaker could have looked after these as well as the wading pool.

But the Council rejected the gift of a $1,500 wading pool

BRADBURN FOR The Commission

TO THE ELECTORS:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—At the end of my second term as a member of the Utilities Commission, the last year and one-half as Chairman, I, in seeking re-election, am willing to be judged by my record as a Commissioner and in other public capacities in which I have been privileged to serve. During my connection with the Utilities Commission I have been guided by no other motive than the desire to see that the two most important public services under our control should be as economically and efficiently administered as possible.

With the experience of six years' service on the Commission to help me, I believe that I can be of greater service to you during the next three years, inasmuch as all details of the very many problems before the Commissioners are at my finger tips. This aspect of the situation, I respectfully submit is worthy of your serious consideration when you are deciding as to how your ballot shall be marked.

I feel that my experience gained during six years' close association with the manifold activities in the Commission's jurisdiction will enable me to successfully look after your interests.

May I wish you all the Happiest of New Years.

Bert Barry Annexes World's Sculling Honors

TAKES EARLY LEAD TO DEFEAT MAJOR GOODSELL OF AUSTRALIA

MADE GOOD TIME.

Run Under Unfavorable Weather Conditions With Heavy Rain Falling.

VANCOUVER, B.C., December 27 (Canadian Press). — H. A. "Bert" Barry, English champion, won the world's professional sculling championship here yesterday defeating Major J. C. Goodsell, of Australia, the title-holder, over a three-mile course on Burrard Inlet. The time was 21 minutes 4 seconds, and more than three minutes faster than the race between the two on Labor Day, when Goodsell retained his title in 24 minutes 13 seconds.

Barry was the big surprise and took an early lead, increasing it to five lengths at the end of the second mile, and finished ten lengths ahead of the Australian at the end, or approximately by the same margin by which he lost in the last race. Barry was going strong at the finish, while Goodsell ,whose training had been interrupted by a series of misfortunes, was obviously not in the condition he had been at the last race, and was exhausted at the finish yesterday. After congratulating the winner ,he collapsed and had to be attended by a physician.

The race was rowed over the Barnet-Port Moody course under unfavorable weather conditions, a heavy rain falling and a light breeze blowing.

Both rowers started away nicely. Goodsell had won the toss and chose the southern side of the course. Barry took the lead almost immediately. He stroked thirty against Goodsell's thirty-two. Before long Barry led by a length, rowing at twenty-eight with Goodsell stroking the same. Barry then dropped to twenty-six. He increased his lead to two lengths, but Goodsell fought hard, and cut the lead to a half length in the first mile. Barry moved away another length, but Goodsell picked up a bit by rowing twenty-eight, while Barry stuck to twenty-six, and was using a long stroke. He covered the first mile in five minutes thirty-seven seconds, just thirty-seven seconds slower than Goodsell's world record for the distance.

Goodsell held Barry's lead to a length and a half for the next half-mile. As the two mile mark was neared Barry increased his advantage by about a length. Goodsell made a spurt, bringing his stroke up to twenty-eight. Barry did likewise, and maintained his lead. Here Barry began to open up the gap, and started the last mile seven lengths ahead and continued to increase his lead. He kept at twenty-eight and Goodsell at about twenty-seven. Eight lengths behind Goodsell made his last spurt, but Barry rowed in easily a winner.

Superior condition decided the race. Barry was in excellent condition, while Goodsell, following a succession of training mishaps, incuded an attack of muscular rheumatism, when he was overturned into the cold water, and felt the cold weather which had prevailed this month in contrast to his native Australia, and was plainly not at his best.

In training he had been unable to better twenty-three minutes over the course, and admitted that if Barry could beat this there would be a new champion. He rowed a game race, however, and never gave up.

Should Goodsell succeed in obtaining sufficient backing, he plans to challenge Barry for a return match on the Thames.

By Saturday's victory the sculling title goes back to England where it was previously held by the uncle of the new champion, Ernest Barry.

Adams and Miller Go To Milwaukee

ST. LOUIS, December 27 (Associated Press). — Moving seven players, which started at the recent major league pow-wow in New York, was completed on Saturday when Infielders Spencer Adams and Otto Miller were sent by the Browns to the Milwaukee American Association Club.

BRILLIANT HOCKEY.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 27 (Canadian Press).—After 70 minutes of the hardest kind of playing Pittsburgh and Les Canadiens of Montreal walked off the ice deadlocked at 2 to 2 in an overtime hockey game here Saturday night, both teams put on a brilliant exhibition of hockey.

Milks saved the Pirate skaters from defeat when he whipped a well aimed and executed shot into the mesh early in the third period. It was the same Milks whose steady and high class skating kept the Les Canadiens on the run throughout the game. He was an everlasting threat. He scored both Pittsburgh's goals, one coming on an assist from McCurry, in the first period.

Joliat made the Canadien's initial tally on a pass from Morenz in the opening stanza. Leduc, on a pass from Gagne, annexed the visitors' final marker in the second frame.

Pittsburgh and Les Canadiens flashed excellent hockey as they battled through the first period to a 1 to 1 tie. The visitors jumped off to an early lead when Joliat tallied on a lightning shot from Morens at 2.56. It was a neat piece of work on the port of Joliat. Goal Tender Worters was caught completely off his guard as he attempted to avert a score.

The Pirate skaters were not to be denied. Ten minutes later they placed the game on even terms when Milks shot the disc through Worth's legs on an accurate pass from McCurry. McCurry was in a scrimmage on the left side of the net when he poked the puck to the waiting Milks, who had no difficulty scoring.

Both sides worked hard during the remainder of the period, but seemed unequal to the task of breaking the deadlock.

Cotton was forced to retire when he crashed head-on into the wooden fence. He was dazed for a few moments and had to be escorted off the ice. The injury was not serious.

Les Canadiens continued their assault in the second period when they jumped into the lead on Leduc's shot on a pass from Gagne. Leduce completely bewildered the Pirate defence. He skated through Burke and McKinnon with ease.

The visitors' skating again stood out. Time and time again they swept down the ice and threatened menacingly. Once Joliat narrowly missed a score when the disc glanced off Worter's stick.

Pittsburgh, too, passed up golden opportunities. Milk's, Drury and Darragh bombarded the Canadiens' goalie, only to see their efforts go for naught.

Action aplenty reigned in the second set-to. Both teams fought tooth and nail for an edge. Belated attacks were thwarted when goals seemed apparent.

Less than two minutes of the third period had elapsed when Milks, unassisted, tied the score. The Pirate centre took the puck shortly after the face-off, and nursing it, weaved and squirmed his way through the Canadiens' defence. The score was made at 1.25.

Play became heated as the Frenchmen tried in vain to forge ahead. Joliat and Gagne dropped numerous shots at Goal Tender Worters as they dashed down the ice.

During the overtime, fast play continued, but try as they might the teams were unable to penetrate the stonewall defence. A dispute arose when the Canadiens claimed a goal a few moments before the contest terminated. The puck, it seems, in some unknown manner, trekked into the mesh, but the referee refused the score.

The line-up:

Pittsburgh.—Worters, goal; Burke and McCaffery, defence; Milks, centre; Darragh and McCurry, wings. Drury, White, Cotton, McKinnon and Smith, subs.

Canadiens. — Hainsworth, goal; Mantha and Gauthier, defence; Morenz, centre; Joliat and Gagne, wings; Leduc, Langlois, Lafrance, Lepine, Larochelle, and Hart, subs.

Referee—Marsh.

Summary

First Period:

PLAY THIRD TIE MATCH WITH OTTAWA

Leafs and Senators Play Third Game Without Reaching Verdict.

FINAL COUNT 1-1.

Boucher Stars For Champions By Scoring Goal in First.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 27. — Canadian Press.—The question of personal supremacy between the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Ottawa Senator, world's champion crew, remains undecided after two hundred and ten minutes of hockey through which the teams have fought in national league scheduled clashes. A Christmas eve tussle of the clubs played here before some 2500 fans ended in a 1-1 deadlock, and marked the third time the teams have met in the present schedule without reaching a verdict. The Leafs and Senators had previously played twice through 70 minutes of scoreless hockey, once in Ottawa and again on the home ice of the Toronto sextette.

For forty minutes of the latest skirmish it appeared the champions were to emerge victors. Hardly had the players settled down to their stride when George "Buck" Boucher pilot of the Senator clan, corralled the puck behind his own goal, and gave an amazing exhibition of stick-handling that carried him through the entire opposition and eventually landed the rubber in the Toronto net The goal came six minutes and ten seconds after the opening of hostilities and marked the first time that either one of the teams had scored on the other in 146 minutes of combat. Boucher registered by going clear in on top of John Ross coach, the Leafs' net tender and lifting the rubber into an upper corner of the cage.

Throughout the remainder of the first period and also in the second frame, the defensive play of the titleholders seemed impregnable.

"Shorty" Carson, the flashy Toronto centreman, had his wings working smoothly on triple combination thrusts, but against the close checking of the Ottawa wings and the poking stick of Frank Nighbor their efforts seemed doomed.

But from the start of the third period, Connie Smythe's men pressed viciously and after ten minutes and forty five seconds of the stanza, the Ottawa rearguards crumpled before the dash of two of the Toronto relief men, Rodden, a diminutive wing player, checked the puck away from a rushing Senator near centre ice and forced his way along the right boards. The Ottawa defence had been split by Art Duncan and Rodden shot over a hard pass that Duncan accepted. Goalie Connell had rushed out of cage in an attempt to break up the combination, but he failed and Duncan had an open net to score on.

In the ten minutes of overtime, play was pretty much give and take, and neither side could break the knotted score.

For the Leafs, it can be said they showed a vast improvement in their offensive rushes as compared with their first appearance here this season; many of their opportunities however were tossed away through poor shooting.

The Senators all worked hard but goal guardian Roach was in high form and turned many apparently threatening thrusts into useless efforts.

WALTER JOHNSON GREAT PITCHER

WALTER JOHNSON

It is fitting and proper that Walter Johnson should be the hero of the greatest pitching feat of all time when viewed from every possible angle.

In this connection, it is a rather interesting coincidence that I made my debut in the American League just one year ahead of Johnson, that I umpired his first game, that I worked in his outstanding effort and that we both retired from active service on the field almost at the same time.

It was back in 1908 that Johnson turned in a three-game performance that I doubt will ever be equaled, particularly in these days of the lively ball.

The feat that I have reference to was the shutting out of the New York club in three successive games. In those days we had the single umpire system, so I was the only official in charge of Johnson's record-breaking performance.

What makes the performance all the more remarkable is the fact it really happened in his first year, for he served only a few months in 1907.

As I recall it, the first game was played on Friday, Sept. 4, 1908. Washington won the game, 3-0, because Johnson was in great form, allowing only six hits.

Shutting out the Yanks in those days wasn't a miracle by any means, so Johnson's very excellent performance received only passing consideration from the scribes.

Since Sunday ball wasn't legalized in New York state at that time, Johnson enjoyed a day of rest after his two shutouts. The second shutout caused the experts to give Walter much space for his two meritorious performances.

Two games were scheduled for Monday, which was Labor Day, both to be played in the afternoon. Cantillon set New York to talking when he announced in Monday's papers that Johnson would pitch both games.

New York sent the famous Jack Chesbro against Washington in an effort to break the Johnson shutout epidemic. All Walter did was pitch his best game of the three, this time blanking New York, 4-0, allowing only two hits.

In about the seventh inning of the third game, Johnson was hit on his pitching arm with one of Chesbro's fast-breaking spitballs. The game was held up at least five minutes while the Washington trainer gave Walter first aid. It was evident that he was in great pain during the rest of the game.

During the 15-minutes rest between games, Johnson's arm became stiff and badly swollen. Had it not been for that, Cantillon would have sent him back to get four straight shutouts.

To me those three shutouts in successive games, with the pitcher getting better in each game, allowing six hits in the first, four in the second and two in the third, is the greatest hurling performance I have ever seen, all things considered.

MANY CHANGES IN THE GAME

National League President Tells of Factors That Developed Baseball.

KEENER COMPETITION.

NEW YORK, December 27 (Associated Press). — Nearing the close of the twenty-fifth year with the National League and entering his tenth year as president, John Arnold Heydler sees these factors as the chief fruits of the game's developments to unprecedented heights.

First, faster and snappier play, brought about by changes in the rules, the ball and keener competition.

Second, greater defensive skill in the outfields.

Third, the influence of impartial newspaper reports of the games of contrast with formerly partisan accounts, and, coupled with this, better umpiring.

Fourth, maintenance of "popular prices" for the games, only slightly increased in 25 years as compared with the tenfold greater cost of operating major league teams.

Fifth, the impetus supplied by Babe Ruth in popularizing the long-hitting type of play, and the governing influence of Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

"It was a great game in the old days, but it was a greater one now," Mr. Heydler is convinced from observations and close connection with the game of more than two score years.

"There is no other sport in our country with so wide an appeal and no sporting event anywhere that holds the sustained interest that the World's Series does once over.

"We must thank the American League for that. We looked on that league as an interloper, a bad thing for big league ball when it was organized, but we know better now. It has been the best arrangement that could happen to have the two leagues go along, providing the keen rivalry they do, and widening the influence of the game."

SPORT BITS

Wins Decision.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 27. — (Canadian Press).—Jack Demave, Jersey City heavyweight, moved up a step on the pugilistic ladder yesterday when he won a 10-round decision over Jack Humbeck, Belgian heavyweight champion, in the feature bout at the Arena. Demave weighed 195; Humbeck 202.

In another bout that had an international flavor, K. O. (Phil) Kaplan, New York, knocked out Pierre Gandon, French middleweight champion, in the fourth round of a ten-rounder. Kaplan, who has outgrown a lighter division, was in his old-time good form and smothered the French boxer with blows to the head and body punches. Each weighed 158.

Play to Draw.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 27. — (Canadian Press).—Dalhousie University, Halifax, and University of British Columbia played a three-all draw here yesterday in the first game of the former's coast invasion, and the first occasion on which exponents of the English code of rugby on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts have ever clashed.

Adds to Laurels.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 27 (Canadian Press).—George Godfrey, Philadelphia negro heavyweight, added another knockout victim to his laurels here when he put Soldier Jones of Toronto down for the count after 55 seconds of fighting in the first round of a scheduled ten-round bout. Godfrey weighed 240 pounds and Jones 184½.

Jones, rated as a heavy hitter, came from his corner at the bell and missed with a left swing. Godfrey went in close, ripped three hard rights to the soldier's body and sent him to the floor for the toll. The club physician had to be called before Jones could leave the ring.

Barbee Sold.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 27. — (Canadian Press).—Dave Barbee, outfielder, has been sold to the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League by the Philadelphia Athletics, it was announced at club headquarters yesterday. Manager Connie Mack did not disclose the sale price for the player, who was farmed out to Reading in the International League last season. Barbee was recalled in the fall and played in several games for the Athletics.

MAROONS TAKE THIRD PLACE

DEFEAT AMERICANS 4-2.

MONTREAL, Que., December 27 (Canadian Press). — The Montreal Maroons celebrated Christmas resting in undisputed possession of third place in the standing of the Canadian section of the National Hockey League. By virtue of their 4 to 2 victory over the New York Americans at the Forum on Saturday night and Toronto's one-all tie game at Ottawa, the local squad was enabled to hurdle the heap of tail-enders and thus bring some semblance of order to the rather jumbled condition which has existed in the bottom rungs of the section.

The Maroons' victory on Saturday night proved a welcome holiday gift to their followers who turned out six thousand strong to witness the contest. Eddie Gerard's crew are now only one point behind the second-place Senators, one point ahead of the fourth-place Maple Leafs, and two points in front of the lowly Yankees.

Saturday night's 4 to 2 score fully represented the Maroons' margin in the play. Miller had twice as much work to do than had Benedict in the Montreal net, and only several spectacular saves on the part of the visiting goalie kept the Maroons from winning by a larger margin.

The game was fairly fast, although close checking was in order, and this tended to slow up the majority of promising combination efforts by both teams. For the most part, the game was fought in the "merry Christmas" spirit, but within two minutes of the final bell.

Siebert and Billy Boucher bumped one another and then walloped one another with everything at their disposal before they were finally pried apart by less belligerent team-mates and the officials. Siebert received a major for his part in the affair and Boucher escaped with a minor penalty. Why the distinction, we do not know. Boucher was as much in the fight as was Siebert, but evidently the officials were of the opinion that Siebert was the aggressor.

Nels Stewart, tricky Maroon centre, was in fine fettle last night, and played a large part in the local triumph. He scored two of the Montreal goals and assisted in another. Siebert and Munro counted the other two markers for the Maroons, while Himes and Boucher entered the summary for the star-spangled squad.

At times the Americans flashed about the ice in daring form, but for the most part their efforts were ineffective, the local defence proving a strong barrier to their scoring efforts. On the other hand, the American defence was wobbly, and Miller was never sure of his protection.

Six minutes after the start of the game, Siebert and Stewart flashed past the Yankee rearguard and Stewart took a perfect pass from Siebert to beat Miller for the game's first goal. Twelve minutes later Siebert slipped a soft one past the American goalie to put the Maroons two up. Siebert shot from the side and the puck bounced over Miller's stick just over the goal line.

Fast work by Normie Mines seven minutes after the start of the second period kept the visitors in the running. Boucher shot from the side and Benedict stopped the puck at his feet, but before he could clear, Himes had dashed in from centre and pushed the puck between Benny's feet to the back of the net. A daring Munro-to-Stewart - to - Munro combination six minutes after Himes' goal gave the Maroons a two-goal advantage once again. Munro carried up centre, passed to Stewart at the defence, stepped in between the bewildered Yankee defencemen, grabbed the disc on Stewart's re-pass and slammed it past Miller who never had a chance to save.

Soon after the start of the final session, Stewart made it 4 to 1 when he slipped between the two opposing defencemen on a lone effort and tricked Miller for his second goal. Billy Boucher counted for the Americans with but two minutes of play remaining on a side shot. Just after his goal, he came to grips with Siebert, and the only untoward incident of the game occurred.

Line-up:

Montreal.—Benedict, goal; Munro and Dutton, defence; Stewart, centre; Siebert and Smith, wings; Ward, Phillips, Oatman, Touhey and Carson, subs.

Americans.—Miller, goal; Simpson and Reise, defence; Conacher, centre; Green and McKinnon, wings; Himes and Boucher, subs.

COSTELLO GIRL FOUND IN CREEK

GIRLS MAKE DISCOVERY.

TORONTO, Dec. 27.—Florence Costello, the 13-year-old North Toronto girl, who had been missing for twelve days, was found at 11.30 o'clock yesterday morning—dead.

Three little girls out playing noticed the body as it lay embedded in the ice of a small, shallow creek, not five minutes' walk from the Costello home at 31 Birdsall Avenue.

The father, John Costello, looked on as police officers chopped the body out of the ice. When the features became as nearly cleared of ice and snow as it was possible then to get them, he declared it to be the body of his daughter.

He took a glove from one of the hands and went home to show it to the mother, who lay sick from the fear and anxiety in which she has lived since the girl failed to return from school on December 14. Mrs. Costello, whose condition is low, was shown the glove by Dr. J. A. M. Campbell, her physician. She looked at it and sobbing cried that it was Florence's.

Found In Creek.

The creek in which the body was found meanders south from Hogg's Hollow, west of Yonge Street. The body lay curled about a bounder just where the rivulet passes beside the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Drinkwater, at No. 126 Castlefield Avenue. It was just a few yards north of Castlefield Avenue and about the same distance west of Rosewell Avenue, which ends at the base of a knoll a few yards farther on.

No suggestion of foul play in connection with the child's sudden death was made yesterday by any of the authorities. A variety of opinions was expressed as to how the child got into the creek at the point at which the body was found, but all seemed to agree that death came as an indirect result of one of the epileptic fits to which she was said to be subject.

Formal identification of the body will not be possible until it has thawed out, a matter of some hours. The parents, however, are certain enough to have gone ahead and arranged to have the funeral at 8.30 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Monica's R. C. Church to Mount Hope Cemetery. The body is still at the Morgue where the police conveyed it.

Chief Coroner M. M. Crawford was on the scene soon after the discovery was reported. He made a thorough examination of the surrounding ground, but as yet there has been no announcement of an inquest, although it is considered likely that one will be held.

The three little girls who made the discovery are Betty and Marion File, aged ten and 13 years, respectively, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne File, of 158 Alexandra Boulevard, and Helen Murch, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Murch, of 178 Alexandra Boulevard.

OPENING GAME HERE THURSDAY

SHOULD BE FAST GAME.

The Marlboro-Peterborough Senior O.H.A. game announced first for tomorrow night will be played at Brock Street Rink on Thursday night instead, and promises to be a red-hot battle. Neither team can afford to lose and with both at full strength, there is sure to be plenty of action at all stages. The Marlboros, who are under the guidance of the celebrated Harry Watson, comprise some of the best senior hockeyists in Toronto, and the Petes will have to be strong every where to get a decision over the Dukes, who are determined to win here and get the edge in the group race.

The local crew has been getting in plenty of practice, and when they take the ice Thursday night should be in shape for the test. It is likely that Manager Wright's starting forward line will consist of Legon, McFee and Kane, with Rose and Clark on the defence and LeBarr or Hall in the nets. The players have struck their stride and have been going fine in practice.

The opening O.H.A. game of the season should attract a big crowd to Brock Street Rink.

WICKET KEEPER IS NOW SCORER

ONCE HELD RECORD

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 24 (by the Canadian Press).—Herbert Strudwick, the famous Surrey wicketkeeper—popularly known as "Struddy"—has definitely retired from first-class cricket, and has accepted the post of scorer to the Surrey County Club. He will take up these duties next season.

One of the greatest wicketkeepers the game has known, Strudwick, who was born at Mitcham, on Jan. 28, 1880, and is thus in his 48th year, has kept wicket regularly for Surrey since taking the place of Stedman in 1903.

In that season, by securing 91 wickets (71 caught and 20 stumped), he set up a record for wicket-keeping, which was not beaten until 1911, when Fred Huish, the Kent player, helped in the dismissal of a hundred batsmen.

His chances of distinction outside county cricket were delayed owing to the claims of "Dick" Lilley, the famous Warwickshire wicketkeeper, to whom he acted as understudy when accompanying the M.C.C. team which toured Australia in 1903-4.

Strudwick did not play in a Test match until visiting that country again in 1911-1912, but afterwards won an unquestioned place in the English side, going to Australia in 1920-21 and 1924-25, appearing in two "Tests" over here in 1921 and in all five games in which the Australians were met in 1926.

He has also participated in two tours in South Africa—in 1909-10 and 1913-14.

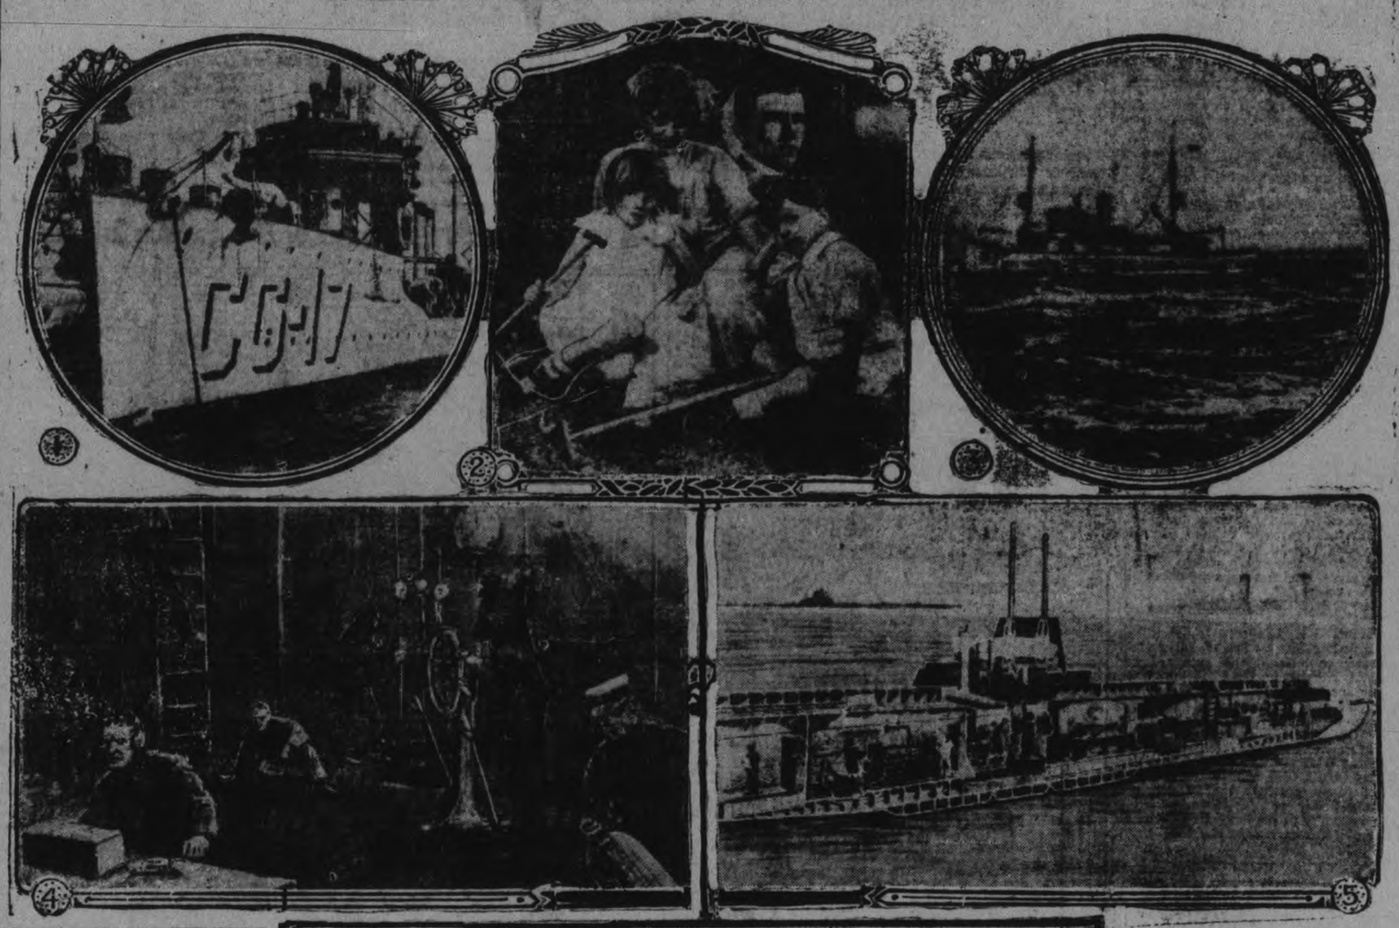
WHERE 40 MEN DIED IN WRECKED SUBMARINE



While a large fleet of rescue craft maintained a helpless vigil on the surface, a stiff gale raging off Cape Cod rendering operation futile, the men imprisoned in the bow of the ill-fated submarine S-4 kept up their pathetic signals. The last coherent message picked up by the oscillators of the sister-ship S-8 was the tragic query: "Is there any hope?" On Tuesday a jumble of sounds was construed as an acknowledgment from Lieut. Graham Newell Fitch of a message telling him his wife and mother were praying for him. (1) is a view of the coastguard destroyer Paulding, with which the S-4 collided Saturday afternoon. MUNICIPAL NOMINATIONS

QUIET IN OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, Dec. 27.— Reeve L. A. Southworth and Councillors James Magee, Richard Poast, Harry Lamb and Albert Hill were elected by acclamation in a quiet municipal nomination meeting here yesterday. All were members last year except Mr. Hill, who replaces John White. Mr. White was nominated but withdrew. W. G. Stevens and R. W. Williamson were re-elected school trustees, while Richard Cornwall succeeds Bert Sanderson. These three will serve two years.

T. C. Ivory and J. T. Beatty were re-elected Hydro Commissioners.

NO ELECTION IN MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, December 27. — The Millbrook reeve and council were returned by acclamation on Monday, no opposing candidates being proposed. There was a slim attendance, owing not to a lack of interest but because the nomination meeting was at 12 o'clock noon on Monday, December 26, and Christmas was generally observed in the homes of the community.

The list is: Reeve W. T. Wood; Councillors P. Stinson, J. R. Eakins, G. W. Sayles and T. J. Lang As far as can be learned the municipal body is entering upon its 11th year in office without an election.

The school trustees are the same as last year: A. A. Smith, secretary-treasurer; G. E. Burnham, L. C. Russell, H. R. Armstrong, J. A. Vance and L. W. Smith.

Contest in Cavan.

Two men were nominated for reeve of Cavan township, four for deputy reeve, and nine for councillors, at the largely attended meeting held in the town hall on Monday, Dec 26, at 2 p. m., the list being:

V. R. Hunter, nominated by W. Wragg, seconded by W. Tinney.

R. McCamus, nominated by G. Arm strong and seconded by John Greer.

H. A. Elson, nominated by L. J. Hutchison, seconded by A. Johnston.

Councillors:

J. H. McGill, nominated by R. O. Larmer, seconded by A. Hunter.

A. V. Thorne, nominated by J. L. Fair, seconded by T. H. Aiken.

V. R. Hunter, nominated by George Cobley, seconded by W. Wragg.

R. McCamus, nominated by J. H. Lang, seconded by J. Greer.

James Hutchison, nominated by J. Greer, seconded by J. W. Armstrong.

D. Robinson, nominated by A. Wood, seconded by M. Fallis.

H. A. Elson, nominated by L.Hutchison, seconded by M. Fallis.

T. W. Belch, nominated by George Berry, seconded by E. Keegan.

J. O. Ball, nominated by S. S. Staples, seconded by C. L. McNeil.

Mr. Fallis having apparently decided to withdraw from municipal life, the reeveship goes to G. Hootan, the former deputy reeve, by aclamation.

R. J. McKnight, V. R. Hunter and possibly George McCamus will contest the Deputy reeveship, H. A. Elson deciding to stand for the council instead. Others entering the field for councillor are J. H. McGill and D. Robinson. A. Thorne was uncertain whether to stand or not, as was also J. O. Ball; Hunter and McCamus resigned because of being in the field for the higher office mentioned. James Hutchison was absent, and T. W. Belch declined the nomination on the ground that he could not devote sufficient time to municipal duties. W. Finney, who has been in the council for two years, retired because other obligations prevented his giving municipal interests the necessary time and attention.

Wiggle Your Ears To Retain Beauty Is Advise of French Scientist To Women

PARIS, December 27 (United Press). — Wiggle your ears, make faces ,and chew your food with many facial contortions if you want to be beautiful. That is the advice to women of Dr. Alexis Laford, a French scientist, who reached that conclusion after he observed that facially animals never change as they grow old. He found that animals make many more faces than humans. They pull up their cheeks and bare their teeth when they snarl ,they move every muscle in their faces when they yelp, and they yawn more often than we do. All that helps to keep them young.

Dr. Laford spent weeks making faces to determine the effect of each, and found that the most efficacious was to attempt to wiggle the ears. Such exercise calls into play practically every facial muscle. Ony one person in ten is so fortunate as to be blessed by nature with ability to agitate his auditory appendages.

From two to ten months' practice is needed to develop the muscles to wiggle the ears with ease, the scientist declared, and then three or four minutes of face-making and ear wiggling before the bathroom mirror will keep the face eternally young and always beautiful.

There are many strange and arduous job to be filled in a large motion picture studio, and not the least of them is that of the location manager.

Such is the wail of Jack Lawton, head of that department at Universal City, who declares that his woes and griefs in one week are more than those experienced by the average man in a lifetime.

Upon Lawton's shoulders fall the duties of finding new and fitting scenery for every picture made at Universal City. It must fit the story perfectly, it must be a spot not used before, it must often times resemble a part of the world which it is not, and it must be economically accessible.

When George B. Seitz started the production of "The Ice Flood," the Universal-Jewel feature which will be shown at the Regent Theatre today, he needed a large expanse of tall timber, covered with snow, and a large river on which a sizeable and impressive ice jam must occur.

Lawton, after searching the west for a spot which would fit the picture's requirements, he hit upon northern Oregon as the closest and most accessible spot, so the company was shipped to the North-West for a period of almost three months.

Not only one location at a time must Lawton find, but as many as ten at once, all widely varied in their needs and demands, and in addition to finding the places, Lawton must make all arrangements for their departure, see that they are provided with train and hotel accommodations, make sure that the company gets everything it wants, and that it is not robbed by greedy merchants and tradesmen.

Now will somebody please come forward with a song entitled, "They Didn't Believe Him When He Told Them He Was Going to Whittle for a While"?

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CHRISTMAS STOCKING.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mr. Longears hopped through the different rooms of his hollow stump bungalow, looking high and looking low.

"Oh, no, thank you," answered Uncle Wiggily. Then he hopped into another room. And as he hopped he said:

"It must be a long one—a very long one."

"What is long, Unkie Wig?" Baby Bunty wanted to know. "Is it a long time until Christmas? I hope not!"

"Oh, no! Christmas is very near," said the bunny uncle to the little orphan rabbit girl who, for the holiday season, was living in the hollow stump. Then he went on, talking to himself: "Dear me! I wonder when I can find a long one."

But he did not tell Baby Bunty what it was he was looking for that was so long. And when Bunty went to the school, where the Lady Mouse teacher gave lessons in cheese nibbling, Baby Bunty said:

"I wonder what long thing Uncle Wiggily is looking for?"

"Oh, is it?" asked Bunty.

"Of course!" mewed Tommie Kat. "What else would Uncle Wiggily be looking for that was long, when it's so near Christmas, if it isn't a stocking? That's it, I'm sure. Everybody wants a long stocking for Christmas so they can get more presents."

"Then," said Baby Bunty as she went to her seat to study her carrot gnawing lesson, "when I go back I am going to help Unkie Wig look for a long, Christmas stocking. I'll take one of Nurse Jane's and one that Mrs. Longears doesn't need and I'll sew them together."

This was very kind on Bunty's part, I think. And really a long stocking was just what Uncle Wiggily was searching for.

"The longer the better," said the rabbit gentleman to himself as he hopped in and out of the rooms in his bungalow, looking high and low. "The bigger the stocking the more presents I will find in it on Christmas morning, for Santa Claus always fills a stocking to the top."

Now you might imagine Uncle Wiggily was greedy, wanting a long stocking so he could get many presents. But the bunny gentleman wasn't in the least selfish. He did not want the presents for himself.

"There are so many poor little animal boys and girls in Woodland who may get no presents," whispered Mr. Longears to himself, "that some one must be kind to them. So if I hang up a big stocking, and get it full of Christmas gifts, I can give them all away. But I can't seem to find a stocking that is long enough."

This was only too true. For though Uncle Wiggily looked at some of his wife's stockings and at some of Nurse Jane's, neither seemed big enough. And he did not think of sewing two stockings together, as Baby Bunty had said she would do when she came home from school.

So, after hunting high and low in the bungalow, without finding a long Christmas stocking, Uncle Wiggily hopped out, with a bright smile beneath his pink, twinkling nose.

"I know what I'll do," he said. "I'll borrow a long stocking from Mrs. Stork. She is a bird with very long legs." But alas! Uncle Wiggily forgot that there were no storks near where he lived. The nearest were in Holland, and they are even getting scarce there. So, after hopping around looking for a stork bird, and finding none, Uncle Wiggily thought of the Blue Heron, which is a bird, almost like a stork, and with legs quite as long.

"I'll borrow one of Mrs. Heron's stockings," said the rabbit. "She will be glad to lend it to me." But alas once more! When the bunny uncle reached the house on the edge of the pond, where, in the summer time, Mrs. Heron used to wade in the water with her long legs to catch fish and frogs for her dinner—when Uncle Wiggily got there, the house was all closed and a sign on it said:

GONE SOUTH FOR THE WINTER.

"Ha! I might have known!" exclaimed Mr. Longears, much disappointed. "Just my luck!" But he happened to look in the backyard and there, hanging on the clothes line, was one long stocking. Mrs. Heron had forgotten it in her hurry of packing to go South for the winter.

"Oh, joy! A long stocking at last! A Christmas stocking!" cried the rabbit, taking it off the line where it was flapping in the cold wind. "Now I shall get many presents that I can give away." He was just hopping out of the yard, with the long stocking, when, all of a sudden, a voice shouted:

"Stop."

PROOF of the Unique Powers of VIROL

Only nine years ago, Marjorie McKenna was suffering from the most serious form of wasting. To-day, thanks to Virol, she is, at the age of sixteen, a healthy well grown girl showing no trace of the tremendous strain thrown upon her constitution during her terrible illness.

Read this Remarkable Evidence—

At 7 years 5 months (Feb. 25th, 1918), Marjorie McKenna was admitted to Rosevale Hospital, Dumfries, in a state of extreme emaciation and exhaustion (Photo 1). She had no special treatment except Virol, which was given her thrice daily.

(Photo 2.) Virol not only restored her to health then, as the Matron of the Hospital certifies, but to-day her doctor is able to write: "I have examined Marjorie McKenna and find that she is in perfect health."

No other food has the same reconstructive power as Virol.

On July 6, 1919, the first big dirigible ever seen in this country, the R-34, from England completed the first lighter-than-air non-stop crossing of the Atlantic. As the big ship soared over the Long Island field, Major Pritchard jumped with a parachute to the ground to give landing instructions. The flight took about 108 hours.

In November of the same year Captain Ross Smith started on a flight from London to Australia. He arrived safely about a month later. He said the worst part of the 11,000-mile trip was on the first day, when it was so cold above Lyons, France, that his sandwiches froze solid. His route took him through Egypt, Persia and India.

From July 15 to August 24, of 1923, four airplanes flew from New York City to Nome, Alaska. The Squadron was led by Lieutenant Streett. They covered the distance of about 5,000 miles in fifty-five hours of actual flying time, with the usual thrilling experiences of long-distance flights, but without accident.

In the summer of 1924, was accomplished the first round-the-world flight. Four American army airplanes started. One was wrecked against a mountainside in Alaska and one was forced down at sea. The other two returned in good shape, having circled the earth in flying time of 371 hours, over a period of 175 days.

DUE TO ARRIVE AT LOS ANGELES THIS MORNING

Precautions Taken To Safeguard Hickman Against Possible Mob Violence.

IN GENIAL MOOD.

Reported Child Slayer Has Made New Confession to Authorities.

Aboard Cascade Limited at Dunsmuir, Calif., Dec. 27 (A. P.)—A genial mood and a healthy appetite yesterday marked the demeanor of William Edward Hickman as he was speeding toward Los Angeles in a heavily guarded Pullman to face charges for the kidnapping and murder of 12-year-old Marian Parker.

His spirit had picked up noticeably in contrast to the utter dejection apparent when the journey began Sunday at Pendleton.

The train carrying the prisoner will arrive at 9:40 a.m. to-day in Los Angeles, where precautions have been taken to safeguard him against possible mob violence.

District Attorney Asa M. Keys, Chief of Detectives Herman Cline and Chief of Police James Edwards of Los Angeles, were closeted yesterday with the young prisoner in a compartment. What they accomplished in drawing from him in additional admissions was not disclosed.

The officers denied the prisoner had confessed the slaying of the girl. A story in the Portland (Oregon) Telegram yesterday had said it was learned on good authority that Hickman admitted he alone was responsible for the murder.

The stolen automobile that Hickman was driving when he was captured on a highway near Echo, Oregon, was left in Pendleton. Arrangements for its return to Los Angeles will be made by an insurance company.

At Dunsmuir, the first stop in the state where the kidnapping and brutal killing of Marian was carried out, a crowd of 2,000 milled around the train in an effort to get a glimpse of the prisoner. There was no indication of disorder, however.

Prisoner in Good Spirits.

Hickman was in good spirits when his breakfast was served at 8:30 and he showed that his appetite was good by consuming a full portion of French toast, prunes, corn-meal muffins and a little milk.

Keen rivalry developed among the dining-car waiters for the privilege of taking food to the notorious prisoner. Four of them were engaged in a somewhat lively argument when Harry G. Kinch, Southern Pacific passenger agent, interceded and picked out Charles Wandover, head waiter, and R. C. Dawson for the job.

The train went through some cold weather south of Klamath Falls, Oregon, and the engine developed a hot box due to frozen oil. There was a delay of about half an hour at Mount Hebron until a new engine could be obtained.

At Klamath Falls a new relay of Southern Pacific agents came aboard to relieve those who had travelled from Portland, augmenting the regular police guard. At Oakland last night four new guards were to board the train and during the night two will be stationed at each end of the car.

Makes New Confession.

Aboard Southern Pacific Train at Davis, Calif., Dec. 27 (A. P.)—William Edward Hickman, charged with the kidnapping and killing of 12-year-old Marian Parker of Los Angeles, has made a new confession to officers who are returning him to the scene of the crime.

LONG PROGRAM AT SCHOOL CONCERT

PONTYPOOL, Dec. 27. — The Christmas tree and concert held under the auspices of the Pontypool Public school on Friday evening was a complete success. There was a program of nearly a hundred items, which provided a great variety and also showed great talent. It consisted of recitations, solos, instrumentals, etc., by each pupils (50) big or small, drills, dialogues, songs by the boys alone, and by the girls, physical exercises by the boys and girls, choruses.

W. H. Hooper was chairman and in his opening remarks stated that he had on previous occasions been chairman where the program was as long as his arm, but this time it was as long as his two arms. The best of order prevailed and the teacher, Mr. Hinton is receiving congratulations for the discipline which prevailed during the evening. Miss Grace Dunn, a teacher of the school, made a neat little speech to welcome the audience on behalf of the school. A silver collection was taken which amounted to $8.40, the half of which was donated to the Children's Aid Society.

Mr. Talbert Kellett and Mr. J. Payne, were business visitors to Millbrook on Wednesday.

The Y.P.L. meetings on Tuesday evening under the leadership of the missionary vice-president, Mr. Hinton, was poorly attended due to other events on that evening. Mr. Hinton gave an interesting reading on missionary work. Devotional exercises by the pastor and general business composed the remainder of the program. The next meeting will be under the leadership of the Citizenship Department, with Mr. John Payne in charge.

Mrs. W. L. Rayfield and two children went to Toronto on Wednesday evening and will spend Christmas with her parents in that city.

Sir Sam Hughes R.BP. No. 1063 held its regular meeting on Monday last when two candidates were initiated into the Royal Black degree. The degree work was put on without the use of the ritual, W. P. J. J. Richardson in the chair. Lecture work was handled by Sir Kts. Charles Brown and J. Payue. Lunch was served at the conclusion.

LITTLE HOPE FOR ASSAULTED MAN

PORT HOPE, December 27. — Slugged by robbers John Aimer is in the Welland County Hospital with little hope held out for his recovery. He was found on Christmas night 24 hours after being attacked, in an empty store he had just rented, by mysterious assailants.

He had been beaten by a blunt instrument and a huge gash torn across his head.

Aimer only recently arrived in Port Colborne from Sudbury and had been refused permission by the police to open a second hand store in the place where he was found.

Although robbery is said to have been the motive for the attack his assailants did not get much. A friend assured the police yesterday that Aimer had little cash with him.

The 16-acre plot of land on which the White House stands was purchased originally for $1600. Now it is valued at $10,500,000.

The Star Gift

An exceptionally fine program was presented in Murray Street Baptist Church on Christmas evening, when the large edifice was crowded to its utmost capacity for the occasion, and the special event was the sacred Christmas pageant, entitled "The Star Gift," written and directed by Mrs. L. J. Pettit. This was a beautiful piece of work and deserves much praise, both for the manner in which it was presented by a group of fifty participants and for the nature of the composition itself, which was similar in essence to the sacred pageants presented by the early church in mediaeval days, and also has a similarity to the modern Passion Play presented by the villagers of Oberammergau.

The title is based on the verse: "There shall come a star out of Jacob and a sceptre shall arise out of Israel," and "It came to pass that the words of the prophecy were fulfilled when the lowly Virgin of David's royal race brought forth her first-born Son and laid Him in a manger."

The opening episode of the pageant reveals the Christmas Spirit, accompanied by her pages, Joy, Peace, etc. She recalls, with her audience, in song, story and pantomime, the marvellous accompaniments of the Saviour's birth. She is expressing the Christmas thought in the hearts and minds of the peoples of Earth, as the chimes ring out their joyful message, centuries old, yet ever new. The Pantomime of the Centuries introduces the Spirit of the year 1927. She assures this blessed Spirit that Christmas peace and good will still live in the hearts of men, and then presents her offerings of loyalty and love. A prophecy for the future concludes the Pageant as the Rainbow Vision unveils the Star of Hope, and reveals Truth, Righteousness, and Peace, abiding in a world swayed by the Sceptre of Love.

The following is an outline of the various episodes involved in the unfolding of the Pageant, which was watched with rapt attention by the large audience and was in keeping throughout with the sacred atmosphere of the day of Nativity.

The Christmas Spirit — Shirley Pettit.

Angels—Jean Harvey, Vivian Greer.

Mary—Helen Barrie.

Joseph—John Ward.

Wise Men—Graham Eastwood, Percy Johnson, Irwin Luther.

Child—Dorothy Boorman.

Pantomime of the Centuries — Helen Tewsley, Helen Wilson, Leota Wilson, Margaret McLellan, Marion Wray, Freda Rickey.

1927—Lillian Scott, Sarah Eastwood, Elizabeth Webber, Dorothy Roberts, Margaret Loudon, Lloyd George Loudon, Morris Wearing, and Leslie Cheu.

The Shepherds' Chant, which was a portion of the musical accompaniment to the Pageant, was composed by Francis Sutton, former organist of the church, and the recitatives of Mary were the composition of the present organist, Arthur Collison. The main portions of the music were taken from Caleb Simper's "Nativity of Christ," with choral numbers and solos taken by Mrs. L. Ingram, H. H. Graham, Dr. S. J. Graham, and Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe. A violin obligato was taken by Master Keith Collison, of Campbellford.

The entire Pageant was artistically and satisfactorily presented, and presented a unique glimpse of the type of Christmas play which was usual with Christians of bygone days. Its composition reflects great credit on Mrs. Pettit, who also spent much time and care in directing the group of people taking part in it.

GENEROUS ANSWER IS MADE TO APPEAL

Food, Fuel, Toys, Money and Clothing Are Among Donations.

In reference to an appeal which appeared, by request, in the columns of The Examiner on Saturday, for aid for a family requiring some friendly assistance, it might be interesting to the many who contributed to know that the family is now much more comfortable than was the case when the appeal was made. The gifts which were made on Saturday and during Sunday and Monday included many welcome articles, in clothing for the six children and the mother, in food and fuel, in generous medical attention, in toys for the children and in cash donations. Groceries, bedding and a baby carriage were among the many much-needed donations, along with one very welcome article, a comfortable, fur-trimmed coat for the mother. On Christmas Day, in the afternoon, a pair of twin girls were born, the third pair of twins in this family, which now numbers eight children and two adults.

It is ever interesting to be informed as to the years of service given by members of the Order in the several lodges. Gillespie, who had been delving amongst the official records, pointed out that the oldest surviving members of Peterborough Lodge were

Huge Snowstorm Visits England

LONDON, England, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press).—England is buried in snow. The storm over Christmas was without parallel in the southwestern English countries since the blizzard of 1881. In valley and railway cuts as far west as Devonshire the drifts in some instances are from twelve to fourteen feet deep. The people of the British Isles are still busily engaged in digging themselves out. It has been one of the worst snow blockades in decades. Most of the main railway lines have been cleared but trains on a number of branch roads are still firmly wedged in huge snowdrifts.

NEW MAN HUNT IN CALIFORNIA

Eleven Year Old Girl Taken From Home on Promises of Adoption.

POLICE SEEK MAN.

OAKLAND Calif., December 28. — Canadian Press. — A new man hunt, with the alleged kidnapper of an 11-year-old girl as the quarry, spurred the police into activity here to-day before the California public had relaxed from the excitement of the kidnapping and murder of 12-year-old Marian Parker in Los Angeles.

The missing girl is Evelyn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Smith of Oakland. Mrs. Smith yesterday swore out a warrant charging Robert McClelland, 27, a paroled convict, with having stolen the girl from the home on promises that his mother described as a wealthy Pasadena woman, would adopt her, and furnish employment for her father, who has been out of work and ill. Mrs. McClelland, the man's mother, denied she was rich, and said she knew nothing of her son's plan to take the Smith girl.

LINDY LEAVES FOR GUATEMALA

Flier's Mother Sees Him Take Off, Then Starts For Detroit.

WEATHER PERFECT.

MEXICO CITY, December 28 (Canadian Press).—Just as the dawn lightened the flying field, Col. Charles Lindbergh Hopped off at 6.35 a.m. today for Guatemala City, the first stop of his central American goodwill flight.

The take-off was made in almost perfect weather conditions. There was no wind and the slight veil of mist near the ground was not enough to interfere with visibility.

The flier's mother, who had not seen her son take off on his New York-Paris or Washington-Mexico City flights, was at the field to bid him good-bye on this ,his latest venture.

When Lindbergh came to the field he was dressed in a dark business suit. He put on his flying suit over this just before entering the plane.

He shook hands with Dwight Morrow, United States Ambassador, Mrs. Morrow, members of the Embassy staff, and a group of Mexican Army aviators. Smiling, he said "good-bye" to each one of them.

Mrs. Lindbergh ,the Embassy party, and the Mexican officers stood on the field eagerly watching the Spirit of St. Louis until it disappeared. Then Mrs. Lindbergh and Mrs. W. Stout entered the cabin of a north-bound plane ,and took off for Detroit almost immediately.

A contest is assured in North Monaghan for Reeve and Deputy-Reeve. T. M. Hunter and H. B. Rye have qualified for the position of Reeve and R. A. Dobbin and W. Waterman for Deputy-Reeve. The three vacancies in the council were filled by George Patton, Andrew Kent and Herbert Bourne who were elected by acclamation as they were the only nominees who qualified.

HEARD PLANE PASS OVER HALIFAX

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 28.—That he had heard an aeroplane pass over Halifax about 10.30 Sunday night was the statement made last night by a Halifax man who said he had heard the motors as he walked to his home on a quiet street in the south end.

This man, who refrained from reporting what he had heard at the time, feeling that could not possibly be the Dawn, gave his information to the local authorities last night after reading the latest reports on the missing aeroplane, when he realized the possibility that what he heard might have been the lost amphibian. The informant is an official of an important local financial institution. He said the sound of the motor indicated that the plane had passed over coming from the south-west and receded as though the ship had taken a north-easterly course. He is confident that what he had heard was the hum of an aeroplane motor.

No Disorderly Outbreaks Made When Hickman Returned From Pendleton.

COUNSEL RETAINED.

Slayer Awaits Arraignment Next Thursday on Charge of Murder.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press). — Brought safely back to the city where less than two weeks ago he brutally killed Marian Parker, 12-year-old schoolgirl, and dismembered her body, William Edward Hickman was in the county jail here last night awaiting arraignment next Thursday on a charge of murder.

Despite the intense public feeling aroused over the kidnapping and killing of the Parker girl, there were no outbreaks yesterday when Hickman was returned from Pendleton, Ore., where he was captured last week. No effort was made to seize him from his guards on the way from the train to the jail.

A crowd of about 4,000 persons had gathered about the county building when officers arrived with Hickman. The throng, however, seemed impelled more by curiosity than any intent to attempt violence.

No demonstrations occurred, although there was a surge forward against police lines when the prisoner was taken from the motor car which bore him from the train and hurried into the building. Precautions taken by the police left little chance for any possible mob action to succeed.

The train which brought Hickman from the north was stopped in the downtown district at Jackson and Alameda streets and he was hustled into a police car, manacled to two detectives. Convoyed by other police cars, the automobile in which Hickman rode took a roundabout route to the county building and the caravan attracted little attention.

Hold Lane Open

While squads of police kept a lane opened in front of the entrance to the county building, the two detectives to whom the youth was shackled made a dash for the doorway, literally dragging their prisoner. In a moment Hickman was safely within.

As Hickman was pulled inside, one of the swinging doors struck him in the face and he cried out. He was placed on an elevator and taken immediately to a cell.

Within less than two hours after his arrival, the youth was brought before Superior Judge Carlos Hardy for arraignment. Upon motion of District Attorney Asa Keyes, however, a postponement was granted until 2 p.m. Thursday.

The delay was granted to permit the arrival of Jerome Walsh, Kansas City attorney, retained by the defendant's mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman of Kansas City, to direct her son's defense. Walsh, the son of Frank P. Walsh, prominent attorney of Kansas City and New York, is 25 years old and the youngest member of the Missouri legislature.

NEW YORK, December 28 (Canadian Press). — The New York American says to-day that Mabel Boll, known as the "Diamond Queen," is seeking Floyd Bennet and Bernt Balchen as pilots for a proposed flight to Paris next May.

Bennet, who accompanied Commander Richard Byrd on his flight to the North Pole, and Balchen, a member of Byrd's trans-Atlantic crew, were said to have tentatively agreed to head the company in process of organization to back the flight, Miss Boll will foot the entire expense, it was said, one hundred thousand dollars of which will be for the services of the two men.

HICKMAN WILL PLEAD GUILTY

Wants Speedy Trial, He Tells Reporters in Los Angeles.

STANDS BY CONFESSION.

LOS ANGELES, December 28. — Canadian Press. — William Edward Hickman, confessed kidnapper and slayer of Marian Parker, the Los Angeles school girl, wants speedy justice; "but not too speedy," the youth hastened to add to his statemsnt made to the newspaper reporters in his cell in the county jail. He explained that he thought he was to be rushed right through the trial yesterday when he arrived at the county jail here.

Hickman declared he had no intention of pleading not guilty to the charges of murder and kidnapping on which he had been indicted.

"I'll plead guilty and stand by my confession regardless of what this Kansas City attorney engaged by my mother advises me to do" he said.

FINLAYSON WILL VISIT THE CITY

Minister of Lands and Forests To Address Kiwanis Club on Friday.

Friday's meeting of Kiwanis Club will be held in the evening instead of at noon, in order to allow the special speaker to develop his important statements regarding the Legislature's plans for reforestation and development of Ontario's natural resources.

Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests in the Ontario Legislature, has consented to be present, and it is expected that important statements will be made on the Government's policy.

Because of the general interest in the subject, and the importance of the visit, men who are not members of the organization will be welcomed. They should notify some Kiwanian of their intention to be present, so that places may be reserved.

The meeting starts at 6.15.

Bungalows Buried By British Storm; Floods Render Many Homeless at Canterbury

LONDON, December 28 (Canadian Press Cable). — Stories of the vagaries of the big snow storm still come to hand. Snowdrifts have completely buried a number of bungalows in Kent villages, and one family of nine persons, imprisoned by snow, but with enough food to last them four days, cheerfully hail people laboriously passing along the roadway several hundred yards distant. Many Devonshire villages are isolated, and there are snowdrifts twenty feet deep on Dartmoor. A number of roads in Cornwall are blocked with snow.

At Canterbury, Kent, the river is overflowing, and three hundred families have been rendered homeless. Mayor Barrett has succeeded in getting away from his house in a boat. Practically all the northern section of the city is submerged with water from three to six feet deep ,and the streets resemble swiftly flowing rivers.

MORGAN WILL SUCCEED GARY AS CHAIRMAN

Financier Elected as Nominal Head of United States' Steel Corporation.

NOT EXECUTIVE OFFICER.

Myron C. Taylor Named as Chairman of Finance Committee.

NEW YORK, N.Y., December 28 (Canadian Press). — John Pierpont Morgan, international banker, has become the nominal head of the United States Steel Corporation founded by his father.

The board of directors, meeting here yesterday, elected Mr. Morgan as chairman of the board to succeed Elbert H .Gary, who died last August. Myron C. Taylor, attorney and corporation executive, was named as chairman of the Finance Committee, a post also held by Mr. Gary. James A. Farrell continues as president of the corporation, and becomes its chief executive officer, under the direction and supervision of the Finance Committee and the board of directors.

Under Triumvirate.

This action virtually places the destinies of the corporation in the hands of a triumvirate representing finance, business and steel. While Mr. Morgan is the titular head of the corporation, the chairman of the board no longer is an executive officer. Mr. Farrell, as chief executive, is under direction of the Finance Committee, of which he, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Taylor ,George F. Baker, Sr., William J. Filbert, Nathan L. Miller, and Percival Roberts, Jr., are members.

The election of Mr. Morgan as the chairman of the board, it was explained by his associates, will not add to his executive responsibilities, he having "acquired a title and not an office." His acceptance of the post was viewed as a means of continuing the close interest of the Morgan family in the affairs of the corporation.

Made Possible.

The Morgans have been intimately identified with the United States Steel Corporation ever since its inception in February, 1901. It was J. P. Morgan, the elder, who worked out with Elbert H. Gary the details of the first "billion dollar corporation" in the history of the country.

As president of the Federal Steel Company, the latter conceived the idea of a steel combination so stupendous that it taxed the imaginations of financiers of that day. It would be an organization large enough to produce all kinds of steel, and at the same time to specialize in each one of the various phases of the industry.

When Mr. Gary took his plan to the elder Morgan, he failed at first to arouse the banker's enthusiasm. Undefeated, however, Gary enlisted the aid of Andrew Carnegie, at that time the largest of the American steel operators, and together they won over the Morgan support.

To Gary was assigned the task of working up the details. He worked with such zeal, and received from Morgan such thorough co-operation that the United States Steel Corporation was chartered two months and a half after Morgan had decided to support it, and in April, 1901, it began business operations as a corporate unit.

Mr. Gary became chairman of the board of directors of the new corporation, and its chief executive officer. This position he held until his death.

VESSELS SEEK MISSING PLANE

OVER NEWFOUNDLAND.

ABOARD U. S. DESTROYER STURTEVANT, Off Sable Island, N.S., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press). — Naval and coastguard vessels engaged in an intensive search had found no trace of the missing plane, "Dawn," up to eight o'clock this morning. The destroyers Sturtevant and Mahan began at daybreak a careful combing of the waters in the south-west quadrant of a circle of 75 miles radius with Sable Island light as the centre, while three coastguard destroyers were covering the south-east quadrant. The naval dirigible Los Angeles returned to her hangar at Lakehurst, N.J., after a 31-hour cruise, during which 24,000 square miles of ocean was scanned in a vain effort to locate the missing plane.

Plane Reported Heard.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Following reports last night that the sound of an airplane motor, believed to be that of the missing plane 'Dawn,' had been heard in the vicinity of Heart's Content and Carbonnear at 8.30 Saturday night, it was stated to-day that several persons at Pouch Cove, west of Heart's Content, were positive that they heard an airplane at 9.20 Sunday morning. It appeared to be travelling in an easterly direction, but thick fog prevented sight of the plane.

CANADIAN LEGION WAS NOT MISSING

Criticism of a Few Answered By Organization That Works the Year Round.

When an appeal was made through The Examiner on Saturday in behalf of a needy family, the impression was left with a great many that the case was one for the Canadian Legion to handle. Several persons have asked The Examiner, "Why doesn't the Canadian Legion look after its own members?"

On Friday night last Commander James Abraham of the Canadian Legion and the representative of another organization met to compare lists of families to which Christmas cheer was to be sent. The name of this particular family was on both lists. On a special request by the second organiaztion, for reasons which are not pertinent to the question, that it be allowed to serve this family, Mr. Abraham consented to remove the name from his list, on assurance that adequate provision would be made. For this reason no action was taken at this time by the Legion.

It is not, however, only when the Christmas spirit softens hearts that forget all the rest of the year that the Canadan Legion works. This case has been looked after by the Legion steadily. It is not the custom of the Legion to tell what it does in such work. But hundreds of families thoughout the city will give tsetimony to the splendid, year-round activity of the Legion.

Gun For Christmas Brings Near Tragedy

KINGSTON, Dec. 28.—(Special).—The fact that Santa Claus left a twelve-year-old Kingston boy a gun almost led to tragedy here on Christmas Day. The youngster, eager to test his new gun went out into the backyard and fired it off. The shot went through two panes of glass, in a neighbor's house, also through a book lying on the window sill and struck a can on a table and glanced off, came within an inch of striking a lady who was sitting close by. The woman had a miraculous escape from death. The gun was seized by the police and the boy has been summoned to appear bfeore Magistrate Farrell, in the juvenile court on Thursday morning.

NEW SCHOOL IS INSPECTED BY RATEPAYERS

Speakers Unite in Congratulating Trustees of Confederation School.

VALUE IS STRESSED.

Necessity of Having Good Buildings Pointed Out—Trustees Tell of Activities.

Ratepayers of School Section 2 of North Monaghan Township turned out in large numbers last night to inspect the new Confederation School and to hear a program of speeches and musical numbers. That the people were pleased with the school was evident from the remarks made about the bright, airy rooms, the splendid heating system, and other accommodations.

All the desks possible were crowded into one room so that the people might assemble to hear the speakers, and the room was well filled. Bert Arnott, chairman of th trustees of the section, presided, and the Rev. J. L. Hughes, of St. George's Church was asked to open the meeting with prayer, dedicating the school to the education of the children.

E. A. Peck, M.P.

E. A. Peck, M.P., who is solicitor for the township, was the first speaker. He remarked that there had been a great deal of publicity in connection with the school. He had heard it was a fine building and had come down to see it and found it everything that had been said. There are fine accommodations, good heating, lighting, blackboards, and sanitary conveniences. In fact, so anxious had the trustees been to have these sanitary conveniences that they had taken certain steps to have them completed. (Laughter).

The school, continutd Mr. Peck, is a necessity, not a luxury. Every one should help others, particularly the children. It was realized a good many years ago that it is in the interests of the State to see that every child should have an education, training him to take his place in the world. The expenses should, therefore, be borne cheerfully. The speaker pointed out that he was a ratepayer of the section and would have to pay his share, not only of the cost of the school but of the maintenance. He closed by congratulating trustees, people, and pupils of the fine school.

Rev. J. L. Hughes.

That everyone would agree that the trustees had put up a most excellent and complete building for the education of the children of the section was the opening remark of the Rev. J. L. Hughes, the next speaker, who congratulated them that they had kept within their estimates. There had been difficulties as to the site, the letting of contracts, and that last difficulty that had led a well-known Peterborough man to say that they would not be beaten by those Monaghan boys.

It is fitting that the school should be formally opened during Christmas week, continued the speaker, as all the world is celebrating the birth of a child. As Christ came down and lived as a child, so should people now give the best for the children. There is not much difference in the world in these days, compared with the time of Christ, but there is much more thought for the well-being of the children. All are anxious that the children should be brought up along right lines.

The aim of the school should be to train the child so that the world will be better for his having been in it. The man who does his duty to his fellows glorifies God. Mr. Hughes referred to a debate on the value of modern education in which it had been pointed out that many criminals are college men. The point, he said, had been missed entirely, for these were not educated men, but clever men. An educated man is one trained to assimilate the facts of life and live by them for the good of his fellow-men. Remarking that he was treading on dangerous ground, Mr. Hughes closed by expressing the hope that he would see the day when religious education is included on the school curriculum. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom," he quoted.

Richard Lees.

Pleasure at seeing so many parents showing an interest in the school where their children are to be educated was expressed by Richard Lees, school inspector, whose inspectorate includes North Monaghan. He devoted his talk mostly to the value of having good looking schools. This one had cost only about sixty per cent of what was originally estimated, but the people must not think they are getting it for nothing because things that cost nothing are generally worth what they cost. He supposed the people would grumble when they received their tax bills, it being an inherent part of the Anglo-Saxon nature to kick about taxes, but if they got value for their money they shouldn't grumble The remedy lies in their own hands, as they can elect new people to spend their money.

Some people say the taxes are terrible and school taxes worst of all. In one part of his inspectorate a storekeeper had remarked on this. In reply Mr. Lees asked how much tobacco he sold in a year. The man told him, adding that the other two men in the village probably sold as much again. The total was equal to half the salaries paid in the school

CAMPBELLFORD, December 28.—The municipal nominations for the town of Campbellford were open on Monday night between the hours of seven-thirty and eight-thirty, in the Regent Theatre. As a general rule this is a very lively proceeding but Monday, although there was a full house, there was little out of the ordinary to liven up the meeting, or cause any undue excitement. Most of the nominations were in the hands of the clerk, Mr. John MacGregor before half of the hour was past.

When half time arrived and the usual announcement of those nominated had been made, a few more were handed in, and at eight o'clock the clerk announced that there would be no more received. The results are as follows with the names of the nominator and seconder following that of the nominee:

The position of Deputy Reeve was in same class at the beginning. The two nominees were C. H. Davidson and R. H. Cole. There were nominated by W. S. Wiggins and A. M. MacDonald, T. E. Hyland and J. M. Arnold respectively.

There are to be six councillors elected and there have been ten nominated for the position. In the order nominated they are J. J. O'Sullivan by J. R. Battisby and T. L. Diamond; W J. Abernethy by G. Kingston and C. H. Davidson; J. R. Wilkinson by C. H. Davidson and J. C. Birmingham; J. N. Stone, by C. H. Davidson and A. M. MacDonald; J. J. O'Sullivan by A. M. MacDonald, nominated by R. H. The retiring trustees for the present year will be Linton Denyes and Anderson. All three of these men have been nominated for re-election.

For the Water and Light Commission there is to be but one man elected, but three have been nominated. They are A. L. Reindeau by J. C. Birmingham and Dr. O. C. Watson; G. A. Kingston by Dr. O. C. Watson and P. C. Denyes; A. J. Meyers.

Of the three men named, Mr. Riendeau is the present member of the board who will stand for re-election. G. A Kingston will stand for mayor, and A. J. Meyers was not present to state his views or intentions It is probable that Riendeau may be returned by acclamation.

Receives Parchment.

Following the usual custom, John MacGregor, town clerk, was appointed chairman for the meeting and the customary program was drawn up and a time limit set for each speaker. All the nominees were invited to take their places on the platform and the program proceeded. Grant Morrison, a young man of the town was asked to come to the platform. When he arrived, Mayor Kingston rose to address him and to present him with a parchment from the Royal Humane Society for conspicuous bravery and presence of mind displayed when he saved the life of Arthur Light. The Light boy had fallen into the canal and was practically certain of being drowned when Grant Morrison, fully clothed, plunged to the rescue. The rescue was effected May 31, 1926, and while the parchment has been in the hands of the town officials for some weeks, this was the first suitable public meeting at which to present it. In his address to the youth, Mayor Kingston said that while he had done many public duties none had given him greater pleasure than to present this parchment. There was no doubt in his mind but that Grant Morrison deserved it, and he thought the town ought to be very

Municipal Nominations

SCHOLARSHIP PRESENTED.

J. L. McCamus was chairman at Cavan nomination meeting, and a very interesting feature of the proceedings was the presentation of the Margaret Baptie Scholarship to the two pupils having highest standing in the entrance examination last June. Township Clerk J. N. McGill presented the cheques and framed certificates to Hazel Morton, S.S. No. 8 (Miss Ethel Wright, teacher), who came first and to Donald Duncan, S.S. No. 5 (Mr. Reg. Sutton, teacher), who had second place in the list of marks. The prizes are $35.00 and $22.50 respectively, the interest on $1,000 left by the late Margaret Baptie, of Ottawa, to the Township of Cavan for the founding of the scholarship. Two pupils of Miss McKnight's, Audrey Larmer and Gladys Williamson, were the winners last year, and their certificates, which are the gift of the township and were not given one year ago, were ready for them on Monday.

Suitable reply was made by the recipients, who gave the credit for the honor to their teachers, and the applause which greeted the presentation showed the keen interest in the event. Trustees W. Williamson and H. Lang spoke briefly.

The retiring Reeve, S. Fallis, addressed the electors, thanking them for their support during his term of office, and giving some figures as to road expenditures in 1927. The cost of Bigelow's Bridge was stated as $2,283.25, and the total amount spent by the County of Cavan on road-construction was $4,106.92. The extra mill in the taxrate was on account of extra grants to schools, and a certain amount that should have been included in the assessment the previous year, but was overlooked.

Considerable criticism had been encountered because of the truck the Council had purchased, the price being $915.00; less the 30 per cent. from the Government, it had cost $640.50; operating expenses were $140.37, of which the Government paid 50 per cent.; total cost, $710.69. Savings and earnings: Work outside of township, $65.20; saved in freight, $51.00; in team work, $159.00; in mileage (5,289 at 15 cents a mile), $793.85; total, $1,069.05. Less the expenditures, $710.69, the saving was $358.36.

A side conveyer purchased for the crusher had increased the output by about one-third. Because the cost of setting up the crusher is about $200, the Council had followed the plan of doing all the work it could while it was in one locality, hence the initial calculations for road work had been exceeded.

Mr. Fallis took some time explaining expenditures on bridges in the township, two new ones having been built, and the one on the 13th Con.

WAR MEMORIAL AGAIN MOOTED

Marmora's Plans For Community Hall Are Further Advanced.

PART FOR POST OFFICE.

MARMORA, Dec. 28.—The question of a war memorial for Marmora has again been re-opened as the result of a recent development, and prospects are better of the project taking definite shape. For some years it has been considered that if Marmora erected a memorial it should take the form of a building that would be of service to the community and not a mere monument. The cost of erection, equipment and maintenance, however, was considered too great under the existing conditions, and the matter had to be left in abeyance. Very few of the residents have been satisfied that Marmora should be without a memorial, and in the Council Chambers and in public resorts, the question continually came up for discussion. A few months ago the idea of getting outside assistance took definite shape, and a plan was evolved which would make the erection and maintenance of a building quite feasible. The scheme was to erect a building with accommodation for a post office, public library and fire hall on the excellent site on Forsythe Street, purchased for a memorial a few years ago. The Federal Government was approached with a proposal that the Government lease part of the building for a post office for a period of twenty years at a rental of $420 a year. To this proposal, the Post Office Department gave little encouragement at first, it being claimed that no lease had ever been given for that length of time for a post office, and, further, that the rental for the space offered would be the highest on record. However, at last through the matter being vigorously followed up and largely through efforts of Charles Hanna, ex-M.P. of Belleville, the Government has accepted the proposal. Details of the working out of the scheme are eagerly awaited.

MEXICO CHANGES OIL REGULATIONS

Will Amend Act in Accordance With Supreme Court Hearing.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The House of Deputies has passed the first reading of a bill sent by President Calles amending articles fourteen and fifteen of the Mexican oil regulations. The articles will be amended in accordance with the recent Supreme Court decision in the Mexican Petroleum Company case. The amendment as passed by Congress would definitely remove the main objection by the oil company to the oil law, since it would do away with the confirmatory concessions for fifty years in exchange for the rights acquired by the oil companies before May 1, 1927.

The utmost importance is attached to the Calles proposal which was sent to the Deputies through the Department of the Interior.

BARN DESTROYED.

STIRLING, Dec. 28. — At two o'clock Saturday morning the calmness of the village was aroused by the fire alarm bell ringing. The cause was a blaze in Rev. Mr. Joblin's barn on Front Street. The fire had made such progress when discovered that nothing could be saved. The contents of the building included a horse, buggy, cutter, harness, also two bicycles, a number of hens and other articles. Much sympathy is extended to Mr. Joblin at this time, as Mrs. Joblin has been an invalid for several years, and just now the family are in quarantine for scarlet fever.

Mr. Robert Christie has sold his farm to Mr. Arnold Wannamaker, a former resident of Stirling, but of late in Sidney Township, near Frankford, who will take possession in March.

One hundred seismological stations are being built throughout Soviet Russia by the Academy of Science in the hope of being able to forecast earthquakes.

KEEN CONTESTS ARE EXPECTED

Mayoralty, School Board and Council Seats in Campbellford Contested.

REEVES UNOPPOSED.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 28.—Campbellford is certain to have an election this year, and in some cases a keen contest is generally predicted. The Town Clerk reports a very quiet day and comparatively little interest taken in those who have allowed their names to remain on the list of candidates and have qualified as candidates. The mayoralty will be contested by G. A. Kingston, Mayor for 1927, and T. E. Hyland, who aspires to that office. Both Reeve Davidson and Deputy-Reeve J. M. Bygott have been returned to office unopposed. This will coincide nicely with Mr. Davidson's ambition to be elected to the Warden's chair for the United Counties for next year. It is the general opinion that he stands a good chance of securing the honor.

There is but one Water and Light Commissioner to be elected, and two have qualified as candidates. These are A. L. Riendeau, retiring commissioner, and A. J. Meyers, ex-mayor and councillor of the town. Both men seem very well adapted to hold office, and public opinion seems to be equally divided.

For school trustees, there are three required and four have been nominated and have qualified as candidates. These are P. C. Denyes, J. C. Anderson, Thos. E. Hall, and Adam Linton. Of these four, Mr. Denyes is standing for re-election, and Adam Linton was appointed in November to fill the vacancy left by the removal of Glenn Thompson from town. Each of the four has children attending the Campbellford schools, and there seems little to choose between any of them.

The Council honors are also to be contested. When the time for qualification terminated, there were seven candidates who had complied with the requirements, and only six are to be elected. Of the seven, six are those who comprised last year's Council. They are A. M. MacDonald, W. S. Wiggins, R. H. Cole, J. J. O'Sullivan, J. Nelson Stone, and W. J. Abernethy. The new contestant is Joseph R. Wilkinson. Mr. Wilkinson has had some previous experience in municipal executive work, and is generally considered a likely candidate.

The election is timed for Monday, January 2, and the polls will be in the places already published. It is the wish of every contestant that a good percentage vote will be polled so as to assure those elected that they have the support of the townspeople.

JUDGE McGLADE DEAD.

COBOURG, Dec. 28.—(Special.)—Judge James E. McGlade died here late last night. He was well known throughout the Province. He was a brother-in-law of William J. Bradley, of 536 Huron street, Toronto.

MRS. THOMAS DOAK.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 28.—The funeral of the late Caroline Barringer, widow of Thomas Doak, took place on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from her late residence, Tice Street. The late Mrs. Doak was in her eighty-fifth year. She was born in Watertown, N.Y., but had resided for the greater part of hes life in Canada. During this time she had resided in Kingston before coming to Campbellford. The service was conducted by Rev Ernest Harston, St. John's United Church, of which the deceased had been a life-long member. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. George Oliver, C. H. Davidson, G A. Kingston, J. A. Anderson, James Sanders, and Luther Denike. The beautiful floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which the late Mrs. Doak was held.

Mrs. Doak is survived by two sisters, both resident in the United States, and two daughters, Misses May and Emma Doak of Campbellford.

A penny invested at 4 per cent at the time of the birth of Christ would now amount to $3,746,604,532,133,987,466,180,006,321,806. This sum, in gold, would amount to 148,000 times the weight of the world.

S.O.S. SIGNALS BELIEVED HEARD

"Can You Locate Us?" Caught By Operator in Newfoundland.

MESSAGE SOUNDED LOUD.

Code Call Made Every Few Minutes For Nearly Half Hour.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Out of a number of reports of the movements of an airplane over Nova Scotia and Newfoundland during the week-end which were believed to concern the amphibian monoplane "Dawn," in which Mrs. Frances Grayson and three companions have been missing since they started for Harbor Grace from New York last Friday, the most significant was that of a radio listener in Heart's Content, Nfld., a telegraph operator, who reported yesterday morning to his head office in St. John's that on Monday afternoon he had heard wireless signals with three call letters of which he got only the first and last, and that they were "W" and "U" and that the message had been: "Where are we? Can you locate us?"

The call letters of "The Dawn" were "WNU."

Another report from Newfoundland of a plane being heard, and which, if accepted, would discount all previous reports except that from Shelburne, was that Wallace Richards and Mrs. Burgess, while crossing the barrens between Heart's Content and Carbonnear at 8.30 Saturday night they distinctly heard the passage of an airplane. This information was sent to St. John's last night from the Sable office at Heart's Content.

Carbonnear is near Harbor Grace, the destination of "The Dawn" flight, and Heart's Content is on the opposite side of the peninsula. Conception Bay is only a short distance away.

Weather conditions at Harbor Grace and vicinity were reported as comparatively favorable for landing over the week-end and there has been very little snow or ice in that vicinity.

Trawler's Report.

The steam trawler Venosta brings word tending to confirm the report from the wireless operator at Sable Island, that he had heard a distress message from the Dawn Sunday night.

The officers of the Venosta said that while they were bucking heavy seas off Nova Scotia on the way home to Halifax Sunday night, their operator was endeavoring to get information concerning the missing plane but was hampered by much static. The signals were fragmentary and often unreadable but when, on arrival at Halifax they read in the newspapers of the message reported by Sable Island, they were convinced they had heard the same signals.

Other reports were conflicting. Sheriff Maclean, of Shelburne, near Cape Sable Island, reported that he had heard a plane pass over that town about 2 o'clock Saturday morning. If the Dawn had kept on her course from the time of the hop-off, it would be quite possible that the Amphibian would pass over Shelburne at that time. A responsible citizen of Halifax stated last night that on Sunday night about 10.30 he had heard a plane pass over Halifax heading in a north-easterly direction. He was confident that what he heard was the motor of an airplane and he stood in the street and listened to it until it faded. He remained silent however, feeling that it be impossible for the Dawn to be in that locality at such a time and fearing that spreading the report would only add confusion to the search. Local authorities point out that the only explanation of the Halifax report, if it were the Dawn, would be that the ship had alighted in an isolated position after passing Shelburne and taking the air again Sunday evening.

Sailor Loses Life When Boat Capsizes

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—H. Williams, 20, apprentice member of the crew of the steamship Trevanion, was drowned early yesterday when a small boat in which he and two other seamen were using to rejoin their ships after Christmas leave, was swamped in a tide dip. His companions were rescued and removed to the hospital in a state of collapse.

MASONS HOLD INSTALLATION

Bro. John Cameron (corner of Reid and Brock Street), who was initiated in the year 1867. He is now over ninety years of age and still fairly active. Next in period of service comes Bro. William Mennie (of The Examiner staff), who became a member of Peterborough Lodge, by affiliation from Acacia Lodge of Hamilton, Ont., in the year 1869. Each of these brothers deserves, if such a thing were awarded, the long distance medal.

A pleasing incident of the proceedings developed in a sort of father-and-son service, in which the new Master of Peterborough Lodge (Wor. Bro. R. J. Devey) was placed in office, while his son, Bro. Cyril Devey of Toronto, contributed expert service at the organ, during the proceedings of the installation. Bro. Devey brought to the Craft an invitation to pay an official visit to Bedford Lodge, No. 638, one of the sixty-two lodges flourishing in that city. Bro. Devey has been put to Masonic service as secretary to Bedford Lodge.

At the close of the installation ceremonies, the brethren hastened to the Empress Hotel, to participate in the banquet and to hear the addresses and remarks by those who sat at the head table on the occasion. It may be here added that Wor. Bro. A. Primeau-Robert, of Montreal, had agreed to come to the banquet and speak of matters of Masonry in the Eastern city. At the last moment he was delayed by illness, and supplied a substitute (and an excellent one, too), in Wor. Bro. Hayden of Toronto, who came on extremely short notice and delighted the company with a most interesting address.

The biggest night of the year in Masonry was observed in a big way by Peterborough Masons when close to one hundred and fifty members of Corinthian Lodge, No .101, Peterborough Lodge, No. 155, and Royal Arthur Lodge, No. 523, A.F. & A.M., G.R.C., gathered in the Empress Hotel last evening for the observance of the Festival of St. John the Evangelist. The banquet, provided by Mine Host Chris. Graham, was fitted for kings, and the program, somewhat shorter than in former years, was in the able hands of V. Wor. Bro. E. Bruce Fowler. There was not a hitch in the entire proceedings, and the gathering was unanimously voted the best yet held by Peterborough Masons.

At 7.45 the Brothers gathered round the festive board ,and for the next hour were efficiently and courteously attended. The service was of the best, and many were heard to remark upon it, accordingly.

The Music.

From time immemorial, music has been associated with the banquet hall ,and those in charge of last evening's proceedings were not slow to recognize the importance of having a good musical program in conjunction with the program proper. Therefore, it was not surprising that they should engage two such outstanding entertainers as Dr. Lorne Deeton, baritone, and J. Stanley St. John ,pianist ,of Toronto, and the wisdom of their choice was shown by the general excellency of each succeeding number contributed during the evening.

The Chairman.

V. Wor. Bro. E. Bruce Fowler proved a most capable chairman. Though his remarks were brief and to the point, they were such as to set the program off on just the right plane. He referred to the presence of several candidates for municipal offices, and issued a friendly warning that there were to be no controversial subjects dealt with. He then called upon his brothers to drink to "The King and the Craft."

"The King and the Craft."

This toast was responded to by Rt Wor. Bro. W. R. Morris, who said in part

"This is the diamond jubilee year and we have heard much of the development of Canada. We may also be interested to learn of the development of the craft. Sixty years ago there were eleven districts now there are thirty-two, with membership and revenue of the Povincial Grand Lodge growing accordingly.

"The inculcation and maintenance of the Masonic spirit has been well conducted. The Masonic idea of brotherhood extends from one lodge to another, benefiting the communities thereby. All professions are represented in masonry and with the spirit of brotherly love increasing, Canada is bound to step forward to her proper place among the nations."

Dr. Deeton here contributed his first number, the ever popular "Company Sergeant-Major." His encore, "Beloved, It Is Morn," was also well received.

Mr St John followed with two piano numbers, "Rustle of Spring" by Linding, and "Country Gardens," arranged by Grainger.

"Our Visiting Brethren."

The toast to the "Visiting Brethren" was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. John Crane, who related humorous incidents. He then extended the welcome to visiting brethren and called for the toast. "They Are Jolly Good Fellows," fittingly topped the toast.

Bro. Rev. David Wren, in responding to the toast, mentioned the strange fact that Messrs. Crane and Wren should deal with this toast.

He felt it a pleasure to respond to this toast as a clergyman who has enjoyed Masonic fellowship in other places. In the years that we have been associated with Masonry, there has been nothing that has meant so much as association, with the men of the craft," said he. He prayed for the blessing of God upon the lodges in the future, and expressed pleasure at being present.

The chairman extended the welcome of Peterborough lodges to all visitors.

Mr. St. John then favored with a piano solo, "Hallelujah" from the musical show, "Hit the Deck."

This number was followed by a vocal solo, "Run on Home," by Dr. Deeton.

"Our Guest."

Wor. Bro. W. R. Breyfogle, to whom the task of introducing the speaker of the evening, had fallen, regretted that it had been impossible for Wor. Bro A. Primeau-Robert to reach Peterborough for this gathering owing to illness. He paid fitting tribute to the absent guest.

However, he took pleasure in introducing the man who had come to fill the gap, Brother Hayden, of Toronto.

The Speaker.

Bro. Hayden told of the arrangements whereby he had come to Peterborough. The "Bon Entente" was to have been Bro. Roberts' text, and he would attempt to enlarge upon the same subject.

"In 1716, a small group of obscure citizens, men who had been accepted into Free Masonry, were gathered in London. One was a Presbyterian clergyman, the Rev. Mr. Anderson, of Edinburgh, and he, along with the others, regretted that Free Masonry was at a low ebb. This little group had decided to honor the old lodges with an annual dinner, though there was no hope at the time of rebuilding masonry.

"And so, gentlemen, you are here a part of a great world brotherhood," he said. "Why did this great organization grow out of the little gathering? The formation of all kinds of clubs, good or ill, in London went for nought yet that little group formed an order that has out-grown them all."

To get to the reason, the speaker took his hearers through the past centuries. "England has been the source of much of that which has made masonry what it is today." Back to the days of Alfred the Great he went, and told of the growth of the navy. With the death of Alfred, there was no one to carry out his work. The Saxon kings were not much good. They began to war among themselves and fell "into the pockets" of the Normans. William the Conqueror absorbed his enemies and for several generations he and his successors welded the British people in severe manner. A new front was prepared, and a new iron entered the soul of the British nation.

The Plantagenets continued the bloody work, and "all men thought that God was dead."

The Yorkists came along with destruction of little communities and spiritual afflictions of the people and then eventually came Henry VIII.

Queen Mary, Edward VI and Elizabeth finally realized that there was a remedy for the ills of the nation, though they were slow to realize it. Under Queen "Bess" the nation went ahead, but James I and Charles I came and went and the nation needed a purgative. It came in the form of Oliver Cromwell.

The death of Charles I was not enough to awaken the people to the power that would bring peace with progress.

Later kings passed off the scene without attaining the remedy. Finally came George I. He had no use for English customs, but he tried to bear his responsibilities. In his time, the soul of England awakened. A door in the consciousness of the British people swing on a little hinge in the form of the little group of obscure citizens.

They called their head "Grand Master," because of his skill, ability and knowledge of free masonry. They held their first dinner in 1717.

At that time it was proposed that masonry simply take in London lodges.

What brought about this masonry? It was that they agreed upon a certain modus vivendi that has been incorporated in charters of masonic lodges of the present day.

Nearly 3,000,000 men all over the world have come to believe in masonry, in "One great architect of the universe." No other movement has attained such brotherhood among all races of the earth.

It is the obligation of every mason to carry out the doctrines of his craft as long as man has a brain to think with.

"Rule Britannia," "O Canada" and other national airs were the choice of Mr. St. John for his next musical contribution which followed at the conclusion of Brother Hayden's address.

Dr. Deeton followed with a solo, "The Floral Dance."

The Vote of Thanks.

Duncan Walker moved the vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening. He prefaced his remarks with humor and concluded by sincerely expressing the appreciation of the gathering to Bro. Hayden. Chairman Fowler tendered the speaker the vote of thanks.

The Absent Brethren.

This toast to the Absent Brethren by Wor. Bro. T. H. Gillespie was one proposed in a spirit of thoughtfulness and of reverence for it recalled to mind, prominent masons who have broken association with the local lodges either through moving to other cities, through having passed through the various offices of masonry or who have taken the long journey that knows no return.

W. Bro. Gillespie mentioned many of the old masons, including Bro. R. B. Rogers, Bro. Paul Trebilcock, Wor. Bro. John Morrison, Bro. Robt. Hamilton, Bro. James Rose, Bro. W. H. Hill, Rt. Wor. Bro. James Mulholland, Most Wor. Bro. W. J. Drope, Rt. Wor. Bro. Harry Rush, and concluded by calling upon his brothers to silently drink the toast to their memory.

The chairman, in summing up the program, congratulated the new officers of the lodges and extended the season's greetings. The junior warden's toast, "Happy to meet, sorry to part; happy to meet again" fittingly dismissed the gathering.

NO. 149 WINS BRIDGE LAMP

The contest for a handsome bridge lamp, staged by Dean's Candy Shop, 301 George street, closed Saturday night. At 11.10 that evening, Ald. Nagle Phelan drew Ticket No. 149, and whoever holds that lucky number may have the worth-while prize by calling at Mr. Dean's candy store. The interest manifested in this event exceeded Mr. Dean's most sanguine expectations.

Another annual custom of Mr. Dean, which is looked forward to by the children, was carried out as usual on Saturday afternoon. Santa Claus drove up and down George street distributing kisses to the little ones with a generous hand. A large sack of these candies was handed out in this manner.

Stock Prices Go Up Despite High Rates

NEW YORK, December 28 (Canadian Press). — Disregarding stiffer call money rates and a widespread period of "technical reaction," stock prices forced upward to-day in apparent anticipation of a heavy January re-investment demand. Buying centred largely in the specialties in which there is a limited floating supply, and in New York Public Utilities issues. J .P. Morgan's selection as the new chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation apparently had been discounted as the stock moved erratically within a rather narrow range. The weekly steel trade reviews reported the usual sharp falling off in operations due to seasonal shut-downs, but emphasized the unusually heavy demand for railroad equipment which will be reflected in operations after the turn of the year. Packard Motors published an unusually favorable quarter report, showing earnings of $1.84 per share, against $1.37 in the same quarter a year ago. Rails, which were rather sluggish in the morning, turned upward in the afternoon under the leadership of St. Louis, San Francisco, Rock Island, Lehigh Valley, and Atchison. St. Louis South-Western yas a conspicuous exception, falling back three points.

Mine Trading Brisk With Trend Uncertain

TORONTO, December 28 (Canadian Press). — Trading was brisk on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, with prices tending to waver. Kirkland Lake was the feature, with a net advance of four points to 269 after selling up to 273. West Dame Gold made a very heavy turnover, and was up ¾ at 12¾. Hillcrest suffered reaction after its advance of yesterday, and dropped three to 11½. Chaput Hughes was an active leader and gained 1½, closing at 16. Abana suffered a sharp drop of forty points to 465.

Firmness At Liverpool Reflected At Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 28. — (Canadian Press.)— Influenced by the relative firmness of Liverpool wheat quotations and by unfavorable weather in the corn belt, grain prices tended upward early to-day. Buying, however, was chiefly of a scattering character. Opening at 1-8c. to ¼c. higher, wheat later scored some additional gains. Corn started unchanged to ½c. up and subsequently made a moderate general advance. Oats were firmer. Provisions inclined to sag.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 126, March 127 5-8. Corn, December 81 1-8, March 85 7-8. Oats, December 51¼, March 53¼.

Liquor Shares Lead Activity At Toronto

TORONTO, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Liquor issues again provided a leading activity on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Walkers was the most active and closed at 65. Seagrams was also busy and closed at 25¼. Individually, International Nickel was the leading issue and was down a point at 86⅛. Some sharp gains were registered, notably in Abitibi, which jumped eight points to 149. Christie Brown added another large gain to its five point jump of yesterday when it closed at 79¼, a net gain for the morning of 4¼ points. Steel of Canada advanced 7 points to 188½. Brazilian dropped 1¼ to 218. Canners preferred was down a fraction at 119½. Alcohol was up a point at 36¼. Massey Harris was down a half at 41. British American Oil gained a fraction to close at 36 7-8.

Active Mine Market Expected In New Year

Predictions are being freely made that the advent of the New Year will see another hectic mining market. The interval has been marked by quite a number of declines and many consider that there are a number of bargains in the list today.

It is rather difficult to see them unless one considers Teck Hughes, Wright Hargreaves and Hollinger, leading producers that have all suffered declines. It is hard to secure a sound explanation of the weakness in these three issues. Hollinger has been down for a considerable time but the weakness of the two Kirkland issues is a recent development. Liquidation from Buffalo is one explanation for Wright Hargreaves drop. Why is Buffalo selling? Is there anything wrong with the mine, are the two questions asked? Pres. O. Cabana says the mine is in excellent shape with the mill listing over 700 tons of ore daily. A good deal of this ore is coming from development work below the 1200 feet level and there is bound to be a dilution of values. This would lower the average grade of the ore. The situation may have frightened some holders who became aware of the bald figures. The spring-back in the price of the shares gives evidence that at present level may consider the stock a bargain. Teck Hughes selling may be attributed to over-zealous boosters who worked themselves up to such a stage of unreasonable expectation that the excellent annual meeting of the company sized up to them as a disappointment. The news at the meeting was the best shareholders ever received.

Hollinger may soon come through with a report on Kamiscotia and if it is favorable it may put some life into the issue.

Sudbury issues are again in the limelight. International Nickel shares are selling at a new high. Montreal is buying again and Toronto is playing follow the leader. Bunker Hill and Treadwell Yukon shares are up and it is freely predicted that they will sell higher. Sudbury Basin Shares are moving up steadily and a stock split is talked of.

It has long been said that when Noranda entered production the stock would sell down. This has come true. New York is reported selling and it is said Hollinger unloaded the 30,000 shares it received as a bonus for a 3,000,000 loan. Few of the other Quebec issues are doing anything.

There is much gossip going the rounds on Central Manitoba and the talk is of a higher market in the next few months. This will likely come after the mill gets handling real ore. At present it is working on low grade.

Bidgood's vein on the 400 ft. level shows a 38 ft. width and looks to be better ore than that on the 300 ft. level. Assays are not available as yet. A number of new operations are planned for Kirkland Lake. This time last year there was only one operation going Lebel Tp. Conroyal, Bidgood resumed in the spring and the success met with has resulted in a host of concerns starting work.

Companies in the section have not been able to finance level of ore. Bidgood offered treasury shares at 10 cents and there were no takers. Recently Cambro and Kirkland Eastern offered blocks of stock for their initial financing and both issues were away over-subscribed.

It is understood that the eastern section of the camp will soon have a couple more companies working. The west end of the camp is now awakening and Gronelle. United Kirkland, Canadian Kirkland, Mazassa and Teck Otto all plan to resume. Canadian Kirkland has two large properties on which considerable development has been done. The main group is in the south near United and Grozelle while the other adjoins Goodfish in the north.

ROYAL BANK HAS SET NEW RECORD

Assets, Deposits, Capital, and Reserve Largest in Canadian Banking.

MONTREAL, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press.)— The annual statement of the Royal Bank of Canada, issued today, constitutes a new record in Canadan banking. Total assets, total deposits, and capital and reserve, including undivided profits, are the highest ever recorded by any bank in Canada. Likewise, the profits for the year also set a record for Canada, being shown at $5,370,145, compared with $4,516,239 at the close of the fiscal year in 1926. A striking feature of the balance sheet is the large gain in deposits, which now stand at $722,636,090, an increase of nearly $110,000,000 during the period.

TWENTY BELOW AT EDMONTON

Cold Wave Spreading Eastward Over Prairie Provinces.

SNOW FALL GENERAL.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Another cold wave was gradually enveloping the Prairie Provinces of Western Canada to-day, bringing a threat of bitter sub zero temperatures for the closing days of 1927. Edmonton reported a dip of 20 below during the night, while the mercury was receding rapidly in other parts of Alberta. Early to-day the cold wave was spreading its chill over Saskatchewan, with snowfall fairly general.

Bank of Toronto Statement Is the Best to Date

The Bank of Toronto statement for the year ending November 30th, 1927, which has just been released, shows some important changes, the most outstanding of which are an increase in deposits of $12,263,000, and an increase in commercial loans of $10,308,000. Cash and other immediately available assets, including Government and Municipal securities, and Call and Short loans against collateral, stand at $57,141,000, an increase of $2,100,000, and represents 43.75 per cent of total liabilities to the public. Total assets are up $13,540,000.

Profits stand at $1,165,432, an increase for the year of $56,740. After deducting the usual dividend of 12 per cent per annum and a bonus of 1 per cent amounting to $650,000, tax on circulation $50,000, officers' pension fund $50,000, reserve for accrued taxes $100,000, and writing $150,000 off bank premises, there remains $165,432, which, added to the balance of $480,772 at the credit of profit and loss at the end of the previous year, makes a balance of $646,204, to carry forward to next year.

The statement is the best ever put out by the bank.

CAROLS SUNG AT 'Y.'

Pretty Program Given Around Christmas Tree on Saturday.

One of the prettiest musical programs given in connection with Christmas week was the Community Christmas Tree event at the Young Women's Christian Association, when a number of carols were sung on the lawn and on the verandah of the house, on Christmas Eve. These were a group of favorite Yuletide hymns of old-time flavor, led by a choir of thirty voices trained by Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park and conducted by R. Gliddon, with M. H. Park assisting and Miss Mary Agnes Logan at the piano. The big Christmas tree placed in the snow on the lawn was decorated profusely with colored orange and scarlet globes of light and the interior of the house had attractive seasonal decorations in another big tree in the hall, hung with tinsel and red bells, in the evergreen which festooned the mantelpiece and archways and the red candles and miniature Santa Claus which centred the table where coffee was poured by Mrs. E. Morrison, who, by the way, makes a practise on Christmas Eve of providing coffee for the resident girls and their escorts, up to the midnight hour, a friendly custom that is doubtless much appreciated. Members of the staff of the Y.W.C.A. assisted.

The program of carols included the following selections: "O Come, All Ye Faithful," "As With Gladness," "Away in a Manger," "The First Nowell," "Holy Night,' "Christians, Awake,' and "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing."

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 28 ,1927.

NEXT MONDAY'S DUTY.

While some of the local municipal candidates are planning to facilitate the getting out of the vote next Monday by providing transporation facilities such assistance should not be necessary in the case of the average citizen.

None of the electors have a very long distance to travel to reach their polling booth and under normal weather conditions, and considering the fact that the day is a holiday there is no particular reason why any citizen who is sound in wind and limb should have to be provided with motor transport to and from the polls.

Any elector who does not consider his franchise of value, who does not believe it desirable that he should have something to say as to the composition of the various bodies can scarcely claim the right to be considered in the front rank of citizenship.

Plainly one of the most important duties of a good citizen is to express his opinion by means of his ballot whenever he is called upon to do so, and no good citizen will ignore the challenge nor neglect the duty.

In the present municipal election, with a contest for all the public bodies, there should be a particularly large vote polled, and there will be if the rest of the people are as alive to their duty as are the candidates who have offered themselves for service.

FOR THREE MONTHS ONLY.

When arguments over daylight saving are being waged, the debate may perhaps be clarified if it is remembered that the period mentioned in the by-law that is to be voted on New Year's Day comprises but three months, June, July and August.

Limiting daylight saving to the summer quarter may do something to remove the opposition to the measure and help to change the verdict on this issue.

Twice a daylight saving measure has been submitted to the electors here and twice has the answer been unfavorable.

If the voters' lists were the same as for the Provincial and Federal election, a different verdict would have been the result.

Most of the younger citizens who participate in summer sports have no voice in the municipal field and although they are one hundred per cent. in favor of daylight saving they have no opportunity of affecting the result of the plebiscite except through the influence they may be able to exert over those who have a municipal franchise.

In the main the issue is decided by older citizens who, up to the present at least, have failed to endorse the claims of younger people to consideration.

THEY'LL EARN THEIR MONEY.

The busiest individuals in Peterborough next Monday, not only through the day but well on in the evening, will be the officials in charge of the municipal elections.

With contests in every department, an unusually large number of aldermanic candidates in the field and two by-laws to be voted upon, the deputy returning officers and poll clerks can look forward to a New Year's Day crowded with activity.

In this connection it is pointed out by more than one official that the renumeration provided under the municipal scale is considerably less than that paid in the case of Dominion and Provincial elections and the desparity is all the more pronounced when the difference in the amount of work to be done is considered.

In contests in the larger area there are usually but two candidates and the labor of tabulating the votes when the polls close is a simple matter compared with the task that confronts officials in the present municipal election when ballots for the Mayoralty, Utilities Commission, Board of Education, Alderman, and in connection with two by-laws will have to be counted and checked.

The present scale of $6 for deputy returning officers and $5 for poll clerks, at least does not seem extravagant when compared with the Federal and Provincial rate, and having regard for the greater amount of work involved.

THIS BY-LAW SHOULD CARRY.

While they may have difficulty in selecting which candidates to vote for and while there will be a sharp cleavage of opinion in regards the merits or otherwise of daylight saving, one matter upon which local ratepayers will have to express their views on New Year's Day should show a practical unanimity of sentiment.

The by-law providing a fixed assessment for the splendid new addition to the Westclox plant should be carried by a huge majority.

The Westclox Company has more than fulfilled all the promises made when the company first began its activities here.

It has rapidly progressed into the ranks of major industries in Peterborough, gives employment to a large number of citizens, advertises this city in many parts of the globe, and gives promise of still greater expansion in future.

The concession, in the shape of a fixed assessment that is provided for the company in the by-law to be voted on next Monday, is trifling in comparison to the value of the plant to Peterborough, and ratepayers who have watched the growth of the Westclox establishment here and seen what it means to the business life of this community will have no hesitation in deciding to vote for the Westclox by-law.

It should carry, and by a vote that will leave no doubt as to the city's estimate of the importance of the Westclox company to this city.

WANTS MORE MILK PUDDINGS AND PORRIDGE.

The editor of The Canadian Observer of Sarnia is a man after our own heart. He thinks there is too much light cake and pastry in the diet of the present generation, and not enough of the old-fashioned milk pudding and porridge diet of two decades ago.

We agree with him. What is there to compare with a big hot dish of oatmeal porridge to set one up for the day? How can a man expect to begin the day right on something that has been prepared and pre-digested, until there is nothing to it? There may be a reason why men, women and children of today should eat fancy foods out of pretty cartons. There was a reason in the old days why we should eat porridge made from oatmeal bought by the barrel—it was cheap and there was a big family. But did we like it? Did we lay the brown sugar on nice and thick? Did we hustle down early so we could get first crack at the cream jug? And after putting away a couple of helpings of that Lucullean dish, and three or four slices of fried bread, we were fit for anything from "shinny" to football.

But times have changed, and we have changed with them. By persistent battling most men can manage to get porridge for breakfast during the winter, but the prepared foods seem to have won the day, and after all they do have advantages. The fact that they do not have to be cooked is perhaps the biggest. But they do not take the place of porridge, nor will they ever, in our humble opinion. As for milk puddings—well, that is a subject worthy of a special article. There is only one thing wrong with milk puddings—the dish never seems to be large enough.—Kingeston Whig-Standard.

THE LESSON OF THE QUEBEC ORPHANAGE.

(Watertwn Times.)

That was a distressing news dispatch from the city of Quebec in last night's Times which told of the burning of the St. Charles Orphanage there. At least thirty-seven children lost their lives in the fire. Their bodies have been recovered. It is likely that seventeen other inmates of the orphanage who are still missing were also burned. The building was ninety-five years old.

The orphanage fire is not without its lesson. Here in Jefferson County we are building a new orphanage to take the place of the building on Franklin street in use over sixty years. The cottage system has been adopted. The children will be cared for in groups in the different buildings. The buildings will not only be fireproof but there will be the additional safeguard of separation in a series of small buildings with readily available exits. If there should be an outbreak of fire in one of the low chalet cottage buildings the children could readily make their escape; dangers that are present in the case of the larger building will be absent.

The Quebec fire again demonstrates the intelligence and wisdom employed in adopting the most approved plan of orphanage construction for our new buildings.

This is in no sense an appeal for funds for the building purposes and yet it seems not out of place to say that the Orphanage Board needs gifts to finance the operation. The proposition is a sound one; the purpose is desirable and this distressing Quebec disaster indicates that the orphanage management has gone about the local work in the right way.

RURAL FIRE PROTECTION.

A news story in The Star a few days ago described the destruction of a farm house on Provincial Highway No. 2, near Bothwell. The building caught fire as a new owner was moving in and in a short time nothing was left but the charred foundations. The house stood only a few feet from the paved Provincial highway and only a few miles from several towns and villages.

The problem of rural fire protection is not an easy one, but Fire Chief DeFields of Windsor believes it can be solved by a co-operative plan as between towns and villages and their surrounding districts. He would divide the country into zones and work out an assessment plan in such a way that urban and rural dwellers would contribute proportionately to a joint fire department fund. Equipment would be maintained in the towns and villages, and with the fine highway system that now exists, runs could be made to any spot in the zone within a few minutes. In this way, Chief DeFields thinks, the fire threat that now hangs over the head of practically every farmer would be greatly minimized.

Also, much of the expense in connection with this plan would be saved by virtue of lower insurance rates. And, the Chief added, if any number of farmers objected to the protection provided for them, on the ground of expense, the insurance underwriters could bring them around to a reasonable view by raising their premium rates to a point that would make acceptance of the plan compulsory.

The Chief's suggestion is a sensible one and deserves the serious consideration of the Provincial authorities. Certainly anything that will tend to reduce the rural fire hazard is worth thinking about and acting upon if it is found to be good. There seems no reason why, in this day of motor equipment, good roads and telephones, some such plan could not be worked out. And, incidentally, no one should welcome such a plan more than the farmers themselves.—Border Cities Star.

RETURNS SAFELY FROM LONG TRIP

Capt. William Lucy, well-known in mining circles, is back from a canoe trip up the Albany river to James Bay, skirting around the shores of Richmond Gulf on Hudson Bay, and return. The hazardous trip, undertaken with two other Ontarians, Hugh Rogers and "Bill" Broadbrook, took four months. The map showing the approximate route. Capt. Lucy, who says the country around the gulf is rich in mineral wealth is shown. No. 2, in northern winter garb, and No. 3, holding the skin of a full-grown Arctic deer, the only kind that bears real fur. All other known deer have hair. The species is now nearly extinct, being hunted down by the natives with rifles. The other picture, No. 1, shows Capt. Lucy with a group of Eskimos, some of whom he says, are "better Christians than any of us."

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the holidays in the United Kingdom and the Continent, the export trade in Canadian grain here was quiet. There was a slight improvement in the demand from country buyers for car lots of corn in the domestic market and sales of Argentine grades were made at $1.01 to $1.02 per bushel. The trade in oats was quiet and prices were steady.

A feature of the flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed for Spring wheat grades and prices were reduced ten cents per barrel. There was no change in prices for Winter wheat flour and business was slow.

The demand for all lines of millfeed continued good and price were firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was steady and prices were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of eggs were firmly maintained under a good demand. The receipts were 223 cases.

While the demand for potatoes continued dull the undertone remained steady. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.15 per bag of 90 lbs; Prince Edward Island Whites at $1.05 per bag of 90 lbs; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.00 per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, and New Brunswick White potatoes at 95c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, ex-track.

The butter trade was dull and featureless. The receipts were 336 packages.

The cheese market was without any new feature to note, business being dull and prices unchanged. The receipts were 300 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Suddenly making a "U" turn after reaching new low price records for the season, corn scored a substantial advance yesterday at the last. All day corn was much more active than other grain, and the late switch to the buying side was largely due to disclosure that for at least the time being the corn market was oversold and had become almost bare of offerings.

Closing quotations on corn were firm at the day's top figures, ¾ to ⅞ net higher. Wheat finished unchanged to ⅞ up; oats at ¾ decline to an equal advance, and provisions ranging from 2 cents setback to a rise of 7 cents.

At first the corn market was dominated by the fact that corn receipts were of large volume both here and likewise at Kansas City and Omaha. Indications, however, pointed to weather conditions adverse to continued free movement of corn from rural sources and it was pointed out that yesterday's arrivals represented accumulations over Christmas. Meanwhile, new country offerings remained small, and talk of export business in prospect tended further to offset the influence of yesterday's heavy receipts.

Rallying power which developed in the corn market was also associated with trade gossip to the effect that most grain dealers are now acting on the basis that the latest government figures as to corn production and to oats yield are over-estimates. It was asserted that this is particularly the case in many sections where the light test weighed and poor quality of the feed grains have become most apparent. The late advance in the corn market was in the face of the announcement that the corn visible supply had increased 2,895,000 bushels for the week. The increase, though, left the total 23,214,000 against 325,173,000 bushels a year ago.

Wheat was mainly governed by the action of corn values. There was no export business of consequence in wheat from North America. On the other hand, deliveries of wheat on December contracts yesterday were small, milling inquiry was fair, and the United States wheat visible supply showed 1,029,000 bushels decrease.

Provisions, like grain, were easy but toward the close firmed up, sympathizing with the advance of corn.

Attempt To Escape Is Half Successful

CARLISLE, Pa., Dec. 28.—(United Press).—Half of George Starner's body escaped from the county jail during the night but the other half stayed and as a result the 19 year old New York youth almost froze to death. Starner, being held on larceny charges, forced his head, shoulders, chest and waist through a cell window, but his hips would not go through and for hours, with the temperature at 10 degrees, the prisoner tried to extricate himself. At last he called for help and a welder burned away the iron casing. Starner was taken to a hospital where he was treated for exposure and internal injuries.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

A FARMER'S OBJECTION TO SUMMER TIME.

Dear sir:

My objections to daylight saving are twofold.

1. Why touch the clock? If city people must have their leisure hours changed why not go to work an hour earlier and quit an hour sooner and "leave the clock alone."

2. One of the inconsistencies of affairs is that city people expect rural workers to conform to their program in all things. Why not conform to our requirements sometimes? It is more provoking that the city stores and offices do not open at 7 to 7.30 a.m. and remain more fully manned during the noon hour also. Very frequently we are compelled to lose two hours at midday on that account.

Farmers, unlike town and city people, are working in contact with nature and must adapt themselves to nature. In spring, for example, the land is frequently frozen too hard to work until 9 a.m., or even later, so to get up an hour earlier would be simply wasting time.

During the summer it would be too hot and too light to go to bed an hour earlier than we do at present. Towards morning is the coolest time of the night and to get up an hour earlier would deprive us of our best sleeping hours.

In haying and harvest time the dew is often too heavy to begin cutting as we should like, even when keeping the standard time. While the afternoon on the other hand is the best part of the day for harvest work and no farmer would care to stop an hour earlier than usual.

Crowds Orderly

Crowds intent on catching a glimpse of the young slayer gathered at stations and cross roads as the train on which Hickman was returned neared Los Angeles. All were orderly.

About 1,000 persons at Glendale cheered Tom Gurdans, Chief of Police of Pendleton, Ore., and Buck Lieuallen, Oregon state traffic officer, who captured Hickman.

Will Present Confession

The confession obtained from Hickman by District Attorney Keyes, in which the youth admitted he had no accomplices in the kidnapping and slaying of the Parker girl, probably will be presented at the arraignment Thursday.

From the booking office, Hickman was taken to the identification bureau two floors below, where he was measured, photographed and put through the routine similar to that to which every prisoner must submit.

Though only a few minutes' advance notice had been given that Hickman would be taken immediately into Judge Hardy's court room, hundreds of persons had gathered there and it was with some difficulty that Keyes succeeded in reaching the counsel table.

Hickman was alert and scanned the faces of all about him as he came before the clerk's desk. The court, not hearing the prisoner give his name, asked:

"Is William Elwood Hickman your true name?"

Arraignment Postponed

Keyes' voice almost was lost in the shuffling of feet and the sparring for positions by cameramen. "Your Honor," he began, "the officers who have this case in hand have just returned from the North. I found awaiting me a telegram from the defendant's mother in Kansas City advising that an attorney had been employed to defend her son and that he would leave there yesterday morning. This attorney is authorized by the defendant's mother to employ additional counsel when he reaches here.

"In view of this, it is the request of the district attorney's office that this arraignment be postponed until Thursday at 2 p.m."

Judge Hardy, without hesitation, ordered the case postponed, stating that Hickman would not be compelled to plead in absence of counsel.

Judge Hardy indicated clearly that Hickman's constitutional rights would be respected.

On Sunday afternoon the ladies of the Onward Bible Class of George Street United Sunday School made three presentations to their teacher, Mrs. S. Stubbs: a parasol, a silk rayon spread, and engraved calling cards in case. The president of the class, Mrs. H. McHoule, took charge of the meeting, and in a few well-chosen words, thanked Mrs. Stubbs for her faithful work during the year. She had worked so hard and made the lesson very interesting as well as helpful. The president called on Miss Lottie Allen, Mrs. Hanbidge and Mrs. Gunsolus to make the presentation. In reply, Mrs. Stubbs thanked the class for their lovely gifts and for their co-operation during the year, saying how much she had enjoyed teaching and working with such a congenial crowd.

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith told herself, as she drove toward home, that there was really no reason why she should have so curtly refused Aunt Hattie's offer to accompany her, and that it was absurd to drive so fast. Of course Bob was working away at those Hemingway plans and would only be annoyed at being disturbed, even to eat the hot dinner that Fay had hastily packed in a picnic hamper for him.

Because she hated herself for the unformed doubts which made her once-serene mind a welter of misery, a misery the more unbearable for its very vagueness and unworthiness, she forced her mind backward upon the scene she had just left. She knew now, facing the thing squarely that she was purposely seeing very little of Fay and Junior, because the picture of an almost ideally happy marriage which they presented hurt her intolerably.

Why had Fay succeeded where she had failed? For she had failed to make her marriage a beautiful, serene thing. Was it perhaps because Fay and Junior laughed together so easily, saw no "problems," accepted life casually and high-heartedly, without making a fuss about it? She saw again, in her mind's eye, Junior's puppy-like frolicking about his wife, Fay's giggling, fond response. Were they happy because they had not yet discovered that they were grown-up? But, whether they realized it or not, they were fulfilling grown-up roles worthily, even magnificently. Junior—and who would have thought it of the harum-scarum, "wild" boy that Long Lane had been?—was making a very decent living, working hard, saving his money, making the woman he had married a happy and proud wife.

And Fay, for all her apparent childishness, was doing a woman's work—making a beautiful, satisfying home out of the old Myrtle Street house, cooking and washing and sewing contentedly and without complaint, but ready to play any time Junior hankered for a frolic. She was going to have a baby, was taking her "condition" matter-of-factly, humorously, without making a "marriage problem" out of it. She would bear her baby bravely without thinking she was brave and would rear it casually, laughingly, but wisely. Of course, Faith told herself impatiently, she was idealizing this marriage of her brother's, not seeing the seamy side of it—

She had reached her own home on Serenity Boulevard without realizing it. Parking her car, she suddenly decided to enter the house by the back door, get the carving set and spoons which Fay needed without disturbing Bob at his work, leave the basket of hot dinner on the kitchen table where he could not fail to see it, and rush back to the family celebration. In that way she could demonstrate her trust in Bob, not to him but to herself—

Tiptoeing into the dining room to get the dessert spoons from the sideboard drawer, she was suddenly frozen into immobility by the sound of hysterical weeping, accompanied by low-toned, passionate pleading in Bob's voice.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The straight fairly long bolero appears on many of the season's smartest dance frocks. This frock of gold lame is embroidered with tiny pearls. There is a rhinestone buckle and a scarf of the material.

Why is it, asks a dressmaker friend of mine, that very short women have a partiality for bolero effects?

I am sure I don't know, unless it is for the same reason that tall women cling with such stubborn persistence to straight-line frocks and so often fancy themselves in tall hats. Maybe tall women really like to look like grenadiers, and maybe tiny women take a secret pride in their diminutive stature. I really don't know.

I assume from what my dressmaking friend remarked that the very short woman who doesn't want to look so very short ought not to wear boleros, and conversely the tall woman who wants to knock off a few inches without a surgical operation should wear 'em.

Anyway, boleros are the fashion, and Worth of Paris uses them plentifully in the making of evening frocks—dance frocks especially. There are boleros—and boleros—though the word itself would indicate Spanish origin. Worth's boleros are of Hindu and Siamese inspiration—straight, neat little boleros, made without a flare or ripple. Sometimes there is an opening at the front with edges straight or slanting and sometimes the material of the bolero extends straight across the front. There is a closely drawn sash or girdle around the hips and waist and a draped or finely gathered skirt below.

One of the most charming of the new bolero frocks that I have seen came from the house of Jean Magnin in Paris. It consists of skirt and bolero of black crepe de chine—both skirt and bolero dipping down longer at back than at front. The back of the bolero shows a tendency to flare so that the folds of the material hang in graceful curves at the back. The underblouse, which shows a little under the bolero, and the wide sash tied at the front are of supple taffeta in very large black and white diamond-shape checks.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1927

Benefic stars rule today, according to astrology, which finds mild adverse planetary influences also active.

It is a day primarily auspicious for women who should engage in domestic and social activities.

Theatres and all places of amusement should benefit tonight when the sway makes for gayety and light heartedness.

This should be a rarely happy wedding day, since it seems to presage continued loyalty and prosperity.

Music today is subject to the best rule of the stars and artists will benefit, it is foretold.

Chicago as well as New York will focus interest at this time, the seers announce, because of great artistic achievements in the drama, opera and literature.

For the new year a movement in which women will unite to purify politics and will succeed in becoming a national force is prognosticated.

This configuration is most fortunate for intellectual workers and presages great development in educational fields.

Sports continue subject to stimulating influences that will be particularly favorable to western organizations.

Neptune is in a place that bodes ill for all who hope for a radical reduction of taxes.

The cost of living will continue to be high and food stuffs will rise in price, it is foretold.

Changes in ambassadors sent to the United States by foreign countries are indicated by the stars.

Persons whose birthdate it is should beware of hasty marriage or emotional decisions of any sort in the coming year.

Children born on this day may be inclined toward extremes of thought and action. Many subjects of this sign succeed in artistic callings.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1927.

Good and evil influences contend today, which should be fairly favorable for many human activities.

Early in the morning the hearts of men and women who occupy places in the Sun should be touched by the spirit of generosity.

The forenoon is a time to ask favors and to seek positions for the new year.

It is well not to trust one's judgment today, for it may be too much affected by the motions.

This is not exactly an auspicious time for beginning journeys by water, for storms appear to be threatening.

Warning is given that the configuration encourages acceptance of depressing rumors of every sort, especially those that concern national affairs.

Warlike preparations probably will be advocated by certain statesmen, who foresee perils that may not exist, astrologers announce.

While the aspects for the coming year appear to presage many international misunderstandings, it is probable they will not be serious, the seers declare.

Under this sway there may be a sense of the futility of effort and consequent depression which should be combatted.

According to ancient lore this should be a particularly lucky day for engaging men as employees.

Persons whose birthday it is may have a year that is eventful. Danger from fire is indicated.

Children born on this day may be varied gifts in which there is a strong mechanical bent. They should be carefully educated as they are likely to have great possibilities.

There are 40,000 muscles in an elephant's trunk and only 527 in a man's body.

CANCER AREAS TO BE STUDIED

Famous Doctor Will Set Aside Districts For His Research.

HAS TRACED DISEASES.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(United Press)—A new scientific attack on the cancer problem is projected by Dr. Louis Sambon, expert on tropical diseases, who has decided to set apart the Isle of Wight and the Isle of Man as special research centres in order to ascertain definitely whether there are cancer streets, cancer houses and even cancer villages,

Dr. Sambon believes that the only way in which to probe the secret of cancer is to track the disease down to the locality where it is most virulent, a method he has successfuly adopted in dealing with malaria and yellow fever, and the study on the spote where its aspects are not further complicated by the presence of other scourges.

"We know", said Dr. Sambon, "that the virus of malaria is carried by the mosquito, yet we should never have known that unless we had made the closest study of the campagna near Rome where mosquitos are bred in millions. My view is that cancer may have some scientific cause and perhaps it has carriers.

We are therefore selecting certain definite and isolated areas in order to discover whether houses carry cancer, believing that by this means we shall obtain valuable clues."

Medical men here admit that Dr. Sabmon's theory is full of possibilities and the Isle of Man Medical Society has offered him the fullest co-operation.

Hints on Etiquette

1. What is the proper dress for a woman making New Year's calls?
2. How should a man dress?
3. What does a hostess receive in?

The Answers.

1. Her best looking afternoon costume, as New Years' is a "dressy" time.
2. In his best daytime clothes—in large cities, in cutaway and high hat.
3. Her most charming afternoon frock of chiffon, velvet or lace, long-sleeved as the mode is now, but more formal than a daytime frock.

An automatic distress signal broadcaster for use on ships and airplanes has been invented. It transmits SOS signals and gives the call letters and position.

FARMERS FLY OVER LONDON

DURING MARKETING TOUR

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 28.—A unique sight-seeing tour has been arranged for the 125 Canadian farmers who are coming to England in January with the Canadian National Railways' Farmers Marketing Party. In addition to seeing London as the average man sees it—obtaining a worm's eye view from the underground and a normal view from the top of a 'bus—the visitors will see London as the birds see it, from the cabin of one of the most up-to-date air liners of the Imperial Airways Limited.

As many of the Canadian farmers as desire to do so will be taken for a 20-minute "joy-ride" over London and down the Thames. Should a sufficient number signify their intention of taking to the air, two or even three of the latest "Silver Wing" passenger 'planes "de Luxe" will be brought into service to cruise over London together. These air liners are the last word in aeroplane construction, carry 18 passengers, and are equipped with buffet and easy chairs with a steward in attendance.

The flight will be made from Croydon Aerodrome, today known as Britain's premier air-port, where passenger aeroplanes take off daily for Paris, Amsterdam and other points on the Continent. Here the visitors will be conducted through the hangars by competent guides who will explain to them the various types of machine used in modera air travel.

The "Silver Wing" type of machine in which the Canadian farmers will

The "Silver Wing" typ ofe machine travel is powered with three Napier "Lion" engines, each of which develops travel is powered with three Napier 450 horse power. With three such engines forced landings are practically eliminated, for should one or the other fail, the other two are powerful enough to maintain a safe cruising speed. "The Silver Wing" has a cruising speed of 90 miles per hour and makes the trip daily from London to Paris in two hours and a half.

The pilots, mechanics and inspectors, who look after the aeroplanes are licensed by the Air Ministry. The pilots themselves have brilliatn records and long flying experience. They are given their licenses only after they have passed a rigid medical, flying and technical test which is carried out officially by the Air Ministry. They are re-examined at least once every six months.

U. S. RELAXES EMBARGO.

Gives Permission For Sale of Airplane To Mexican Authorities.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Deciding upon "distinct relaxation" of aircraft or war munition embargo against Mexico, the State Department yesterday granted a license to the Mexican Government to purchase the tri-motored plane in which Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh flew from Detroit to Mexico City.

The permission given to Mexico to buy the plane was the first step taken under the new policy announced yesterday. It was said at the department that while there was no present intention to wipe out the embargo entirely, each application for the purchase of arms or other munitions in the United States would be considered and acted upon individually.

In reply, Mrs. Stubbs thanked the class for their lovely gifts and for their co-operation during the year, saying how much she had enjoyed teaching and working with such a congenial crowd.

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith told herself, as she drove toward home, that there was really no reason why she should have so curtly refused Aunt Hattie's offer to accompany her, and that it was absurd to drive so fast. Of course Bob was working away at those Hemingway plans and would only be annoyed at being disturbed, even to eat the hot dinner that Fay had hastily packed in a picnic hamper for him.

Because she hated herself for the unformed doubts which made her once-serene mind a welter of misery, a misery the more unbearable for its very vagueness and unworthiness, she forced her mind backward upon the scene she had just left. She knew now, facing the thing squarely that she was purposely seeing very little of Fay and Junior, because the picture of an almost ideally happy marriage which they presented hurt her intolerably.

Why had Fay succeeded where she had failed? For she had failed to make her marriage a beautiful, serene thing. Was it perhaps because Fay and Junior laughed together so easily, saw no "problems," accepted life casually and high-heartedly, without making a fuss about it? She saw again, in her mind's eye, Junior's puppy-like frolicking about his wife, Fay's giggling, fond response. Were they happy because they had not yet discovered that they were grown-up? But, whether they realized it or not, they were fulfilling grown-up roles worthily, even magnificently. Junior—and who would have thought it of the harum-scarum, "wild" boy that Long Lane had been?—was making a very decent living, working hard, saving his money, making the woman he had married a happy and proud wife.

And Fay, for all her apparent childishness, was doing a woman's work—making a beautiful, satisfying home out of the old Myrtle Street house, cooking and washing and sewing contentedly and without complaint, but ready to play any time Junior hankered for a frolic. She was going to have a baby, was taking her "condition" matter-of-factly, humorously, without making a "marriage problem" out of it. She would bear her baby bravely without thinking she was brave and would rear it casually, laughingly, but wisely. Of course, Faith told herself impatiently, she was idealizing this marriage of her brother's, not seeing the seamy side of it—

She had reached her own home on Serenity Boulevard without realizing it. Parking her car, she suddenly decided to enter the house by the back door, get the carving set and spoons which Fay needed without disturbing Bob at his work, leave the basket of hot dinner on the kitchen table where he could not fail to see it, and rush back to the family celebration. In that way she could demonstrate her trust in Bob, not to him but to herself—

Tiptoeing into the dining room to get the dessert spoons from the sideboard drawer, she was suddenly frozen into immobility by the sound of hysterical weeping, accompanied by low-toned, passionate pleading in Bob's voice.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The straight faisly long bolero appears on many of the season's smartest dance frocks. This frock of gold lame is embroidered with tiny pearls. There is a rhinestone buckle and a scarf of the material.

Why is it, asks a dressmaker friend of mine, that very short women have a partiality for bolero effects?

I am sure I don't know, unless it is for the same reason that tall women cling with such stubborn persistence to straight-line frocks and so often fancy themselves in tall hats. Maybe tall women really like to look like grenadiers, and maybe tiny women take a secret pride in their diminutive stature. I really don't know.

I assume from what my dressmaking friend remarked that the very short woman who doesn't want to look so very short ought not to wear boleros, and conversely the tall woman who wants to knock off a few inches without a surgical operation should wear 'em.

Anyway, boleros are the fashion, and Worth of Paris uses them plentifully in the making of evening frocks—dance frocks especially. There are boleros—and boleros—though the word itself would indicate Spanish origin. Worth's boleros are of Hindu and Siamese inspiration—straight, neat little boleros, made without a flare or ripple. Sometimes there is an opening at the front with edges straight or slanting and sometimes the material of the bolero extends straight across the front. There is a closely drawn sash or girdle around the hips and waist and a draped or finely gathered skirt below.

One of the most charming of the new bolero frocks that I have seen came from the house of Jean Magnin in Paris. It consists of skirt and bolero of black crepe de chine—both skirt and bolero dipping down longer at back than at front. The back of the bolero shows a tendency to flare so that the folds of the material hang in graceful curves at the back. The underblouse, which shows a little under the bolero, and the wide sash tied at the front are of supple taffeta in very large black and white diamond-shape checks.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1927

Benefic stars rule today, according to astrology, which finds mild adverse planetary influences also active.

It is a day primarily auspicious for women who should engage in domestic and social activities.

Theatres and all places of amusement should benefit tonight when the sway makes for gayety and light heartedness.

This should be a rarely happy wedding day, since it seems to presage continued loyalty and prosperity.

Music today is subject to the best rule of the stars and artists will benefit, it is foretold.

Chicago as well as New York will focus interest at this time, the seers announce, because of great artistic achievements in the drama, opera and literature.

For the new year a movement in which women will unite to purify politics and will succeed in becoming a national force is prognosticated.

This configuration is most fortunate for intellectual workers and presages great development in educational fields.

Sports continue subject to stimulating influences that will be particularly favorable to western organizations.

Neptune is in a place that bodes ill for all who hope for a radical reduction of taxes.

The cost of living will continue to be high and food stuffs will rise in price, it is foretold.

Changes in ambassadors sent to the United States by foreign countries are indicated by the stars.

Persons whose birthdate it is should beware of hasty marriage or emotional decisions of any sort in the coming year.

Children born on this day may be inclined toward extremes of thought and action. Many subjects of this sign succeed in artistic callings.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1927.

Good and evil influences contend today, which should be fairly favorable for many human activities.

Early in the morning the hearts of men and women who occupy places in the Sun should be touched by the spirit of generosity.

The forenoon is a time to ask favors and to seek positions for the new year.

It is well not to trust one's judgment today, for it may be too much affected by the motions.

This is not exactly an auspicious time for beginning journeys by water, for storms appear to be threatening.

Warning is given that the configuration encourages acceptance of depressing rumors of every sort, especially those that concern national affairs.

Warlike preparations probably will be advocated by certain statesmen, who foresee perils that may not exist, astrologers announce.

While the aspects for the coming year appear to presage many international misunderstandings, it is probable they will not be serious, the seers declare.

Under this sway there may be a sense of the futility of effort and consequent depression which should be combatted.

According to ancient lore this should be a particularly lucky day for engaging men as employees.

Persons whose birthday it is may have a year that is eventful. Danger from fire is indicated.

Children born on this day may have varied gifts in which there is a strong mechanical bent. They should be carefully educated as they are likely to have great possibilities.

There are 40,000 muscles in an elephant's trunk and only 527 in a man's body.

CANCER AREAS TO BE STUDIED

Famous Doctor Will Set Aside Districts For His Research.

HAS TRACED DISEASES.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(United Press)—A new scientific attack on the cancer problem is projected by Dr. Louis Sambon, expert on tropical diseases, who has decided to set apart the Isle of Wight and the Isle of Man as special research centres in order to ascertain definitely whether there are cancer streets, cancer houses and even cancer villages.

Dr. Sambon believes that the only way in which to probe the secret of cancer is to track the disease down to the locality where it is most virulent, a method he has successfuly adopted in dealing with malaria and yellow fever, and the study on the spote where its aspects are not further complicated by the presence of other scourges.

"We know", said Dr. Sambon, "that the virus of malaria is carried by the mosquito, yet we should never have known that unless we had made the closest study of the campagna near Rome where mosquitos are bred in millions. My view is that cancer may have some scientific cause and perhaps it has carriers.

We are therefore selecting certain definite and isolated areas in order to discover whether houses carry cancer, believing that by this means we shall obtain valuable clues."

Medical men here admit that Dr. Sabmon's theory is full of possibilities and the Isle of Man Medical Society has offered him the fullest co-operation.

Hints on Etiquette

1. What is the proper dress for a woman making New Year's calls?
2. How should a man dress?
3. What does a hostess receive in?

The Answers.

1. Her best looking afternoon costume, as New Years' is a "dressy" time.
2. In his best daytime clothes—in large cities, in cutaway and high hat.
3. Her most charming afternoon frock of chiffon, velvet or lace, long-sleeved as the mode is now, but more formal than a daytime frock.

U. S. RELAXES EMBARGO.

Gives Permission For Sale of Airplane To Mexican Authorities.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Deciding upon "distinct relaxation" of aircraft or war munition embargo against Mexico, the State Department yesterday granted a license to the Mexican Government to purchase the tri-motored plane in which Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh flew from Detroit to Mexico City.

The permission given to Mexico to buy the plane was the first step taken under the new policy announced yesterday. It was said at the department that while there was no present intention to wipe out the embargo entirely, each application for the purchase of arms or other munitions in the United States would be considered and acted upon individually.

FARMERS FLY OVER LONDON

DURING MARKETING TOUR

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 28.—A unique sight-seeing tour has been arranged for the 125 Canadian farmers who are coming to England in January with the Canadian National Railways' Farmers Marketing Party. In addition to seeing London as the average man sees it—obtaining a worm's eye view from the underground and a normal view from the top of a 'bus—the visitors will see London as the birds see it, from the cabin of one of the most up-to-date air liners of the Imperial Airways Limited.

As many of the Canadian farmers as desire to do so will be taken for a 20-minute "joy-ride" over London and down the Thames. Should a sufficient number signify their intention of taking to the air, two or even three of the latest "Silver Wing" passenger 'planes "de Luxe" will be brought into service to cruise over London together. These air liners are the last word in aeroplane construction, carry 18 passengers, and are equipped with buffet and easy chairs with a steward in attendance.

The flight will be made from Croydon Aerodrome, today known as Britain's premier air-port, where passenger aeroplanes take off daily for Paris, Amsterdam and other points on the Continent. Here the visitors will be conducted through the hangars by competent guides who will explain to them the various types of machine used in modern air travel.

The "Silver Wing" type of machine in which the Canadian farmers will The "Silver Wing" typ ofe machine travel is powered with three Napier "Lion" engines, each of which develops travel is powered with three Napier 450 horse power. With three such engines forced landings are practically eliminated, for should one or the other fail, the other two are powerful enough to maintain a safe cruising speed. "The Silver Wing" has a cruising speed of 90 miles per hour and makes the trip daily from London to Paris in two hours and a half.

The pilots, mechanics and inspectors, who look after the aeroplanes are licensed by the Air Ministry. The pilots themselves have brilliatn records and long flying experience. They are given their licenses only after they have passed a rigid medical, flying and technical test which is carried out officially by the Air Ministry. They are re-examined at least once every six months.

ROSE SOCIETY VISITS CONCORD

New Greenhouses of Fred H. Miller Prove Interesting Attraction.

MEMBERS DELIGHTED.

The members of the Rose Society of Ontario made a pilgrimage to Concord on the cordial invitation of Messrs. Miller & Sons to visit their extensive greenhouses and conservatories. These recently constructed greenhouses, covering an area of several acres, were filled to their capacity with roses, chrysanthemums, lilies, orchids, and many varieties of cyclamen and ferns.

Through the kindness of Fred H. Miller, the members were privileged to wander at will over this wonderful acreage of roses in bloom, while experts in each section gave the delegation most valuable information regarding their many rose problems.

System and perfect technique prevailed in every department, and one could readily appreciate how the yield could approximately be ten thousand roses cut per day at this season.

At the entrance to the orchid house the guests were entertained sumptuously to refreshments by their genial hosts.

Mr. Miller's generosity, valuable advice and personal assistance are highly appreciated by the Rose Society of Ontario.

CITIZENS FOIL THREE ROBBERS

Girl Gives Alarm and Two Men Catch One Bandit in Hamilton.

OTHERS ARRESTED.

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 28.—Armed with a hammer and a revolver two citizens yesterday foiled an attempt to rob the King and Sanford avenue branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

As Reg. Johnston, 26 Essex avenue, Toronto, rushed out of the bank carrying the loot, he was covered by Herb. Smith, while Joe Wooley, a carpenter, 76 Main street, struck him over the head with a hammer. Nearly $4,000 dropped from his hands and scattered on the pavement.

Loblaw Robber, Police Say.

In the capture of Johnston police claim that they have the bandit who held up the Loblaw Groceteria, Danforth avenue, Toronto, Saturday night. He was positively identified, officers state, by a member of the Loblaw staff last evening.

Smith and Wooley are likely to share the $5,000 reward offered by the Canadian Bankers' Association. Smith, who is manager of the Garfield Taxi Company, heard shooting in the bank and rushed to the street with the office revolver. One robber had left the bank and entered the waiting car. Johnston was just coming out. He was caught by surprise, dropped his own gun, and a moment later lay senseless from the blow of Wooley's hammer.

The other two men were arrested last night just as they started away in a car in which, the police believe, they intended to escape from the city. Three men were engaged in the robbery, and three arrests have been made. Detectives expressed the opinion last night that a clean-up had been made. Detectives Duffy and Sharpe were responsible for the arrest of Gordon and Watson, and they had to force them into a curb with the police car to effect the capture. The local officials will gather additional evidence today to tighten the net about the trio now held, and it was intimated last night that the inquiry will extend to Toronto where another sensational bank robbery recently took place.

Hospital authorities reported last night that Johnston is suffering from head injuries, but his condition is not serious.

Girl Gives Alarm.

Just a moment before closing time a large Packard sedan stolen from Toronto and bearing license number 46-236, drove up to the front door of the bank. The car contained three men two of whom alighted. Police believe that Gordon remained in the car and the two Toronto men entered. Miss Ila Archer 156 Sanford avenue north, aged 16 years, was in the bank at the time, and when she saw the revolvers exhibited and the staff backed to the wall she ignored the demands to "stand back and keep quiet" and ran into the street crying for help. This was the first alarm.

Planning a rush job the two masked bandits declared that they 'meant business' and told the employes to 'hand it over fast.' No sooner had these words been spoken when fire flashed from one of the weapons and the bullet embedded itself into the ceiling

The alarm sounded by the little girl was first heard by Herb Smith. He took the office revolver kept for the protection of the company's cash and was standing at the door when the man left. He covered Johnston, who ran down the front steps with three packages of cash containing close to $4,000.

Joe Wc lley, aged 32 years, carpenter, employed by the Frid Construction Company, was working on the construction of a new bakery at King and Sanford avenue adjoining the bank, when he heard cries for help and shots. Hammer in hand, he ran to investigate, and looked over a high board fence erected for the protection of pedestrians, he saw Johnston being covered with a revolver. Woolley was within reach of Johnston and he brought the hammer down on his head. Woolley when seen after the affair declined to make any statement and refused to discuss the possibility of sharing in the reward.

Luther Cartlidge, Niagara Falls, another workman, saw one of the other gunmen race for the waiting car and he gave chase, but a shot was fired in his direction. It missed him only by inches.

To the Electors:

At the request of a large number of citizens, I have decided to stand for the position of Utilities Commissioner. I do not think it necessary to explain who I am. I have lived in Peterborough practically all my business life, served many years on the Board of Education and as Secretary of the Nicholls Hospital Board, besides many other activities. BRADBURN FOR The Commission

TO THE ELECTORS:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—At the end of my second term as a member of the Utilities Commission, the last year and one-half as Chairman, I, in seeking re-election, am willing to be judged by my record as a Commissioner and in other public capacities in which I have been privileged to serve. During my connection with the Utilities Commission I have been guided by no other motive than the desire to see that the two most important public services under our control should be as economically and efficiently administered as possible.

With the experience of six years' service on the Commission to help me, I believe that I can be of greater service to you during the next three years, inasmuch as all details of the very many problems before the Commissioners are at my finger tips. This aspect of the situation, I respectfully submit is worthy of your serious consideration when you are deciding as to how your ballot shall be marked.

I feel that my experience gained during six years' close association with the manifold activities in the Commission's jurisdiction will enable me to successfully look after your interests.

I am again seeking election to this office at the request of many ratepayers of North Monaghan, and appeal for the support of the electors, who know my record during my several years in office.

A Short Story

With a Moral for Peterborough

In 1916 a certain man was digging cellars with a pick and shovel. He invested some money in equipment, and year by year has advanced and added equipment until to-day he has the biggest road-making and maintaining outfit in the country. He saved the cost of the equipment on the first job he did with it, and has made hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Moral: The City Council, by investing a few thousand dollars in road-making equipment can save that amount the first year; pave more streets, and use local labor. Peterborough can then keep up with the rapid advancement of other cities at less cost than that of the comparatively small efforts of the last ten years.

STINSON FOR ALDERMAN

Ladies and Gentlemen,

As a candidate for Alderman, I might say that I have no complaints regarding 1927 Council. If elected, I would pay particular attention to obtaining more industries for Peterborough, and would advocate the use of home labor.

If elected, I can assure you of my earnest attention to the duties of the office.

Respectfully soliciting your support and wishing you all the compliments of the season.

Vote DENNE for MAYOR

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—In asking for your support and votes on behalf of my candidature for Mayor I do not propose to make any extravagant promises as to any course should I be elected. My record as a member of the City Council and of the Board of Education is before you, and I am satisfied to rest my claim for your support upon my past services.

There are, however, several matters concerning which I believe an energetic policy should be adopted and therefore if I am honored with your confidence on New Year's Day, I pledge myself to work for

1. Better transportation facilities.
2. Cheaper power.
3. The securing of more industries.

When other Ontario cities are marching forward, Peterborough should not stand still.

She should be in the forefront of the marchers and should my candidature be endorsed I sincerely believe it will be possible for me to contribute some driving power that will start this city on the road to better things.

Yours for a bigger and better Peterborough.

R. DENNE.

MILLBROOK PUBLIC SCHOOL

MILLBROOK, Dec. 27.—Probably no more successful Christmas entertainment has been held in connection with the local public school, than that one which took place in the Assembly Hall on Thursday evening, the seating accommodation being fully occupied when the programme began shortly after eight o'clock.

Big red bells, red and green streamers, and shades on the lights in these seasonable colors, with the gaily-decorated tree every branch bearing its load of parcels, and many others being piled around its base, brought a Christmas atmosphere that spoke of good will, and good cheer, with a feeling of happy expectancy evidenced throughout.

The chairman of the school board, Mr. G. E. Burnham, spoke a few appropriate words of welcome to the many parents and interested friends who had gathered for the occasion, and the following programme was creditably carried out:

Opening Chorus—"Ring the Joy Bells," by the massed pupils of the three rooms of the public school.

"Welcome Speech," by Dorothy Smith.

Song—"Little White Snowflakes," by Suzanne Grassett, Audrey Garside, Mary Eakins, Lenore Lambert and Patsy Richards (wearing white nighties), and looking like attractive illustrations of the song they were singing).

Recitation, "Santa Claus' Fright," by Helen Mitchell.

"Good Night"—Song and drill by Beatrice McDowell, Suzanne Grassett, Audrey Garside, Mary Eakins, Lenore Lambert and Patsy Richards (each carrying lighted candle).

Recitation—"Two Little Stockings," by Mary Vance.

At this point in the programme Mr. J. A. Vance presented to the school a large and handsome picture of "Mount Rundle" in the Banff National Park, the gift of Mr. F. W. Bowen, M.P., as Mr. Vance explained in his brief address. Mr. Burnham, on behalf of the school board, accepted the gift, and expressed the gratitude felt by the trustees and the teaching staff to Mr. Bowen for his generosity in including Millbrook Continuation School in the list of public buildings to which he is making similar contributions.

Dialogue: "Christmas Time is Come Again," by Mary Nattress, Toy Nattress, May Ferrin, Dalton Brown, Lyal Nattress, Arthur Howard, Earl Lunn, and Margaret Smith; Joe Thorndyke took the part of "Santa Up-to-Date," and was finally turned out as the boys and girls warmly welcomed the 'real Santa' (Lloyd Peel,) who came unexpectedly out of the fireplace.

Recitation—"The Turkey's Lament" by Marguerite Hawken.

"The Smiling Brigade," a very pretty exercise and dance by twelve junior boys and girls, in quaint costumes.

Recitation—"Writing a Letter to Santa Claus," by Gilbert Howson.

Recitation—"Dolly's Christmas Speech," by Lenore Lambert.

Recitation—"A Good Boy," by Earl Martin.

Christmas Drill (carrying letters to spell out the words Merry Christmas) by 14 intermediate pupils.

Present Laura Secord Cup.

A departure from the regular routine took place at this point while Principal B. B. Dawson, who is also Cadet Instructor for the local corps, presented for inspection the Laura Secord Silver Cup, won by the five boys from the Continuation School—Burton Russell, Henry Gray, Carmen Ingram, Gordon Armstrong and Eddie Nattress—who held the highest record in the rifle shooting competition for Military District No. 3, making 269 points out of a possible 1,000. Twice in previous years the second prize has been won by a local team, and this year they carried off the Cup. Insistent applause showed how fully the community appreciates the honor the boys brought to their home town. The trophy was informally presented at the closing exercises of the Continuation School last Wednesday; B. B. Dawson being in charge of the ceremony.

Promptly at ten o'clock Santa Claus (L. W. Smith) arrived, and distributed the gifts from the tree, this being the crowning event of the evening for the boys and girls. The teaching staff, Messrs. B. B. Dawson, H. J. Anderson, and Miss B. Montgomery, were remembered by their pupils, and in turn gave to each scholar a generous bag of candy and nuts.

Much credit is due the teachers for the manner in which their scholars were trained for the entertainment, and the orderly way in which such a large body of young folk were managed throughout the evening. Miss Betty Montgomery and Mr. Harold Anderson were the accompanists. The money taken in at the door is used to buy necessary supplies for the school.

SPRINGVILLE UNITED S.S.

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 27.—The annual Christmas Concert of Springville United Church Sunday School was held Wednesday night, December 21, in the church auditorium.

As the school children of S.S. No. 3 North Monaghan (Elmdale School) comprise the major part of the Sunday School it has always been the custom for the teacher of S.S. No. 3 to provide the program with the privilege of adding to her numbers from members of the Sunday School who attend other day schools. Miss Sybil Robertson, teacher in charge, therefore deserves great credit for the success of this Christmas concert; also Miss Daisy Mercer, who provided the music for the different numbers and several other interested persons who ably helped where help was needed.

The decorations for the evening were centered mainly on the enormous heavily laden and artistically decorated tree which occupied the place of prominence at the right of the platform.

The true meaning of Christmas was intensified as one entered the church and looked upon the shining angel, amidst the top-most boughs of the Christmas tree, lifting her arms in blessing and pointing the way to the Saviour.

The program was as follows:

Hymn—"Hark The Herald Angels Sing" by the school and audience.

Chairman's Address.—Rev. A. H. McConnachie acted as chairman for the evening and in his opening remarks spoke briefly of the meaning of Christmas and his strong belief in Santa Claus who was to appear later on the program—i.e., the good spirit that is abroad putting it in the hearts of people to show kindness to one another at this and all times of the year.

In brief he Welcomed all and hoped they would Enjoy themselves. They might Laugh as much as they pleased as long as they didn't laugh at him. Christmas, he explained, is the season of happiness and the Object of the concert he clearly expressed. He hoped all would be Merry and enjoy this Entertainment but he would be sincerely glad when his part of the program was over.

Chorus by the school—"Who is Coming O'er The Hills."

Recitation—Laura Neals.

Recitation—Manson Cathcart.

Song—Mary Robinson.

The snow-flakes fluttered about in their white gowns weaving drill designs and finally halted to complete the drill by motions acted in unison. They then fluttered one by one off the stage to the strains of music.

Recitation—Charley Whittington.

Recitation—Percy Sweeting.

Recitation—Irvine McIntosh.

Monologue—Vivian Brown.

Recitation—Clairmont Morgan.

Recitation—Arleigh Murray.

Recitation—John Brown.

Reading—Jean Fairbairn.

Dialogue — "Photographer's Troubles.

This dialogue caused much laughter from the audience when the gray-haired Photographer (Charley Whittington) tried to prevent a quarrel between two customers that had arrived, one shortly after the other, but both wanted to sit for their pictures immediately. The first arrival who had never had her picture taken before (May Kelk) showed great nervousness about being shot by the machine much to the amusement of the second customer who was in a hurry to catch the train, but had to wait her turn (Ruth Hunter). A quarrel between the two ladies ensued and the outcome was that neither had her picture taken.

Recitation—Fred Stevens.

Recitation—Mamie Cathcart.

Recitation—Flora Dunford.

Drill—Eight girls took part in this unique drill. Each carried a doll about which she made a little speech. There were dolls of many sizes and descriptions. The Eskimo and Japanese dolls appeared to have just come from their home land, so fittingly dressed were they. One little maiden brought her Teddy Bear and claimed it was better than any dolly there. When each little girl had finished talking her doll became sleepy and the drill was concluded by a Lullaby.

Chorus.

Reading—Ruth Hunter.

Recitation—Archie Brown.

Song—May Kelk.

Motion Song—By School.

Recitation and encore—Stanley Johnston.

Recitation—James Hunter.

Recitation—Janet McIntosh.

Recitation and encore—Mary Staples.

Recitation—Dorothy Cathcart.

Solo by Mr. Bruce Herron:

Mr. Herron is one of Springville's much appreciated artists and a concert at Springville is not complete without some number from this gentleman. He sang, "The Hat My Dear Old Father Wore Upon St. Patrick's Day," and responded to the hearty encore with "The Old Home Town."

Recitation—Keith Fairbairn.

Drill—"A Few New Dolls"—Six girls and an equal number of boys paraded in drill in bright tissue paper costumes, representing dolls' apparel. Their faces were covered with thin white material which made them appear quite doll-like.

The most outstanding feature of all the drills was the perfection with which they were presented.

Dialogue—"Rastus Rambles On."

This was an interesting number, taking the form of a conversation between Rastus (a colored man) and a white gentleman (Clarence and Clifford Johnston). Rastus is lavishly praising the good nature of his wife when an irritable voice calls him suddenly back to reality and work.

Recitation—Opal Johnston.

Recitation—May Kelk.

Merry Christmas Drill by fourteen children.

Chorus by the school.

Mr. McConnachie took this opportunity to thank Miss Robertson and her co-workers on behalf of the church and Sunday school for the delightful program which was so admirably presented.

The Concert was concluded by the singing of the National Anthem, and as the last strains died away a tinkle of bells and a thump, thump, thump, was heard in the basement of the church. Santa had come! and had found his way in through the new basement. Eager children's faces watched for his appearance and soon were more than rewarded for lo! he had brought Mrs. Santa Claus along with him this year. Santa was his own usual, jolly self and took much pleasure in presenting his wife to the audience. Mrs. Santa fulfilled all anticipations as to what she would be like. She spoke to the girls and boys, telling them that Santa was getting old and needed help to distribute his gifts to the many children that must never be forgotten. She was becomingly dressed in a red cape and wore a bright bonnet of red and blue, trimmed about her face with ermine. As she spoke to the children she shed her long cape, displaying a beautiful red and blue costume to match her hat and much to the satisfaction of the little ones there also appeared a very large well-filled basket.

Mrs. Santa began work at once, distributing her bags of candy here and there to the children in the audience. When all had been remembered, a few bags remained in her basket. These she divided amongst the grown ups, giving all a "sweet" feeling toward her.

In the meantime Santa had secured help from several young men to unload the tree of its books and bundles and soon all that remained were the decorations and the "Angel" in her long white robes, smiling down on all and blessing the children in their happiness.

S. S. NO. 2, LANG

An interesting concert and Christmas tree was held at Lang school, Dec. 20. The concert was enjoyed by all, and the school was filled to capacity. The Rev. Mr. Archibald, the chairman, handled the program in an efficient manner. Miss Viola White played the carols and marches for the drills and dialogues. She also accompanied Miss Donaldson. The services of Mr. Roy Rome were obtained for the night. Miss Marguerite Rome accompanied the violinist.

At the end of the program gifts were distributed from the Christmas tree to the children and teachers. Mr. Archibald rendered a vote of thanks to the teachers, Miss Marguerite Bowie and Mr. William Rome. This was suitably acknowledged by Mr. Rome, who thanked Mr. Archibald and Mr. Humphrey and all those who took part in the program.

The program was as follows:

Recitation—Agnes Weir.
Chorus, My Own Canadian Home.
Drill of the Christmas Candles.
Violin Solo—Mr. Roy Rome.

THE WHITE SCHOOL, S.S. 1, MARMORA.

A very successful concert was given in "The White School" on Wednesday evening, by the pupils and young people of the section. The pupils trained by their teacher, Miss Reid, were a credit to her. The Rev. C. J. Beckley acted as chairman and added much to the program, which was as follows:

Chairman's address.

Recitation—Mae Richardson.

FASCISTS OBSERVE FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

Benito Mussolini, premier and dictator of Italy, reviewed his faithful fifth anniversary of their triumphant Fascist followers in an impressive ceremony upon the occasion of the march into Rome. Il Duce is seen standing up in his stirrups as the blackshirts march past.

SPENT $100,000 A YEAR ON DRESS

When Mrs. Tillie Loeb Leopold sued her wealthy husband for $1200 a week alimony and $25,000 counsel fees, it developed that she had been spending $100,000 a year in an attempt to be known as the best dressed woman in New York. Her customary annual purchases were said to include: Cosmetics and perfumes, $1000; stockings, $1000; hats, $1500; gloves and handkerchiefs, $2000; shoes, $2000; and furs, $5000. She was a stenographer in 1923 when she married Leopold, who was twice her age, said the husband's attorney, adding that she had been able to turn her tears into diamonds, since everytime the couple quarreled Leopold would seek to smooth things out again with gifts of precious gems.

QUIET SESSION

proud of him for his brave and gallant action. But for it the Light boy would most certainly have lost his life. Loud applause accompanied the presentation and Grant Morrison's response was made from his seat in the audience to which he had returned. He simply expressed his gratitude to everyone and to Chief Light in particular. This brought the meeting to the place where the speeches were in order.

Mayor Kingston.

Mayor Kingston was the first to address the ratepayers. Reminding them that he was only allotted a certain length of time he desired only to give them a brief resume of the town affairs as they stand at present. He had prophesied a year ago that 1927 would be the hardest year in the history of the town for financing. Considering the truth of this he thought the council had done very well indeed. There had been an extra expense of mapping the town, $2000, and a payment on all the debentures. Next year there would be $7000 less to pay, as some of these debentures had been retired this year. There had been some criticism of the Water and Light Commission when the Canadian Paper Box had transferred their account to the Hydro, but he claimed that despite the ten per cent. reduction in the local rate, the commission had increased their earnings for the present year, and were therefore to be commended. The commission had also given the town $23,000 during the year in an effort to keep the tax rate form increasing. He wished to thank the council for their support and to pay tribute to them for their excellent work. Mayor Kingston also extended to all the ratepayers the compliments of the season.

Reeve Bygott.

Reeve Bygott arriving late did not know who were his nominators but wished to thank them anyway. He thought the town had enjoyed a very successful year financially. It being his first year on the council and also the county council he thought it improper he should say very much, but mentioned the fact that paving for Campbellford was being more than merely considered. It would be brought before the June session of the counties' council and he thought it would be passed by them. He also reminded the ratepayers that they had been assessed for twenty per cent. of the provincial and county paving and thought it only just that Campbellford should benefit by some of the money the town had thus spent. After wishing all present the usual compliments of the season, the major said he intended to stand for election for reeve again.

Deputy Reeve C. H. Davidson was the next to speak. His remarks were brief, he wished everyone the season's greetings and told of some of the proceedings of the counties council with regard to their business methods and the corresponding interest to Campbellford. He solicited the votes of the ratepayers, but said that he had been beaten before and, if they did not want him, he could be beaten again. Applause testified to his popularity.

W. S. Wiggins.

W. S. Wiggins, chairman of the Finance committee, thanked his nominators and extended the compliments of the season before proceeding to detail the expenditures of the town for the present year. One noticeable item in his report was the uncollected taxes, $8000.00. Regarding his nomination for Mayor, Wiggins said he would not stand, as he considered G. A. Kingston a very capable and devoted public official. As for the council, he preferred not to decide at once.

W. J. Abernethy.

W. J. Abernethy spoke briefly on the affairs of the road and bridge committee and said that he would allow his name to stand as a candidate for the council for another year. S. J. Abernethy, chairman of the water and light commission followed his namesake, giving a detailed report of the affairs of his commission for the past year. He recalled the financing of the town many years ago and claimed that the 'Paper Mill' (Canadian Paper Box) men had never put a written proposition before the commission. There had been considerable talk in their offices but nothing binding had ever been put in writing.

Dr. O. C. Watson.

Dr. O C. Watson, chairman of the school board, wished all present a prosperous New Year and proceeded to give an account from the school trustees for the year. There were 207 students in the High school, he said, and at the last departmental examinations there had been 85 p.c. of the upper school pupils successful and 87 p.c. of the middle school. He thought the new High school was one of the beauty spots of the town and reminded the citizens that it had been graded as one throughout. There was but one exception to this, the cloak rooms, which were graded two. This was because there were no doors on these rooms and it was not the intention of the board to put any on. In the matter of bus transportation for the out-of-town pupils who arrive by train, Dr. Watson stated that Norwood had offered to supply free bus transportation to the Hastings pupils all the way between the two villages if they would attend that school. Even in the face of this, the parents still preferred to send their children to Campbellford. This year more than half the total number of pupils were from out of town. This is a great asset financially as well as other ways to the institution.

In the public schools there are over five hundred pupils enrolled. In the entrance examinations last year practically one hundred per cent had been successful. The repair to the building had been more expensive this year on account of the new cement sidewalks installed and the fire escape erected in connection with the old high school. This school is now being used for the lower grades in the public school and it is the desire of the board that every step that will add to their safety be taken.

Councillor MacDonald.

Councillor MacDonald thanked his nominators and those who had supported him otherwise. He thought there was nothing much left for him to say, but that he intended to allow his name to stand as a candidate for the council for the coming year.

J. Nelson Stone.

J. Nelson Stone, Charity committee, mentioned the abuse and criticism he was subjected to in connection with his charity work and said that he was doing the very best he could. He did not intend to see women and children suffer if he was in the position to help them. He regretted that neither Deputy-Reeve Davidson nor Reeve Bygott had mentioned the House of Refuge in connection with their trips to the counties' council meetings. This prompted him to recall an occasion when he had found certain irregularities in the management of that institution which had been the cause of an official being removed from office. Regarding his nomination for Mayor, he would not oppose G. A. Kingston, as he thought he was the most capable man who could be found to fill the position.

Bygott asked leave and was granted safe. He informed Stone that neither himself nor Davidson had been on the Charity committee of the counties' council and that he had made a personal trip to the house of refuge. While there he had found everything to his satisfaction and thought that the present official in charge was executing his duties very well indeed.

Councillor Sullivan.

Councillor Sullivan, as usual, was outspoken. He said that the others had reminded the people of all that had been done and said nothing of that which had been apparently neglected or unfinished. He said that they had not made the 'Mill' pay its taxes, $81,000. They had allowed people to build on the streets. The ditch on Ranney street was still open. Altogether he considered that the tax rate was unnecessarily high. In conclusion, he solicited the support of the citizens at the polls and wished them the compliments of the season.

A. L. Riendeau.

A. L. Riendeau, Water and Light Commission, thanked his nominators and said that he had been pleased and honored to serve on the commission. If re-elected he would do his duties as best he possibly could and hoped that he would be able to assist in lowering the tax rate and saving money for the town.

Of the three retiring school trustees, Messrs. Denyes, Anderson and Linton, none were present or wished to speak. Nor did Mr. Stone wish to address the audience as a candidate for mayor, Mr. Wiggins had also withdrawn his nomination. T. E. Hyland, manager of the Regent Theatre, was the next one called on. He said he had not been in the council last year and therefore had no figures to bring before the citizens. But he was a business man of the town and claimed that the town was not as prosperous as the former speakers had led them to believe it was. As an example he said that the mill which had employed approximately three hundred hands in 1923 now only employed approximately sixty. If this state of affairs continued for another two years he said there would be no one left in town but the undertaker. There was too much "clique" in the present council he claimed. They had made an agreement with the Campbellford Cloth Company, and the company must pay its taxes the same as any ordinary citizen of the town. (Applause.) He thought every man was alike and equal, and if he is elected mayor the company will pay their taxes. He says he will make them After wishing everyone the compliments of the season, Mr. Hyland brought his fist down firmly on the table, and said, "I wish to state that I am in the field."

It is the privilege of the retiring mayor to reply to any or all speeches made by new candidates for that office. Mayor Kingston took advantage of this ruling to say that he could not see why the undertaker should remain in town when there would be nobody to bury. The affair of the cloth company was a serious matter. If they were put out of business, the town would be much poorer than now. It would lose the business tax and the taxes of the few employees now on the staff. Since any citizen was privileged to protest the state of affairs and have the terms of the bylaw carried out, Mr. Hyland was just as much at fault for not having done so as anyone. The council could not be held entirely responsible. In his opinion every town had its times of depression as well as those of prosperity. Unfortunately Campbellford was in the former stage just at present. It was very satisfactory to note that there was the sum of $30,000 in the bank to begin next year's business.

As for the number of merchants selling out, everyone knows that Campbellford has been overstocked with stores and it is only natural that some of them should go to the wall. Once a prosperous town, times had changed and now more than ever the oversupply of stores was noticeable. Here the Mayor announced his intention of running again at the coming election. He said he had done his work to the best of his ability and if that were not good enough it was the business and duty of every ratepayer to put in someone else. He thought that too much was expected from the Council. They should have a Board of Trade to assist them in certain matters of business. He was pleased that there was going to be an election so that those elected to office would know that they had the support of the people behind them. In conclusion, Mayor Kingston solicited the support of the citizens at the polls.

A. H. McKeel and C. W. Palliser, nominated for mayor were not present. R. H. Cole, as a candidate for deputy reeve in opposition to C. H. Davidson, did not wish to speak. J. R. Wilkinson, for council, expressed his pleasure at being thus honored and said that he would allow his name to stand. After asking that he be given their support at the polls, Wilkinson extended the compliments of the season to the ratepayers.

John Hall, candidate for councillor, C. W. Palliser and George Haig, were all absent or did not wish to address the meeting. G. A. Kingston, having already signified his intention of running for mayor, did not speak as a candidate for the water and light commission, for which he had also been nominated, and A. J. Meyers was absent. Thomas E. Hall and Ross MacLaren, nominated for school trustees were also absent or did not wish to speak. Before closing the meeting with the National Anthem, the Clerk announced that the time for qualifying was up at nine o'clock of the evening of December 27th. After this no papers would be received.

Immediately after the meeting, twelve candidates for the thirteen offices to be filled, signed their qualification papers. These were: for mayor, G. A. Kingston and T. E. Hyland; for reeve, Major J. M. Bygott; for deputy reeve, C. H. Davidson; for council, J. Nelson Stone, A. M. MacDonald, Walter S. Wiggins, J. J. O'Sullivan, R. H. Cole, and W. J. Abernethy; for water and light commissioner, A. L. Riendeau; for school trustee, J. C. Anderson.

Last year the council was re-elected by acclamation and the interest shown at the nomination meeting indicates a keen contest next Monday. As matters stand now, Mr. Davidson seems to be unopposed for deputy reeve, and Mr. Reindeau looks as though he were also going to be unopposed. For the other offices, a contest is assured.

MICHIGAN OBJECTS TO HUGHES' REPORT

Disagrees With Diversion Finding On 39 Different Points.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Michigan exceptions to the recommendations of Charles Evans Hughes, who heard the testimony in the lake diversion case, were filed yesterday in the Supreme Court, showing the state disagreed with Mr. Huges on thirty-nine points. The state's exceptions were filed by Attorney General Potters, who stressed the contention that diversion by the Chicago sanitary district was for sewage disposal and power development and not for navigation purposes. He took issue with Mr. Hughes on the power of the secretary of war to issue the permit under which the water was being diverted, insisting that Congress alone had power to authorize diversion for navigation purposes.

Chicago Player Establishes New Fielding Record

PIPP LEADS FIRST BASEMEN

National League Fielding Records For 1927 Are Released.

IN TWO PARTS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. — National League fielding records for the 1927 season, released yesterday, are divided into two groups, the first containing players who were at one position in ten or more games, and the other showing those in less than 10 games.

Walter C. Pipp, Cincinnati, leads the first basemen with a percentage of .996. Earl J. Adams, Chicago, established a new National League fielding record for second basemen with a record mark of .994, but Frank Frisch of St. Louis, is the leading second baseman for the year with .979, as he accepted more than three times as many chances as Adams. Frisch set a new league record for chances accepted, 1037, and also for assists, 641.

Fred C. Lindstrom, New York, is the nominal third base leader, with .9678, while Charles W. Dressen, Cincinnati, is the actual leader with a percentage of .9674. James E. Cooney, Chicago-Philadelphia, led the shortstops, establishing a new league record of .978. Albert Spalding, Philadelphia, heads the outfielders with .992. John H. Deberry, Brooklyn, and Eugene Hargrave, of Cincinnati, tied for leadership in catching with .9875. Charles L. Hartnett, Chicago, had the most passed balls, 12. Twenty two pitchers fielded for 1000, but Burleigh A. Grimes, New York, heads the list, accepting the most chances without a slip, 87.

James Cooney, Chicago shortstop, turned in an unassisted triple play on May 30 against Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati led the National League in team fielding with .9773. The Boston club made the most put-outs, 4171, and committed the most errors, 231; New York had the most assists 2041 and the most total chances, 6303. St. Louis led in double plays plays with 170. Chicago had the most passed balls, 15, and Pittsburgh the most runners left on bases 1160.

There were three triple plays made during the season—Cooney, unassisted, Chicago against Pittsburgh; Dressen and Gritz, Cincinnati against Pittsburgh; and Frisch, Bottomley, Maronville and O'Farrell, St. Louis against Chicago.

AUSTALIAN MAY ESSAY COME-BACK

Vancouver, B. C., December 28. — Bert Barry of England, newly crowned professional sculling champion of the world, will defend his title on the Thames River in England and it is possible that Major Goodsell, who lost the championship to Barry on Burrard Inlet here on Monday, will be the challenger.

After the race Goodsell collapsed, and it was nearly half an hour before a physician could bring him round. He feels certain that he can regain his form and plans to challenge Barry without delay.

Goodsell displayed a complete reversal in form from that which marked his performanec on Labor Day when he defeated the English challenger by ten lengths over the same course. Barry rowed a magnificent race on Monday.

Both scullers caught the water together at a 35 stroke clip and for the first half mile it was a close race Before the first mile had been reached Barry had gained a slight advantage and at the mile was leading by a length. The early pace had diminished to thirty strokes to the minute. At the half way mark the English challenger was leading by two full lengths, which he increased to six lengths at the two mile mark. Although he quickened his stroke Goodsell was unable to reduce the lead and Barry, spurting flashed across the winning line eight full lengths in the lead of the Australian, in 21 minutes and 4 seconds.

BOY WINS HORSE-SHOE PRIZE

The sensation of the national horseshoe tilt at the Royal Winter Fair was W. J. Struthers, 16-year-old Sarnia boy. Paired with William Kane, he captured the Diamond Caulk Trophy. His display was remarkable. Cooly chewing gum and unmoved by the plaudits of the throng, he tossed ringer after ringer. He started the game two years ago. "I am doing only what I can", he said modestly.

INJURED IN PLAY.

Leo Bourgeault, defense player of the New York Rangers in the National Hockey League, will be lost to his team for at least ten days as the result of a collision with Reg. Noble of Detroit on the ice in Toronto. Bougeault is being treated for a severely bruised nose, which will probably require an operation, Rangers' officials say.

PAUL WANER LEADS NATIONAL BATTERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Official batting records of the National League for the season of 1927 shows 257 batters taking part in championship games. Of this number 202 engaged in ten games or more, while 55 took part in less.

Paul Waner, Pittsburgh, is the leading batter, with a percentage of 380. He also made the most hits, 237, secured the most three base hits, 17, and the most total bases on hits, 338.

Earl Adams, Chicago, went to bat the most times, 647. Rogers Hornsby, New York, and Lloyd Waner, Pittsburgh, tied for the leadership in scoring, each tallying 133 runs. J. Riggs Stephenson, Chicago, made the greatest number of two-base hits, 46. Lewis R. Wilson, Chicago, and Fred Williams, Philadelphia, finished in a tie for home run honors, with 30 apiece.

Harold Traynor, Pittsburgh, made the most sacrifice hits, 35. Frank Frisch, St. Louis, won base stealing honors with 48 stolen bases. Lloyd Waner, Pittsburgh, secured the most one-base hits, 198. Forty-nine players hit for .300 or better.

Three players took part in all their club's games—Rogers Hornsby, New York, who played in 155 games; Frank Frisch, St. Louis, 153 games, and Edward Brown, Boston, 155 games. Brown has now taken part in 575 consecutive games, a new National League record that surpasses the former mark of 533 made by Fred Luderus while with Philadelphia.

The club-batting records show Pittsburgh leading with a percentage of 305. Pittsburgh went to bat the most times, 5,397; made the most hits, 1649, and with New York tied for scoring the most runs, 817. New York ran up the most total bases, 2,296, and scored the most home runs, 109. Chicago made the most doubles, 266. St. Louis secured the most three base hits, 79, and stole the most bases, 110. Cincinnati made the most sacrifice hits, 219. Pittsburgh leads with most one-base hits, 1,258.

OTTAWA PLAYS GOALLESS DRAW

Battle With Les Canadiens Goes Seventy Minutes.

BOSTON WINS.

Bruins Are Within One Point of Top of American Division.

OTTAWA, Dec. 28. — Montreal's "Flying Frenchmen" and Ottawa fought tooth and nail throughout seventy minutes of nerve-wracking hockey to a goalless draw last night. Easily the fastest and closest game witnessed here this season, it held a record-breaking throng of 10,199 fans in breathless suspense.

The battle was fought as evenly as possible, with goal shots practically equal, and only the phenomenal netting of Hainsworth in the Habitant's cage and Connell, net guardian for the locals, held the heavy-scoring sticks of the combatants in check.

At times it appeared the dazzling speed of the Montreal forwards would override the world's champions, but it was then that the Red, White and Black squad rose to dizzy defensive heights to put the Frenchmen to rout.

The entire Canadien team turned in a stellar performance, while Kilrea, Nighbor, Broadbent and Boucher turned in sparkling performances for the locals. Len Grosvenor, Ottawa substitute wing, was used freely, and turned in a creditable exhibition.

Boston Wins

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—The Boston Bruins moved within one point of the top of the American division of the National Hockey League by defeating the New York Rangers 2 to 0 in a fast and rugged game last night.

Two brilliant individual performances accounted for the Bruin scores. Eddie Shore skated through the Ranger defence and slapped a rebound past Chabot for the first goal two minutes after the second period opened. Half-way through the third period Harry Connor, a Bruin spare, skated the length of the ice to score the second counter.

The Rangers were handicapped on their defence because of the absence of Leo Bourgeault, regular right defence man, who is out of the game with injuries.

SNOW HINDERS SOCCER MATCHES

Several Games Postponed in English Football League.

LONDON, England, December 28 (Canadian Press Cable). — Snow again caused disapopintment in connection with football matches in the British Isles yesterday. In a number of places no play was possible, which means a very serious thing for professional soccer clubs, who were reckoning on bumper holiday gates. Play was possible in several places after the snow had been scraped off the pitches. At Newcastle the United team and Middlesbrough played in a raging storm. Reports from matches showed that many teams had to be re-arranged owing to injuries to the players on Monday.

Lincoln City was beaten on their own terrain yesterday for the first time this season by Hartlepool United by five goals to one . Robinson did the hat-trick for the United.

Yesterday's soccer matches were mostly return games ,and the results afforded a number of interesting comparisons with Monday's performances. Cardiff City, playing on their own terrain, took the measure of Everton ,who won the fixture at Everton. Len. Davies and Wake got the Cardiff the only goals scored in the game. The defeat of Leicester City by Burnley at Burnley was a tremendous reversal of form. On Monday Leicester won by five goals to nil. Yesterday it was Burnley who got five goals through Page, Reel, Twice, and P. Dougall. Leicester's counter came from McCluggage, the Burnley goalie, who let the ball slip through his own posts. Beel was out of luck because two of his kicks that found the target were disallowed. Huddersfield Town were in rare form. On their own pitch on Monday they only just managed to beat The Wednesday by the one goal scored. Yesterday they banged them in very much at leisure. Brown got three and Barkas and Smith one each for Huddersfield . West Ham United, at their Upton Park grounds, were in far better form than at Sheffield. Yesterday they drew with the United. Yews registered for the Hammers, and Johnson for the United. Portsmouth, who lost on Monday to Bury by four goals to nil, before a home crowd yesterday played a snappy game to win by the one goal scored. It was secured by Watson. Aston Villa have indeed fallen on evil days. At Denby on Monday the County team whitewashed them five to nil, and even at Birmingham yesterday the Villa could not win, though they put up a much better display. Forty thousand attended the match. McIntyre scored Derby's winning marker with a lucky shot. Fifty thousand saw the Arsenal defeat Liverpool at the Lancashire city. Hoar and drain scored for the Londoners. Scorers in the Newcastle United and Middlesbrough game were: McDonald, Boyd, and Gallagher for the former, and Pease, Twice, and Carsell for the latter.

VARSITY GRADS' CAPTAIN

The University of Toronto Grads team, who will represent Canada at the Olympic games next February at St. Moritz, has many stellar performers in the ranks but none more spectacular than the captain, John C. Porter, who is one of the sturdy defense players of the regular team. Porter is not only a strong defensive player but is a whirlwind rusher and his cyclonic dashes down the ice invariably induce the spectators to shout: "Come on, Red." Friend or foe, it makes no difference, they all join for Porter before the game is over. He is a fine type of athlete, as clean as a whistle in his play, with good judgment in directing the play. Porter has played all his nockey with the University of Toronto Schools and University of Toronto teams, coming up from the junior to senior ranks to win the championship of Canada and the Allan Cup and the right to represent Canada for the world's honors. Porter is sure to be a sensation in Europe with his spectacular rushes.

MANY SKATERS OUT ON HOLIDAY

Perfect Ice Provided For Large Crowd at Sacred Heart Rink.

About four hundred happy skaters spent a pleasant Christmas holiday in the open air on Monday afternoon and evening, at the Sacred Heart Rink, the temperature providing perfect ice for the occasion. The music for skating during both afternoon and evening was furnished by a Stromberg-Carlson radio phonograph combination loaned by the Watson Tire and Radio Company and expertly operated by T. Shields. In the evening, the air was filled with beautiful music from Stations CKCM, Toronto, WGY, Schenectady, and other broadcasting stations, and the large crowd was delighted by the program of lovely carols provided, which could be heard as far away as Perry street.

SPORT BITS

The Olympic winter sports at St. Moritz, Switzerland in February, promise to be the greatest ever held at this, the most fashionable and best known winter resort in the world The president of the Swiss Republic and his federal council will attend the games and everything will be done in state. It is expected that most of the nations of the world will be represented. There will be 14 countries represented in hockey with Canada as favorite. In speed skating, figure skating, bob sleighing and ski-ing there will be entries from all ends of the earth. Canada will be represented in all events but bob sleighing and should make a good showing. Canada's Olympic hockey team, Varsity Grads, should be the best advertisement this country has had in Europe in years. — Toronto Daily Star.

KELLY LANDS WITH PHILLIES

Erstwhile International League Slugger Gets Berth With Shotton's Club.

AFTER HOME BATTERS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The major leagues have quickly snapped up the leading batters of the minor leagues wherever they could do so.

The South Atlantic League credited the 1927 batting championship to Ingley of Macon with 87 games, but it really belongs to Barrett, the Knoxville catcher, who was grabbed by the New York Giants and who batted .360 in 134 games.

Barrett was a home run buster. He rapped 39 of them and showed a swat that made him dangerous all over the league. He is not a great catcher now but that will not deter him from making one, and if he can show anything the New York Nationals they will welcome him with open arms, because the team has been catcher-shy since Snyder slowed up.

Langford was another championship batter. He played with Des Moines and led the Western League. Cleveland had a man watching him and took him. He played in 149 games, with a batting percentage of .409 and that is one of the best marks of the year in minor league company.

Cleveland had Langford on the team toward the close of the year and there are some things that he will have to learn, but Cleveland is willing to let anyone learn if there is only a little promise back of the effort. The Cleveland team is hard up for outfielders. It has been hard up ever since the club broke a combination by transferring Tris Speaker.

Washington has a championship hitter in Kloza, who comes up from Macon. He led his league and the boys who saw him think he can keep his hitting up. If he does it will be more likely to show itself in 1929 than in 1928. Few hitters come out of the minors and bust up big leagues. The best at that sort of thing was Lloyd Waner this year. His record with Pittsburgh was one of baseball's great achievements.

Cincinnati did not get a champion batter from the minors, but it did get what seems to be a champion outfielder in Callaghan of Seattle. If Callaghan can maintain the pace he set in the Pacific Coast league he will do a lot to help the pitching staff of the Cincinnati team.

The Phillies did not get a champion batter for 1928, but they hooked up with a home hitter who once was the International League home run champion when he played first base for Buffalo. Kelly is his name and he was in the American Association for part of 1927 but finished with Newark.

Kelly has been watched by scouts from every major league club that needed a first baseman when he was with Buffalo, but about all of them found some fault with him, and did not take him. Yet if some of the teams that scouted Kelly had taken him he would have been a better ball player for them than any first baseman they have had in five years.

Philadelphia has had no one to play first for the team recently who is as good as Kelly. He will need some prodding, but he does know what first base means to a ball team.

The Phillies should be better off in general fielding work with Kelly backing up Thompson, Sand and Friberg, if Friberg plays third again.

Pittsburgh gets another player who may not be a rival to the remainder of the team this season but who has prospects for 1928. He is another Waner. The writer has received a letter from Oklahoma which says, "You seem to think the Waners are good players. This last one signed by Pittsburgh is as good or better than the other two."

RAVINAS LOSE OVERTIME GAME

Toronto Team Leads To Almost Final Bell Against Detroit.

NIAGARA FALLS LOSE.

Goalkeeper Ironstone Gets Into Free-For-All With Spectators.

TORONTO, December 28. — Toronto Ravinas lost a thrilling struggle to the Detroit Olympias in a Canadian Professional League fixture at Ravina Rink last night, when, after seven minutes of overtime, McCabe got the jump on the Ravina forwards by taking a forward pass from Brydge between the blue lines, and raced in fast to find the corner of the net for the fourth Detroit goal, leaving Ravinas on the short end of a 4 to 3 score.

The Toronto team hardly deserved to lose, leading by 3 to 2 five minutes before the full sixty minutes, but just when things looked best the Corbeau-Smith defence, which had played brilliantly all evening, made a glaring error when they allowed Morris to circle the net and slip the puck between Faught's legs for the tieing counter. The clever Detroit right winger didn't meet a hostile player on his journey, and Ravinas' laxity cost them the verdict.

Combination featured the play of both teams, their clever passing making a hit with the 2,000 fans present. Detroit took advantage of the forward pass between the blue lines, with the result that they frequently caught the Ravina forwards flat-footed and eliminated the worrisome back-checking.

Kitchener Wins.

KITCHENER, Dec. 28.—The Kitchener professionals were given a tough tussle here last night in the Canadian League, but they finally won by 4 to 3 over Niagara Falls, and thus retained the lead in the King loop. The game, which was rather listless in the first period, livened up as it progressed. Just before the finish there was quite a flare-up between Bill Holmes of the visitors and Steve Rice of the locals, each being given five minutes for mixing it. Then when the game was over a spectator and Goalkeeper Ironstone of the Falls got into a battle and then the spectators piled in, but the police charged and quickly broke up the conflict.

Better hockey has been played here, the game being only average in regard to the hockey displayed, but it got more lively as it progressed, and with the changing lead it was quite interesting, all the goals being scored in the two last periods.

The Niagara team put up a great battle, and they proved to be good pinch-hitters, getting all three of their counters in the second stanza, when McFarlane of the local defence, was in the penalty box for two minor infractions of the rules.

RACE UNCHANGED.

BOSTON, Mass., December 28 (Canadian Press). — The race for first place in the Canadian-American Hockey League remained unchanged after the smoke of the holiday week-end battles had cleared. The standing announced yesterday shows the Boston Tigers still leading the Springfield Indians by three points, both teams having won their holiday encounters.

The Standing.

Team—	Won	Lost	Tied	Pts.
Boston	9	4	1	19
Springfield	7	4	2	16
New Haven	5	6	2	12
Philadelphia	4	6	1	9

ELEPHANT KILLS SPORTSMAN.

NAIROBI, British East Africa, Dec. 22—(Canadian Press).—William Judd, African sportsman known through the big game world for his prowess in the hunting field, has finally fallen a victim to the dangers of his favorite sport after braving them successfully for thirty years.

While hunting on Tuesday he was charged by an infuriated wounded elephant which mangled him as his son battled vainly to save him. Young Judd finally killed the enraged beast, but the veteran hunter was dead when his son reached his side.

Mr. Hootan thanked the electors for the confidence they had reposed in him, and promised, if elected, to do all in his power to serve their best interests. He mentioned the truck purchased, and declared it to have been a money saver all the year. He also spoke of the by-law prohibiting stock from running at large on the township roads, as necessary to the safety of the travelling public.

As chairman of the Roads and Bridges Committee of the counties, Mr. Hootan had a detailed statement of all expenditures ready for inspection. The equalized assessment in the counties he thought not fair as it is at present, and believed the best plan would be to engage expert valuators and have all property re-valued. It would cost something, but would be worth the expenditure in the long run.

Other matters dealt with were the obligation to make all roads up to the Government standard in order to have the grant; the increasing amount received from the county since statute labor was abolished in 1925. Figures were quoted showing that a total of $19,506.70 has been received in Cavan since 1921 for road construction purposes.

In closing Mr. Hootan asked the co-operation of the electors if they gave him the office of Reeve for 1928, and added that he had been told, when in the Department in Toronto that both Cavan and Durham have road superintendents second to none in the province, and that the auditors had declared there were no better kept books in the province than those of Cavan Township.

R. J. McKnight and V. R. Hunter both spoke briefly asking the support of the electors for deputy-reeve, and explaining the work done in their respective sections of the township. R .McCamus declared that not having been a member of the Council he "had no sins to answer for," but would appreciate the support of the electorate should his name appear on the ballot papers.

H. A. Elson had some criticism because the Council had not advertised for tenders when bridges had to be built, a stone-crusher bought, etc. The durability of steel culverts was also questioned, as was the action of the Council in paying an account of Dr. H. A. Turner for vaccination services.

Considerable excitement enlivened the proceedings for a time when a sharp exchange of words occurred between Mr. Hootan and Mr. Elson, and between the chairman and the candidate, when the latter's statements regarding the amount spent on a bridge that had been bought and put in place, and on the stone-crusher, were challenged.

J. H. McGill accepted the nomination tendered for the second year in succession, and promised, if elected, he would endeavor to promote economy and efficiency in the Council business to the best of his ability.

Dr. Robinson was not ready to say definitely that he could stand for Councillor, but asked support should he qualify. He criticized the management of the finances both in the county and the township, some of his statements being contradicted by Mr. Hootan. He said "he had been born near where Howard Ferguson was born, and he thought he had as much right to run for any office as the Premier had."

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

OUR OWN

There may be greener grass than grows
  Upon the hills of home;
But what are greener hills to those
  By fate compelled to roam?
Home hills are always green enough,
  No matter what they are;
But even the smoothest road is rough
  That leads a man afar.

There may be other faces than
  The ones we long to see;
But, to a maid, what's any man—
  Or any maid to me?

But, oh, to see a face you know,
  To hear a voice you love!
What matter then what grasses grow,
  What skies may lift above?

There may be men who much desire,
  And maids who long for thrones;
But no man ever finds a fire
  As bright as one he owns.
A maid may know a thousand men,
  And on a throne may rule.
What more could woman long for then?
  Some lad she knew in school.

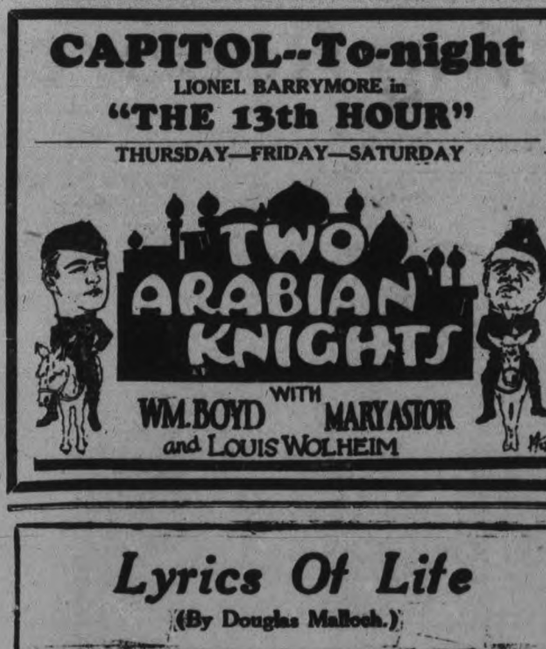
TO GO TO OLYMPICS



Ross Robinson, Toronto, Ontario, youngster whose selection as a representative of Canada in the speed skating races at the Olympic games next February, is virtually assured. He will be paired with Charlie Gorman, of St. John, providing that the temperamental titleholder decides to make the trip. Robinson's forte is over a route as he indicated at Sarnac Lake and at Chicago last winter.

WOMEN POLICE NOT RESCUERS

Commandant Mary Allen Resents Status Being Forced Upon Her Corps.

EQUAL TO MEN

LONDON, Dec. 28 (by the Canadian Press).—Commandant Mary Allen,—head of the unofficial police known as the Women's Auxiliary Corps, is emphatic that the Corps should receive the same status as the regular police. She resents the tendency which she alleges is revealed by the Metropolitan Police Authority to make her Corps into a body of mere social rescue workers, which is the last thing they want.

"I could tell you," says Miss Allen, "how during the war I was called upon to settle a street fight. From the physical point we have nothing to fear, either from men or women. During the war period I personally arrested so many men that I never thought anything about it at all."

Nowadays there is only a very small section of women police attached to the Metropolitan Force. Chief Constables in other parts of the country have for the most part revealed a disinclination to enrol women police, believing that they are unable to perform services which cannot equally be done by men.

The Metropolitan Police Commissioner has published a warning to pensioned ex-members in regard to articles appearing in the press, written by pensioners, describing in more or less sensational style details of notorious crimes in which pensioners have had a hand in investigating. The Commissioner says he will not hesitate in such cases to recommend the application of certain powers under the Police Pension Act. This means that a pensioner who writes for the press upon matters which came under his notice during his service may have his pension withdrawn. The Commissioner intimates that he does not desire to interfere with pensioners carrying on business as private detectives.

"TWO ARABIAN KNIGHTS."

"Two Arabian Knights", with William Boyd, Mary Astor and Louis Wolheim in a post-war comedy film, will be the feature at the Capitol theatre tomorrow. Directed by Lewis Milestone, from Donald McGibney's McClure Mazagine story, the film was produced under supervision of John W. Considine, Jr.

Telling the adventures of Private W. Daingerfield Phelps, and Sergeant Peter McGaffney, following their escape from a prison camp to Arabia, "Two Arabian Knights", thumbs its nose at the serious spectacle of war. Its screen play was written by James T. O'Donohue, scenarist of the film, "What Price Glory?" and Wallace Smith.

One of the principal players was the original "Captain Flagg" of the Lawrence Stallings-Maxwell Anderson stage play, "What Price Glory?" Boyd was the star of "The Volga Boatman", and Mary Astor was leading lady for Douglas Fairbanks in "Don Q", and for John Barrymore in "Beau Brummel."

Where the war ends, the story of "Two Arabian Knights" begins. In no sense derived from Omar Khayyam's tales, the title is explained by the fact that the American buck private and top sergeant are knighted by an Emir in Arabia for no good reason. The private is less concerned with a knighthood than with the Emir's daughter, Anis Bin Adham, who is really Mary Astor. It is said that "Two Arabian Knights" employs divers avenues of laughters, ranging from the hysteria-arousing sequences of the doughboys' escape through electrified barb wire surrounding a prison camp to the spectacle of Louis Wolheim in his red flannels. Lewis Milestone, the 28-year old director of the comedy was assigned to the post by John W. Considine, Jr., because of his work as director of "The Caveman", Thomas Meighan's "The New Klondike", and his co-direction of Harold Lloyd's "The Kid Brother."

George Marion, Jr., wrote the titles for "Two Arabian Knights", and William Cameron Menzies, who designed the sets for "The Thief of Bagdad", which was inspired by Omar Khayam, is responsible for the settings.

"Two Arabian Knights" marks William Boyd's first major screen appearance since "The Volga Boatman", and Louis Wolheim's first film work in several years. So Wolheim's performance as Sergeant McGaffney met with so cordial a reception by the sponsore of 'Two Arabian Knights' that they signed him to a long term contract before that film was shown to the public. Consequently, Louis Wolheim, a screen comedian of the Wallace Beery type, will devote his time to cinema rather than on the stage, henceforth.

AT THE REGENT.

"HAWK OF HILLS" AUTHOR SAT ON KNEE OF BUFFALO BILL AND HEARD REAL TALES.

George Arthur Gray, author of "Hawk of the Hills" and other highly-successful Patheserial stories, traces his desire and ambition to become a writer back to his boyhood. He never had any other idea as to his future. He never wanted to be anything but an author.

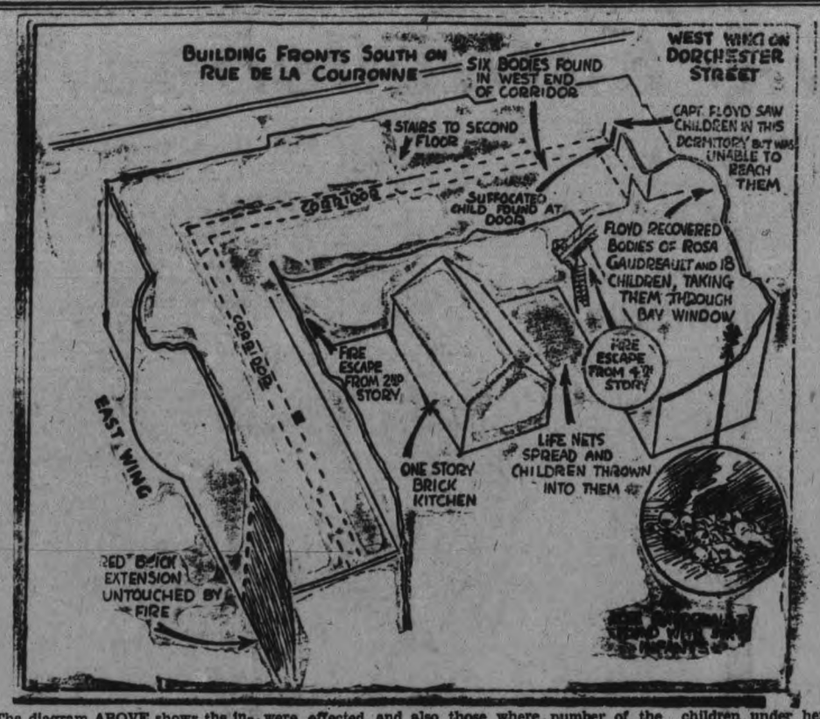
The friend of the father was Colonel William Cody, better known to fame as "Buffalo Bill. The time and place of the statement was in the priavte car of Buffalo Bill when his show was playing in Syracuse, N. Y., years and years ago.

Every time Buffalo Bill played Syracuse, George Gray's father would go down to visit his old friend. He took the ten-year-old son on one of these visits, and contrary to all ideas, the little child was not a bit afraid of the Indians who used to be in attendance to Buffalo Bill. There were several of them, always in their vivid coloring, war paint and fancy feathers, around the private car in every town, and on the occasion of little George's first visit to Buffalo Bill, the Indians developed into a source of interest for the lad.

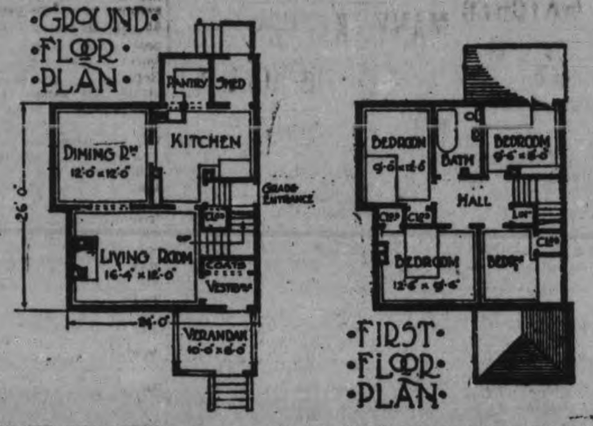
During that very visit, Buffalo Bill took George on his knee, and, as soon as he was there, the boy commenced asking questions about the Indians. The boy was entranced. He showed unusual interest in everything. The entire visit became one series of inquiries on the part of the boy.

Just before George and his father left the private car, Buffalo Bill asked the boy what he thought he would like to be when the grew up. Like aflash the child replied, "A good story teller like you are — a man who can tell kids the truth about Indians, bowboys, outlaws and the soldiers who saved the pretty girls."

"Hawk of the Hills," showing this week, commencing Thursday, at the Regent, is about soldiers rescuing a pretty woman from a band of Indians and outlaws. It shows that crime, no matter how well planned, always come to a bad end.



The diagram ABOVE shows the interior of the Hospice St. Charles, Quebec, in the burning of which 54 lives were lost. The diagram indicates the points at which rescues were effected, and also those where the bodies of the majority of the victims were found, including that of the heroic Rose Gaudreault, attendant in the hospice, who rescued a number of the children under her charge, and was finally overcome by the smoke and flames. She was found unconscious with half a dozen children lying across her body. She died soon after being removed.



A VERY SIMPLE YET ATTRACTIVE HOME

By Edgard M. Prain, Architect.

This attractive type of home embodies several distinctive features and deserves every consideration when you are making your choice.

In contrast to those having long, sloping gable roofs, it has the advantage of providing a second floor area equal to that of the first. Consequently, since the roof is not sheltering any uninhabitable floor space, the same total area may be obtained in a house of smaller dimensions. There is also another point, affecting the second floor, which is frequently overlooked by the inexperienced when comparing the floor plans of a house with gable roofs and one such as illustrated—they neglect to consider their preferences in the matter of partly sloping or full height ceilings.

The dimensions of this house have been kept down to almost a minimum, 24 ft. x 26 ft., but this restraint has not by any means been allowed to spread to the detriment of appearance or comfort. The design of the verandah and the protruding section of wall both fulfil the important mission of scattering monotony, very successfully, and considering the small space occupied, the accommodation within is most enthusing.

The vestibule, coat closet, stairway, grade entrance and another closet have been excellently planned and it is indeed seldom that such a small area will be found to provide all these things so acceptably.

A pleasing feature of the layout of the living room and vestibule, is the delightful view obtained from the latter point. One need only mention the fireplace with built in bookcases at either side. The latter are not shown on the plan but have since been suggested by the architect. The dimensions of the living room are 16 ft. 4 in. x 12 ft.

The dining room is 12 ft. x 12 ft. and is entered through French doors. Smaller, but augmented by the pantry and shed, the kitchen is modernly equipped and will be found very convenient.

On the next floor are four bedrooms; clothes closets; linen closet and bathroom—rather convincing proof of our first remarks.

The estimated cost of $7,000 includes oak floors and trim on the ground floor; oak floors and white enamelled fir trim on the first floor, and hot water heating.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications for this house should communicate with the architect direct. Adres, Mr. Edgar M. Prain, Winnipeg, Man.

SOME DON'TS

When a new home is planned it's brimful of DO'S—many things you must have and they're sure hard to choose. Kind friends and dear neighbors all exclaim "Oh! what bliss, you've a sweet little plan but you sure must change this." To include every item that your friends say you must, would require a bank roll as big as a trust. I've made it a rule when they ask my advice, to begin with some don'ts to keep down the price.

Don't build from a plan that's only a sketch, like a train without schedule you may land in the ditch.

Don't start with a plan that you think is okay, and ask us to change it when the job's under way.

Don't forget that those changes cost money and time, when we bill you for "extras" don't grumble and whine.

Don't ask for a house full of fancies and frills, they're expensive things too and run up the bills.

Don't ask for gold door knobs, 'twould hardly be fair, if fifty ($50)'s the limit for your finish hardware.

Don't forget that the way to keep the cost down, is to limit your needs when you have your plans drawn.

Don't jump at low bids even though they entice, in the end they may prove to be highest in price.

Express Companies To Reduce Rates

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press.) — Canadian Express Companies announced reduced rates for the shipment of packages up to 15 pounds in weight and not over three and a half feet in length, width or depth. The new schedule has been filed with the board of railway commissioners for Canada by the Express Traffic Association. The change takes effect Jan. 1, and continues the former arrangement of protection against loss or damage up to fifty dollars without extra cost.

ALBION BURIED IN BLANKET OF DEEPEST SNOW

TRAFFIC BLOCKED.

Great Britain Experiences Variety of Weather Within Week's Time.

LONDON, Dec. 30. — Canadian Press. — It has been fortunate for King George's subjects, snowed up in a most unprecedented manner this Christmastide that the fates decreed that His Majesty, as though in prescient anticipation, would have proclaimed one extra day national holiday.

This extra day has been a real boon, not only for humble workers, to enable them to stay at home until the worst aspects of the blizzard were partly obliterated, but also for the wealthier classes marooned in distant parts of the country by snow-clogged roads, impassable for motors.

By the time business resumes tomorrow, locomotion, at least in the towns and cities, will again be possible without extra discomfort, such as was experienced on Monday and yesterday. Though the blizzard continued in some of the southern and eastern sections of England yesterday afternoon, a sharp frost set in last night and the snow ceased.

Many stories are coming to hand of automobiles, omnibuses and other vehicles stranded on country roads in huge snowdrifts, remote villages isolated and suffering from lack of food supplies, of farm animals needing to be dug from the drifts; while the strange sight was witnessed, even in London, of adventurous souls walking the streets on skis and snowshoes.

Variety of Weather.

In a few short days England has experienced rain and snow, a silver frost and a blizzard. In some distant places drifts as high as 12 to 16 feet are reported For a day or two there was skating on the ice that covered the roads and the streets of many towns and the doctors attended to hundreds of cases of fractured and bruised limbs in London alone.

The coast towns have suffered severely from the force of the gales, and conditions prevailed yesterday on the French as well as the British shores of the Channel, which compelled stoppage of various sea and air services. There is still some danger of serious floods in the Thames Valley and elsewhere when the snow melts.

Although there has been a large number of minor accidents and a few deaths, no accidents at sea or on the land are reported involving heavy death toll.

OLD MASTERS

I saw him once before,
As he passed by the door,
  And again
The pavement stones resound,
As he totters o'er the ground
  With his cane.

I know it is a sin
For me to sit and grin
  At him here;
But the old three-cornered hat,
And the breeches, and all that,
  Are so queer!

And if I should live to be
The last leaf upon the tree
  In the spring,
Let them smile, as I do now,
At the old forsaken bough
  Where I cling.

Salesman For Face Cream Learns a Good Lesson

Mr. Vandivier, New York, writes: "I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples and blackheads, I tried one salve after another with no results. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—constipation. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking your vegetable laxative pills for constipation my skin took on a new healthy look." Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY BUYS A SQUEEZIE

"Where's the fire, Uncle Wiggily? Where's the fire?" grunted Mr. Twistytail, the fat pig gentleman, as he rushed out of his pen house and stopped the rabbit who was hopping past.

"Fire?" questioned Mr. Longears. "Who said anything about a fire? I didn't and I'm not going to one. But I know where there is one."

"Where?" asked the pig, eagerly.

"In your stove!" chuckled the bunny, pointing to the smoke rolling out of Mr. Twistytail's chimney. "Ha! Ho! There's a fire in your stove!"

"Oh, I know that!" grunted the pig, much disappointed. "But I thought you were going to a regular fire. Then where's the circus?"

"Circus? Fire? Say, what's the matter with you this afternoon, my dear Twisty, that you ask such funny questions? Why do you do it?"

In answer Mr. Twistytail pointed to the forty 'leven little boy and girl rabbits strung out behind Uncle Wiggily in a long procession.

"Do you know where there is one, Twisty?"

"I thought surely you were taking them to see a fire or a circus," grunted the pig.

"No," replied Uncle Wiggily, "we are looking for a money vine. You see," he explained, "when I brought home the gold combs to Baby Bunty, so she could cure her doll Shooie by smoothing her hair, all the other rabbit children begged me for pennies to buy lollypops. I didn't have forty 'leven pennies in my pocket so Nurse Jane said I should look for a money vine. Do you know where there is one Twisty?"

"No, but I know where there's a bank," said the fat pig.

"Do you? Where?" eagerly asked Uncle Wiggily. He knew there was money in the bank. "Where is it?" he asked.

"Over there" grunted the pig, pointing with his paw to a big bank of snow. "Ha! Ha!" he chuckled. "You fooled me and now I've fooled you, so we're even! See if there's any money in that bank of snow, Unkie Wig!" Wrinkling his rubbery nose into a funny sort of fasle face, Mr. Twistytail waddled back into his pen house and shut the door.

"Is there any money in the snow bank, Daddicums?" asked Tooter.

"Not a penny, my dear, unless some one lost it there," answered Mr. Longears. "However, perhaps we shall find the money vine. Come on, we must look farther."

So the big rabbit gentleman and the little bunnies hopped along and soon they reached the woods. And there, climbing up the side of a tree, was a a dried vine, on which hung dried leaves that sparkled in the sun like pieces of silver.

"Oh, look at the pennies!" cried Tooter.

"Money! Money!" shouted Jingle.

"Bright, new money!" laughed her twin sister, Jangle.

"Yes, I think we have found the money vine," said Uncle Wiggily. "I did not believe there could be one, but so it has turned out. Nurse Jane was right. Help yourselves, my dears."

So the little rabbits began picking the bright, silvery leaves that Jack Frost had forgotten to strip off the vine. And if you children will ask your grandmothers or grandfathers who may have lived in the country about the money vine, I am sure they will remember it. Some call it the shilling plant, for the leaves are as bright as new silver shillings.

Anyhow the forty 'leven little bunnies filled their pockets with shiny leaf pennies from the money vine and then Uncle Wiggily took them to the candy shop, where they bought lollypops.

"Aren't you going to buy a lollypop, Unkie Wig?" asked Baby Bunty, who was the forty twelfth bunny child, and an orphan adopted.

"No, I think I won't buy a lollypop," said the rabbit gentleman. "It is too near my dinner time. I would spoil my appetite."

"Then why don't you buy a squeezie? asked Tooter, who, with Scooter, was taking the waxed paper off his licorice lollypop. "Buy a squeezie, Daddicums!"

"What's a squeezie?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"There's one!" cried Tooter, pointing to a pile of toys on the shop counter. "Go on, buy it, Daddicums. You can have a lot of fun with it, and when you get tired if it I'll play with it."

"All right," agreed Mr. Longears. So he bought the squeezie, and what it turned out to be and how he had fun with it you shall hear in the next story. It is going to be called Uncle Wiggily and the woll's eye—that is if the paper boy doesn't tear his stockings when he climbs up the lamp post to see what time it is.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK McCOY

"The Fast Way to Health"

© 1926 McCOY HEALTH SERVICE - LOS ANGELES - CAL.

NO LIFE WITHOUT WATER

Most people drink whatever amount of water they are thirsty for, and likewise eat whatever kind and amounts of food which please their appetites or fancies.

I find that all which has been written and taught about preventing disease through proper habits of living is almost entirely a waste of effort, as not one seems to be really interested in health until he is sick. Then, and then only, will he listen to reason about changing his bad habits to good ones. Therefore, these daily health articles are written primarily for those who know they are not perfectly well, and who wish to have health more abundantly.

In our study of food science, we are constantly confronted with the fact that water is the most important element in the body; in many ways even more important than proteins, starches, and the minerals out of which the tissues are constructed.

Many do not realize that over two thirds of the body is water and only one third made up of the other elements.

While water cannot be considered strictly a food, it is a solvent in which all foods are dissolved, and the indispensable agent which carries these food materials to every cell of the body.

No organic life could exist without water, and, while in the plant kingdom the various forms of vegetable life are forced to secure their water from the soil in which they live, animals, on the other hand, have the ability to change their location, and are not entirely dependent upon any particular source of water supply.

One of the distinguishing differences between mineral and vegetable life is that rocks cannot of their own desire change their location, while plants do move about to some extent, and because of an inherent need for two things—WATER and SUNLIGHT.

The first birth of organic life, both vegetable and animal, came from the sea, and up through the Palaeozoic jungles to the present time, organic life has been changed and controlled by the varying balance of the two elements of water and sunlight.

In man's evolutionary progress water has been always an important determining factor. Civilizations have flourished where water was abundant, and the uninhabited portions of the world are those places where the least water exists in an available form.

There can be no life without water, and the highest forms of life are those where the water supply has been regulated to meet the demands of both vegetation and animal life.

We now use water scientifically to grow our crops, and we water our domestic stock to furnish the best supply of meat and milk. Yet, we who have an abundance of available water do not often think about what would be the best quantity of water to use to meet our body's daily requirements. Drinking and eating haphazardly, we have a consequent haphazard health or sickness!

Those who are suffering from any kind of physical disorder can do well to find out how much water their bodies require, both for the maintenance of health, and its helpful use in the cure of existent disease.

Questions and Answers.

Question: X.Y.Z. asks: "Will you kindly state through the column whether or not you approve of sulphur for blood purification? Also, whether there is any cure for pinguecula or pterygium."

Answer: No, to the question on sulphur. It is much better to fast and diet scientifically to bring about blood purification. The diseases you have named mean formations on the cornea of the eye which are due to irritations from some cause such as outside infection through dust or bacteria, or from an over-acid secretion of the eye lubricants. This trouble can be checked and even cured by proper dieting and the use of a simple eye wash applied several times daily.

Question: Mrs. J.M.P. writes: "You say when making Melba toast to use white bread and cut all the crust away. Why not use wholewheat, and leave crust on the slices?"

Answer: I suggest cutting away the crust as it has already been "toasted" in the original baking of the loaf, and will burn before the inside of the slice is sufficiently dextrinized. The average wholewheat bread, which is made partly of white flour, may be used in making Melba toast, but the real wholewheat bread, if toasted through, develops a ritter taste because of the burning of the protein and bran elements. Wholewheat bread only partially toasted makes an excellent food if there is no reason why you should not use the starch which it contains.

Question: K. L. asks: "What is arthritis—what are its causes? Everyone seems to have a different definition for it."

Answer: Arthritis simply means rheumatism in the joints. Acute inflammatory rheumatism is sometimes found in the muscles, but most rheumatism, including arthritis, comes from a deposit of rheumatic toxins in the joints.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XLV — by Nicholas Afonsky

In August, 1921, a terrible calamity of the air occurred when the R-38, which the United States had bought from England, was destroyed over Hull, England, with the death of forty-four English and American officers and men. The wrecked dirigible fell into the river, where many of the men were drowned.

The next year—in February, 1922—the Roma, bought from the Italian government by the United States, crashed to earth at Hamaton Roads army base in Virginia, and burst into flame. Thirty-four men were killed. This catastrophe caused indignant criticism of the government for using hydrogen, instead of helium, in our dirigibles.

In October, 1924, the German dirigible, ZR-3, renamed the Los Angeles, was flown from Germany to Lakehurst, New Jersey, 5,066 miles, in about 81 hours. The airship was delivered to United States navy officials under the terms of the Versailles treaty. Leaving Germany on October 12, she reached Lakehurst on October 15.

The following year another United States navy dirigible, the giant Shenandoah, which had made some thrilling and successful flights, was wrecked by a severe storm over Ohio. Fourteen members of the crew were killed, including Commander Landsdowne. The survivors, some of them injured, had most harrowing experiences.

M. J. RODDEN TO HANDLE FIRST O.H.A. GAME HERE

Well Known Referee Slated To Officiate in Marlboro Fixture.

A REAL FIGHT.

Visitors Will Be Strong, But Petes Will Give Them Tough Battle.

The O. H. A. has delegated M. J. Rodden to handle to-morrow night's senior game at Brock street rink, which starts the O.H.A. season off with a bang and brings Harry Watson's fast Toronto Marlboros into action against the 1927-28 edition of the Petes. Mr. Rodden knows his cauliflowers, so to speak, and the teams will have to stick strictly to hockey with him on the job.

In spite of the mild weather the ice has been holding up well and it is expected that conditions will be good to-morrow night. Both teams like fast going.

The reserved seat plan is open and tickets are in demand. The Petes deserve a big crowd at their opening fixture inasmuch as they are under heavy expense in carrying on in the senior loop and they have refrained from taking up the usual public subscription on behalf of the team this year, deciding to rely upon the fans to provide sufficient support. With the Marlboros as the attraction to-morrow night there is every reason to expect that there will be an old time crowd on the side lines.

The game is billed for 8.30 o'clock sharp.

ONLY ONE TEAM ENTERS LEAGUE

Campbellford Hockey Executive Disappointed With Response.

HYDRO HAS ENTERED.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 28.—Official entries for the town hockey league were supposed to have been in the hands of the secretary of the executive by six o'clock on Monday night ,but at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, there had been none received. Just before six, the Hydro Athletic Association submitted its formal proposition to put a team in the league.

This lack of co-operation on the part of the players and associations who were supposed to have been interested is very disheartening to the executive. Already terms for games and practices have been received from Davidson's Arena, and the matter has been discussed with the management of Covert's Arena, but Mr. Covert would not give any definite or binding statement, and it is expected that the majority of games will be played at Davidson's Arena. This rink is fast nearing completion, and by to-night the exterior will be almost if not entirely completed. It is expected that flooding will begin at once then, and in a few days there will be ice for skating and hockey. Had the contractor not been handicapped by the high windstorm which wrecked the partially completed building, it is certain that there would be ice there now.

MOVING EAST.

Ethel Catherwood of Saskatoon, the sensational Western Canadian girl high jumper, who won the Canadian high jump championship and set up a new record of 5 feet 2 inches last summer, will in all probability be an addition to Ontario's athletic strength after the first of the year. Her manager says she is coming east to make her home.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

In Peterborough Churches

St. Peter's Cathedral

The Midnight Mass at St. Peter's cathedral, always a colorful and beautiful inauguration of Christmas Day, was exceptionally well attended on Saturday night, and was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, assisted by Rev. Fathers Costello, W. Meagher, K. Corkery and Rev. Charles Begley and E. Welsh. The music for the Mass, already described in detail, and directed by Miss Hurley, organist, was exceptionally well rendered by the choir, whose expert training was evident in the splendid volume of harmonising tone that intoned the beautiful Latin Mass. The Children's Choir also formed a procession as a prelude to the service, singing Christmas carols around the Crib placed within the sanctuary, which was ablaze with lights in candelabra and electroliers, and profusely decorated with flowers on the high and side altars.

The Pontifical High Mass concluded with a message from His Lordship, wishing his congregation a happy and holy Christmastide and enjoining upon them a realization of the real meaning of the festival, in the celebration of the birth of the Infant Saviour. Two low Masses followed immediately.

Those assisting at the door and as ushers on Christmas Day included the following gentlemen: Messrs. F. J. Overend, M. Whaley, M. Sharpe, J. J. Doris, J. R. Corkery, J. J. Duffus, W. Hickey, J. F. McCarthy, A. Doherty, William Bennett, William Merrell, N. Phelan, T. Grant, H. Gainey, J. Begley and Dr. R. Sheehy.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN.

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, with the other city churches, and in keeping with the season of the greatest event in history, observed the Christmastide by special services, no fewer than three, the morning and evening diets, and an open session of the Sabbath School.

In the Morning.

The message in the morning was entitled "Caesar and Christmas." This was of an inspiring and thoughtful nature. With the sermon was a program of music which lent a beautiful touch to the occasion. Martin B. Chenhall, the organist and choirmaster, has been working assiduously for some time past with music numbers for this day of days, and surpassed himself in this respect.

The Music.

Anthem—"There Were Shepherds" (solo by Mrs. Walter Byers).

Anthem—"Star of the Orient".

Postlude—"Tollite Hostras" (oratorio "Noel", Saintsaens).

Christmas hymns by the congregation.

Evening Music.

The program in the evening was more pretentious, including as it did several carols, of many years ago, selections from the "Messiah", and anthems, all of the Christmas spirit. The choristers showed care in training by Mr. Chenhall, and the tuneful music was pleasing to the large congregation. The numbers were:

Organ — "Choeur Ecclesistique" (Vincent).

"A Christmas Fantasy" in Old English.

Carols (Best) comprising six numbers.

Chorus—"The Three Ships" (Colin Taylor). Words by Poet Laureate Noyes.

Duet—"The Song of the Angels" (Stults)—Misses Greta LeBarr and Bertha Hill.

Octette—"Sleep Holy Babe" (Pickells).

Solo and chorus—"O, Thou That Tellest" (Handel's Messiah); soloist, Mrs. A. Burrows.

Festival Carol—"Ring Out, Wild Bells" (Fletcher), from Tennyson's "In Memoriam."

The Sabbath School.

The open session of the Sabbath School brought out a large number of scholars and friends, when a splendid address was listened to, "A Sprig of Holly." The hymns and special music on the organ and from the orchestra all added to the special occasion. The Sabbath school officers are looking forward to the time when there will be three hundred on the roll—and this is not far in the offing.

A word might be said about the decoration of the church. The windows around the auditorium were bright with evergreens, and on the pulpit platform were miniature Christmas trees with sparkling tinsel and bells, these surmounted by a star. Around the choir loft, too, were ferns and pot flowers. The whole day was one of inspiration and pleasure, both to the regular worshippers and many holiday visitors.

JUNIOR TEAMS TO PLAY NEXT WEEK

Both Local Outfits Will Get Plenty of Action.

Both Peterborough's Junior O.H.A. teams will get into action next week.

On Monday Lew Lebarr's crew tackle Oshawa in the Motor City, one of the toughest games of their schedule, and on Wednesday night will play their first home game with Whitby as their guests.

The St. John's team make their O.H.A. debut on Tuesday night when they invade Lindsay, and local fans will get a chance to look the new team over on Friday of next week, when the Midgets will be here for the second game of the series.

NEW SCHOOL IS INSPECTED

sections served by that village. People can surely spend as much on education as on smoke.

Mr. Lee's remarks on tobacco brought titters from the ladies until he referred to the large amount spent on candies and chewing gum. "Oh! a lot of things like that." Somebody has said that people can always afford what they want badly, and he hoped the people wouldn't feel the burden of this school too heavy.

Considering the grimy walls and town maps of some schools, continued Mr Lees, he was not surprised that some children did play truant, preferring the woods and fields. One of the encouraging signs of the times is that the mothers are beginning to take an interest and through the home and school associations are improving the schools.

He had found that the children have no respect for a dirty, ugly school Mr. Peck had often been in a school for a political meeting, but never the morning after. Then the floors are covered with tobacco juice and the books torn. The older people had shown just how much respect they had carried away from the school they had attended. He hoped the children would exert themselves to keep the school clean and pleasant.

Mr. Lees recalled that when he came to this inspectorate about eighteen years ago there had been a one roomed school. Then another room was added. May's school was built, incorporating one of the old rooms,and now has five rooms. This new school has four more, three of which will be in use right away.

The speaker urged the parents to take an interest in the school and visit it, but not with a club. Approaching the teacher in a spirit of co-operation would produce results as the relationship between the teacher and pupils would be improved.

H. B. Rye.

H. B. Rye remarked that it was dangerous ground for a man seeking municipal office. He recalled the school which had served the section 38 years ago and spoke of the great strides which had been made in what the people now think necessary for education. He reminded them that they would have to pay for these luxuries and that in a very short time they would have to build a new school in the north end of the section, which is becoming built up. There had been difference of opinion about the size of the building, but Mr. Rye thought that a two-roomed building would have been too small. He thought the name of Mr. Finnie, the builder, should be included in the congratulations.

Mr. Rye closed with an appeal to the ratepayers to attend the school meeting tonight in May's School to elect a trustee. Usually, he said, there are hardly enough present to do business.

T. M. Hunter, Mr. Rye's opponent for the reeveship, also harked back to the school of his early days, when he could look through the chinks between the logs. He congratulated the trustees, remarking that he did not think such young fellows could have planned so shrewdly. The section is complicated, with rural and urban residents, some of whom envy the people of Claraday.

History shows, continued Mr. Hunter, that the countries where there is little education are the most lawless and troublesome.

Bert May

Bert May, one of the trustees, gave a brief resume of the business since the school had been authorized last May, and the amount fixed at $30,000. The tenders on the first plans were over $40,000. When provisions for enlargement were left out$ 33,790 was the lowest figure. Mr. Finne had then been engaged and had built the school by day labor, and as a result there is a balance of about $1,500. Great credit was given the builder by the speaker for his honest, efficient work in supervising the construction.

Harvey Webber

Harvey Webber pointed out that he had opposed the school when it was proposed and still had objections, but when the people voted for it he had tried to co-operate with his fellow trustees in building carefully. While he would get no benefit from it himself, he felt that the money had been well spent and full value received. He asked the ratepapers to see that Mr. Arnott is re-elected, as he would work as well for the rural part of the section as well as he has for the urban part.

W. J. Stacey

W. J. Stacey, principal of May's School, expressed the hope that the $1,500 surplus would be used for repairs to that building. The building is an incentive to the pupils and he had no idea this new one was such a nice building. He pointed out that the teachers work a great many more hours than some people give them credit for and asked that the parents co-operate with them in their work.

A vocal solo by Mrs. McLaren, cornet solos by Mr. Austin, violin solos by Mr. Robertson, and a piano solo by Miss Webber comprised the musical part of the program, and were much enjoyed.

Jolly Time Spent By Members of St. George's Branch.

The A.Y.P.A. of St. George's Church held their annual Christmas party last evening in the Church basement. During the afternoon several of the members had spent their time decorating the room and giving it a very festive appearance. The opening proceedings were in charge of the Vice-President, Miss M. Scott, after which the program of music and games was carried out.

This included a vocal solo by Rev. J. L. Hughes; a recitation by Mrs. Hughes, and violin selection by A. Robertson. Little Miss Aileen Hughes delighted the audience with her quaint singing of two little songs, for which she received hearty applause.

The Christmas tree, prettily decorated and electrically lighted, was then unloaded, Sam Robertson humorously playing the role of Father Christmas.

The first gift was a handsome farm which Father Christmas asked the Rev. and Mrs. Hughes to accept from the branch. Mr. Hughes was asked to come forward and receive the gift and read out the accompanying verse. Mr. Hughes also expressed sincere thanks for the gift. Great mirth and merriment prevailed as each member on receiving his or her gift was asked to read out the accompanying words.

The serving of refreshments followed, after which a short time was spent in dancing. The Rector referred to the success of the evening and congratulated the social committee on the way they had carried out their work. Miss Ida Parkes proposed a vote of thanks to the committee, this being seconded by Leslie Moore, Miss Hannah Scott, convenor, suitably replied.

HENDERSON. — Born on December 23rd, to Mrs. W. G. Henderson of Otonabee, a daughter—(Betty Louise.)

OBITUARY

SISTER M. HONORA.

On Sunday, Dec. 25th, the death of Reverend Sister M. Honora Frawley took place at St. Joseph's Hospital, after an illness of about three months. The funeral mass was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, at 9 a.m., Tuesday, December 27th, in the Chapel of the Sacred Heart, Mount St. Joseph.

Her father, Mr. J. Frawley, and her sister from Warwick, Quebec, and relatives, Mr. and Miss Williams, of Ottawa, were present at the funeral.

THOMAS WHIBBS.

The funeral of the late Thomas Whibbs took place on Tuesday morning, December 23, from his late residence to St. Joseph's Church and Cemetery, Douro, the mass being sung by Rev. Father J. McGuire. The funeral was one of the largest to take place in the township for some time.

Left to mourn are two daughters, Mrs. Frank Hogan, at home, Mrs. John Ryan, also of Douro, and five sons, George, of the Canadian West, Michael, Thomas and Leo, of Douro, and Joseph of Oshawa.

The pallbearers were four of the above, namely, Michael, Thomas, Joseph and Leo, and two sons-in-law, Frank Young of Ennismore and John Ryan, of Douro.

FREDERICK M. HAWLEY.

Many of the older citizens of the town were very much shocked to hear of the death in Toronto of Frederick Morley Hawley, on Saturday, December 24th. The late Mr. Hawley was in his fifty-third year and was the fourth son of one of the pioneer families of Campbellford. More than fifty years ago Mr. and Mrs. Milo A. Hawley moved to Campbellford, where Mr. Hawley continued his business, where the Redden hardware now stands. After many years of successful business, Mr. Hawley retired from business and followed less strenuous activities.

Fred, the fourth son, was of a very happy disposition and was known everywhere for his keen sense of humor and ability to smile when everything went dead wrong. He left school at the age of sixteen and entered the Aiken drug store as telegraph operator. At that time the telegraph instrument was housed there and controlled by Mr. Aiken. A few years later he moved to Cobourg, where he had charge of the Canadian Express agency there. While there he married Olive Wright a Cobourg girl, and later they moved to Parry Sound, where Mr. Hawley again entered the drug business, but only remained a short time before becoming associated with the Ocean Accident Insurance Company in Toronto and removed to that city. Some years later, he severed his connection with that company and took a position with the Aetna Insurance Company with which he was still associated at the time of his death.

Although known to be in poor health, Mr. Hawley's condition was not considered as serious till Monday, December 19th when he suffered a partial paralytic stroke. Under medical care previously, he was at once given every attention, but his condition was fatal. Death came Saturday, December 24th. The remains were brought to Campbellford for interment in Mount Pleasant cemetery in accordance with an oft expressed wish of the deceased. The funeral service was held at the residence of Mrs. S. J. West, Canrobert and Sebastapol streets, at ten o'clock yesterday morning, the Rev. Ernest Harston, St. John's United church, officiating both at the service at the house and at the grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. J. A. Irwin, J. A. Anderson, J. P. Archer, Charles Benor, M. G. McCarty (Toronto) and C. W. Palliser. Of these, three at least were school mates of the deceased, and all were very close friends.

The late Mr. Hawley is survived by his widow, who resides in Toronto, his daughter Louise, at home, and his son William E. Hawley of New Westminster, B.C. There are also three brothers, William of Calgary, Charles of Winnipeg, and Harry of Saginaw, Michigan. Miss L. M. Hawley, the only sister, who resides in Toronto, was the only member of the family who was able to arrive in Campbellford in time for the funeral service. Miss Hawley is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wood, Front street.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes to the memory of the late Mr. Hawley were two wreaths from the Granite Club, Toronto, one from the Aetna Insurance Company and many more from intimate friends. The sincerest sympathy is extended to Miss Hawley and her brothers, and to the members of the family of the deceased.

Several years ago Mr. Foley opened a general insurance office and the venture proved successful.

Soon after taking up his residence in Rochester, Mr. Foley made application for naturalization. His love for his adopted country was manifested in many acts. He was an ardent supporter of the city manager form of government and worked faithfully for the City Manager League.

Surviving relatives are his wife, Gertrude; a son, John F. Foley; a daughter, Mary P. Foley; four brothers, William J., Thomas R., Michael H. and Leo J. Foley, and five sisters, Mrs. James J. Hanrahan, Mrs. William F. Butler, Kathryn E., Nora E. and Dr. Mary Jane Foley, all of Rochester.

Mr. Foley was a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, and Wah-Be Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men.

PROSECUTION NOT SATISFIED WITH HICKMAN'S CONFESSION

Believe Important Facts Withheld Concerning Death of School Girl.

SEEK NEW STATEMENT.

Officials Dispute Over Cause of Marion Parker's Death.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., December 29, Canadian Press. — District Attorney Asa Keyes late yesterday declared his belief that William E. Hickman, the confessed kidnapper and slayer of Marian Parker, had withheld important facts in his lengtny statement concerning the death of the 12 year old school girl.

The prosecutor indicated that he would seek a new and more comprehensive statement from Hickman, which he believed would remove certain obscurities in the story of the crime

Elden McFarland, assistant United States attorney, and a deputy United States marshall, questioned Hickman in his cell in connection with the alleged stealing in Kansas City Mo., by Hickman of the automobile, in which Marian Parker was taken from school on December 15 An indictment, charging violation of the Dyer act was returned against Hickman by the Federal Grand Jury several days ago.

Conjecture as to whether Hickman would plead guilty or not guilty to murder was overshadowed yesterday by a controversy which arose between District Attorney Keyes and County Autopsy Surgeon Dr. A. F. Wagner, [illegible] to whether cause of the girl's death.

Officials Dispute.

Dr. Wagner's report that he believed death was due to fright and exhaustion rather than from the towel which Hickman confessed he drew tightly around the girl's neck to strangle her, was met by a retort from Keyes that the report meant nothing to him. The district attorney was convinced, he said, that the girl had been choked to death, but whether she was or not, he would demand the death penalty for the confessed kidnapper.

The autopsy surgeon's report was based principally on the fact that the conditions usually present after strangulation were entirely absent, and that since no poison was found in the stomach, death probably was due to heart failure induced by fright.

Keyes said that Wagner's friendship for the Parker girl misled him in his conclusions. The surgeon was the next door neighbor of the Parker family.

Hickman is scheduled to be arraigned to-day at 2 p.m. By that time, Jerome Walsh an attorney engaged by Hickman's mother at Kansas City, is expected to be in court representing the youthful defendant. Though Hickman reiterated yesterday that he would enter a plea of guilty in view of his "complete confession," rumors were current that he probably would decide to take his chance in a jury trial.

Any move for delay on the part of Hickman's counsel would be opposed vigorously Keyes said."Hickman will get a fair trial" the district attorney added, "but there is going to be no delay."

SNOWDEN RESIGNS FROM LABOR PARTY

Need For Independent Organization No Longer Exists, He Says.

LONDON Dec. 29, Canadian Press. —Because he feels that the need for an independent Labor party, a purely Socialistic wing of the Labor movement, no longer exists, Philip Snowden, former Chancellor of the Exchequer has resigned from the party.

Snowden, who has been a member of the party for 34 years, said that since the Labor party permitted individual membership and adopted a definite socialistic basis it adequately fulfills all the purposes for which the independent party originally existed.

Instruct Children In Aims of League

GENEVA, Dec. 29.— (A.P.)— Canada is instructing her future citizens in the aims of the League of Nations.

Ottawa informed the League yesterday that Manitoba had prepared a special chapter on the League which will be included in school readers and has adopted regulations requiring all students of the tenth grade in secondary schools to study a special pamphlet drawn up by the Canadian League of Nations Society.

The lieutenant-governor of the province of Saskatchewan has made arrangements for study of the League in schools in that province, and Ottawa has called the attention of all provincial governments to the importance of teaching the doctrines of the League.

Indians Drowned While Fording River

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press.)— Despatches from Temuco report the drowning yesterday of eight Araucano Indians while attempting to cross the River Cautin on horseback.

The Indians were returning to their homes after a festival at a native gathering. Missing the shallow fords, the Indians floundered into deep waters and were swept away by the swiftly flowing current. Among those who perished were numerous women and children.

MORE CRIMES ARE REVEALED BY MURDERER

Hickman Confesses That He and Companion Slew Druggist.

DURING HOLD-UP.

Accomplice Named Corroborates Slayer's Tale of Robberies and Murder.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., December 29 (Canadian Press). — A confession to two murders in addition to scores of other crimes, to-day found William Edward Hickman linked with Welby Hunt, Alhambra, Calif., youth, in the slaying of a druggist in a hold-up a year ago.

Hickman, the nineteen-year-old "fox," who admitted kidnapping and murdering Marian Parker, weakened before relentless questioning, and late last night confessed he shot and killed Ivy Thoms, a Rosehill, Calif., druggist.

Hunt, implicated by Hickman in the shooting of Thoms last December, was arrested and made a confession which corroborated that of Hickman. Hunt denied, however, that it was he who fired the shot which killed Thoms, as the youths attempted to rob his store. A string of other crimes was recounted in Hickman's newest confession.

Wanted in Milwaukee?

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—The possibility that William Hickman, confessed slayer of Marian Parker in Los Angeles, may have been involved in a somewhat similar slaying near here last October of seventeen-year-old Lillian Graef, was receiving careful police consideration today.

The Graef girl was strangled to death after she had accepted a "blind date" with a man known to her only as "Jack."

Police have asked the Los Angeles authorities to check with Hickman his movements on that date, which was about the time he was living in Chicago.

MONEY IN BOLL WEEVILS.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 29.—Picking boll weevils off of cotton sometimes is more lucrative than picking the cotton itself. J. R. O. Lindsey recently shipped 72,000 of the pests to the Florida State Agricultural College at $2.50 a thousand. At that rate, a fast picker could earn $10 a day.

The formal presentation was gracefully made by Wor. Bro. H. Gillespie of Corinthian Lodge.

FOOD SHORTAGE MOST SERIOUS

Perils of Starvation Growing in Snow-Bound English Villages.

SUPPLIES EXHAUSTED.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—(United Press.) —The peril of starvation to villages in the south of England particularly in Hampshire Wiltshire and Devon, owing to their being hemmed in by huge snow drifts, is becoming very real. Some places the drifts are so high that the roads are blocked for miles and it is impossible to reach those isolated hamlets and homesteads not on the railroads

Supplies are running out and desperate efforts are being made to clear a way through to the sufferers, but so far the snow has defied all relief workers. At present there is no sign of a thaw and along the Thames a thaw is not wanted because it would cause disastrous floods.

The south of England is not prepared for heavy falls of snow and no emergency organization exists, such as is usual in the north. It is pointed out that the hemmed in villages could not have had more than a few days' supplies on hand and that these must be exhausted within two days at least.

MAN AGED 85 IS SENTENCED

Inmate of Elgin County Home Assaulted the Superintendent.

VIGOROUS MAN.

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 29.—Found to be too old to be committed to a reformatory or a prison farm, and undesired at the Elgin House of Industry, because of his alleged disturbing nature, Joseph Schram, giving his age as 83 or 85, was yesterday afternoon sentenced to three years in Portsmouth Penitentiary by Magistrate Maxwell in county police cout, on conviction last week of assaulting Frederick Ingram, keeper of the House of Industry.

It is the second time this year that the aged man has been convicted of assault and battery.

In sentencing him, Magistrate Maxwell made it clear that he did so only because he saw no other course to follow. He told of talking to Schram in private on Tuesday afternoon, but of being unable to make the old man realize the error of his ways, Schram maintaining that he was justified in anything he did.

Grey Hairs Shamed.

In court yesterday Schram declared himself innocent, and said that if he went to prison his grey head would be bowed in shame. Court officers expressed doubt as to the man's age. He has the physique of a man of sixty-five or seventy. He claims to have fought with the Northern forces in the American Civil War, and to have been the first Elgin man to take up arms against the Fenians. He also helped subdue Louis Riel and his half-breeds in the Northwest Rebellion. He was living in Rodney when he was committed to the House of Industry about three years ago.

The court was told that he has been in the habit of leaving the institution without permission, and returning at his pleasure.

CYCLIST KILLED BY MOTOR TRUCK

Walter H. Gomme, of Oshawa, Leaves Wife and Three Children.

OSHAWA, Ont., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Walter H. Gomme, Buena Vista Avenue, was almost instantly killed today when the bicycle he was riding was hit by a truck on King Street West. The truck, which is owned by the Quinte Transport Company, Trenton, was in charge of Morley Smith, travelling to Belleville from Toronto. Gomme leaves a wife and three children.

Argue Over Penalty; Fight Ends Fatally

LONE PINE, Calif., Dec. 29 (United Press).—The seriously-wounded survivors of a gun duel inspired by an argument over the appropriate punishment for Edward Hickman, confessed kidnapper-killer of little Marion Parker, was exonerated by a coroner's jury on Tuesday. According to evidence presented, William Leask, 35, shot and killed John Dester, 50, when the pair discarded words for guns in the Hickman penalty controversy. Leask perhaps was fatally wounded.

Live Snakes Not Enough Clothing Stage Dancer Learns In Buda Pest

BUDAPEST, Dec. 29 (United Press).—Live snakes as clothing are frowned upon by the city authorities, especially when a lone serpent constitutes the costume in which a dancer wishes to appear on the public stage.

Advertised the greatest, as well as the latest hit in Paris, a nude dancer, Arimande Banu, arrived here recently. In one of her numbers she appeared as "Nature." All clothing being taboo as the invention of man, Mlle. Banu wore some pink powder and a live snake around her neck. "She and her necking" partner attracted full houses for three nights. Then the police were attracted. But the Blue Law men feared to venture too close to the lady while the snake was part of her. When the wriggler was put to bed in his box back stage the long arm of the law reached out and brought the dancer to court.

Mlle. Banu offered to give all police free tickets to her show. But that wasn't enough inducement. She now threatens to bring suit again the theatre director who with full knowledge that Budapest cannot appreciate her kind of art dared to sign a contract with her.

VESSELS CHANGE ZONE OF SEARCH

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—The hundreds of little coves and inlets along the coast of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland were believed to-day to offer the only possibility that Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson and her three companions in the Dawn still survive.

The five destroyers which yesterday combed 4,500 square miles south of Sable Island, to-day separated to cover a new area to the south and to patrol the north side of the island from east to west.

Commander R. Stewart, directing the destroyers, believed that to-day's search will eliminate the last of the area from which might have been sent the radio call which the wireless station on Sable Island heard on Sunday night and believed came from the Dawn.

LOCKED MAIL BAG MISSING AT MIMICO

Thought Stolen From Truck at Station On Night of Dec. 13.

TORONTO Dec. 29. — A locked postal bag containing two registered packages in which were being despatched interim stock certificates for a sum totalling more than $10,000 but not easily negotiable has been missing at Mimico since the evening of Dec. 13. The bag also contained from 80 to 100 ordinary letters.

Charles Douglas of Burlington Road, Mimico, the mail courier, delivered the mail at 6.40 o'clock that evening to the mail clerks on Canadian National Railways train No. 12, running from London to Toronto.

The mail clerks immediately noticed that the locked bag was missing, but it was too late to notify Douglas, who had driven away in meantime.

The mail clerks on their arrival here officially communicated with Alexander M. Gibson, District Superintendent of Post offices, who detailed post office inspectors to investigate. Since the bag was missed officers have been busy in and around Mimico, and they are confident that the missing bag and contents will turn up in a few days.

Was Foggy Night.

Investigation points to the bag having been taken from a baggage truck at Mimico Station while the mail courier was in the station. It was a foggy night and while Douglas claims he kept his eye upon the truck all the time he was in the station it would have been an easy matter for any person to slip up and steal a mail bag the postal inspectors declare.

The robbery was perpetrated by some one who knew which bag contained the registered mail, said a Mimico officer last night in discussing the robbery. The place of robbery is established by Douglas, who says he put the bag on the truck and by the mail clerks, who say they did not receive it in the regular course.

Charles Douglas has been the courier between New Toronto, Mimico and Mimico Beach, for nearly 15 years He is a cripple and is assisted when the mail is heavy by his 18 year old son, Harold. For years the mail was transported in a wagon, horse-drawn. Recently the wagon was replaced by the present conveyance, a roadster chassis with a truck body. The truck is open.

A. M. Gibson, District Inspector of Post Offices, beyond admitting that a bag was missing, would not discuss its disappearance. In the Christmas rush of mail, some postal official say, a bag might go astray, but this was not the case with the bag now being sought, they claim.

WANT A BUFFALO?

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—If anyone wants a real, live buffalo and is willing to pay its transportation from Yellowstone National Park, the government will give him one. Officials want to thin out the herd, which now numbers 850. They give warning that the animals are wild and will not make gentle pets.

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR KIDNAPPER

Abductor of Girl Sought — Little Victim is Safe.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—With eleven-year-old Evelyn Smith of Oakland, victim of California's second kidnapping within the last two weeks, safe in the hands of county officers here today, a search was under way for her accused abductor, Ernest McClelland, paroled convict. The discovery of the girl at the home of Mrs. E. Spence at Redlands, near here, last night, revealed that she had been there since Monday night throughout the time when the search for her and her kidnapper was most intense. The child was left with Mrs. Spence by McClelland, who had taken her for a ride on the promise that his wealthy mother would adopt her. Mrs. Spence told the officers that her first knowledge of the kidnapping came yesterday when she read of it in the newspapers.

The cause of the fire is unknown.

BANK OF FRANCE REDUCES RATES

Cuts Discount Figure From Five To Four Per Cent To-day.

MONEY ABUNDANT.

PARIS, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press)— The Bank of France today reduced its discount rate from five per cent to four per cent.

The action of the bank in lowering the discount rate was due to the abundance of money on the market caused by the purchases of large amounts of foreign exchange by the bank, relieving the pinch in circulation. The bank is now taking care of all foreign exchange transactions, keeping francs within the country.

Another reason for the decrease in the rate was said to be the desire of the Bank of France to bring its own discount rate to the other banks closer to the regular discount rate figures which have been steadily decreasing for the past few months.

CANADA GROWING MORE PROSPEROUS

British Paper Comments on Recent Evidences of This Trend.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—(United Press.) —Evidence continues to accumulate that Canada is embarked on a period of unexampled prosperity," says an editorial in the Financial Times, Britain's leading financial authority, to-day. It adds that official statistics for the year's crops have shown this and also records the figures of the Canadian Bank of Commerce's prosperous year.

Such reference to the prosperity of the Dominion stimulate the interest of British business men, which interest was greatly increased recently by the Prince of Wales' "go to Canada" speech.

Y., Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—The little home at 18 Brighton street, brightened over Christmas Day by the visit of Eamon De Valera, first President of the Irish Republic, with his mother, Mrs. Catharine Wheelwright, was in mourning to-day. Charles Edward Wheelwright, stepfather of De Valera, died last night.

SHIPS STORM BOUND.

Signs Indicate That Gales Sweeping Europe May Abate Soon.

PARIS, Dec. 29, Canadian Press.— Ports along the English Channel, the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, were crowded to-day with storm-bound shipping. A cold wave set in, adding to the hardships which the northeasterly gales have brought. The gale continued to-day but there were signs that it might abate soon.

Scouts Pump Air Into Wounded Boy

HOUSTON, Texas, Dec. 28.—(United Press.)—Boy Scouts today continued their administration of artificial respiration to Milton Rush, 16 year old Wharton, Texas, High school boy, whose lungs were paralyzed when he was accidentally wounded in the spine by a friend. Headed by the scout master, the Rev. E. T. Butts, the scouts alternately raised and lowered Milton's arms above his head to pump air into the lungs. The scouts also prayed for his recovery.

Physicians said that the action might prolong the youth's life, but predicted he would die.

POISON LIQUOR TOLL INCREASES; TEN MEN NOW DEAD IN WINNIPEG

TENTH UNKNOWN.

Two Investigations Started Into Source of Liquor—Law May Be Tightened.

WINNIPEG, December 29 (Canadian Press). — The Winnipeg death list following the holiday orgy of poison alcohol drinking parties, mounted to-day . A man who could not be fully identified by the police was found dead in his room in a small hotel. To-day examination showed that he had imbibed freely of some poisoning beverage. A bottle believed to have contained wood alcohol was found in the room . The tenth victim registered a name which was not legible. The authorities, however, found papers in his clothing bearing the name McFadyen. He is thought to be a native of Port Arthur, Ont. Investigation proved that he was not a member of the Chinatown "death party," which already has claimed nine lives.

Two separate inquiries were being pushed to-day in an effort to fix the responsibility for the death of nine men whose lives were snuffed out here as a result of a poison alcohol carousal in a Winnipeg Chinatown apartment on Tuesday. Police authorities who discovered at the scene of the "party" a number of bottles and tins which had contained the death-dealing poison, were endeavoring to locate the source of the poisonous concoctions. Civic officials also were contemplating action which would tighten the regulations dealing with the sale of wood alcohol, "canned heat," methylated spirits, and other alcoholic poisons.

An elevated location at Newton Heights, about two miles west of the city, has been selected as the terminal point for the airplanes.

BERT ARNOTT RE-ELECTED AS TRUSTEE

Large Turnout of Ratepayers For S. S. 2, North Monaghan, School Meeting.

CONTEST FOR PLACE.

Opposition Expressed To Re-election of 1927 Chairman —Reports Presented.

The school question is a lively one with Monaghan S.S. No. 2 ratepayers as was proven last night when nearly one hundred residents of the township gathered in May's School for the open meeting and election of a school trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of Chairman Bert Arnott's term of office.

The evening passed without any particularly stormy debates, and Mr. Arnott, who again allowed his name to stand, was elected for another three-year term as a member of the Board of Trustees. His colleagues are H. H. May and H. Webber.

Though James Milby stood as rival candidate, as he later explained, "He had only done so understanding that Mr. Arnott had intended retiring." He had no particular reason for opposing the 1927 chairman and was the first to congratulate him on his re-election.

The Chairman

K. Denoon was the unanimous choice of the gathering as chairman of the evening, and he discharged his duties in efficient manner. In his opening remarks he referred to the splendid attendance, not only of the men but of ladies of the community and after calling for the minutes, which were subsequently adopted, he announced the first main item of business: the hearing of auditors' and trustees' reports.

Reports Received

E. Sanders, called upon, said that he would read a report of the school business and among other statements gave out the information that the total assets over liabilities amounted to $28,267.95, which speaks well for the manner in which those in authority have discharged their duties.

Bert May's report on the building of the new Confederation School was a verbal one, he having found it impossible to prepare a complete report, owing to the fact that the work is not completed.

The wound caused paralysis of his lungs. He was brought to Houston, and physicians, boy scouts, city firemen alternated at the task of "breathing" for him by manoeuvring his arms to contract and expand his lungs.

Lobsters and Fish Stranded By Gale

DEAL, Eng., Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Thousands of Lobsters and perhaps millions of star fish have been washed ashore here by the gale which has been sweeping the English Channel for the past four days.

Villagers and country folk are coming miles to take advantage of the prospects for a great feast which the ill wind blew in for them. The beach from Sand which Bay to Kingsdown literally is covered with star fish, while lobsters, some weighing five pounds, are scattered here and there along the shore for five miles.

THE WEATHER

Dull, murky weather, with drizzling rain, and high temperature (for this season), is marking the closing days of 1927. Last evening I noticed a city employee opening up some of the storm drain outlets. He thought it was a useless waste of time, as they would freeze over immediately. Chase's Almanac said cold weather was due now—and the almanac seldom missed it. This morning I met a man who said: "This mild weather is going to continue. I broke my ankle many years ago, and I carry a weather indicator with me that never fails." You may take your choice. It is worthy of note, however that frequently the coldest weather we have during the winter is around the New Year season. Perhaps to-morrow I may give you some figures along this line.—W. P.

The 60 home runs made by Babe Ruth during the 1927 season, and the two in the world series, brought the total number of homers hit by Ruth in his major league career to 436.

BITTER SUB-ZERO WEATHER SPREADS IN WESTERN CANADA

SNOW FALL GENERAL.

Strong Winds in Northern Manitoba Give Warning of Impending Storm.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Another cold wave was gradually enveloping the prairie provinces of Western Canada yesterday, bringing a threat of bitter sub-zero temperatures for the closing days of 1927.

Edmonton reported a dip of twenty below zero during the night, while the mercury was receding steadily in other parts of Alberta. Early yesterday the cold wave was spreading its chill over Saskatchewan, with snowfall fairly general.

Manitoba yesterday was experiencing freak weather. In Winnipeg, while the temperature hovered around 25 above, there was a light drizzle of rain, which coated walks and roadways with a film of ice. In the northern part of the province strong winds gave warning of an impending blizzard.

FIRE DESTROYS OFFICE BLOCK

UNKNOWN ORIGIN.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Sweeping through the entire top floor of the buildings occupied by Joseph Lagarde, furniture store, several offices, the P. E. Laline De Montreal Ltee, college and a branch office of the Royal Bank of Canada, fire of so far undetermined origin, caused damage estimated at over $75,000 late yesterday when the building on the south-west corner of Duluth avenue and St. Denis street was partly destroyed. During the course of the fire, which was so fierce that three alarms were sounded, one fireman was seriously injured and a score of others suffered slight cuts from bits of falling glass. And with the firemen hard pressed to prevent the flames from spreading to other buildings nearby, another fire broke out in sheds in the rear of dwellings on De Grandpre street, which necessitated the sounding of two alarms before the firemen could extinguish the flames.

Cut By Glass.

The injured fireman, Romeo Dagenais, 24, was removed to the Notre Dame Hospital, where it was found he suffered from severe cut about the right leg and thigh. Dagenais was injured when he fell down three flights of stairs following a sudden back by the flames.

More than 100 newspapers and press associations have filed applications with Warden Lewis E. Sawer at Sing Sing or with Raymond Keith, State Commissioner of Correction, asking that they be allowed to have a representative present when Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray are electrocuted. Most of them have made a supplemental request to be allowed to install a telegraph wire and operator within the prison as near the death chamber as possible.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (United Press).—Curfew for New Year revelers will ring at 3 a.m., despite the protests of night club owners. Early arrangements had indicated the festivities would continue until 8 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mayor James J. Walker announced police would be asked to exercise discretion, "but as for keeping doors of cabarets and night clubs open on Sunday morning next until 5, 6, 7, or 8 o'clock, that will not be countenanced for a moment."

BELIEVE LOST YOUTHS HELD FOR RANSOM

Kidnapping Entered Into Speculations of Those Seeking Chicago Hunters.

MAY OFFER REWARD.

Aeroplanes and Coast Guards Scour Lake Region For Boys.

CHICAGO, December 29 (Canadian Press). — Kidnapping yesterday was included in the speculations of those seeking two youthful duck hunters who have been missing from a Chicago suburb since last Monday.

Alexander F. Maitland, 25, and his brother-in-law, Robert Case, 14, went out for a couple of hours of shooting before breakfast. They did not return, and since the marshy wastes of Lake Michigan north of here, and the waters of the lake have been searched in vain. Aeroplanes were sent over the wooded regions adjacent to the Glencoe home of Maitland's father-in-law, and United States coastguardsmen from Chicago to Milwaukee scanned the lake.

"I am ready to talk money," said Ernest E. Smith, stepfather of young Case. "I will also hold to myself everything I learn." Smith, however, has not regarded the kidnapping as likely.

Believed Held for Ransom.

Officers began consideration of the possibility that Maitland and Case may be held for ransom because of the fact that Maitland carried more than $100 when he set out in search of ducks.

Alexander F. Maitland, of Negannec, Mich., father of the eldest of the missing hunters, sceptical at first of the kidnapping theory, was convinced after a talk with police that it is more plausible than he thought. He arrived here yesterday. Maitland is contemplating posting a reward.

Searchers turned from the lake borders yesterday, and began a search of the Skokie Valley, a heavily-wooded region inland.

Members of the Smith household told of a Scotch collie which had gone with the hunters returning to the Smith home a few hours later, his hair bristling, and barking furiously.

Investigators discounted the importance of the message scratched in the sand on the beach near Glencoe. It read: "I am going to run away," and was signed Robert Case. It was believed one of the searchers had scrawled it in the sand.

Maitland, formerly a student at Lake Forest College, has been married less than a year. He and his wife had spent Christmas at the Smith home.

The first ten industries of the United States, based on wholesale value of the products, rank as follows: motor vehicles, slaughtering and meat packing, steel works and rolling mills, petroleum, refining, foundry and machine shop products, printing and publishing, cotton goods, electrical machinery, motor vehicle bodies and parts, lumber and timber products.

To the Electors of the Township of Smith.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having decided to again ask your support for the Deputy Reeveship of Smith, I do so mainly for the following reasons:

The Highways Department at Toronto requested, at the Fall Session of this year, all the County Representatives to bring in a report of all County bridges in their respective townships that are over 20 feet in length, giving the exact location, lot, concession, etc. Such report to be concentrated in a united form, and resolutions and by-laws passed embodying such bridges in; in order for the County to avail itself of the extra government assistance for the year 1927; which means, if such proceedings are carried out according to request, from three to five thousand dollars receipt to the County for 1927.

Your rates for 1927 and the conduct of the affairs by the present Council have elicited practically no criticisms from the intelligent ratepayer;

Therefore I again ask for a renewal of your confidence for the year 1928, so that I can assist in securing the desired percentage for highways and bridges for the County.

Wishing all the Compliments of the season.

I am, Yours,

George H. Simpson.

SCOUR SEAS IN VAIN FOR DAWN PLANE

Hope Flickers For Safety of Mrs. Grayson and Companions.

MANY RUMORS AFLOAT.

Intensive Search Made South of Sable Island Reveals No Clue.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press)—While five destroyers combed the area near Sable Island, N.S., where the missing plane Dawn is believed to have appealed for aid on Sunday night, hope for safety of Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson and her three companions flickered unsteadily last night.

Fresh reports of the Dawn, too definite to be ignored, but too vague to be of any certain value, kept the searchers on the alert, but Lieut.-Commander Charles P. Rosendahl, in command of the navy dirigible Los Angeles, which covered 24,000 square miles of ocean in a futile search for the fliers, held virtually no hope that the amphibian plane was afloat.

He considered that the fliers, who left Roosevelt Field, N.Y., last Friday for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, had but one chance in a thousand of remaining afloat from the time their plane may have struck the water until the search by air and sea got under way on Monday. If the Dawn struck the water at night, he believed it was probably wrecked and sunk immediately.

Many Rumors

Meanwhile a growing list of rumors came from Newfoundland outposts to spur on the searchers. Rev. Edward Bishop, an Anglican clergyman at Pouch Cove, 20 miles north of St. John's, Newfoundland, stated yesterday that he had heard an aeroplane motor Sunday noon. Another report was that a Western Union Telegraph Company operator at Heart's Content, Newfoundland, had intercepted a code message "Where are we? Can you locate us?" This message was said to have been signed "WHU" or "WPU." The call letters of the Dawn were WMU.

Using Sable Island as a focal point, the navy destroyers Mahan and Sturtevant, and the coastguard destroyers Shaw, Downen and Monaghan steamed in a semi-circle with a 75-mile radius, continuing the search for Mrs. Grayson and her companions, Fred Koehler, motor expert; Brice Goldsborough, navigator, and Lieut. Oskar Omdal, pilot.

Mrs. Goldsborough, at her home in Brooklyn, clung tenaciously to the hope that her husband was still alive. She spoke of the possibility that the plane may have come down in some inaccessible cove along the Canadian coast and that it may yet be heard from.

Reveals No Clue.

ABOARD U. S. DESTROYER STURTEVANT, off Sable Island, N.S. Dec. 29 (By radio to the Associated Press).—Intensive search by naval and coastguard vessels in the waters south of Sable Island had yielded no clue late yesterday to the fate of the missing amphibian airplane, the Dawn, in which Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson and three companions took off from Long Island Friday for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

At daybreak yesterday morning, the naval destroyers Sturtevant and Mahan began a thorough search of the waters in the southwest quadrant of a circle of 75 miles radius with Sable Island Light as a centre, while the coastguard destroyers Shaw, Downes and Monaghan were covering the southeast quadrant. It was in this area that Commander R. R. Stewart of the Sturtevant, directing the search, had believed the missing plane would most likely be found if it were still afloat, in view of the fact that the Sable Island radio station had reported hearing a message from the Dawn.

The searching craft sighted many vessels in that area yesterday, the westbound steamer lane crossing it 50 miles south of Sable Island and the eastbound lane 30 miles farther south. Steam trawlers and other fishing boats were also seen frequently, leading Commander Stewart to believe that Mrs. Grayson and her three male companions on the Dawn would have been picked up by now had the plane been forced down and remained afloat in that vicinity.

Rough seas prevailing at the time of the plane's disappearance and since made it unlikely, in the opinion of Commander Stewart, that the Dawn, even though an amphibian and seaworthy, could not have survived long unless the crew had rigged a sea anchor.

Lindbergh's Mother Rests After Jaunt

SAN ANTONIO Texas, Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, rested here last night at the halfway point in a projected two-day journey from Mexico City to Detroit.

Hopping off from Mexico City yesterday morning, the big trimotored plane carrying Mrs. Lindbergh and six other persons completed a non-stop flight to the border city of Brownsville at 12:13 p.m. yesterday. From Brownsville the party flew to San Antonio.

SNOW STORMS FOLLOWED BY ZERO WEATHER

Cold Temporarily Relieves Fear of Floods in Threatened Districts.

TRAFFIC RESUMED.

Atlantic Seaboard From Dakar To Dunkirk Swept By Gales.

LONDON, Dec. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—With the resumption of business and the industrial life of the country yesterday, hosts of men got to work clearing away snow drifts, and are slowly restoring normal conditions on the snow-blocked roads and railways. Bright, frosty weather promises to continue and has temporarily relieved the anxious fears of floods in threatened districts.

Much remains to be done, however, before the usual transportation conditions are restored, and motoring, golfing and other outdoor activities are still out of the question and it will be some days before the telephone and telegraph lines are repaired.

Many villages and hamlets in the wilder regions of Devonshire and Cornwall are still isolated, including Prince Town, the famous prison settlement on Dartmoor.

Channel Rough.

Terrifying experiences are told of steamers which ventured across the English Channel in the past two days. The steamer Engantine arrived yesterday at Folkestone from Boulogne with 658 passengers. They were utterly exhausted by the buffetings of the gale, which tore off the ship's hatches. A big wave flooded the forehold and burst the bulkhead of the women's first class cabin, swishing the occupants with icy sea water. Nobody was hurt, but all had a terrible fright.

Canterbury Flooded.

One of the most distressing effects of the holiday period storms, which began with a heavy rainfall on Christmas and ended in a blizzard, was the rise of the Stour river, causing the flooding of a large section of the historic city of Canterbury. Several square miles in and on the outskirts of Canterbury are under water, 400 houses are flooded and the occupants have had to abandon them or move to the upper floors. Altogether about 2,000 persons are effected.

Flood conditions also prevail in some sections of the upper Thames, but that river is now falling.

Touch of Winter.

PARIS, ec. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—North-easterly gales with snow, which have been raging along the entire Atlantic Seaboard, from Dakar to Dunkirk, have brought Europe and Africa to a realization that winter has come.

Cherbourg reports an 80 mile gale, Calais and Boulogne Channel services have been interrupted and the air service between Paris and London has been entirely cancelled. Veritable mountains of mail are awaiting shipment from all French ports.

Seven lives are reported lost in France alone, mostly in the northern section, which is buried under 15 inches of snow.

Floods are threatening Rabat, Casablanca and the Moroccan rivers are overflowing in torrents, especially the Ouergha, where Abd-el-Krim's forces fought the French in 1925, which is out of bounds, making a lake from Meknes to the sea.

In France the Seine and Marne are rising and a recurrence of the great floods of 1910 and 1921 is feared.

COMMISSION TO VISIT INDIA

Will Survey Government and Suggest Reform and Policy.

BEING BOYCOTTED

LONDON, Dec. 29 (United Press).—One of the most important political events of the New Year will be the visit to India of the Indian Statutory Commission, headed by Sir John Simon, which was appointed a short time ago by the British Government to conduct an investigation into Indian reform problems.

The purpose of the Commission is to review the entire political situation of India, witness the functioning of legislative administrative machinery, suggest what reforms, if any, are necessary, and recommend a policy for Britain to adopt in the future towards Indian aspirations.

The Commission will leave January 20, sailing from Marseilles, and will spend about two months in the Far East on what will be a preliminary investigation. Later they will return to conduct another and fuller survey.

In India the greatest political excitement had been aroused by the impending visit of the British commissioners and the Indian National Congress has already decided to boycott them because no Indian members were appointed to assist in the investigation.

The India Congress wants complete independence. Indian Liberals are likewise in a mood to have nothing to do with the Commission. The project, however, enjoys the approval of all political parties in London and the Government is confident that its sittings will result in a policy which Britain can pursue for many years to come and which will give effect to modern Indian aspirations.

Two Killed and Three Others Injured When Buffalo Apartment House Collapses

BUFFALO, N.Y., December 29 (Canadian Press). Two men are known to have been killed and three others were injured when the eighth floor of a ten-storey apartment house under construction at Bryant Street and Delaware Avenue collapsed late yesterday afternoon, and crashed through to the basement, carrying with it the other seven floors.

The dead and injured, men on the building, were buried under tons of concrete and reinforcing steel. Although a check-up showed all the employees had been accounted for, the ruins will be searched throughout the night for other possible victims.

The dead are: William Klein, Sr., 52, and an unidentified laborer, believed to be Garlip Pino, address unknown.

The collapse, according to officials of the Tross Construction Company, the contractors, was due to the unauthorized removal by workmen of shoring timbers between the seventh and eighth floors of the structure. The cement on the top floor had been poured recently, and was not given time to set properly, the officials said.

HE STUDIES TWINS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—During studies of twins and their mental traits, Prof. H. H. Newman, of the University of Chicago, found that identical twins act unnaturally if examined separately. When taking tests they scored much higher if they were together although not in actual communication. He also found that finger prints of identical twins are alike.

AIRMEN KILL CATTLE.

KERRVILLE, Tex., Dec. 29.—Airplanes are being used by several sportsmen in this vicinity in hunting deer. But the practice has resulted in the death of so many cattle that ranchmen are threatening to use anti-aircraft guns to stop it. Whether the hunters mistake the cattle for deer or whether they are just practicing has not been discovered.

One out of every fifteen deaths in the United States today is due to an accident.

FOR
The Commission

TO THE ELECTORS:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—At the end of my second term as a member of the Utilities Commission, the last year and one-half as Chairman, I, in seeking re-election, am willing to be judged by my record as a Commissioner and in other public capacities in which I have been privileged to serve. During my connection with the Utilities Commission I have been guided by no other motive than the desire to see that the two most important public services under our control should be as economically and efficiently administered as possible.

With the experience of six years' service on the Commission to help me, I believe that I can be of greater service to you during the next three years, inasmuch as all details of the very many problems before the Commissioners are at my finger tips. This aspect of the situation, I respectfully submit is worthy of your serious consideration when you are deciding as to how your ballot shall be marked.

I feel that my experience gained during six years' close association with the manifold activities in the Commission's jurisdiction will enable me to successfully look after your interests.

May I wish you all the Happiest of New Years.

Vote DENNE for MAYOR

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—In asking for your support and votes on behalf of my candidature for Mayor I do not propose to make any extravagant promises as to my course should I be elected. My record as a member of the City Council and of the Board of Education is before you, and I am satisfied to rest my claim for your support upon my past services.

There are, however, several matters concerning which I believe an energetic policy should be adopted and therefore if I am honored with your confidence on New Year's Day, I pledge myself to work for

1. Better transportation facilities.
2. Cheaper power and cheaper gas rates.
3. The securing of more industries.

She should be in the forefront of the marchers and should my candidature be endorsed I sincerely believe it will be possible for me to contribute some driving power that will start this city on the road to better things.

Yours for a bigger and better Peterborough.

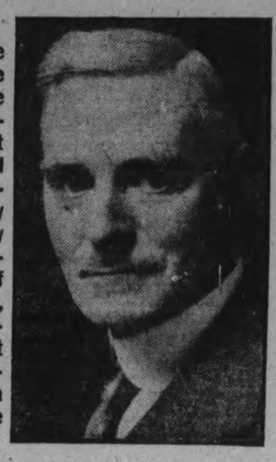
To the Electors:



At the request of a large number of citizens, I have decided to stand for the position of Utilities Commissioner. I do not think it necessary to explain who I am. I humbly submit that my 25 years as Bank Manager should equip me with a training useful on the Utilities Commission.

I respectfully ask the support of the citizens and promise my best services if elected.

THURSDAY, DEC. 29, 1927.

ONE OF THE MYSTERIES.

If City Clerk Armstrong were to sit down tomorrow and select at random the names of one hundred citizens from the official list and notify these electors that their names did not appear on the voters' lists and that therefore they could not vote next Monday, there would be at least ninety-nine vehement protests registered with him the next day.

He won't do anything of the kind, of course, because such notifications would be untrue and the City Clerk refuses to associate himself with anything that is false.

The illustration is used merely to draw attention to a situation that exists here and in most other Ontario municipalities.

Notify one hundred that they cannot vote and their complaints would be deafening.

And yet perhaps forty or forty-five out of the same one hundred will not bother to vote in any case.

They could be indignant if they were cut off, but that does not prevent from cutting themselves off through sheer indifference.

Why?

Somebody else will have to answer that; we have no explanation to offer.

A SECOND CHANCE FOR SOME OF THEM.

An interesting feature of the present aldermanic election is that it may be necessary to appoint three more members of the Council in addition to the five who are elected next Monday.

In any event two such appointments will have to be made to replace ex-Aldermen Denne and Fife, and should Ald. Phelan be chosen Mayor his berth as an alderman would also have to be filled.

The new council is not bound to make the appointments from the defeated candidates who make the best showing next Monday; it could if it wished ignore the candidates and appoint other citizens.

But the strong probablity is that the first two or three—as the case may be—in the list of defeated candidates will find themselves in next year's council, even though their first attempt proves unsuccessful.

It may be that although fourteen candidates are ostensibly fighting it out for five positions, that seven or eight of those whose names will be found on the ballot paper will be entitled to write alderman in front of their names next year.

This is an angle that adds more than usual interest to the battle for position on the council.

SHOULD BE AMENDED.

The first announcement of the programme of legislation to be brought before the Ontario Legislature at its coming session contained no hint of an amendment to the Mothers' Allowance Act extending the benefits of this measure to include widows with but one child.

This is one of the reforms urged upon the Government by representatives of organized labor and a big proportion of popular opinion endorses the request.

The fact that the present Act authorizes no relief for the widowed mother with but one child leads to some unforeseen emergencies.

Not long ago in a Western Ontario city, a widow with three children who had been in receipt of a mother's allowance left home for a few minutes with her eldest son, leaving the two smaller children in the house.

Fire broke out, the building was destroyed and the children were burned to death.

The woman was left destitute, her furniture and clothing totally destroyed, and because the accident had reduced her family to one child she automatically became ineligible for the grant made under the Mothers' Allowance Act, although she was in greater need than before.

Because of cases like this and because the average widowed mother with one child is materially handicapped and should be assisted, the Act should be amended at the next session.

THE MAIN TASK.

The electors of Peterborough are called upon next Monday, not only to elect a Mayor and five aldermen, but to choose five members of the Board of Education, a member of the Utilities Commission, and decide whether the Westclox Company should be given a fixed assessment covering its new building, and whether Peterborough is to operate under a daylight saving system for three months next summer.

That is a fairly extensive programme and citizens who have a municipal franchise should first resolve that they will discharge their responsibility as electors and then study the various candidates and their qualifications for office.

After all the ability of the aspirant to fill the position for which he is a candidate should be the principal test.

And yet The Examiner has heard some perfectly foolish reasons advanced as to why this man should be supported and why this other should be left at home.

Almost everything else seems to enter consideration except the chief and vital question: "Is he capable of doing justice to the position he seeks?"

To select candidates because of the color of their hair would be every bit as sensible as the manner in which some voters decide how their ballots should be marked.

In private business when an executive is being sought the chief thought is to the capability of the applicant to do the work for which he is being engaged.

Heads of private firms do not usually worry as to what church a man attends or what lodge he belongs to or what opinion he may have in regard to temperance legislation or any other matter foreign to the case.

They are interested simply in his ability to earn the salary they will have to pay him, and to fill the job satisfactorily.

Indeed, if private business attempted to engage executive staffs as many people choose the candidates they want to support, private business would not be long in going on the rocks.

The men we elect next Monday are going to have a good deal to say about how the money we pay into the civic coffers is to be spent.

Wouldn't it be good business to forget a lot of the petty things and concentrate upon the task of choosing men who can reasonably be expected to exercise judgment and vision in handling our affairs?

FARMERS' TOURS.

The one effective way of extending Canadian trade abroad is to make a first-hand study of conditions in the prospective markets. Owing to certain prejudices on the part of European buyers, it is not always so easy to develop export business. Over and over again the advice has gone out to pay special attention to the packing of fruit, for instance, the consumer often judging, apparently, more by appearances than by quality. There are many keen competitors for the trade; attractiveness of display counts for much in making sales. Apart from this consideration, there are special problems which can only be understood by investigation on the spot. The Canadian National Railways, recognizing the importance of the matter, has, through its agricultural department, organized a Canadian farmers' tour of the Old Country and of other agricultural centres. The party leaves Halifax early in the coming year, and, among other places, besides visiting the principal shipping centres of Great Britain, will pay a visit to Denmark to study the methods of farming prevailing in that country and the famous co-operative marketing system.

A similar tour was made last summer by South African farmers, which, it is said, was attended by "important results." Later on a tour of agriculturists from all parts of the Empire is to follow, in which again, it is hoped, Canada will be largely represented. One thing is certain; it will not do for the producers and exporters to let these great opportunities go by default. If Canada wants to take her rightful place at the head of the exporting Dominions of the Empire, these special researches must on no account be neglected.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE AIR IS FULL OF THINGS.

Engineers of the Marconi Company in London suggest that sounds broadcast by radio never are lost, that fifty or a hundred years hence instruments may have been developed sufficiently sensitive to pick up the voices of men long dead and the music of orchestras long gathered to their fathers. It is the sort of theory which would have made the text of a Verne romance, but it is based on more than imagination. The engineers, it is stated, actually have trapped messages after they had passed a third time around the earth. If three times, they say, why not times without end, gradually growing fainter but never quite disappearing? And, if radio development continues on the scale of recent years, what is improbable in the prediction that the receiver of the year 2,000 will have at its disposal the whole total of broadcasting up to that time?

It is an interesting and entertaining field of speculation. We think of the earth as the centre of a vast mass of noiseless music and voiceless words stored against the day when the skill of the inventor releases it all from captivity. Chasing one another around the earth in their ether bands are the countless words of radio announcers, innumerable hours of fervid oratory, market reports, and all the varieties of music which comprise the modern radio program. Each in its own narrow path, together yet separate, all the ingredients of this extraordinary conglomeration follow their appointed roads into infinity.

And we like to think of our children's children tuning in some day to hear the bedtime stories or the live stock reports of 1927, or to listen while the Confederation of Canada is observed a half-century or so back in history. The 'distance fans" then would boast not of having heard Los Angeles or Havana but of reaching 1930 or 1926; they would have a new basis of comparing the selectivity of their latest models.—Ottawa Journal.

BRITAIN'S AIR SITUATION.

Brigadier-General P. R. C. Groves, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Secretary-General of the Air League of the British Empire, is the editor of a new publication, Air, and in the first number, which has just been issued, he contributes a somewhat gloomy article on the air situation. "The British public," he says, "has been misled by the optimistic oratory of the past nine years to believe that Britain is at least holding her own in the sphere of aviation. Nothing could be further from the truth. For the cold facts are that our commercial aviation, safe and reliable though it is, is by comparison with that of other great States quite insignificant. Our air defenses are far below the minimum standard of strength laid down by the Committee of Imperial Defense as essential for national security. And our air program generally holds out no prospect of Great Britain coming into line with what is, in effect, a new world order."

In spite of the dismal forebodings of General Groves, the fact remains that Great Britain has been doing much that is worth while in the air. Her airmen were the first to make a flight across the Atlantic; one of her aeroplanes in the race in Italy recently broke all speed records, and her commercial aviation is being conducted on a sound basis. An airship capable of carrying 100 passengers, and which may make trips across the Atlantic, is in course of construction, and will be well in advance of anything previously attempted.

France has admittedly the greatest and strongest military air force in the world, and Germany is making rapid strides commercially, but in spite of these facts, as far as the layman can judge, there is no outward evidence to support the suggestion that John Bull is in any way a 'back number" in any department of aeronautical development.—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Sometimes a hammer is as effective as the lash in stopping bank robberies.

Citizens who do not use their franchise on Monday will be making a very poor start in the New Year.

Girls who are anxiously watching the calendar for the beginning of Leap Year are advised that it is customary to give thirty days' grace.

We are bound to have the January thaw even if it comes in December.

Those western girls who persisted in wearing thin silk stockings, and consequently suffer from frozen knees, will undoubtedly decide on seeking a warm climate for the winter.

It shouldn't be necessary to mention it but you must vote for at least four aldermanic candidates and for not more than five.

Vote for the Westclox by-law on Monday. It represents a minor concession to an industry that is becoming of great importance to Peterborough.

Only one team can win a ball game, but two can play it gamely.—Guelph Mercury.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press)—The foreign demand for Canadian grain here yesterday continued quiet and little business was transacted. There was some demand from local and country buyers for car lots of oats and corn in the domestic market and a moderate trade was done at steady prices.

The trade in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour was slow but prices were unchanged.

A fairly active business was done in all lines of millfeed and the undertone was firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and values were steady.

The trade in eggs was more active owing to the fact that grocers and other dealers have commenced to provide for the coming holidays. Prices were firm. The receipts were 767 cases.

The undertone to the potato market was about steady but the demand continued dull. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.15 per bag of 90 lbs; Prince Edward Island Whites at $1.05 per bag of 80 lbs; New Brunswick Whites at 95c per bag of 90 lbs in bulk, ex-track.

The inquiry for beans was quiet but prices ruled steady. Car lots of choice white hand-picked are selling at $2.65 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $2.75 per bushel, ex-store.

The demand for butter was confined to small lots to meet immediate wants. Prices showed no change. The receipts were 45 packages.

Prices for cheese were firmly maintained, but the demand was extremely dull. The receipts were 158 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press). — Grain values developed strength all around yesterday and finished at about the topmost figures reached. Better milling demand, both domestic and foreign, was reported in the wheat trade, and there was 4,192,000 bushels decrease shown in the amount of wheat on ocean passage. Corn offerings were scarce and adverse weather prevailed throughout the corn belt.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ¾ to 1⅛ net higher; with corn ⅞ to 1⅜up; oats showing ⅝ to ⅞c advance, and provisions unchanged to 57 cents down.

Price gains scored by wheat yesterday were in the face of considerable selling pressure from houses with connections northwest. On the other hand a leading British authority gave confirmation to statements that requirements of wheat during the Winter and Spring are to be heavy, and will have to be furnished from exporters' supplies. He also said that Europe's needs may turn out to be in excess of available supplies unless Argentine shipments become of sufficient volume to overwhelm the buyers' market.

Meanwhile, less favorable advices relative to the condition of the new domestic winter wheat crop counted also as a stimulus to buyers, and so likewise did announcement that the world's present available supply of wheat showed only 54,000 bushels increase for the week. Figures were current too that the disappearance of wheat so far this season is 22,000,000 bushels in excess of last year, an amount implying heavy consumption abroad. There was also talk that large visible supplies in the United States and Canada are at the expense of stocks of country elevators and on farms.

Rains over the greater part of the corn belt were regarded as likely to interfere with husking and with the movement of corn from rural districts, as well as causing deterioration in grade. Comparative smallness of fresh arrivals of corn at leading terminals yesterday tended further to lift values. Kansas City and Omaha together received only about 100 cars. Besides, corn export demand was again in evidence. Oats shared in the strength of corn.

Prospective larger arrivals of hogs gave a downward slant to the provision market.

OBITUARY

MISS JESSIE CARR McRAE.

The funeral of the late Miss Jessie Carr McRae, a former well known Belleville teacher, whose death occurred in Montreal last week, was held yesterday afternoon from the home of her sister, 93 East Bridge street to the family plot, Belleville Cemetery, where the interment was held.

At the house, in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends, an impressive funeral service was conducted by Rev. R. G. Stewart who also officiated at the committal at the grave.

The large attendance at the funeral together with the wealth of flowers silently testified to the sorrow caused by the death of the deceased and the sympathy felt for the bereaved relatives.

The bearers were Messrs. W. McDonnell, Picton; Harry Thompson, H. J. Clarke, Arthur McGie, W. J. Thompson and F. D. Diamond.

Among those from out of town at the obsequies was the brother of the deceased, who holds a prominent position with the Canadian National Railway at Montreal and several other officials of the system who came in a private car.—Belleville Intelligencer.

Miss McRae was for many years art supervisor in the Peterborough Public and Normal Schools. She was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, and an energetic worker in the Fraser Auxiliary.

NEW YORK, Dec 28.— (Canadian Press.)— Manhattan's courts are to grind a heavy grist of murder trials in the first month of the new year. Thirteen persons, one a woman, all indicted for first degree murder, were arraigned before Judge Donnellan in special sessions to-day to have trial dates set. District Attorney Danton asked the Judge to sign orders for special jury panels for trials which he said he hoped to have all concluded during January.

SEVEN KILLED BY BAD LIQUOR

Wood Alcohol or Other Poison Is Cause of Deaths in Winnipeg.

IN CHINESE QUARTER.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Poisonous alcohol took a toll of at least seven lives in Winnipeg during the last sixteen hours, it became known to-day, following a hospital check up.

Of the seven men reported dead from drinking wood alcohol, canned heat, or other deadly potions, five succumbed from the effects of 'liquor' consumed last night at a party staged in the Chinese quarter of the city. The other two victims of bad liquor were found in widely separated downtown residences. Police to-day are investigating the possibilities that the others may have attended "the death party" or obtained a supply of the poisonous concoction.

Evidence of a wild orgy greeted the officers who entered Coronation Block, in the Chinese quarter. Furniture was scattered about the room and five victims were found in the throes of agony, either lying in the corridor or prostrate on their beds. They were: William Anderson, John Ostrander, Ernest Mitchell, William Laroque, and Thomas Curran, and all of them died within two hours after admittance to the hospital.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

From where she stood, unable to move in that first horror which paralyzed her limbs, Faith could see through the arch that divided living room and dining room, could not help seeing the tableau that was being enacted on the big couch that faced the arch, placed as it was at a right angle to the fireplace. Cherry sat on the couch beside Bob, but her head was bowed upon his knees, and her shoulders, from one of which her negligee of orchid silk chiffon had slipped, were shaking with sobs. Bob's right hand was straying through her disordered copper-and-gold curls, alternately rumpling and smoothing them, with fingertips that seemed to Faith to be quivering with tenderness. His own head, bowed upon his breast, looked as if it were weighted down with despair.

So it was true, true! Faith caught her lower lip between her teeth to keep from screaming out her horror and pain. Her husband and her sister were in love, had been in love all this time, hopelessly, despairingly in love. And it was she, Faith, his wife who was responsible for their despair—She felt her very flesh shrink with loathing of herself, as if her body wanted to destroy itself, so that those two whom she loved so much would be free—free—Shrill words, zigzagging with sobs, cut through her horror:

"I'm in a trap, Bob! There's no way out—I'd rather kill myself than—"

"Hush, Cherry darling, you mustn't say that again!" Bob's voice—stern and sad and heavy. "And you can't run away from love. You've got to give yourself to love. Only a coward refuses to face life—I'm not going to let you be a coward, Cherry. Look at me, child! Stop crying like that! I can't stand it. Face this thing, Cherry: could anything be worse than life as you're living it now, starved, frustrated, miserable? You can't fling away love and hope ever to be happy. If it's the real thing—"

"Oh, it is!" Cherry wailed, and Bob laughed and held her close against his breast, crooning something that Faith could not hear—

She could bear no more. Somehow she managed to make her horror-stiffened legs carry her through the noiseless swinging door back into the kitchen, her icy hand stopping the door gently, so that those two would not be disturbed. Oddly enough, pity for them struggled upward through her horror and her loathing of herself as the barrier between them. And her pity seemed an impersonal thing, a cosmic sorrow. Later she would be angry and do and say terrible things, but now she only felt a vast sorrow, which for some queer reason did not include herself. Poor Cherry! Poor Bob!

Tiptoeing carefully, though there was small chance of her footsteps being heard above Cherry's hysterical sobbing, Faith picked up the box which held the carving set that had been one of her wedding presents. Aunt Hattie had given it to her— Suddenly she remembered how happy she had been the day Aunt Hattie's gift had come. And now Bob was undoubtedly kissing Cherry, whom he was persuading not to be a "coward"—

Because Fay was expecting her, Faith drove back to the Myrtle Street house, tears running steadily down her cheeks, so that it was miraculous that there was no accident. She wished there could be, but she might only be hurt, and then Bob and Cherry could not go away together as they wanted to—

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

An enormous orange tulle bow gives a new touch to this severely smart frock of yellow taffeta.

Two yards of tulle at about fifty cents a yard will give an amazingly smart and attractive touch to the evening frock that you have worn a good many times. One of the most smartly dressed young women at a recent dance wore a simply-constructed yellow taffeta frock with a large bow of yellow tulle at the left hip. The frock had recently been made by one of the high-priced dress-makers—but the idea was one that any clever young woman might copy.

Another frock recently worn by an older woman was of black net draped over black satin. Two lengths of tulle —one of violet and the other of rose color—were twisted round the hips, arranged in loops and ends at the hip and held there by means of a large rhinestone ornament.

Belts are worn in preference to the once popular string sashes on almost all day-time frocks, and if you have any last season's frocks I would advise removing the string sashes, which look a trifle out of date this season, and replacing them with narrow belts. These belts may be entirely of leather—or you may buy one of the belts made of belting ribbon with metal buckle fastening. A length of the material of the frock—which may be part of the old string sash—may be used with one of the new buckles if you like.

Sport frocks are almost always made now with narrow belt and buckle of some sort, and one of the newest sport models from Chanel of Paris shows the rather unusual combination of wool pleated skirt and over-blouse finished with a rather large buckle and shoulder pin of rhinestones. Usually, of course, rhinestones are reserved for afternoon and evening frocks, and for sports wear dull gold, silver or enamel are chosen. But Chanel of Paris sanctions rhinestones even for sports wear.

Evening Examiner Fashion

The One-piece Frock is Smart for Daytime Wear

The smart one-piece frock shown here is a style the home modiste will find quite simple to fashion. The opening is at the center-front and there is an inverted plait at each side seam, a notched collar, set-in pockets and cuffs on the long dart-fitted sleeves. No. 1697 is in sizes 36, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Size 40 requires 3¾ yards 39-inch, or 3¼ yards 54-inch material. Price, 25 cents the pattern.

KNOWS MAYOR'S JOB.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—One of the questions asked by the naturalization examiners is: What are the duties of a mayor? Mrs. Samuel Chotzinoff, sister of a great violinist and wife of a music critic, who was applying for naturalization, answered the question thus: "To see that everything is kept hotsy-totsy." HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1927

This is a rarely favorable day, according to astrology which reads in the stars much promise of good for the planet Earth.

Again women are especially favored by the configuration which augurs for them extreme activity and much progress in public life.

Under this sway housekeepers are believed to be exceedingly fortunate. The rule is most auspicious for entertaining friends and relatives.

Society is to focus interest in many cities, owing to the brilliance and novelty of many dinners and balls.

Increase of wealth, which has been so marked in recent years, will be more widespread in the United States than formerly it is forecast and expenditures will be made on a scale of great extravagance.

This should be a favorable direction of the stars for both wholesale and retail trade.

Purveyors of food and managers of hotels should profit at this time which presages supreme expansion for restaurants.

Theatres are subject to a good rule of the planets which will upset old-time customs and continue to change business methods.

Women who are on the lyric stage should benefit at this time when new prima donnas are to be heralded.

Dress now comes much into public consideration, for there will be fashions that are to have a far-reaching effect in merchandising and manufacturing.

With a return to natural standards of beauty, trade in certain cosmetics is to be badly affected, it is foretold.

There is a sign indicating much buying of homes and acquiring of gardens.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year in which success in public work is probable.

Children born on this day attain fame and eminence, if they live up to their mental gifts.

The local curling club is away to a good start. The soft weather seems to have dampened the spirits of some of the less enthusiastic followers of the game but two rinks were in full swing all Tuesday evening. The soft ice made the game slightly slower than is usually seen in Campbellford and the scores were close. S. J. Moore and P. J. Sarginson played an eight end tie game to the tune of five all and Palliser managed to nose out Riendeau nine to seven. Unless something very much unexpected happens there will be the usual all day bonspiel on New Year's day. The usual prizes will be open for contest.

Municipal Nominations

SPEECHES AT LAKEFIELD.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29.—Following the nominations on Monday evening, a public meeting was held, with T. E. Marling, the clerk of the municipality, in the chair.

The attendance was small. It is probable that the holiday season accounted for the absence of a good many who were detained by social claims.

The Reeve, C. S. Tanner, was the first speaker. He thanked the ratepayers for the honor they had done him in electing him for a second term as Reeve. It had been a pleasure to work with the Councillors of the past year. There had been a sad note, however, in the passing of Councillor Richardson, who was an esteemed citizen of the village. When it was found necessary to hold an election to fill the vacant place, Councillor Robinson resigned as he found it impossible to continue owing to the claims of business. Councillors Lillicrap and Doidge were elected to fill these vacancies. The year had been successful, and financially the conditions are most favorable. The rate this year was slightly higher than last year because of the fixed assessment of the Cement Company, but the prospects are excellent for next year. There had been a good deal of expenditure on improving the roads but the Council looks with pride on the financial statement.

J. F. Lillicrap, the chairman of the Finance Committee, briefly reviewed the financial aspect of the municipality, which is most creditable. Mr. Lillicrap spoke of the harmonious relations which had existed in the Council, all the members of which had handled their departments creditably. The expenses on the streets and roads were more than usual, but nevertheless the financial statement shows a balance in hand of about $1,400. There should be more taxes next year than this. There are still some taxes to collect, but all are collectable. The financial statement is in the hands of the printers.

Mr. Lillicrap closed by saying that he had served on the Council on a good many occasions, and always had found, as now, that the Councillors were trying to do their duty to their municipality.

Mr. Tedford, chairman of the Streets and Roads Committee, was the next speaker, and reported that in the spring, when the roads were at their worst he visited all the streets of the village and made a note of the needs and had put stone on some of the streets where it was most needed, but the supply had not been sufficient for all he had planned for. The stone for the streets was crushed free of charge by the Canada Cement Company. The quantity of oil was not as great as other years, and one or two streets did not receive as much as they should. A bank was put on Ermitinger Street for purposes of fire protection, and underground drains put on Caroline, Nelson and King Streets, and all the drains and ditches cleaned out.

Mr. Doidge chairman of the Property committee, urged economy in the municipality as it keeps the tax rate down and benefits the working man.

Mr. Tate, of the Hydro Electric Commission, regretted that he was not in a position to give a complete statement as the Hydro year is rather indefinite. The books of the commission were audited three times during the past year by the Hydro auditors and once by the municipal auditors. As far as he could tell, Mr. Tate felt that the commission was in good shape.

There had been considerable correspondence in regard to the unfortunate accident in the power line at the House of Refuge, which had resulted in the death of Mr. King. The matter was taken up with the Workmen's Compensation Board and a pension was secured for Mrs. King and her children.

The commission has handed over to the village a cheque for $2,000, which is a balance built up by the street lighting. Regarding lowering of rates, that is not in the power of the local commission. That power lies with the Ontario board.

Mr. Wagar reported a satisfactory condition in the Public school. New equipment had been purchased, including new tables and chairs for the teachers and a sanitary drinking system installed which operates on the pressure tank which was already in the school. The system cost $300 but will last for all time and is convenient and sanitary. A play room has been put in the cellar which is found to be valuable. The school is overcrowded, more room is needed and the teacers are all working under a handicap.

It was felt that the addition of a man on the Public school staff would be advisable and the services of Harry Wannamaker had been secured to fill a vacancy on the staff and it had been found most satisfactory. Mr. Wannamaker, in addition to his other duties supervises the school sports. Two toboggan slides are being built for the use of the Public school pupils, one for the smaller and one for the larger pupils, and next spring it is planned to put swings under the trees, all these to be placed under Mr. Wannamaker's direction.

The teaching staff of the Public school is one of the best in the province and the record of the Entrance class is especially good. Seven pupils writing at Lakefield this year took honors in the Entrance examination and six of them were Miss Duff's pupils. The county prize has nearly always been won by a Lakefield pupil and the record has been one to be proud of.

Mr. Harrison, chairman of the Charitly committee of the council, was the last speaker and he reported his duties light as there was plenty of work for the men and the calls were few.

Mr. Harrison feels a keen interest in the village, he was born near it and has lived nearby or in the village all his life and the money he made in the community was spent here. He assured his hearers he had yet to send to Toronto soires for goods. He believes in building up his home town by creating a home market. Mr. Harrison announced his intention of standing for re-election.

BARRED FROM STATE CHAMBERS

Court Injunction Restrains Senators From Proceeding With Impeachment Plans.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 29.—(A.P.)— Barred from their chambers in the capitol by National Guardsmen and defying a district court injunction, twenty-four members of the state Senate met late yesterday in a downtown hotel room to consider impeachment charges against Governor Henry S. Johnston.

A district court injunction restraining the Senators from proceeding with their plans to try Gov. Henry S. Johnston and two other state officials on impeachment articles voted by the self-convened House of Representatives was read by the Adjutant General. When the Senate group appeared in the rotunda of the fourth floor of the Capitol, a guard lieutenant halted them with the announcement that he had orders to "disperse the mob." Only a few state employees and newspapermen were present.

LIBERTY RESTS WITH JUSTICE

Court Needs Some Time To Formulate Opinion of Remus Sanity Case.

MOTHER TESTIFIES.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 29. Canadian Press. — Decision whether George Remus should be granted complete liberty as a sane man or incarcerated in the state hospital for the criminal insane at Lima, rested last night with one man—Judge William H. Lueders of the Hamilon County Probate Court.

After a full day devoted to a sanity hearing made mandatory by the verdict of a week ago in Remus' murder trial for the slaying of his wife, Imogene—not guilty on the ground of insanity—Judge Lueders announced that he would need some time to formulate his opinion.

Remus himself was forced upon the witness stand so that the judge and the three alienists who sat with him in advisory capacities might the better look into his mind.

He followed there his aged mother, a tiny woman, garbed in deep black, who tesified in German that her son was "worth gold," good to his parents, and never struck her as had been charged Obviously straining for complete control of himself Remus went deeply into self-analysis.

At the outset he denied that he had intended to shoot his wife when he whirled his automobile ahead of the taxicab in which she was riding through Eden Park the morning of last Oct. 6.

"If I had expected to shoot I'd have had someone in the car who would have waited," he asserted

George Klug, driver of the death car, ran away with the machine when Remus leaped out and fired the fatal shot. Remus was picked up by William Hulborshorn, who testified today concerning Remus' extreme excitement, excessive talkativeness and mixed emotions a few minutes after the shooting. Remus asserted that previously in all his life he had been accused of nothing but a violation of the Federal prohibition law. Even then, the government was his partner, accepting its revenue of $2.20 a gallon on whiskey he nad sold.

BERT ARNOTT RE-ELECTED

His explanation of various major expenditures was well received, and he continued with an outline of the work of the trustees with regard to the new school. With some thirty thousand dollars at their disposal they had been forced to alter their plans for the school building on several occasions as tenders for the work as at first specified were beyond the amount allotted. Finally, Mr. Finnie had been appointed as contractor, and he had done his work well. "From the point of building, lighting, heating, plumbing, walks, and playground, the new Confederation School is second to none," declared Mr. May, and the cost of it all was approximately $24,000, well within the allowance. From the turning of the sod to the last coat of varnish, Mr. Finnie had been on the job every minute, and had done his work in an honorable, economical fashion."

William Faiers: "What about the sewage disposal?"

Mr. May: "I do not know a great deal about it. There are many in the section who have sewer connections and are not paying a scent for use of the sewer, so far as I can find out. We agreed to pay fifty dollars for the service for six months, but there is no permanent agreement."

Relative to the water supply, two wells have been driven and an electric pump connected.

H. Wood was of the opinion that there should have been a complete report submitted, but it was explained that that had been impossible up to the present.

R. Butler thought that when such a report was available, it should be published in the press. H. Wood also favored this suggestion.

Election of Trustee.

Chairman Denoon announced that the next order of business was the election of a trustee to replace Bert Arnott, the retiring chairman of the board. He explained that the term is for three years, and that Mr. Arnott would be eligible for the office.

William Byers made appreciative reference to the work of the trustees during the past year, and moved that Mr. Arnott be re-appointed.

Mr. Sanders seconded this motion, but owing to the nomination of James Milby by H. Wood and J. A. Seger, their motion was changed to take the form of a nomination.

At this juncture, Mr. Butler, a ratepayer arose. He challenged Mr. Arnett to deny that he had voiced his intention of retiring this year, but he was interrupted and the chairman was forced to call for order.

Mr. Webber arose to answer in support of Mr. Arnott. Said he, "I'm satisfied that the work has been well done, and no one can find fault with Mr. Arnott. Why not put him back and be men about it?"

Mr. Wood—"Why not let him stand and have the ballot decide? Are you afraid he won't get in?"

A loud chorus of "No's" greeted this.

Mr. Butler—"As I said before, I have no criticism to make regarding the work of Mr. Arnott. I admire him for the work he has done, but on several occasions he voiced a desire to retire, and even asked me if I would stand."

Mr. Arnott—"I did not tell you I was going to retire. I said I was going to stay on the job."

William Dummett—"I recall an occasion when Mr. Arnott clearly stated that he intended to stay on the job."

The chairman, after a few minutes closed the nominaions and a ballot was taken to decide upon Mr. Arnott or Mr. Milby as trustee for the next three years. The former was re-elected by a substantial majority.

The first man to congratulate him was Mr. Milby who, in a few words, denied any rivalry with the other candidate and pledged his support to him.

Mr. Arnott also spoke, thanking his electors for their confidence in him. He would pursue the same policy of economy with service as he has during his past tenure.

The new board of trustees will comprise H. H. May (chairman), H. Webber, and A. J. (Bert) Arnott.

Other Business

The appointment of a people's auditor was necessary and on motion of Willam Faiers, seconded by E. Sanders, Mr. Milby was appointed to this office.

Mr. Butler complained that the notices of the annual meetings were not adequate and as a result, many of the ratepayers missed them. William Faiers thought that the notices should appear in the local press. Mr. Butler continued with the suggestion that the trustees should be appointed the same as councillors.

Chairman Denoon—That might be a very good idea, but there would be the possibility of the selection of a single trustee causing a municipal election.

Mr. Dummitt.—Anyone who knows his municipal business, knows that the meeting is held the Wednesday between Christmas and New Year's.

A vote of thanks to the chairman of the evening was followed by the National Anthem. The new board met immediately afterward for the purpose of arranging the next meeting, which will take place in the near future.

Certain minor business matters were discussed before adjournment.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble, and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flue. Municipal Nominations

Acclamation for Reeve.

J. A. Middleton was re-elected Reeev of Smith by aclamation, but there will be a contest for the other seats in the council—George H. Simpson seeking re-election as deputy-reeve, is opposed by Henry Coons. While Allan B. Mann and Gordon Fitzgerald, councillors, seeking re-election, are in the lists with John Henry Fowler and Edward George Mullen. Three are to be elected.

No Election in Havelock.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 28. — Havelock will have no municipal elections this year. When the lists closed at nine o'clock only the reeve and council of last year and three candidates for the school board had qualified. Two of the retiring members of the school board, W. Fraser and G. Rigby, were re-elected with C. Jamieson taking the place of Dr. A. S. Thompson, who did not qualify.

Those elected are:
Reeve: W. T. Curtis.
Council: E. J. Leeson, F. Haig, A. Spencer, H. Gordon.
School Board: W. Fraser, G. Rigby, C. Jamieson.

Council Re-elected.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 28. — The reeve and council of the Townships of Belmont and Methuen, were elected by acclamation, as none of the new nominees had qualified when the time expired last night. They are:
Reeve: F. Breckenridge.

Acclamation in Norwood.

NORWOOD, Dec. 28. — There will be no excitement in Norwood on Monday next as far as election is concerned, as the reeve, councillors, school trustees and hydro commissioners of 1927 were elected by acclamation at the meeting held in the town hall on Monday evening.

RETURNED BY ACCLAMATION.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 28.—Very little interest was taken in the nominations for the various offices of the township council of the township of Seymour. The time set for these nominations was from twelve noon till one o'clock and when the time had expired there were no nominations save those of the present council and officers. Thus they are returned to office by acclamation and there will be no election this year. Several councillors approached on the subject, thought that in the near future elections would only take place every second year, those being appointed would hold office for two years instead of the usual one.

Wm. S. Grills, nominated by T. J. Horkins and W. A. J. Melleville will be reeve of the township for another year. His deptuy will be Russel Peake, nominated by W. A. J. Melleville and Harry Petherick. The three councillors will be Robert Innes, nominated by T. J. Horkins and J. F. Bennett; John Locke, nominated by W. A. J. Melleville; Wm. T. Allan, nominated by J. Fred Bennett and Fread Peake.

After the time for nominations was ended, the chair was occupied by the township clerk, Dr. G. A. Hay. He expressed his disappointment at the small number present, extended the compliments of the season to the audience and called on Reeve Grills.

Reeve Grills.

Reeve Grills thanked his nominators and also those who had elected him last year. He thought the council had had a very good year. True, they had spent a larger amount of money than usual, but were getting good returns for it. As for the country work, he very much feared that the tax rate would have to be increased as the provincial tax had been increased from seven to nine mills. The mothers' allowance was now one thousand dollars and the 1925 law had increased the county grant to high schools to over twelve thousand dollars. The account for criminal justice was increasing annually. Also there had been an extra expense with regard to the House of Refuge. The law had put an end to the practice of pasturing the cattle of the house on the road under the care of some of the inmates. This had necessitated the purchase of suitable pasture lands. But the house itself was being operated very efficiently and economically, and the inmates were being well cared for.

Practically all the $90,000.00 appropriation for county roads had been spent and this was not sufficient. The heavier traffic made it necessary to spend nearly the entire amount on maintenance and there was practically nothing left for construction. Reeve Grills thought that this rate would also have to be increased.

Deputy Reeve Peake.

Deputy Reeve Peake, after expressing the customary thanks and greetings, said he had served the township to the best of his ability and would continue to do so. The affairs of the past year had been some proposition, he said, and the road and bridge work in particular. The twelve mill rate for roads was not sufficient to meet the demands. The original estimate of twelve thousand dollars estimated for this work had been increased to seventeen thousand dollars. But this included some work done after December 15, 1926, and included in the 1927 expenses. The real expenditure for the present year was approximately thirteen thousand dollars. All things considered, Peake thought the financial statement very creditable indeed. He also expressed his approval of the purchase of more road machinery to enable the same number of men to cover more miles of road each season. The present equipment was very inadequate to meet the demand made on it and the roads were not being kept as they should for that reason.

Peake replied that he thought it rather an expensive piece of machinery when the township was able to rent the town roller for ten dollars a day. Some of the roads, he said, would not carry a roller unless new culverts were constructed. Stevens asked the price of a roller and Peake referred him to Mayor Kingston who said that the town roller cost in the neighborhood of six thousand dollars. He thought this was the actual price.

Robert Innes.

Robert Innes, councillor, expressed the usual thanks to his nominators and electors who had put him in office and wished them a very happy and prosperous new year. He thought there was nothing much left for him to say since the reeve and deputy reeve had pretty well outlined the situation for the past year. He explained that he had overstepped his allotment of $2,100.00 by the amount of just less than two hundred dollars. But he thought the money well spent as he had crushed 2,100 yards of gravel and put it on the roads for that amount of money. He had also installed two new steel culverts of the approved type. Regarding the new machinery, he thought the grader was a good machine, but was in favor of a roller. The work of the grader left a less firmly packed road than the roller and the wet seasons did greater damage to roads that had not been rolled. As a shining example, he mentioned the improvement in the Campbellford roads since the town had purchased and used a roller.

John Locke.

John Locke, Councillor, after wishing everyone the compliments of the season, said that he had done what he thought to be the proper thing. He did not know that it had been satisfactory or not, but at any rate it had been his best. He regretted the small attendance but continued to give a detailed account of his work in his section of the township. That the county gave a grant for each steel culvert installed, he said was the reason that they were being used. Also they were the most satisfactory. Wood was not longer desirable and concrete was much shorter lived than the steel. He thought the council had had a very successful year and hoped that the same conditions would continue during the coming session.

Was Serious Question.

William T. Allan, councillor, was not present, so Reeve Grills asked permission to speak again. He said that the road and bridge question was a serious one and that some immediate action must be taken to remedy the situation. Some bridges he claimed were in a very poor state and would have to be replaced in the near future. Mr. Fellows, government road engineer, had very kindly accompanied the council on their tour of the roads and made several recommendations for new bridges. It was expected that the county council would make a special grant for this purpose. Considering the speed and loads to which the modern traffic tended, something must be done to get in more maintenance work on the roads or they would soon be in a hopeless state of disrepair. It seemed as though the rate would have to be increased or else debentures issued. Reeve Grills expressed his preference for an increase in the rate as the coming generations would probably have enough trouble to meet its own debts. In the matter of culverts, the government paid thirty percent of the cost of new steel culverts, and at the same time condemned wooden ones. There were several wooden structures which would have to be replaced at once.

The Crow River Bridge is still in the hands of the township, but it is expected that the county will assume responsibility for it at an early date. Mr. Fellows advised against the purchase of any new machinery at the present time as the township was already under heavy expense. Reeve Grill then asked to hear the opinion of some of the ratepayers present.

William Stevens asked Grills if he thought ten dollars a day for the town roller was a good investment. Grills did not think so when the government did not assist them with a grant along that line. Stevens then asked why the stone was crushed so coarsely. Grills replied that the stone to which Mr. Stevens had reference had been put on before the purchase of the screen and that the jaws of the crusher had been worn at the time. He also said that new jaws had to be purchased next season. Mr. Grier, county road superintendent, was very much pleased with the gravel which the township had put on its roads. Fellows was also favorably impressed. Asked who got the "rakeoff" from the steel culverts, Grills stated that these culverts were purchased direct from the company who manufactured them and there could be no rakeoff. The questioner seemed determined that there was a rakeoff. Grills replied that he knew nothing of it if there were. He himself was not getting any of it and he thought that the man who was getting it, or supposed to be getting it would have to answer for himself.

This seemed to satisfy the ratepayers present so the meeting closed and there will be no township elections this year.

CAVAN, Dec. 29.—There were a number of candidates nominated for deputy reeve and councillors for Cavan Council for the year 1928. It will make an interesting run.

BANK TELLER IS SENTENCED

Goes To Reformatory For Theft From Bank—Told Hold-up Story.

MONEY FOR MOTHER.

OTTAWA, December 28 (Canadian Press). — Aurele Giroux, seventeen-year-old teller of the Eastview branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale was sentenced to a term of from one to two years in the Ontario Reformatory at Burwash by Magistrate Cummings in the Police Court to-day. Giroux startled the town of Eastview, which is a suburb of Ottawa, with the story yesterday that while he was alone in the bank he had been struck over the head with an ebony ruler by a strange man and three hundred dollars in ten-dollar bills had been stolen. Last night he confessed that his story was untrue, and that he had stolen the money.

The police report he told them that when he went home for Christmas he realized that his parents were very poor. They live in Cornwall, where his father is a machinist, and there are thirteen children. It was to get money to send to his mother that he planned to steal the three hundred dollars from the bank.

Rickard Has Heavy Boxing Programme for 1928

PREDICTS FIVE NEW CHAMPIONS FOR NEXT YEAR

Rickard Gives Views of Features for 1928 Boxing Season.

HAS HEAVY PROGRAM

Says Dempsey Must Prove Right for Second Comeback Match.

NEW YORK, December 29 (Canadian Press). — Forecasting what he believes will be the chief features of the 1928 boxing season, Tex Rickard yesterday predicted five new ring champions will be crowned, and that Jack Dempsey's second comeback campaign will offer a prelude to one heavyweight championship match for Gene Tunney.

These predictions were contained in an article under Rickard's signature in the New York Evening World. The newspaper points out that the promoter, in a similar article a year ago, forecast the passing of Charlie (Phi.) Rosenberg as bantamweight champion and Pete Latzo as welterweight.

Rickard's heavyweight program shapes up much like that of 1927. The promoter dispels talk of Dempsey being matched with Tunney, minus any preliminary engagement, by asserting that the ex-champion first must prove his right to another bout.

Dempsey, Jack Sharkey, and Tom Heeney are regarded by Rickard as the "first line" of heavyweight challengers. He expects one of them to be Tunney's opponent in a 15-round championship match in September at the Yankee Stadium, where $100,000 will be spent improving the seating arrangements so as to accommodate 100,000 spectators.

"Paulino Uzcudun, Jack Delaney, and Johnny Risko," Rickard's story says, "have eliminated themselves, at least temporarily, from the first line of contenders. Unless some one of them does something sensational, they are not likely to figure in the ranks of genuine Tunney contenders during 1928.

Rickard expects Tunney to successfully defend his crown against any rival. The promoter also looks for Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, and Tommy Loughran, new boss of the light heavyweights, to keep their titles.

The others will not be so fortunate, in Rickard's opinion.

Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, and Mickey Walker, ruler of the middleweights, will likely be knocked off their perches, the promoter believes. In addition, he expects the disputes in flyweight, bantamweight ranks to be cleared up by the establishment of new champions.

New York is the only State where the bantam title situation is not cleared up now by recognition of Bud Taylor of Terre Haute as titleholder.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 29. — (Canadian Press.) — Jack Delaney, former light heavyweight champion, will not appear in a New York ring unless he meets either the winner of the Jack Sharley-Tom Heeney battle or replaces Sharkey against Heeney next month, Joe Jacobs, Delaney's manager, announced here yesterday.

Jacobs came here to make plans with Delaney for his coming campaign among the heavyweights which he hopes will end with a championship bout with Gene Tunney next fall. The new manager of the French Canadian boxer has been offered fights with Chuck Wiggins in Detroit and Larry Gains in Toronto for Delaney, but has refused them, he said.

OMEMEE RINK OPEN FOR SEASON

Young People Enjoy Exercise—Schools Observe Holiday.

OMEMEE, Dec. 29.—The skating rink opened on Christmas Monday, much to the pleasure of the youth who turned out in fairly large numbers to enjoy the first skate of the season. Mr. Walter Mitchell is in charge and if weather permits, promises to have everything in good shape for a splendid season.

The closing of school was marked by Christmas trees and the exchanging of gifts among the children as well as to the teachers, followed by a treat. In the Public school, an exchange of names had previously been taken and Santa Claus had an extremely busy time distributing the many gifts from the huge tree, accompanying each with a bag of home made candy to each scholar, the gift of the teachers. The teachers, Mr. W. Kells and Miss Faulkner, were also remembered by the scholars. A lengthy program in which the two rooms united and the scholars put on a lengthy program of songs, recitations, dialogues, etc., was splendidly given, after which cake and sandwiches were enjoyed.

The High school also had a tree and an exchange of gifts of small value accompanied by a treat from the teachers provided plenty of entertainment following the play given by the scholars, "The Merchant of Venice."

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Loughran Wants To Defend Title Often

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—It's and old story to hear a new champion tell the world: "I'm going to be a fighting champion. Bring 'em all on."

Tommy Loughran, who recently proved his claim to the world's light heavyweight championship by defeating Jimmy Slattery, improved a little in the diction of his defi when he said:

"I'll fight 12 times a year if the arrangements can be made."

Singularly, Loughran apparently meant that he will be a fighting champ.

He had hardly slept of the preparations for the Slattery fight when he had to jump into training for the defense of his title against Leo Lomski, in New York, on Jan. 6.

And anyone can tell you that Lomski is the best challenger in the class.

Gene Criqui, the gallant Frenchman, who defended the featherweight championship against Johnny Dundee within a few months after he had knocked out Johnny Kilbane, certainly did no more than Loughran is doing.

"One month after the Lomski fight, I will give Slattery a return battle for the title," Loughran says.

CANADIAN TEAMS TO PLAY IN BOSTON

Varsity Undergraduates There This Week and the Grads Week Later.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 29.—A foretaste of the 1928 battle for Olympic hockey supremacy is scheduled for this city during the next two weekends when what are generally conceded to be the four best amateur clubs on the North American continent clash in a four-game series here. The participants will be the Toronto Varsity and the Toronto Varsity Grads club of Canada and Harvard University's team and the University Club of Boston for the United States.

The Toronto Varsity, intercollegiate champions of Canada since 1915, and the hockey pets of the dominion arrive this week for games with the University Club on Friday and with Harvard on Saturday. The University Club, which presumably will be picked as this country's Olympic hockey team, numbers among its players such former college stars as George Owen and Clark Hodder of Harvard; Sykes Hardy, Doug, Everett, Johnny Manser and Ted Learned of Dartmouth, and Sandy Ferguson of Yale.

Harvard, with several veterans and a wealth of promising new material, again is pointed toward a second successive intercollegiate championship.

The Toronto Grads, whose annual invasion of Boston has become one of the features of the ice season, already have been named as Canada's Olympic entry. The Grads are scheduled to arrive in time for a two-game series with the University Club on January 6 and 7, which will bear all the earmarks of a world's amateur championship encounter.

WILL M'GRAW HAVE TY COBB

Rumored Connie Mack Intends to Send Detroit Star to Giants.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Ty Cobb, one of Connie Mack's choice specimens of antiques in the Philadelphia Athletic museum, was expected to be on the market during the winter major league meetings here but his name hardly was mentioned.

Eddie Collins, Mack's first lieutenant, did say that Cobb was a valuable man with the A's last year and he understood that he would be retained.

BUT—wise boys said Mack wouldn't pay Cobb what he wanted and that he already had made arrangements to send the former Detroit star to John McGraw.

It was considered significant that the Giants moved their spring training camp from Sarasota, Fla., to Augusta, Ga., which happens to be Cobb's home town.

Cobb might not be a great playing asset with the Giants but he might draw in some customers and with Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig operating across the Harlem River the Giants are interested in more customers.

The United States is the largest purchaser of diamonds in the world, having invested $105,000,000 in gems through London alone since the war.

WILL REPRESENT CANADA AT THE OLYMPIC GAMES

Canada will be well represented in the Olympic winter sports at Switzerland next February. In addition to the Varsity Grads in hockey there will be speed skaters, the figure skaters and skiers. The figure skaters selected by the Amateur Skating Association of Canada of which Ald. Louis Rubenstein of Montreal is president, include three brilliant young girl skaters. VICTORIA DEFEATS EASTERN CHAMPIONS

Dalhousie University of Halifax Loses Out by Final Count 5-0.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 29. Canadian Press. — Victoria's Rep Rugby team defeated Dalhousie University, of Halifax, N. S., here yesterday 5 to 0. The score came three minutes after the second half opened, when Bill Poden, the local forward, crashed over the line after a series of forward rushes. Wonman converted the try with a beautiful kick from an easy angle.

The game was played in a sea of mud and the Dalhousie boys showed the effects of their long train trip, the busy time they have had since arriving on the coast last Friday, and their hard fought game with University of British Columbia on Monday. The game was played under extremely heavy conditions with a miniature snowstorm prevailing. It was practically all forward play with little backfield work. Dalhousie's scrimmage maintained its superiority demonstrated so effectively last Monday in Vancouver, and heeled the ball three times to the locals' once.

The Halifax collegians got a bad break in the first minute of the game when Langstroth, half back, turned his right ankle, and was forced out for the rest of the game. Wickwaie replaced him in the second half.

The Victoria boys greatly outweighed the Dalhousie team and turned their weight to effect in the heavy going, wading through the Dalhousie pack.

Dalhousie lived up to their reputation as a powerful defensive machine. Tired with the heavy going against their husky opponents they were forced to the limit to hold their line intact in the final ten minutes, but succeeded in doing so. Touches for safety saved them a number of times.

After Victoria's score Dalhousie took up the attack in centre and forced Victoria for a period but without result.

SPORT BITS

"Dodo" Huffman has been appointed manager of the Galt O.H.A. Intermediates. They practised for the first time this season last night under his charge, and to-night they open up the season with a game in Kitchener. Jack Duncan, the all-round athlete, is lost to the Terriers. He has accepted a position in the north country with a mining corporation and is retiring from sport.

North Bay has suffered a spell of mild weather, and as a result the games in the City League have had to be postponed. At the present time the ice surface is covered with water.

The Varsity Senior Intercollegiate and O.H.A. team play the first game of their annual American tour at the Madison Square Garden, where they meet Princeton. Lloyd Neidlinger has charge of the coaching duties at Princeton, and he has a well balanced club. Beattie Ramsay laid a good foundation when he was in charge there and Neidlinger had a lot of good material to work with.

Art Ross and his Boston Bruins make their first appearance this season in Toronto to-night in an N.H.L. affair with the Maple Leafs. Frankie Genaro received over $4,000 in his fight with Belanger here. Does Frankie sit down waiting for more four thousands? He does not. Last week he fought a tough youth and got $250 for it, but he had his mind on that other little bout with Tunney, and is getting ready with ring engagements at any old price. They cost him no more energy than gym. work, and $250 is just that.

WILL MEET WINNER.

BOSTON, Mass., December 29 (Canadian Press). — Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish heavyweight woodchopper and boxer, has signed a contract to meet the winner of next Friday's bout between Alberto Roberti, of Italy, and Jack Gagnon, of New Bedford, heavyweight, Eddie Mack, matchmaker of the Argonne A.A., announced yesterday.

The Roberti-Gagnon bout will top an all-heavyweight card. The date of Uzcudun's appearance has not been set.

WILL REJOIN OLYMPIC BODY.

NEW YORK, N.Y., December 29 (Canadian Press). — The first definite step toward healing the breach that developed last year in the American Olympic Association was taken yesterday when the National Amateur Athletic Federation, at its annual convention, voted unanimously to rejoin the Olympic body.

The Federation was one of four national groups that withdrew from the Olympic Association in November, 1926, at Washington after a bitter fight with the Amateur Athletic Union and the latter's allies over the control of Olympic policies and organization.

Minor Leagues Will Meet in Windy City

CHICAGO, December 29 (Canadian Press). — The meeting of the minor league presidents to consider the graft question in relation to the major leagues will be held in Chicago on January 9 instead of in West Baden, Ind.

M. H. Sexton, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, said the switch was decided upon as the minor leaguers desired to be in closer touch with Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner.

Club owners of the American Association were summoned to attend a special meeting here on January 8 to map out the course they will pursue should the minor leagues refuse to rescind the action at the Dallas meeting of the minors, providing for abrogation of the present major-minor agreement.

MAY STAGE SWIM AT QUEEN CITY

Instead of Triangle It Will Take Place Along the Shores.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.— The possibility of another big swim next summer at the Toronto Exhibition, very likely not under Wrigley auspices, was practically acknowledged by the Toronto Exhibition authorities yesterday.

In reference to a despatch from Montreal that there were hopes in that city that the Third Wrigley swim might still be held there instead of Germany, Elwood Hughes said that the Canadian National Exhibition has been asked by the International Professional Swimmers Association to conduct the next world's championship event at the Exhibition this summer.

"There does seem to be a very friendly feeling towards another swim," said Mr. Hughes, when he was asked about the attitude of the Exhibition board.

Mr. Hughes, however, emphasized that the swim will very likely be shorter than last year. The swim will also be staged for the benefit of the spectator. Instead of the long triangle out into the lake like last year, a course will be arranged this summer so that the swimmers will be in sight of the great crowd practically at every stroke. The course will be arranged either within the breakwater, or along a triangle with one-mile sides, projecting out into the lake.

Another possibility is that there will be two races, one for the men and another for the women.

In a letter to Elwood Hughes the swimmers themselves made this suggestion. While many of them still stand out for the long marathon of 21 miles the majority favor a shorter distance.

Praise Last Swim.

Mr. Hughes pointed out that the International Professional Association includes practically every professional swimmer who took part in the last marathon at the Exhibition. There are only two or three exceptions. This association was formed shortly after the Exhibition event to foster professional swimming and to recognize authentic performances put on in a proper way, since many spurious events have been staged. Several meetings of this organization have taken place in New York and other places.

The International Professional Swimmers Association in their demand that the Exhibition conduct the next international event, praises the outstanding way the last event was conducted and praise the treatment they received in Toronto. The letter, in part, reads: "The reason for calling upon your organization to stage this event is the sole factor that the members were unanimous in declaring to the Canadian National Exhibition that Toronto is the ideal location for an event of this kind and the fact that of the three marathons held to date, Catalina, Lake George and Toronto, the last named city gave the swimmers the best treatment and the greatest co-operation."

The lengthy letter goes on to make several suggestions for the next Toronto swim, suggesting a woman's race as well as a man's at a shorter distance than last year and over a more attractive course for the spectator.

OSHAWA BEATS PORT HOPE 6-0

Motor Town Team Swamps Rivals—Port Perry Beats Lindsay.

30 MINUTES OVERTIME.

OSHAWA, Dec. 29. — Port Hope Ontarios and Oshawa opened the intermediate O.H.A. season here yesterday evening, and the Motor City team hung up a 6 to 0 victory over their rivals. For the first period the ice was in fair condition but during the second and third the puck had to be pushed through the water and slush when the players of either team started out on their lone rushes.

Port Hope Ontarios were out for the first time as a team, and although always following the parade never let up trying while Oshawa had 2 exhibition games under their belts, and several nights of good practice, and were in condition to go the route on the heavy going.

When these two teams meet on fast ice a merry struggle can be looked for. The teams in last night's game were:

Port Hope: Goal, Micks; defence, Crossett and K. Ware; centre, R. Ware; forwards, Hagerman and Hayden; subs Adams and Francey.

Oshawa : Goal, Smith; defence, Johnston and Chartrand; centre, Joyce; forwards, Avery and Houck; subs., Stephen and Colin.

Referee—Herb. Matthews, Toronto.

Port Perry in Overtime.

LINDSAY, Dec. 29. Canadian Press — After 30 minutes overtime, Port Perry intermediates defeated Lindsay in the season's opener by 4 to 3. The ice was soft with water and slush. Lindsay's speed line was at a big disadvantage, and Port Perry's big defence men played a fine game. The line up:

Port Perry: Goal, Deshane; defence, Gerow and Raymes; centre, Roach; left wing, Naples; right wing, McGregor; subs., King and Wallace.

Lindsay: Goal, Farley; defence, Reeves and Killen; centre, Davis; left wing, workman; right wing, Williams; subs, Martin and E. Reeves, and Whitby.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Robert Currie, who has been doing odd jobs to earn his living recently, has been advised from Ottawa that he is heir to $75,000 left by an uncle in that city. The information was sent to St. Paul's Hospital here where Currie had been working, but as he had left there a few days ago to seek work elsewhere he did not learn of his good fortune until he read it in a local newspaper yesterday. He has communicated with his uncle's executors in Ottawa.

CHICAGO CENTRE BADLY INJURED

Dick Irvin Fractures Skull During Game With Maroons.

MONTREAL WINS.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 29.—A scoring splurge in the third period that netted them three goals, gave the Montreal Maroons a 4 to 3 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks in their National League Hockey match here last night. The play was rough and speedy throughout, and was watched by a crowd of 6,500 spectators, the second largest crowd that ever saw a hockey game in Chicago.

The Chicago team went to pieces after they lost the services of Captain Dick Irvin who sustained a fractured skull in the second period, as a result of a crash into the sideboards. The Chicago star was removed to a hospital.

For two periods it appeared that the revamped Chicago team, strengthened by Ty Arbour and Duke Keats, might win the game decisively, but they last the advantage after Irvin's injury.

Stewart gave the Maroons the edge in the first period, scored eight minutes after the face-off, Chicago came right back, however, and took the lead on goals in rapid succession by MacKay, Irvin and Keats. Chicago played defensively in the second period and that session was scoreless. The winning rally started when Phillips tallied after the third period had gone a little more than five minutes. Touhey then counted twice on unassisted plays for the tieing and winning goals.

O.H.A. BULLETIN

Mild weather has made it necessary to postpone the following O.H.A. games scheduled for to-night:

Intermediate series — Bolton at Brampton; Newmarket at Milton; Elora at Fergus.

Brampton and Milton Juniors are not scheduled to play to-morrow night as originally announced.

A change of referees for to-morrow night sends W H. Legg to Glencoe for the game with Wallaceburg, and Gerald Goodman to Blenheim for the Alvinstone fixture.

The Port Dover at Simcoe intermediate game, scheduled for January 4th, will be played January 3.

Owing to lack of ice the Kingston at Brockville intermediate game, scheduled for to-morrow, has been ordered to be played at Kingston, where artificial ice is available. Kingston will play at Brockville January 27

The new arena at Dunnville will be opened on January 11th when Port Colborne will play Varsity Grads. Consequently Paris will play their intermediate O.H.A. game at Port Colborne on Monday, January 9th, instead of Tuesday, January 10th, as originally scheduled.

O. H. A. teams are reminded that games should not be postponed if it is at all possible to play them, even if it is necessary to tranfer scheduled games to artificial ice. Group winners positively must be declared not later than February 4 if the O.H.A. is to be ready for the Canadian playdowns.

C.D.S.L. BEING RE-ORGANIZED

Stores Will be Closed on Friday in Preparation for Big Sale.

TO RAISE CASH

Canadian Department Stores, Ltd., which was organized about a year ago, and which comprises the destinies of twenty-two old Canadian retail business establishments, is now in process of re-organization.

The financing of such a large undertaking has been disappointing. There has been a paucity of investment money due to strong speculative inclinations in the money markets, and consequently this merger has found itself long on merchandise and short on sufficient working capital to allow it to function.

The plan is to convert sufficient merchandise into cash during the month of January to take care of obligations, and as the assets overtop the liabilities by two to one, this should not be difficult.

We are informed that the local store will be closed on Friday, December 30, to prepare for a gigantic sale that will continue throughout the month, commencing on the third.

Exploration is shortly to begin at Reculver, Kent, England, of the Roman fort partially surrounded by a Roman wall 10 feet high, and varying in thickness from 10 feet at the base to eight feet at the top.

Cure Bad Habits By Practicing Them Is Suggestion of Famous Scholar

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press.)—The cure of stammering and thumb sucking among young children and possibly other bad habits through voluntary repetition of the act, was suggested to psychologists of the American Association for the Advancement of Science yesterday by Prof. Dunlop of John Hopkins University. He told of curing himself of the habit of transposing the letters of word "the" when using a typewriter by deliberately practising the typing of the word as "hte." The plan, he said, is to have the patient voluntarily reproduce the objectionable behaviour as nearly as possible, under the direction of psychologist, while distinctly thinking that such voluntary repetition will aid in abolition of the habit which he must desire to be rid of.

LAKEFIELD PRESBYTERIAN SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LAKEFIELD, December 29. — The first annual Christmas tree of the Presbyterian Sunday School was held on Monday evening, December 19, in Queen Street Theatre.

The minister, Rev. J. Ross, was in the chair, and in his opening remarks called attention to the fact that just one year ago the Sunday School was organized with a superintendent and four qualified teachers. There is an enrolment of thirty, and the school is well supplied with S.S. literature and has already a library of 200 volumes. There is also a Bible Class.

The attendance at the entertainment was good, and the verdict was unanimous that it was a pleasant and successful event.

The program was opened by devotional exercises, after which the following numbers were given:

Piano solo—Lula Smith.
Recitation—Ivan Tighe.
Recitation—Evelyn Moore.
Song—Donald Smith.
Recitation—Jean Clarke.
Recitation—Orville Moore.
Piano solo—Miss Hilda McKibbin.
Song—The School.
Recitation—Alice Rylett.
Recitation—Julian Morin.
Song—Billy Clarke.
Recitation—Madeline Morin.
Recitation—Charlie Moore.
Song—Douglas Smith.
Recitation—Tommy Moore.
Boys' march—Seven boys with flags, "Hurrah for Christmas."
Recitation—Miss Eileen Brown.
Song—Jean Clarke.

At this juncture Santa Claus appeared in the regalia made familiar to children in song and story as well as pictures. The genial Saint, patron saint of little children, distributed the gifts from the well loaded tree to the boys and girls. Besides a present, each child received an orange and a bag of candy.

The program was resumed, and one of the prettiest and most fanciful numbers was given, a pantomime by six young ladies—Misses Hilda McKibbin, Mollie Thomson, Lula Smith, Alma Tighe, Ellen Moore, and Elsie Tighe. This was an outstanding feature of the evening, and was entitled "A Christmas Basket."

Recitation—Douglas Smith.
Recitation—Billy Clarke.
Recitation—Ethel Millar.
Recitation—Donald Smith.
Song—The School.
Recitation—Miss Lula Smith.

The children all did well, and were a credit to themselves and to their teachers. The boys' march with flags was well done, and was quite unique. Mr. and Mrs. Ross are being congratulated on this, this initial effort.

In Peterborough Churches

GEORGE STREET UNITED.

The Christmas Day services at George Street United Church on Sunday were of an exceptionally high character, and will long be remembered by the large congregations which attended, both morning and evening.

The special music rendered by the choir, under the direction of G. F. Liddle, organist and choirmaster, was very effective. At the morning service the anthem, "Unfold" (Gounod), with echo choir in the balcony and trumpet blasts, was exceedingly beautiful.

Miss Daisy Murray, soprano soloist, was in splendid voice, and sang "The Holy Child" (Martin).

The choir sang a "Christmas Song of the 12th Century" (Corelius), with fine effect.

Rev. J. E. Todd, at the morning service, read the Christmas story from the second chapter of St. Luke's Gospel. He said: "This is one of the stories we never seem to grow weary of, even though we have heard it from our childhood days. Somehow it seems to grip us mightily, partly, perhaps, on account of old associations, as father or mother read it to us, but the chief reason it effects us so wonderfully is contained in the Christmas message itself. It is to all people, regardless of race, color or nationality and because of this it will continue to grip us down through the ages. It contains no class distinction. It is a message, not to divide and separate people, not a message any church or denomination can take to itself as its peculiar possession. It is a message to all men."

Mr. Todd said he thought the United Church of Canada had glimpsed this message of love and getting together the fatherhood and brotherhood of man. This message of love and goodwill to man, which the herald angels sing, is the only thing which will save this old world from utter destruction.

"We talk about love and goodwill on Christmas Day and mean it, but if we wish to make a better world we must carry on Christmas all year.

"It was a dark and dreary world Christ came into 1,900 years ago. There were few good things in the ascendency. Government of the country was run on fear. Religion was run on fear. Priests taught a God to be feared. The upper class influenced all things. God came into the world and said, 'You are all wrong. Jesus rules by love.' If God cannot win you by love He does not want to win you at all. God is not a great universal detective on the trail of bad girls and boys. God does trust man and He wants to win him by love. That God is not a suspicious God can be proven from the Scriptures. Examples are the king who went into a far country, and confidence in the prodigal son.

"Then if God is a trustful and loving God, how are we going to live? Man must be put on his feet if he is going to measure up to his responsibilities. Let us as a people use all the resources possible to help us. Let God serve us in the church that we in our turn may go out into the world and serve Him.

"Read the Bible and follow its teachings and so make this old world a better place to live in.

"Make our hearts like reservoirs, with channels flowing into them and rivers flowing out. Man is like a reservoir as soon as he isolates himself from other men dreary stagnation sets in. Leave channels open into your hearts or soon there will be no message of love to send out."

Mr. Todd said he thought we were in great danger of losing our Christmas by commercializing i. In great danger of commercializing a thing, which is one of the deep spiritual realities of life. If we lose the true spirit of Christmas we lose all the good and happy times it brings.

If we can only become infused with the true Christmas spirit we will want to make mother, father, sister or brother happier and get in closer touch with them.

Become reconciled with an enemy.

Bring happiness into the heart of a man with a grudge.

If we have plenty of friends bring gladness into the heart of some lives who are unhappy and who have few friends.

Commit yourselves this Christmas day to some definite work. Be a brother to some man less favored than yourself.

Christ was the greatest Giver of the ages. He gave neither silver nor gold but such as He had He gave. He gave Himself for the redemption of the world.

"The thought often comes to many of us that we have no fine gifts to give. Let us give the things that are Christlike; Thought, affection, praise, love.

"Christmas does not consist in the material things we give or receive out in that fine spirit of good will which, is the real essence of Christmas."

In conclusion, Mr. Todd on behalf of Mrs. Todd and himself wished his congregation a very happy Christmas.

The evening service was of a musical character. It commenced at 6.30 p.m. with an organ recital by Mr. Liddle, consisting of the following numbers:

Toccatto: (Dubois.)
Christmas: (Dethier.)
March of Magi: (Dubois.)
Postlude: Christmas March. (Merkel.)

At 7 p.m., the surpliced choir marched up the aisles, singing "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" (Mendelssohn), followed by a Christmas choir of boys and girls who took their position in the north and south transepts. Several splendid numbers were given and altogether it was a rare musical treat.

The adult choir sang "O Holy Night" (Adams) and the Children's choir and adults sang "Good King Wenceslas," the girls of the children's choir taking the part of the page and the boys the King's part.

An effective number was a mixed quartette by Mrs. Liddle, Miss Daisy Murray, Mr. A. Lillow and Mr. E. Rowe, with Mr. D. Calyle taking the baritone solo obligato, "Welcome, Welcome, Dear Redeemer," (Frane), Mrs. Liddle's beautiful contralto voice was exceptionally good in the solo, "O Thou That Tellest," (Handel.) Miss Daisy Murray sang "Old Sacred Lullaby" (S. Liddle) very pleasingly.

The adult choir sang "Listen to the Lambs," (Dett), and "Hallelujah Chorus," (Handel), and "God "God Rest you Merry Gentlemen," was sung by the combined choirs as they marched out of the church.

Mr. Todd told Van Dyke's Christmas story of "The Other Wise Man" in his usual pleasing and interesting manner, describing the journey of the other wise man through the desert and into Egypt, and his wanderings for 33 years in search of the King. He helped the needy, suffering ones whom he came in contact with, at last returning to Jerusalem at the time of the crucifixion, still in hopes of seeing his king and presenting him with his last remaining jewel, he gave it in ransom for he release of a poor slave girl. Soon after he was hit by a stone which fell from the high wall and before his death he heard the voice of God saying "Inasmuch as you have done it unto the least of my people you have done it also unto me."

The church was prettily decorated for the church services. Boughs of evergreens trimmed with red poinsettas hung above the choir loft, and wreaths of holly hung from the chandeliers Two beautiful Christmas trees adorned the pulpit platform.

The open session of the Sunday school brought out an unusually large crowd of members and visitors.

Miss Eva Outram told the Christmas story. Miss Greta McCall sang a solo and Rev. J. E. Todd gave a short talk. The hymns and music by the Sunday school orchestra were of a special Christmas character.

SON OF HOOSIER RAILROAD ENGINEER STARRED IN RAILROAD MELODRAMA

William Jackson Blue father of Monte Blue, was for more than 30 years, a locomotive engineer in Indiana. One of the boy's keenest pleasures was to ride with dad on the engine and it was his ambition to follow the same occupation. When in his husky teens he fired for his father, and would no doubt have succeeded him as engineer, had not the lure of the road led him from the state of his birth.

Part of his longing to be free and afoot came from the long time after the death of his mother when he lived in a soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home. His early years had fitted him for man's work and the Cherokee blood that flowed in his veins made him choose roads instead of roofs and a crust fought for rather than a feast provided.

This is why swinging an axe in the lumber country or a pick in the mines were just to his mind for a time. Then he must be up and off. Cow-punching riding bucking broncos, soldiering, sailoring, he gave them all a fling. He was a happy-go-lucky wayfarer till the fates with no promptings from Blue himself landed him in the movies. In the movies he has endeared himself to millions to whom he symbolizes what a "regular guy" should be.

AT THE GRAND.

AMAZING RECORD OF "CHARLEY'S AUNT" IS RECORD OF THE STAGE.

All records of the theatre are beaten by the hilarious comedy, "Charley's Aunt," which will be presented here for the first time by the All-English Brandon-Thomas Company, under the direction of the author's widow, Mrs. Brandon-Thomas, at the Grand Theatre, on Thursday, Jan. 5. It was originally produced 35 years ago and has been played to capacity houses continuously ever since. Queen Victoria's reign saw the birth of this perennial farce, which has continued its triumphant run for nearly four decades, and it is apparently as great an attraction to-day as when it first convulsed Victorian audiences. Every part of England and almost every city and town throughout the world, has witnessed its production time and time again, while its extraordinary popularity has necessitated its translation into almost every language.

The play was an instantaneous success when it was first produced in London at the Royalty Theatre, so much so that it had to be transferred to a bigger theatre, the Globe, within a month where it ran without a break for four years. During that time road companies were sent all over the world with it, and one night there were as many as forty organizations playing the piece in that number of different theatres the world over. Though the tastes of theatre goers have undergone radical changes sinec the more sober days of the last generation and although 1892 seems a very remote period, "Charley's Aunt" still remains the greatest comedy success the world has ever seen. Great Britain is toured by all-the-year-round companies, and London has its big "Charley's Aunt" season twice daily every Christmastide.

League meetings have been suspended for two weeks owing to preparations for Christmas concerts, but on Monday evening last a number of local leaguers visited Meyersburg United church and put on the program. The conference at its annual convention recommended that each League visit some charge where there was no organization and the Zion League adopted this suggestion and visited Meyersburg in the hope of sowing the seed of young people's endeavor in that vicinity.

A goodly number were out to enjoy the evening's program, which was under the direction of the local Citizenship committee. The regular form of meeting was used except that addresses were given by Thomas Fry, devotional convenor, Earl Fairman, missionary convenor, and E. L. Anderson, citizenship convenor, along the line of work in each department with the social and literary convenor. Miss Gladys Simpson putting on an interesting get-together contest. The Meyersburg young people served refreshments at the close and a happy social hour was spent.

The ministers of the congregations, the Rev. R. Daniel and the Rev. D. R. Clare, spoke on the subject of League work and it is hoped and expected that an organization will be functioning at Meyersburg in the near future.

The local League will hold the election of officers for 1928 at the regular meeting on Thursday evening.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CHRISTMAS TREE

When first Uncle Wiggily reached his hollow stump bungalow after many adventures, carrying the Christmas doll in the long stocking of Mrs. Blue Heron, and as the rabbit gentleman heard shouting and saw a crowd rushing toward him, he feared it was some of the bad chaps coming to bite him.

But soon he heard merry laughter and the barking of a little dog boy, who said:

"Here's Unkie Wig now! We'll go help him cut it!"

"Oh, I hope I'm not going to be cut!" gasped the Christmas Doll, named Bella, and she snuggled down closer in the long stocking that was slung over Uncle Wiggily's back.

"No, this is only Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow," chuckled the rabbit gentleman. "They wouldn't cut anybody. And here is Tommie Kat, and Jimmie Wibblewobble, and Johnnie and Billie Bushytail," he added as he saw more of the jolly animal boys.

"Oh, I'm so glad it's them!" sighed Bella. "I was afraid it might be the Bob Cat again."

"And I was afraid this was a crowd of my little girl rabbits!" said Mr. Longears. "In that case I would have hard work to keep such a nice doll as you, Bella, from falling into their paws. As it is, I can now keep you until after Christmas and give you away, with other presents I expect to get in this long stocking."

"Oh, are you going to give me away?" asked Bella.

"That is what Christmas presents are for," said the rabbit. "I want Santa Claus to bring me a lot of extra ones, so I may give them to children who, otherwise, might get none."

"Oh, that's all right," laughed Bella. "I shall be happy when, perhaps, some poor, little pussy-cat girl has me."

By this time the boy-animals, who had rushed out from behind Uncle Wiggily's bungalow, had made a circle around him and Jimmie the duck was quacking:

"Now we'll go cut it! Now we'll go cut it!"

"What does he want to cut?" whispered Bella, sticking her head out of the stocking.

"A Christmas tree, I suppose," answered Uncle Wiggily. And, surely enough, that is what it was. The bunny uncle had been promising the animal boys, for a week back, to take them to the woods to cut the Christmas tree and it was now time.

"But what's the Doll in the long stocking for?" barked Jackie.

Hush! That's a secret!" whispered Mr. Longears. "Please say nothing about it." So the animal boys promised and, as all the animal girls were over to the home of Nannie Wagtail, the goat, trying to guess what they would get for Christmas, none of them saw Bella.

Uncle Wiggily slipped into his bungalow, hid the doll and then he hopped out to go to the woods with the boys to cut the tree. Up the hill, down the valley, along the brook which was now covered with ice and snow hopped the rabbit gentleman. They were nearing the woods where Christmas trees grew.

"But how are we going to cut the tree down?" asked Johnnie Bushytail, who was frisking on ahead with his big tail held like a dusting brush over his back. "You didn't bring any ax."

"Oh, we forgot the ax!" chattered Billie, who was Johnnie's brother. "Now we can't cut the Christmas tree!"

"Oh, yes we can," chuckled Mr. Longears. "I'll show you."

And when they were deep in the woods, and had picked out a tall, green tree, all of a sudden Uncle Wiggily whistled through his teeth and up from the brook, where they had a snug, warm house under the ice, came Toodle and Noodle Flat Tail, the beaver boys.

"Toodle and Noodle will cut the tree for us," said Mr. Longears. "With their sharp teeth, made for gnawing, they will cut the tree down as well as a carpenter could with an ax or saw."

Surely enough, Toodle and Noodle, gnawing first on one side and then the other of the Christmas tree, soon brought it to the ground in a cloud of dusty snow. And as the tree fell over some of the roots were loosened. Down in a little hollow beneath the roots was a little bunch of red fur from which came squeals and chatters.

"Oh, Unkie Wig! Look what's here!" barked Jackie.

"What is it?" asked the rabbit gentleman hopping closer to take a look. And when he saw what was beneath the tree roots he cried: "My goodness me sakes alive!" and twinkled his pink nose.

DON'T GET EXCITED

It is an evidence of the highest culture when one can live in this rapidly changing, hurry-up age with a good control over all of the emotions. Those who have not attained such control find themselves torn by the passions of love, hatred, jealousy, etc. They are storm-tossed by over-emotion—going from the depths to the heights—from pleasure to pain, becoming alternately too depressed or too exalted.

Besides the ordinary emotions which we recognize as existent, there is doubtless another common one which few have recognized. This is the simple emotion of EXCITEMENT. Many get a nerve-stimulating thrill every time they hear the fire engine dashing by, or when they read of a great disaster. Their excitement is not truly caused by either fear or sorrow, or any other of the emotions ordinarily understood.

One who has the proper poise and calmness of mind does not allow himself to be too often excited by any emotion. But it is nevertheless true that there are many nerve-racked people who allow their minds to be storm-tossed by every unusual story or news about happenings which can in no way immediately concern them. Such excitement only depletes the nerve forces and brings on enervation.

The man of power is always one who has a steady control over all emotions, and who uses his mental and physical energy where they will do the most good. The fault seems to be that many do not understand upon what events and emotions they should place the proper emphasis.

Women, as a rule, may be said to be the more nervous, and seem to waste more energy upon trifles. The business or professional man would not go very far in accomplishing any successful work if he could not learn to concentrate upon the important things of the day, but spent most of his time wasting his nerve forces by continually being either too sad or too glad.

The unsuccessful man is often the one who is effeminate enough to have the nature of an extrovert, which means one who is dominated by things outside of himself.

It might be well for everyone to take an emotional inventory at the end of each day. Take a piece of paper and write down a list of these emotions: love, hatred, envy, jealousy, fear, malice. Then, on another line put these down: work, sleep, recreation. Check off on every one of these items, trying to remember back through the day how much time and energy you have actually spent in the power of emotions and observe how well you have balanced the hours of the day.

It is probably best to work about eight hours, sleep eight, and use the other eight hours for recreation and study. There should certainly be a smattering here and there during your waking hours of remembrances of mild enjoyments, lovely thoughts and joyful moments; but as you take an inventory of your emotions you may find it helpful to cut down the amount of time you are wasting on fear, hatred, jealousy, malice and other emotions and excitements which only waste energy and contribute their share to producing both nervous and physical disorders.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Anxious asks: "Is there anything that can be given a man secretly that will cure him of the drink habit? I wish I could find something that would make him dreadfully sick if he touched liquor!"

Answer: There is nothing I know of which will cure the drink habit unless the drinker is really willing to be cured. It is then very simple. A fast on acid fruits will in a day or two destroy all craving for liquor. The cure is then complete if the drinker really desires a cure.

Question: Mary W. asks: "Does sugar combine well with starchy foods?"

Answer: Starchy foods should be used only with the cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables. Sugar should not be used at the same meal with starchy foods.

Question: J. L. K. writes: "I know several children who were vaccinated about a year ago. Their arms were not sore, and appeared to be entirely well. The scar left an indention, as usual. Recently the place has puffed up and formed a hard, knotty pone. The children also complain of their arms being sore. Please tell the public what causes this, and also the remedy."

Answer: The remedy for such a condition as you describe is for the children to be put on a fairly long fast of, say, ten days or two weeks. This is the only method I know of getting rid of such a deep-seated infection. The experience of these children is very common, and comes from the infection from the Streptococcus or staphylococcus bacteria which are always present in the smallpox vaccine.

The average wholesale value of the motor vehicles produced in 1899 was $1,166.73. The average wholesale value of those produced in 1927 was $714.44.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE FIGHTING LOSER

My heart goes out to any man
Who stands in need of money,
And I'll do anything I can
To make his life more sunny.

Yes, I am for him good and strong,
Unless he stands around too long.
That man a loan I'm quick at handing,
Unless he's satisfied with standing.

Yes, when a man is down and out,
I'm prompt at sympathizing;
And yet I feel a certain doubt
When men are slow in rising.

A fellow never did amount
To much, content to take the count,
But all the world admires the fellow
Who's black and blue, but never yellow.

The fighting man has many friends,
No matter what the battle,
The man whose courage never ends,
Whom foeman cannot rattle.

The world will gladly give its pelf
To help the man who helps himself—
May only cheer some brawny bruiser,
But turn and love the fighting loser.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XLVI — by Nicholas Afonsky

The English flier, Lieutenant Alan Cobham, left London November 16, 1925, and flew successfully, though with many exciting experiences, to Cape Town, South Africa. He was back in London in March, 1926, whre he was received with enthusiasm for his feat of having brought England in touch with another of her colonies.

Much of the exploration of the future will probably be done from airplanes. Byrd has already announced an exploration program that will occupy many years. In July, 1925, the Dr. A. Hamilton Rice expedition explored the headwaters of the Amazon and Lieutenant Walter Hinton flew a thousand miles over the jungle.

On May 9, 1926, Commander Richard Byrd, famous American flier, and Floyd Bennett flew from Spitzbergen to the North Pole and back in about fifteen hours. He saw no land. When he was over the pole he and Bennett shook hands, and then stood at attention in memory of the discoverer of the Pole, Commander Peary.

Two days later the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile expedition, in a semi-rigid dirigible, flew from the same place over the North Pole to Teller, Alaska. They encountered snow and fog, and when they landed they were entirely out of glue with which they had been mending holes in their ship caused by ice.

New York Market Firm After Weakness At Opening

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press.)— Heavy buying of railroad equipment shares, based on reports of large locomotive and freight car orders, featured the mixed price movements in to-day's stock market. The resumption of selling pressure at the opening carried many issues down one to five points but the market turned upward in the early afternoon under the leadership of United States' Steel common and General Motors, which quickly advanced tow and one point, respectively, above yesterday's final quotations.

Early selling was particularly effective against the eastern coalers, which have suffeed a loss of business as a result of the unseasonably warm weather. Lackawanna broke nearly five points, despite the declaration of an extra dividend, and several others yielded a point or two.

Strength At Liverpool Affects Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, December 29. — Canadian Press. — Unexpected strength shown by the Liverpool wheat quotations did a good deal to make the wheat market here average higher early to-day. Spreading operations however between wheat and corn had a tendency to render price changes in both grains irregular. Opening at 3-8 cents decline to 5-8 cents advance, wheat later held near to the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to ¼c up and subseqquently showed a material general set back. Oats were relatively firm.

Opening prices were: Wheat, Dec., 126 7-8; March 128 5-8. Corn Dec., 82⅜c, March 86½; oats, Dec., 51½; March 54.

Most Shares Weaker On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, December 29 (Canadian Press). — Slight fluctuations, for the most part downward, characterized the trading on the local stock exchange this morning. International Nickel scored the largest volume of sales, with Christie Brown a somewhat lagging second. The former issue was unchanged and was later up 1⅛ at 81½ . Some sharp rises were made by the bank stocks. Among the mines, Nipissing dropped five to 6.10, and Hollinger lost twenty points in selling at 12.05. British-American Oil was up a fraction at 37½. After sensational trading during the past two days. Walker's was easier to-day ,selling off to 64½ for a drop of ½.

Mine Stocks Drop; Changes Are Slight

TORONTO, December 29 (Canadiandian Press). — The downward trend of a number of leading stocks on the Standard Mining Exchange continued this morning. Noranda closed at 23.70 with a net loss of ten points after selling as low at 23.50. Kirkland Lake dropped the four points it gained yesterday in closing at 2.65. Treadwell opened unchanged at 26.35, but dropped 25 points in trading to close at 26.00. Sudbury Basin scored a nice gain in advancing 15 points to 11.50, while Abana was up five at 3.60. ENDURANCE FLIGHT PLANE LACKS POWER

DAYTONA BEACH, Florida, Dec. 29. — Canadian Press. — William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, world fliers made a start in the attempted endurance flight here to-day, but the motor of the Pride of Detroit failed to develop sufficient power to keep the heavily loaded craft in the air.

After rolling smoothly down the beach for more than a mile the monoplane, carrying 550 gallons of gasoline, weighing approximately 3 tons, rose about 10 feet in the air, and began wobbling perceptibly.

The fliers quickly dumped their main gasoline tank of 190 gallons, and brought the wheels safely back on the sands. They attributed the failure of the motor to develop sufficient power to the use of a wooden propeller and said a metal propeller would be substituted and another attempt made to-morrow.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Giving false meanings to words, misconstruing plain statements of the Bible, interpreting parables contrary to the whole design of the Scriptures, and failing to recognize the symbology of the Bible, some teachers and preachers, by so doing, have foisted upon an unsuspecting public a system of palpable error. They preach false and unreasonable doctrines, and claim these doctrines emanate from the Bible. On account of this, many honest thinking men have become infidels. On the other hand, careless, unthinking ones, who have accepted their false teaching, in many cases, have become superstitious, bigoted, and void of understanding. Again many preachers, who are connected with the denominations of Christendom, who hold the doctrine of eternal torment and endless, hopeless despair, as the punishment of the wicked, by their conduct fail to make us think they really believe what they preach. Others pose as "higher critics," throwing doubt on the authenticity of the Scriptures, and with big head, hand out their opinions. Others are seeing that they are occupying a false position and are refusing to preach these false doctrines and take a salary for so doing, and are going to work like other men. Incidently the man that works six days in the week, knowing what it is to have an aching back, and tired limbs, is better able to sympathize with and preach to his fellow man on Sunday, than the man who does the very opposite. Sad to say, some continue to hold their position and salary and are preaching on sensational subjects, and are having theatrical and musical entertainments, suppers, fancy teas, etc., endeavoring to keep the people coming to their church. While the above is the rule, there are noble exceptions, men who are honest, good, and true. With many no doubt it is a struggle and fight to break away from early false teaching, especially is this so, on account of ostracism and persecution, that is sure to follow taking a stand on the side of truth. The call is "come out of this confusion."

BOY INJURED SLEIGH-RIDING

Jerry Creighton Hurt When Bob-sleigh Crashes Into Pole.

NOW IN HOSPITAL.

Jerry Creighton, youngest son of Jack Creighton, met with a very painful accident on Christmas Day, when the bobsleigh on which he was riding crashed into a telephone pole. The boy, with his elder brother and sister and a companion went to visit St. Joseph's Hospital crib. While returning home they were invited to have a ride down Armour Road Hill on a bobsleigh. The sleigh in its course down the sidewalk gained much speed and getting out of control crashed into a telephone pole. Jerry Creighton suffered a painful accident, and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he is under the care of Dr. McNulty.

Jerry is the second of Mr. Creighton's boys to meet with a serious accident during the past few months, as one of his brothers had his foot badly cut, needing eleven stitches, while running home one night.

CHILDREN GUESTS OF BELMONT CLUB

Members Play Hosts To 97 Little Ones Who Put on Program.

Ninety-seven youngsters, from four years of age up to twelve, had the times of their lives last night, when the Belmont Club entertained them at a real Christmas party of eats, and music and fun. The Club, wishing to entertain children who hadn't been looked after in this way by other organizations, asked the Public and Separate School attendance officers, James Abraham and Frank Fairen, to collect the small guests of the evening, and the children had a wonderful time. An impromptu program of music and recitations and dances was put on by the children, and afforded them just as much enjoyment as it did their hosts, who entered into the spirit of the affair with vigor and interest. Efforts by the little boys and girls ranged all the way from select songs to renditions of the "Black Bottom" dance, one small girlie announcing after her number that her mother intended to introduce her later to a stage career. The supper consisted of good "meaty" sandwiches, fruit, cake and ice cream and gifts were distributed by a large and generous Santa Claus. On leaving, each child received a bag of oranges, nuts and candies, and were transported to their various homes through the kindness of the Border Transit Company, who provided a 'bus for the purpose. It was red-letter evening in the lives of most of the kiddies.

INNOCENTS' DAY SERVICE IS HELD

Children of St. George's Also Hold Annual Christmas Treat.

Holy Innocents' Day was fittingly observed yesterday by the children of St. George's church. At 10 o'clock in the morning a number of children attended service in church, when the rector, Rev. J. L. Hughes, spoke to them of the little ones who were put to death by the order of the cruel King Herod, thus giving the title to this day—the third day after Christmas Day.

In the evening the Sunday school party was held. At 6 o'clock the scholars sat down to supper, and were well waited on by teachers and senior scholars. After all signs of supper were over, the scholars were taken into church where lantern slides were shown, the Rector explaining each picture, while Mr. E. Tucker manipulated the lantern. The first set of slides dealt with the Christmas story and was followed by pictures dealing with the work in the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto. These especially impressed the children very much. All then adjourned to the basement again, where bags of candy were distributed.

Frances Simmons recited a "Message from Santa Claus," which was soon followed by the welcome visitor himself. His large bag was soon unloaded, and a present given to every scholar and to each teacher. Santa also had three big surprises. The first was a handsome brass dinner gong for the Rector and Mrs. Hughes, which bore a card expressing the good wishes of the teachers. Mrs. Andrews received a pretty Eversharp pencil with ribbon attachment from her class of senior girls, and the senior boys showed their appreciation of their teacher, Mr. Tucker, in the third surprise which Santa had—a beautiful shaving outfit. The jolly old man took his departure amid loud cheers, after which the National Anthem was sung. An apple was given to each of the children as they left for home.

Wedding Bells

LINSEY—LITTLE.

A very pretty wedding took place on Saturday, Dec 24 at All Saints' church, when Violet May Little, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Little, of Peterborough, became the bride of Sidney Richard Linsey, oldest son of the late Sidney Arthur Linsey, of Bewdley Ont., and Mrs. J. Hierons of Peterborough.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Robert, and looked very pretty in her dress of white silk crepe de chine, trimmed with small pale pink roses, with veil and orange blossoms. She carried deep pink roses and carnations.

Miss Flora Linsey, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, wearing a dress of black velvet and pink georgette, with hat to match. She carried pale pink roses.

Mr. Mills acted as best man. Rev. J. D. Paterson officiated.

The young people were the recipients of many useful presents. They will reside in Peterborough.

TORONTO December 29. Canadian Press. — John Madill, head of the brokerage firm of Madill and Son, died to-day at the age of 70 years. The deceased was born in Peterborough and lived for many years in Napanee. Surviving are his widow and two sons, T. S. Madill of Montreal, and Louis Madill of Toronto.

W. J. ROBERTSON

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—W. J. Robertson, noted educationist, whose authorized British and Canadian historical textbooks were used in the Public and High Schools of Ontario for many years, died today, aged 84 years. He was a teacher of advanced classes in St. Catharines Collegiate Institute for 35 years, and for the past few years had conducted a book store. He had been a member of the Public Library Board since its inception.

MRS. THOMAS PHILBIN

It will come as a great shock to her many friends in the city to learn of the sudden death last evening, a short time after she was seized with an attack of acute indigestion, while watching the picture at the Capitol Theatre, of Mrs. Hannah Philbin, wife of Thomas Philbin of Ottawa.

The deceased lady, who was seventy years of age, was born in Douglas, Ontario, and has been a resident of Ottawa for many years. She had made an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Cantwell, Superintendent of the Gouverneur Hospital in New York City, and came to Peterborough on Saturday to spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Clover. Later, Mrs. Philbin and her daughter intended to go to their home in Ottawa.

The late Mrs. Philbin was a woman of charming personality who immediately made friends of all with whom she came in contact. During brief visits to the city, she gained many friends, her warm, genial personality and happy manner endearing her to a wide circle. Of a motherly type, she had a faculty of becoming interested in everyone she encountered and was an admirable example of the refined type of woman of an older generation.

Survivors are her sorrowing husband and daughter.

The funeral will take place this week in Douglas, Ontario. Mrs. Cantwell, Mrs. Clover and Mr. H. Lapiante accompanying the remains.

JUDGE J. E. McGLADE.

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 29.—County Judge James Edmund McGlade died suddenly late Tuesday night. He had not been well for several months and recently asked for six months' leave of absence. He was seized with a violent coughing spell and died about midnight.

Judge McGlade was born in Brockville in 1873. He was educated in the schools of the town and Ottawa University. For seven years following his graduation he was employed as head bookkeeper for Doheny and Donovan, famous railway contractors. He was called to the Bar in 1916 and entered practice as a member of the firm of Buell, Parish and McGlade in Brockville the same year. In 1925 upon the death of Judge M. G. Cameron he was appointed to the judgeship of the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland.

Judge McGlade was one of those few men possessed of personality and geniality, which won him a host of friends from the hosts of people with whom he came in contact. Children on the street hailed him with delight as he passed—strangers recognized his geniality and greeted him with a smile—his intimates loved and admired him.

No man could have held a higher place in a community in which he had resided for only two years than did Judge McGlade. Unostentatious almost to a degree of shyness, he loved to live a quiet happy life with his family and friends. In his court life he was friendly and cordial to all with whom he was associated, and his cordial, genial manner, together with his marked ability, made him outstanding as a jurist. On the bench he was attentive, sympathetic and never severe. He inclined to leniency wherever the circumstances of the case would permit.

Judge McGlade has been a devoted member of St. Michael's Church, at which he was a regular attendant.

Eighteen years ago he married Miss Helen Kelly, Brockville, who with two sons, Hugh and James, survive; two brothers, George E. McGlade, city ticket agent of the C.P.R., Brockville, and Michael I. McGlade of the Civil Service, Brockville, and four sisters, Mrs. D. C. Grant, Montreal; Mrs. A. G. Parish, Misses Emily and Ella McGlade, Brockville, also survive.

At midnight yesterday the remains were taken to Brockville and a service is being held at St. Francis Xavier Church to-morrow morning at nine o'clock.

BEING A CANDIDATE FOR THE BOARD OF EDUCATION,

I would be pleased to have your confidence and your vote.

ARMY PLANES ARE USED IN RELIEF WORK

Carry Supplies To Snow-Bound Villages After England's Storm.

DANGER OF FLOODS.

Tanks From British Army Posts Employed To Level Pathway.

LONDON, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Aeroplanes and armed tanks are playing relief roles in England's great storm—the fiercest blizzard in some parts that England has known in a score of years.

Bread and butter were dropped from the sky into Westerham and neighboring villages for inhabitants who are snow imprisoned. Two aeroplanes from an aerodrome near London carried supplies, but were unable to find a safe landing in the beleaguered towns. The food was placed in bags and dropped by parachutes.

Tanks from two army stations in Hampshire were employed to crush a pathway through the roads piled high with snow. For four days, three villages, Grosment, Llaventherine and Llangattock, lying near the foot of the Black Mountain, Monmouthshire, have been isolated, and unless a thaw comes soon, it is feared the villagers and cattle will suffer severe privation.

Fear of Floods

Floods are adding to the distress. They are widespread in the Ouse valley in Huntingdonshire, while the Thames floods, from Old Windsor to Walton, show little signs of subsidence.

Bleak tales of suffering in all the snow-buried counties of Southern England and Wales were told in London tonight while weather experts are not yet able to foresee immediate relief from cold which has gripped Great Britain and parts of the continent of almost unprecedented duration.

Gales at Sea

On the sea, too, violent easterly gales have prevailed, causing distress to shipping in varying degrees for six days. Many rural villages are still cut off from supplies by snowdrifts reported to be from ten to fourteen feet high, which block the roadways. Other towns in the storm areas have gained access to the outer world after heroic efforts to push through and over vast white barricades.

Meeting the emergency caused by the suspension of the mail trains, Lord Templemore has for two days carried the mails from Winchester to Alresford, Hampshire, over a route of seven miles, and the peer has volunteered to do this work until regular service is resumed.

Frozen to Death

An aged farm laborer of Somersetshire, missing in the blizzard, was found dead, frozen in the mud and snow. It was necessary to chop the body out with hammer and chisel.

The Imperial Airways Service to Paris was resumed yesterday after a two days' suspension. There were a number of babies in arms among the first passengers for the French capital. The Southern Railway has reopened its Folkestone-Boulogne service, but the Dover-Calais service is still suspended, for the fourth day, because of heavy seas in the Channel. Hundreds of expectant travelers are stalled in both French and English Channel ports.

PATRIOTIC LEAGUE PRODUCING REVUE

Will Be 115 Local People in Cast of "Leave It To Gloria."

The Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham is under contract with the Mallabar Producing Company to present the Musical Comedy Revue in two acts "Leave it to Gloria," in the Grand Opera House January 26 and 27 next.

There will be 115 people in the cast, and all local talent, including a number of the principals who were in the cast of the Musical Comedy, "Cinderella" which was successfully presented by the local organization in May last.

The costumes for this comedy revue are described as gorgeous and the lighting effects very striking.

The Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham has the reputation of presenting high class amateur performances and on this occasion it is promising to give the public of Peterborough something better than it has ever done in the past.

TAILOR SGLAD TO WAIT.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Realising that English society considers it quite the thing to always owe their tailors, one firm has capitalized the idea and now advertises that it never expects to get paid except by its clients' executors.

Historic Building Destroyed By Fire

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The south wing of Standon Hall, the Elizabethan mansion near Ware, Hertfordshire, was practically destroyed by fire Wednesday. The great Duke of Wellington used the house as a shooting lodge and it belonged to the present Duke of Wellington, who had leased it to Harold Swann, a member of the London County Council.

Mr. Swann lost all his own and his wife's personal belongings. Some good pictures and books were also destroyed. Only three servants were in the residence when the outbreak was discovered and owing to the stormy weather the fire brigade experienced difficulty in reaching the scene of the blaze.

21ST BATTALION CLUB HONORS COMRADES WHO DIED IN ACTION

Local Club Erects Tablet To Men of Regiment Who Gave Lives.

IN ARMOURIES HERE.

Original Commanding Officer of Battalion Will Unveil Tablet Here Next Month.

On January 10, there will be unveiled the first memorial to be erected in Peterborough to the memory of any regiment. It is the 21st Battalion memorial tablet soon to be placed on the north wall of the Armouries.

This tablet, which is made in Peterborough, shows splendid workmanship and real artistic conception. It is of bronze, and bears in enamel the colors of the 21st—a blue rectangle topped by a green square,—and at the top centre is a cap badge which was born by Company Quartermaster Sergeant Robert Custance, killed in action with the 21st. This was given by his widow, who resides in Peterborough.

The wording on the tablet is:

For King and Country
And in abiding memory of The Officers, N.C.O.'s and Men of the 21st Canadian Infantry Battalion
British Expeditionary Forces
Who died in
The Great War 1914 1918

Whether their fame centuries long ring,
They cared not over much, but they cared greatly
To serve God and the King

St. Eloi, The Somme, Vimy, Hill 70,
Passchendale,
Amiens, Arras, Cambrai, Mons

This tablet was erected by the 21st Battalion Club of Peterborough.

The tablet, made by the Peterborough Lock Company, was subscribed entirely by members of the Battalion resident in Peterborough, no outside subscriptions whatever being accepted.

The unveiling ceremony on Tuesday, January 10, will be conducted by Brig.-Gen. St. Pierre Hughes, D.S.O., the first commanding officer of the unit. He was appointed to mobilize and command the 21st Battalion in November, 1914, and continued as Officer Commanding until he assumed command of the 10th Canadian Infantry Brigade in France on July 14, 1916, being then promoted to the rank of Brigadier General. The tablet will be dedicated by Major W. E. Kidd, M.C., the first Battalion Padre, and the last Battalion Commanding Officer, Lieut.-Col. Henry Edward Pense, D.S.O., M.C., will also be present. Col. Pense assumed command of the Battalion on the death in action of Lieut.-Col. E. W. Jones.

The ceremony will be public and will be participated in by the Militia Bands of the City ,and seats will be specially reserved for all relatives of men who served with the 21st in France.

It was with this Battalion that Major A. P. Miller, D.S.O., M.C. with Bar, and many other Peterborough officers served on active service.

To shame those who put buttons in the collection bag, Rev. W. G. Wittam, of Tiptree, England, has started the plan of displaying the "contributions" on a card pinned on the church door in plain view of the entire congregation as it leaves the church.

Ranchman Kills 3 Of His Brothers

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Dec. 30 (Associated Press).—Albert Villard, fifty, Delano rancher, shot and killed three of his brothers and wounded a fourth on a ranch in the woody district yesterday and then escaped, a report received here from the sheriff's office said. Those slain were August, Eugene and Gabriel Villard. Joe Villard was wounded.

Piers and Vessels Destroyed By Fire When Gasoline Explodes—Loss Two Million

HOBOKEN, N.J., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Flames roaring across two square blocks of the river front wreaked two million dollars' havoc here today. The three hundred foot Clyde liner, Seneca, valued at $2,000,000 was transformed into an inferno. Her captain and first mate escaping down a hand rope, and it was feared she was a total loss.

Two 700-foot piers were also destroyed and four barges consumed and four others partly burned. The steamer Hendrik Hudson of the Hudson River Day Line was towed out into the river with her bow flaming. The flames were extinguished in mid-stream.

The fire started from exploding gasoline on one of the destroyed piers. All Hoboken apparatus, a dozen railroad and New York City fireboats, and volunteers about the docks fought the conflagration while thousands rushed to the scene.

TIRE SALESMEN IN CONFERENCE

Seiberling Agents and Distributors Addressed By Officials of Company.

DINNER FOLLOWS.

In the conference room on the second floor of the J. J. Duffus building, corner of Charlotte and Water Streets, on Thursday afternoon, there gathered some forty salesmen and representatives of the Seiberling Rubber Company for a meeting that proved most profitable as well as interesting. Officials of the company and Seiberling tire dealers of Peterborough and surrounding districts took part and brief addresses on salesmanship, advertising and other phases of the work of great help to the men in the field were given.

J. J. Duffus proved a most genial host, and the success of the gathering was due in no small measure to his efforts. Being the distributor for this rubber company in the City of Peterborough and surrounding district, his interest in furthering the progress of this company is well known. He not only placed his building at the disposal of the visitors but had it neatly decorated in the company colors: Orange, yellow and black—and when the meeting was over he entertained all to an hour or so of bowling, which was greatly enjoyed.

As this convention is of considerable importance, there were several officials of the company present from Toronto, among them, W. J. Daly, sales manager, who spoke on the sales policy of the company; J. A. Thompson, advertising manager, who outlined the advertising methods of the Seiberling Company and presented a book containing the chief items that would be used as a national background for 1928; W. G. Steward, also of the advertising department, dealt with the benefits to be derived from newspaper and direct mail advertising; James Bruce, popular district sales organizer of Central Ontario, spoke of the high calibre of the Peterborough salesmen; James Saunders, branch manager, urged a closer co-operation and relationship between dealers and company ,while Olin Work, assistant factory manager, dealt with the manufacturing of rubber products in the Seiberling factory at Toronto. He emphasized the good features of the tire-shaped tube which his company has recently placed on the market.

J. J. Duffus Gives Dinner

No such gathering would seem complete without a round-table discussion, and in this case the round-table was situated in the club dining room of the Empress Hotel and was laden with most tempting victuals. Mr. Duffus was again the host and he made his guests quite at home in a brief address of welcome during which he also made reference to the success of the afternoon session.

The program for the evening was not a lengthy one; the addresses, of impromptu nature, being quite brief. In other words, the work of the day was over, and this was just a means of properly recognising the fact in simplest fashion possible. Again the company officials spoke, many of them in humorous vein, and in inimitable Joe Lobraico, Toronto distributor, brought forth plenty of laughter with a number of recitations and "wise cracks."

Pictures Shown

One of the main features of the after-dinner program was the showing of moving pictures. In them the Toronto factory was shown the maze of machinery through which the rubber is passed in various courses of manufacturing; the offices and many departments, all necessary to the placing of the Seiberling tires, tubes and other rubber products upon the market.

MUCH BUILDING NOW UNDER WAY

Magee Garage and Collegiate Extension Main Scenes of Activity.

MANY GARAGES.

A visit to the City's Engineer's office today revealed some interesting information relative to building in the city during the past year and at the present time.

At present there is a lull in building activities, the two main scenes of construction being just west of the Bell Telephone plant on Hunter Street where W. H. Magee has almost completed a splendid one-storey concrete block building, to be used as a garage, and at the Collegiate Institute, where an addition of thirty rooms is in course of construction.

Mr. Magee's garage, the building of which he hopes to have completed by January 1, 1928, will be sixty feet long and forty feet wide, of cement block construction with tar and gravel roofing and will be heated by means of a hot water system. The estimated cost is $4,000.

The Collegiate Institute building will cost approximately $258,000, being 152 feet long and 139 feet wide and containing thirty rooms, situated in three storeys. The foundation is of concrete, and the building, of brick, has been designed in conformance with most approved modern ideas. The work is to be completed by August 1, 1928.

There is one other place in the city where extensive work is being done, namely, on Hunter Street East where the Canadian Oil Company is not only making extensive alterations but is also building a service station, the total cost of which will be in the neighborhood of $1,900. It will boast ladies' and men's rest rooms and an entirely new front with cinder driveway. Brick and tile will be used for the chimneys and the building will be of frame construction.

Many citizens had constructed or are at present building small private garages, ninety-three permits having been issued up to November 30th. While the total value of permits issued for the same period in 1926 amounted to $324,442, this year there is a total of $614,770.

ROYAL COMMISSION REPORT TO OPEN DOMINION PARLIAMENT

Investigation Into Administration of Department of Customs and Excise.

MANY RECOMMENDATIONS.

Likely Will Be Asked to Approve Legislation Based on Recommendations.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Parliament will have laid before it at the session soon to open the report of the Royal Commission, composed of three judges, which conducted an exhaustive investigation into the administration of the Department of Customs and Excise, now the Department of National Revenue. With the report before it, there is every likelihood that Parliament will be asked to approve legislation based on the recommendations of the commissioners.

Just what these recommendations will refer to remains to be revealed when the report is tabled in the House of Commons. At present it is being guarded jealously and only the Prime Minister, the Minister of National Revenue and other members of the Government, counsel for the Commission and a few officials, have had access to it. It is a voluminous report, and in it the Commissioners deal specifically with approximately one hundred cases which were brought to their attention during the nine-month trans-Canada tour of the Commission.

Recommend Reduction.

That there should be a general tightening-up process all along the line of Customs and Excise service will certainly be recommended. With this, it is expected, will come a recommendation for a material reduction in the number of ports where goods may enter Canada. At some of these ports, revenue collected is not enough to pay the small salary of the Customs officer who frequently is a part-time man engaged in some other occupation, and receiving from the Government only a few dollars a year.

Liquor Smuggling.

Revelations of liquor smuggling, camouflaging of liquor-laden vehicles and cars, and the very great movement of liquor from Canada to the United States will doubtless form the subject of certain of the recommendations contained in the report. One of the functions of the Commission was to investigate the operation of the so-called "anti-smuggling treaty" between Canada and the United States, and with this in view a visit was made to Washington, where consultation took place between the commissioners and U.S. Government officials. The result of this may be a recommendation for modifications in the treaty. Unquestionably the Commission will report that the spirit of the treaty, if not the letter, has been broken in connection with the movement of liquor from Canada to the United States.

Liquor smuggling bulked large during the Customs probe. Consequently the Commission will probably have a number of recommendations to make with respect to it. Already the Government is engaged in litigation for the purpose of recovering from certain breweries and distilleries sales and gallonage taxes on beer , and whiskey ostensibly shipped out of Canada. During the sittings of the Commission it was found that a portion of such shipments was consumed within the Dominion.

As to commercial smuggling, it is expected that the Commission will recommend strenuous prosecution of such firms as were found to be engaged in deliberate undervaluation for the purpose of defrauding the revenue. More rigid inspection and careful valuation of imported goods by qualified appraisers will also probably be called for by the Commissioners.

Enlarge Staffs.

Also it is not unlikely that the Commissioners will suggest that the staffs of Customs officers stationed at busy border points should be adequate to inspect carefully all parcels found on persons entering Canada from the United States. The investigation showed that officers on duty at such places were sometimes required to work twelve hours on end in order to handle the traffic. Consequently the inspection was frequently non-existent or at best superficial.

U.S. DESTROYERS ABANDON HUNT FOR LOST PLANE

Believe Further Search Would Be Futile Unless New Clues Developed.

DIRIGIBLE RETURNS.

Wife of Plane's Navigator Urges Search Be Carried Inland.

NEW YORK, December 30 (Canadian Press). — Everything that could be done by searchers of the sea and sky had been completed last night, and still no sign had been found of the plane Dawn and its crew of three men and one woman.

Commander R. R. Stewart, directing the naval search for the Dawn, received permission late yesterday to abandon the search, and the destroyers Sturtevant and Mahan were expected to reach Boston by mid-afternoon to-day.

During the day, Lieut.-Commander Rosendahl, of the dirigible Los Angeles, announced that further search would be futile unless new clues developed.

The only clue to guide searchers for Mrs. Frances Grayson, Lieut. Oskar Omdal, Brice Goldsborough, and Fred Koehler consisted of two broken wireless messages picked up at Sable Island, N.S., and believed to have been sent from the Dawn. The entire region from which those messages could have come has been diligently searched and no trace was found of plane or crew.

Los Angeles Returns.

The Los Angeles is back in its hangar at Lakehurst, N.J., and by another day it was expected the two naval and three coastguard destroyers would have returned to their routine duties . A sharp lookout will be kept, of course, by all craft traversing the waters between Cape Cod, where the Dawn was last seen, and Harbor Grace, Nfld., its destination, but hope had dwindled almost to nothing last night. It was last Friday that the Dawn took off from Roosevelt Field, N.Y., for Newfoundland, preparatory to hopping from there for Europe.

Mrs. Brice Goldsborough, wife of the plane's navigator, said yesterday that her husband had once told her that in case of a forced landing he would always try to make land rather than come down in the water. For this reason, she urged that the search be carried on inland, now that it had proven fruitless at sea.

MANY STUDENTS CROSS TO U.S.A.

Sir Robert Falconer Says Canada Loses 11 Per Cent of Graduates.

SHOULD BE CUT DOWN.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.— (Canadian Press.)—The exodus of Canadian University graduates to the United States is dealt with by Sir Robert Falconer, President of the University of Toronto, in his annual report just issued. Sir Robert estimates that during the ten years, 1917-1926, approximately eleven per cent. of the graduates of the University of Toronto have permanently settled across the border.

"Though this number is too large for the healthful growth of our country," the report continues, "it is I believe, much smaller, proportionately, than in other walks of life, and we get a better return the longer we keep our young people at home to educate them to meet the needs of our own society.

"But the exodus of graduates to the United States has been so much larger than we would wish that every effort should be furthered by means of employment agencies and otherwise that will hold out to our graduating classes the opportunities of our own land."

SAULT RETAINS ITS LABORATORY

CITY VOTES $1,500.

SAULT STE. MARIE Ont., Dec. 30 —Canadian Press. — Word was received here to-day that the Ontario government had decided to appropriate $2500 to assist in the maintenance of the public health laboratory in the Sault. The city has already signified its willingness to vote $1500 for the same purpose. It was announced recently that the Ontario Department of Public Health had decided to close its branch laboratory here along with those at Peterboro and Owen Sound and the new policy announced is the result of negotiations which have been carried on in the past few weeks.

Aspirants For Council, School Board and Commission Interviewed.

WHO THEY ARE.

Short Summaries of Past Public Work of Candidates Given.

The Examiner believing that the electors wish to know who the candidates for the various offices are, and what policies they support, has interviewed them and publishes herewith their statements:

UTILITIES COMMISSION.

John Crane.

John Crane, candidate for the Utilities Commission, has many qualifications for the office he seeks Having lived in the city practically all of his business life, he has become widely known through his management of the old Ontario Bank previous to its absorption by the Bank of Montreal in 1906, and with the Dominion bank from that year until September last, when he retired. He has also won respect as an organist and choir master, presiding in this capacity in St. Paul's church for nineteen years, in Trinity for five years and in St. Andrew's for the past seven years. "The Dean" as he is known, has also shown ability as secretary of Nicholls Hospital Board, and during many years service on the Board of Education.

W. H. Bradburn.

Having served for five years as alderman, and as mayor of the city during 1912 and 1913, and having completed his second three year term as a member of the Utilities Commission the last year and a half of which he was chairman, Mr. W. H. Bradburn will stand for re-elecion to the commission for another term. "I have been guided by no other motive than the desire to see that the two most important public services under the commission's control should be as economically and efficiently administered as possible," he declares.

Mr. Bradburn has also had experience in a broader field of labor for he has been a member of the Provincial parliament since 1923 having been re-elected in 1926.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Mrs. Kate Morris.

Mrs. Morris is well known in city educational circles, having been a member of Board of Education for six years during which time she acted as chairman of the Property and Finance Committee, and was associated with the Collegiate vocational extension, the advisory vocational committee and the supervision committee

Originally a school teacher, Mrs Morris has always been interested in the young people, and on coming to Peterborough, became one of the original members of the Playground Association. She was one of those who annually collected the necessary money to finance the playgrounds until they were taken over by the Board of Education during her second year of office. She was also one of the original committee responsible for the city bathing beaches.

The Ontario Home and School Federation has held special interest for Mrs. Morris she having been an executive member. This federation is now international in scope.

Mrs. Morris has had the honor of being the only woman president of the Ontario Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association. She now feels that her presence on the Board of Education will be appreciated by the women teachers and voters of Peterborough.

H. J. McCANNAN.

H. J. McCannan is a candidate for membership on the Board of Education, and sets forth his record in his regular election card.

E. R. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson is not a stranger to the responsibilities of membership on the Board of Education he having completed a two year term, during which time he was chairman of the building committee for the work being done at the Collegiate Institute, a member of the Property Committee, and of the advisory Vocational Committee.

As a member of the coming term, he feels that he could render efficient service in the purchasing and placing of mechanical equipment in the new building. Having begun the work he would like to see it through.

Dr. H. M. Yelland.

Dr. H. M. Yelland has become widely known as one of the city's physicians, and has taken an active interest in the Board of Education, having served for two terms. He was chairman of the Committee on Appointments last year and feels that the old members should be afforded the pleasure and satisfaction of finishing the work they have started.

Dr. J. J. Craig.

Four years a member of the Board of Education during which he has been chairman of finance, property and supervision committees, is the record of Dr. J. J Craig, who will again appeal to the electors He has also been a president of the Kiwanis

DEPARTMENT CAN'T ASSIST ASSOCIATION

Trent Waterways Association Must Put On Exhibit at Own Expense.

WOULD SET PRECEDENT.

Provincial and Federal Government Point Out That Others Would Expect Help.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the Trent Waterways Development Association exhibit at the National Motor Boat Show which is to be held in New York City from January 20 to January 28. With reference to this exhibit, word has been received by J. J. Duffus from Major G. A. Bell, Deputy Minister of the Department of Railways and Canals, stating that they do not desire to send a representative to the Motor Boat Show as was the custom up to and including the year 1925.

Since that time, the Association has been confronted with the necessity of putting on its own exhibit without governmental assistance of any description.

The secretary of the Association points out that in view of the Federal Government's attitude toward the Trent Canal, it is not difficult to understand why the department would refuse a request of this nature, which might be construed to mean that the government intended advertising the Trent Waterways from the navigation standpoint, which feature, in the past, it has consistently refused to recognize.

Word has also been received from Carl Hele, Secretary of the Publicity Bureau of the Provincial Government, that though the Provincial Government finds it impossible to participate in the exhibit at the Motor Boat Show, it will gladly distribute Trent Literature through its various bureaux across the border in the summer time. Bureaux were operated in Pittsburgh and Cleveland last year.

Both the Federal and Provincial Governments point out that in assisting the Trent Waterways Association, they would leave themselves open to criticisms and approaches from the various tourist and publicity associations in Ontario and the Dominion. There is a question of policy at stake, and in the opinion of the secretary of the Trent Waterways Association, the point is well taken by both governments. It is fortunate, adds Mr. Stinson, that the association enjoys the co-operation of the entire Central Ontario district, which permits them to carry on this valuable publicity work which was inaugurated in the year 1921.

MR. AND MRS. PUE 50 YEARS WED

Fraserville Couple Celebrates Golden Wedding at Home.

RELATIVES CALL

Mr. and Mrs. William Allan Pue celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding on Sunday, Dec. 25th, at their home, Hedge-Row, Fraserville.

On Sunday they celebrated quietly with their daughter, Mrs. W. A. Wood and family and their son, J. A. Pue and family.

The dining room was decorated with gold and white streamers. The dinner was served by Mrs. W. A. Wood and Mrs. J. C. Pue, who had the tables laden with delicacies. The bride's cake occupied the centre of the table and was decorated in gold for the occasion. After dinner all adjourned to the dining room when Mr. and Mrs. Pue were presented by their son and daughter with a handsome pair of chairs finished in gold, which were received with gratification and surprise.

Owing to the twenty-fifth coming on Sunday at this particular time, the celebration was continued on Monday, Dec. 26th, when relatives and friends called to offer congratulations and present the elderly couple with gifts. During the afternoon from 3 o'clock to 6, relatives who called to celebrate the occasion were: Mrs. Thomas Howson, Mrs. Kindred and daughter of Keene, Mr. Bert Howson of Peterborough, Mr. George Howson, brother of Mrs. Pue, and daughter Alexandra, of Peterborough, and Mr. Ernest Howson and son of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hawkins and son Ralph, of Port Hope, Mr. Robert Adamson and son Elson of Keene, and Miss Marion Adamson, nurse-in-training of Port Hope.

During the day telegrams of congratulations were received from three nieces of Calgary, Alberta, namely, Miss Pansy Pue, Miss Minnie Howson and Mrs. James Reid.

During the evening neighbors gathered to celebrate with the bride and groom and spent a very enjoyable evening. Among those who called were: Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Foley and daughter Mary, Mr. Fred Foley of St. Catharines, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hewitt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holden, Mrs. Robert Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Moncrief, Mr. and Mrs. James Roddy and Mr. Roddy's mother, Mrs. Eliza Roddy, and daughter, Mrs. Isaac Tinney.

During the afternoon and evening the guests were served with cake and wine.

Mr. and Mrs. Pue received many beautiful gifts during the day, consisting of gold coins, floral and other gifts decorated in gold, all of which were very much in keeping with the occasion.

To the Electors of the Township of Smith.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having decided to again ask your support for the Deputy Reeveship of Smith, I do so mainly for the following reasons:

The Highways Department at Toronto requested, at the Fall Session of this year, all the County Representatives to bring in a report of all County bridges in their respective townships that are over 20 feet in length, giving the exact location, lot, concession, etc. Such report to be concentrated in a united form, and resolutions and by-laws passed embodying such bridges in; in order for the County to avail itself of the extra government assistance for the year 1927; which means, if such proceedings are carried out according to request, from three to five thousand dollars receipt to the County for 1927.

Your rates for 1927 and the conduct of the affairs by the present Council have elicited practically no criticisms from the intelligent ratepayer;

Therefore I again ask for a renewal of your confidence for the year 1928, so that I can assist in securing the desired percentage for highways and bridges for the County.

Wishing all the Compliments of the season.

I am, Yours,

George H. Simpson.

Holiday Drinking Cripples Soviet Plants; Workers' Gazette Demands Restrictions

MOSCOW, December 30. — A more vigorous anti-alcohol campaign is demanded by The Workers' Gazette to-day in a big front-page feature article exposing the "shameful total"—which is one of the headlines—of cases of absence from work and accidents and damage in Moscow and Leningrad factories, resulting from the excessive drinking of workmen during the holiday season.

The Gazette prints a facsimile of a co-operative poster announcing a 15 per cent. reduction in vodka prices "for the religious holiday," with the comment, "What a disgraceful offer for the Soviet Co-operative."

The Gazette says that with the exception of the Communist youth organizations, there was an insufficient attempt to provide healthy amusements for the workers during the holidays, "so the holidays empty the workers 'clubs, but fill the saloons."

The Gazette declares that the absentees without proper reason from the Kranapresna machine works were sixty-three from a force of 600; at the Dukat tobacco factory, forty-one from 1,000; at the Treugolnik, Leningrad, there were 150 absentees, and at the Red October metal works twice as many as usual after a holiday.

The general average of absentees at all factories yesterday was 10 per cent., the workers' paper declares.

This, as the Pravda recently pointed out, is particularly serious in view of the introduction of modern factory methods of mass production and conveyer systems, where the absence of one or more trained men from a line is liable to upset a whole section.

It is reported that the Soviet authorities are planning a considerable restriction of the sale of vodka in all urban centres.

NO ELECTION AT LAKEFIELD

Dr. M. P. Kennedy Declining to Stand, Council Returned By Acclamation.

FRED BROWN RETIRES.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 30.—There will be no municipal elections in Lakefield this year. Owing to Dr. M. P. Kennedy declining to stand, the Council of last year has been returned by acclamation. Mr. Fred S. Brown has retired from the School Board and the three remaining nominees are elected for a two-year term. Dr. F. H. Lingwood is a new personality in municipal life, and it is generally felt that he will be a great asset to the School Board.

CHINESE OFFICIALS WILL RESIGN POSTS

Expected Nanking Nationalist Government Will Be Re-organized Following Conferences.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Two important resignations in the Nanking Nationalist government yesterday appeared to presage a long-rumored reorganization of the government, which is expected to follow a conference of leading Nationalists in Nanking next month.

Dr. C. C. Wu, for the past six months the most prominent of Nationalist officials in their relations with the foreign powers, resigned as foreign minister while Dr. Sun Fo, son of the late Republican leader, Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, resigned as minister of finance.

In both cases the retiring ministers declared that conditions made it impossible for them to work out their programs in their respective departments and that consequently they felt it proper to withdraw.

Dr. Wu's successor is expected to be General Kuang Fu, who was acting minister of foreign affairs in the Peking government of 1923. He recently resigned as mayor of Shanghai. T. V. Soong, finance minister of the Nationalist government set up in Canton last year, is expected to become the new finance minister. Soong is the brother of Miss Melling Soong, who was recently married to General Chiang Kai-Shek, the Nationalist leader.

Apply for Loan

Chiang Kai-Shek and his associates have applied to Shanghai bankers for $10,000,000 Mexican for financing a new military campaign against the Northern government. It is reported that the bankers have agreed to supply $5,000,000 Mexican immediately and the remainder at a later date.

Another development in the ever-changing Chinese situation yesterday was the return of General Li Chai-Sun to the city of Canton, whence his forces were ousted last month by a coup d'tat staged by a subordinate, General Chang Fah-Wei. Canton since then has undergone terrific upheavals in which thousands of persons were killed. Chang Fah-Wei in turn was ousted by a Communist revolt early this month; the Communists, after ruthless slaughter, were crushed by Chang Fah-Wei's counter assault and now he finally has been forced to evacuate the city by his returning erstwhile commander, Li Chai-Sun. General Li is regarded as one of the more moderate of the Nationalists.

Prince's Motor Ride To Ball Is Thrilling

BIRCHAM Eng., Dec. 29. Canadian Press. — Dressed in hunting costumes the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, had a hair raising motor ride over snowbound Norfolk Roads last night to the annual hunt ball. The Duchess of York, garbed in a cream colored evening frock, was in the automobile which plunged through drifts and skidded over ice covered stretches threatening at any moment to plunge into the ditch. A number of the guests at the ball made detours of 30 miles to avoid the great piles of snow, rendering the roads almost impassable. Others, snowbound, never arrived.

PRICE CUTTING IS THREATENING CAR INDUSTRY

Willy-Overland Motor Company Will Meet Ford Schedule.

CHEVROLET SELL CHEAPER.

Believed Other Makers May Enter the Automobile War.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. United Press. — When cheaper automobiles are built it appears that everybody is going to build hem.

Within the next few weeks several manufacturers are expected to announce new lines of lower priced cars encroaching upon, if not actually entering, the field that so long has belonged exclusively to Henry Ford.

Will Meet Ford.

John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Company, announced that an improved Whippet would be offered on January 6, at "a radical reduction in price." He recognized th possibility of a "peaceful war" with the statement:

"If Ford makes another cut during the year we shall be able to lower our prices even beyond the forthcoming reduction."

Cheaper Chevrolets.

General Motors is expected to announce a price cut on the Chevrolet Although General Motors officials have said their car would not be brought down to the Ford price level they have planned various improvements to tempt prospective purchasers with limited incomes.

New Competition.

The price grade just above the Ford will see new competition from the Dodge Victory six which will cost a little more than the present four-cylinder line.

The Durant Motor Company as yet has given no indication as to the price of its heavy four and light six, but the forthcoming automobile show may be the signal for battle in the light car field.

Mrs. Lindbergh Wednesday flew from Mexico City to San Antonio, with one stop at Brownsville, Texas. Leaving San Antonio shortly before dawn yesterday, she reached Dallas at 8.30 a.m. and took off again at 9.17. SLAYER GIVEN UNTIL TUESDAY TO ENTER PLEA

Defense Counsel's Motion For Continuance is Granted By Court.

UNDER HEAVY GUARD.

Police Believe Hickman Implicated in Suicide of Hunt's Grandfather.

LOS ANGELES Dec. 30.—William E. Hickman confessed slayer of a child he had kidnapped, and of a man he had attempted to rob, was formally arraigned yesterday and obtained a second continuance until next Tuesday to enter his plea for the murder of 12 year old Marian Parker.

Young Hickman was haled into court through corridors bristling with guards to keep back the throngs only a few hours after he had admitted taking part in an attempted robbery which ended in the killing of Ivy Thoms, a druggist. His confessed accomplice in the robbery, Welby Hunt, 16, was held in the county jail last night.

His jaunty appearance gone, Hickman was unsteady as he glanced apprehensively from side to side at the muttering spectators on his way to the court of Judge Carlos Hardy for his arraignment. His custodians fingered tear gas bombs ready to hurl at the first sign of a hostile demonstration.

Jerome Walsh of Kansas City, 25 year old lawyer, hired by Hickman's mother to defend him, who was admitted to the California bar to try the case, waived reading of the indictment against his client, but Judge Hardy insisted it be read.

Motion Granted.

After reading of the document was finished Walsh explained that he had been in the city only a few hours and had not yet acquainted himself with the case well enough to tell Hickman how to plead. His motion for continuance until next Tuesday at 2 p.m. was immediately granted.

Hickman spoke only once during the proceeding answering in a low voice "yes" to the judge's question as to his name, "William Edward Hickman."

With the second murder added to the alleged criminal career of the 19 year old boy, the police last night scanned the suicide records of last May in the belief that still another might be explained by Hickman and his former pal, Hunt. The druggist Thoms was slain about a year ago.

The latest channel into which the detective bureau was guided through the new revelations by Hickman and Hunt was an effort to determine whether the death of A. R. Driscoll, 60 year old grandfather of Hunt, was due to a suicidal leap from the Colorado street bridge at the West gate of Pasadena.

Driskoll's body was found at the bottom of the arroyo on the night of May 25 last. A note found on the bridge addressed to his son young Hunt's father, indicated that the aged man sought suicide because of financial troubles.

Withdrew Money.

The new police probe was spurred by information that Driskoll on the day of his supposed suicide had withdrawn a large sum of money from the bank in which Hickman and Hunt at that time were employed. This money never has been accounted for the police say. Perry Parker, father of Marian, was an official at that bank.

Repeated questioning of Hickman, on Wednesday night by jail officials, brought the admission from the accused youth, that he and Hunt had killed Thoms while attempting to rob the latter's drug store in Rose Hill, a suburb, near Pasadena.

While officers went out to get Hunt a complete confession involving the Thoms murder was taken from Hickman. When Hunt was confronted with Hickman's account of the crime he too, according to the officers at the jail, confessed his participation in the hold up and the exchange of bullets which resulted in the death of the druggist and wounding of Hunt and a police officer.

Beg Your Pardon.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 30.—In the account of the High School conversat it was inadventently omitted that following the play, Rev. S. A. Kemp proposed a hearty vote of thanks to those who had provided such a splendid entertainment. This was heartily seconded by Rev. T. M. Wesley, who regarded the whole affair as a credit to the school and to the village.

Mr. Simpson proposed a vote of thanks to Miss Curtis and Miss Connal who had directed the play, trained the pupils and spent a great deal of time and effort in making the conversat a success. He also proposed a vote of thanks to Rev. W. J. Creighton, who had so ably filled the role of chairman.

These votes of thanks were heartily endorsed by the audience by a hearty clap.

GAS MASKS FOR MULES.

McCAMEY, Tex., Dec. 29.—Fumes of hydrogen-sulphine gas pouring from the oil wells of the Crane-Upton field here have proven so dangerous that workmen and animals have been provided with gas masks. Mules submitted to the masks with better grace than did the men. Because the gas is almost odorless it is necessary to wear the protectors constantly.

MACHINE WRITES MUSIC.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Ever since music has been written, composers have been forced to jot down notes by hand. Now, however, Katherine Giron, composer-pianist, has invented a musical typewriter which she claims will supplant the old method. Orchestra leaders and composers using it can dash off a piece of music almost as easily as they could play it on the piano.

BRADBURN FOR The Commission

TO THE ELECTORS:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—At the end of my second term as a member of the Utilities Commission, the last year and one-half as Chairman, I, in seeking re-election, am willing to be judged by my record as a Commissioner and in other public capacities in which I have been privileged to serve. During my connection with the Utilities Commission I have been guided by no other motive than the desire to see that the two most important public services under our control should be as economically and efficiently administered as possible.

With the experience of six years' service on the Commission to help me, I believe that I can be of greater service to you during the next three years, inasmuch as all details of the very many problems before the Commissioners are at my finger tips. This aspect of the situation, I respectfully submit is worthy of your serious consideration when you are deciding as to how your ballot shall be marked.

I feel that my experience gained during six years' close association with the manifold activities in the Commission's jurisdiction will enable me to successfully look after your interests.

May I wish you all the Happiest of New Years.

Yours sincerely,

Vote DENNE for MAYOR

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—In asking for your support and votes on behalf of my candidature for Mayor I do not propose to make any extravagant promises as to my course should I be elected. My record as a member of the City Council and of the Board of Education is before you, and I am satisfied to rest my claim for your support upon my past services.

There are, however, several matters concerning which I believe an energetic policy should be adopted and therefore if I am honored with your confidence on New Year's Day, I pledge myself to work for

1. Better transportation facilities.
2. Cheaper power and cheaper gas rates.
3. The securing of more industries.

When other Ontario cities are marching forward, Peterborough should not stand still.

She should be in the forefront of the marchers and should my candidature be endorsed I sincerely believe it will be possible for me to contribute some driving power that will start this city on the road to better things.

Yours for a bigger and better Peterborough.

I Believe

- ¶ That the money paid by to-day's citizens in taxes should be used for the benefit of to-day's people.
- ¶ That James Stevenson (Riverside) Park should be made a place of beauty and recreation in 1928—not at some indefinite future date.
- ¶ That safe and healthful bathing beach or wading pool facilities should be provided in the South End of the City, and dressing-rooms erected in King Edward Park.
- ¶ That Peterborough should purchase sufficient paving equipment to do its own streets, adding to it from year to year as necessity arises.
- ¶ That Peterborough should use local labor to do local work.

. . I may not be able to carry out all of these plans, but I believe the public is entitled to know what its servants intend to do if elected to office. I will do all that one man can do to further the best interests of the City.

Board of Education

During my six years as a member of the Peterborough Board of Education, the women teachers and many mothers assured me they valued the viewpoint of the Woman Trustee.

Should not the mothers and women teachers have one woman on the Board of Education to represent their point of view and to work with the male members of the Board for the good of the children?

ONE MARRIAGE IN FOUR SUCCESSFUL

MOSCOW, Dec. 30.—In Soviet Russia a couple can be married one minute and divorced the next. The marriage need not cost anything; the divorce requires about 30 cents for the blank form and the official stamp dissolving the union. A marriage requires only the consent of both parties; a divorce the consent of only one.

That is the explanation for the fact that during the first nine months of 1927 there were 9681 marriages and 7255 divorces. Many a citizen of the Soviet has been married seven or eight times in a single year. Immediately upon issuance of the divorce decree each party is free to take another mate. And a woman may marry as many times as she pleases and still retain her family name.

Vote McCannan

To the Electors.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In response to a demand made upon me by many friends to enter the field of civic service, I am offering myself as a candidate for the Board of Education. MY object is to place my experience and knowledge at the disposal of the citizens of Peterborough, where I have lived and worked for twenty-five years, and my former experience as a builder and present knowledge of the City's Educational requirements should prove valuable. I can assure all who vote for me that, if elected, I will give unstinted labour and attention to the duties of the Board.

Wishing one and all a happy and prosperous New Year.

Faithfully yours,

I humbly submit that my 25 years as Bank Manager should equip me with a training useful on the Utilities Commission.

I respectfully ask the support of the citizens and promise my best services if elected.

R. M. GLOVER, Managing Director.

FRIDAY, DEC. 30, 1927.

PASS THIS BYLAW.

If the ratepayers were told that they could bring a new industry to Peterborough merely by authorizing a fixed assessment for a number of years there would be no doubt of the answer were they asked to approve a bylaw ratifying such a concession.

The bylaw would be carried by an overwhelming vote.

The Examiner believes that a similar reception should be given the bylaw providing a fixed assessment for ten years for the new addition to the Westclox plant.

While the building does not represent a new industry, it will virtually have the same result so far as Peterborough is concerned, and the record of the Westclox Company, its steady growth and the fidelity with which it has implemented all its promises surely has earned for this firm as much consideration as would undoubtedly be given a new company seeking a location here.

Ratepayers who vote on Monday—and we hope they all will—should have little hesitation in voting "yes" on this question.

Give the Westclox bylaw a substantial majority.

THE 21ST DOES NOT FORGET.

The members of the 21st Battalion Club are to be congratulated upon the step they have taken to pay tribute to the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the famous Eastern Ontario Battalion who gave up their lives during the World War.

The placing of a beautiful memorial plaque in the Peterborough Armouries, to be unveiled on January 10th, to the memory of the 21st Battalion's heroic dead is the first tribute of this kind in honour of members of any particular unit who made the supreme sacrifice

The ceremonies in connection with the unveiling promise to be of a particularly interesting and impressive nature.

Brigadier-General William St. Pierie Hughes, the first Commanding Officer of the 21st; Major Kidd, the original padre of the battalion, and Lieut.-Col. Pense, who commanded the unit during the final stages of the war, will be among the distinguished guests from outside the city who will be in attendance.

The 21st Battalion Club has succeeded in carrying into its peace-time relationships much of the spirit of comradeship that was existent during the war, and the memorial to the battalion's dead is another indication that the 21st does not forget.

NO ELECTION BY DEFAULT.

The fact that there are no acclamations in connection with the election for any of the civic bodies is not a bad sign.

The return without a contest of members of municipal organizations may sometimes be a reward for faithful service, but more often it is an indication of general indifference and apathy.

Probably it is better in the long run that civic elections should produce a contest for every position as is the case in the present campaign.

Where no opposition is offered there is difficulty in persuading the general public to interest itself in municipal affairs.

And everybody knows it is difficult enough under any condition to induce a large proportion of the electors to pay attention to civic problems and the work of municipal governing bodies.

The absence of any elections by default in Peterborough on this occasion may be regarded perhaps as an indication that the community is at least alive to the fact that the municipal election is a matter that concerns everyone.

And this belief will be strengthened should the vote polled prove to be above the average, as it should be.

WHAT HAS TO BE DONE MONDAY.

On Monday the electors of Peterborough have to do the following things:

(1) Elect a Mayor.

(2) Elect to hold office for three years a member of the Utilities Commission.

(3) Elect five Aldermen, and also by their votes indicate the appointment of two or perhaps three other members of the Council.

(4) Elect five members of the Board of Education.

(5) Decide whether the new building of the Westclox Company is to have a fixed assessment.

(6) Decide whether Peterborough is to operate under a system of daylight saving during next June, July and August.

If there is not enough of interest in that programme to bring out a large percentage of the vote on the list the case is hopeless.

As usual, The Examiner has been doing what it could to arouse the citizens to the desirability of exercising their franchise.

If after reading the above list and considering what each item means and its importance to the community electors still do not consider it worth while interesting themselves in municipal affairs, there is not much use in urging them further.

They must be dead from the region of the shoulders up if they are not concerned about these six items on the election programme.

MR. BENNETT INSPIRES.

(Border Cities Star.)

The Hon. R. B. Bennett will make friends for himself and for his party if he keeps on preaching the fine gospel of Canadianism that he delivered to the annual banquet of the Commercial Travellers' Association of Canada in Toronto this week. The new Conservative leader's address was not political, and therein, perhaps, lay its greatest strength. It was genuinely inspiring.

Mr. Bennett, to quote the newspaper report, presented "a message of optimism, a vision of great days to come for Canada and an appeal to Canadians to be conscious of their heritage and to build for the future." He spoke not as a political leader, but as a Canadian citizen. His hearers were urged to go up and down the country inculcating a love of Canada, a confidence in her destiny and a determination on the part of every Canadian to play his role in making this Dominion one of the great countries of the world. Few Canadians, he ventured, realized what a wonderful thing it was to be a Canadian or what privileges of happiness and liberty they enjoyed as citizens of this country. He wondered if they appreciated the liberty and freedom which went with that status, if they had an adequate conception of the vast natural resources which were theirs, and if they had a corresponding vision of the glorious future which was their rightful heritage. The destiny of Canada, the new leader added, had as yet only begun to unfold itself. Those of the present generation had been born half a century too soon to be able to glimpse more than the fringe of their country's greatness. The present period in the country's history, he cautioned, is a great trust to be held and managed by the citizens of today with a full sense of their responsibility to those who will come tomorrow.

This is the kind of advice, this is the kind of encouragement that Canada needs. Mr. Bennett should never lose an opportunity to give it. It will go far toward development of the nation along proper lines. Canada has suffered for years from that ailment sometimes referred to as an inferiority complex. We have lived, to a large extent, in the shadow of a great neighbor. But things are changing. Our people are coming to see the greatness of their own land, the greatness of their heritage, the greatness of their opportunity, the greatness of their responsibility.

All these things are a challenge to every Canadian man and woman, to every Canadian boy and girl. We must measure up.

PEPPING UP THE "GAZETTE."

The "Gazettes" which are issued from week to week by the different Governments, Dominion and Provincial, are usually as attractive in appearance and as interesting in contents as a railway time-table or a municipal financial statement. They are devoted to the notices regarding the incorporations of companies, copies of orders-in-Council, appointments to the Civil Service, notices of tax sales of land, and other dry-as-dust paragraphs and statistics, and in consequence their circulation is peculiarly limited.

The hope of better things in so far as the "Gazette" of one Province is concerned accompanies an innovation introduced in the latest issue of the Ontario Gazette, which departs from all precedent to present an article on "The Mineral Wealth of Ontario," from the pen of the Hon. Charles McCrea, the Minister of Mines, which abounds in useful information concerning the mining activities and possibilities of the Province, and which mentions the co-operation which any prospector is entitled to receive from the department of which he is the chief. This article is worthy of wider perusal than, published through such a medium, it is likely to receive. Mr. McCrea reviews the strides which have been made in Ontario's mineral development and production during the past 25 years and tells how the department stands ready to assist the prospector.

"One of the most important features of mining in Ontario," he says, "is that prospecting and development need not be approached in a blind and haphazard way. The geological staff of the department carries out extensive surveys every year, and the reports and geological maps are placed without charge in the hands of the prospectors and explorers to guide them in the field. The keen-eyed and intelligent prospectors of Northern Ontario make good use of these maps and reports. They soon learn the important features of any given mineral field, and how to identify the rock associations and structures favorable for mineral deposits. While the prospector is the pioneer of mining development, he is more and more learning to appreciate the value of expert geological advice and direction in his search for hidden treasure. The department assists him in all this also by special classes held in the winter at the various mining centres, in which prospectors are instructed in the elements of geology, chemistry and mineralogy. It also maintains an assay office where samples of ore are examined without charge. It maintains a sampling and assaying plant in one of the mining areas where ores in bulk may be sampled and assayed and where parcels of gold ore are purchased from prospectors or others engaged in developing prospects."

It is information of this type which ought to find a more frequent place in the pages of the "Gazette," usually all too hastily scanned and deposited in the nearest wastepaper basket. Now that Mr. McCrea has led the way, perhaps other members of the Government will follow suit and the "Ontario Gazette" may become something more than a mere compilation of dreary and uninteresting legal notices.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Extreme dullness again marked the export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday, there being practically no demand from any source.

The domestic trade in coarse grains was also slow but the tone of the market was steady and prices were unchanged.

The demand for Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour was of a limited character ,but prices were firm.

A moderate amount of business was worked in all lines of millfeed and the undertone was steady. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and prices were unchanged. Owing to the liberal supplies of hay coming forward for the season of the year and the limited demand, a weaker feeling developed here and prices were reduced 50 cents per ton.

An active business was done in all grades of fresh and storage eggs and values ruled firm. The receipts were 407 cases.

The potato trade continued quiet and prices were unchanged. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.15 per bag of 90 lbs; Prince Edward Island Whites at $1.05 per bag of 90 lbs; New Brunswick Whites at 95c per bag of 90 lbs in bulk, ex-track.

There was little demand for butter but the undertone remained steady. The receipts were 1,103 packages.

The cheese market was dull and featureless. The receipts were 228 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press). — Decided improvement of European demand led to higher prices yesterday for most deliveries of wheat. December wheat, though, went lower, on account of the handling over of 553,000 bushels in month-end settlement of Chicago contracts. The corn market was depressed, largely as a result of spreading operations in which corn was sold and simultaneously wheat or oats were bought.

Wheat had an irregular finish, ⅝c net lower to ¾ to ⅞c advance. Corn closed ½ to ⅝ to ¾ cents down; oats ¼ cent off to a shade up, and provisions varying from 2 to 5 cents setback to a rise of 25 cents.

As much as 1,250,000 bushels of North American wheat was estimated as having been taken yesteday for shipment to Europe. The greater part of this amount was Canadian wheat, but considerable domestic wheat which included both Spring wheat and Winter. Stimulating effects of yesterday's European purchasing were emphasized by word of decreasing stocks at Liverpool and also by the fact that the Argentine wheat shipments during the last week were shown to have been a good deal smaller than for the week previous.

Impetus for the general upward trend of wheat values was also found in official confirmation that a large part of the German wheat crop and of the German potato crop as well is of inferior quality, and that Germany's rye production shows 16,000,000 bushels falling off as compared with preliminary figures. On the other hand, a British authority was responsible for predictions of liberal shipments of wheat from Argentina and Australia after the first of the year owing to heavy arrivals of new crop wheat at ports.

Rather persistent selling pressure pulled corn prices down after a little initial upturn based on unfavorable weather. Forecasts of lower temperatures were issued, and shipping demand here for corn was by no means urgent although export corn sales of 100,000 bushels were noted. Meanwhile, too, Omaha and Kansas City advised of good sales of corn to the Gulf of Mexico.

Oats were steadied by spreaders' purchases against sales of corn.

In the provision market, lard was lower, but meats higher. There was no improvement of cash demand for lard.

THE DECORATIONS.

Dear Editor,—During the past couple of weeks one has heard comments of all kinds concerning the Christmas decorations carried out by the Kiwanis Club in our city. There are always those who will say, "Why could not this money have been saved and used for the poor?" Would it be blasphemous to reply in part, as the Master did long ago, "The poor ye have always with you." But the Christmas season, the season which celebrates the birthday of the King, comes but once a year, and should there not be outward manifestations made to celebrate that wonderful season? Of course we all know that the Kiwanis Club did their accustomed good work of distributing Christmas cheer to the needy this year as usual. I think that rich and poor alike were greatly benefited by the festive appearance of George and Charlotte Streets. The happy holiday atmosphere was greatly enhanced. I have heard of some who went to town for no other reason than to enjoy the sight of the brightly colored lights and the evergreens. And the joyous welcome that the decorations seemed to give to visitors and home-comers at this season was enough in itself. In my humble opinion, great thanks are due to the Kiwanis Club.

Here's hoping they do it every year.
—Yours truly,

"CITIZEN."

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I notice our farmer friends are again objecting to daylight saving. It seems to me unreasonable that our rural residents should try to dictate to urban dwellers how they should run their affairs, when they do not pay urban taxes.

Why touch the clock asks your correspondent signed Farmer?

Because daylight saving, like anything else, must be properly organized to be successful. It would be most confusing otherwise, not only locally but also to travellers and other cities doing business here either by phone, telegraph or other methods. "Farmer" tells us we are inconsistent because we expect rural workers to conform to our program in all things. Is that so? Name one, I cannot.

The main object of daylight saving is to enable city workers to get an extra hour's recreation outdoors (for three months only) during our all-too-brief summer. The average farmer spends most of his working hours outdoors while the majority of city workers are "penned up" year in, year out.

It's obvious why "Farmer" objects he gets all the daylight he wants and must not be inconvenienced by others who want a little extra daylight. The last time this question came up many farmers threatened to buy in Toronto if daylight saving was adopted here. (Incidentally Toronto has daylight saving, and it is very popular).

I maintain that its a question of dollars and cents with the majority of farmers and urban residents as regards buying out of their own locality, therefore our storekeepers need not be alarmed that decreased business will result if daylight saving is adopted here. "Farmer" tells us it would be a waste of time getting up an hour earlier in the spring. Please note, Mr. Farmer, we only want daylight saving in June, July and August. He also says that the afternoon in summer is the best time for harvest work. Fine, Mr. Farmer, daylight saving will give you an extra hours daylight for harvesting. It's about time Peterborough came into line with other large cities on this question.

If all members of sporting organizations and others in favor will make an extra effort to get out and vote next Monday, I do not think there is any doubt that Peterborough will have daylight saving next summer. Here's hoping.

H.S. CONVERSAT GREAT SUCCESS

Annual Social Event of Lakefield School Well Attended.

PROGRAM IS GOOD

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 30.—On Thursday evening, December 22, the annual conversat of the Lakefield High School was held in the Memorial Hall. Each year the desire of the pupils and teachers has been to improve on the previous year's function and make the present one the best ever. Since the first conversat in 1913, the affair has grown to large proportions, and each year there have been gains and losses. It has lost somewhat in being a reunion of old pupils which is a matter to be regretted, but it has gained somewhat in dignity and in size and now ranks as rather a brilliant social event.

Last year a break occurred as the invitations were cancelled owing to the quarantine and this year the conversat took a new form which appears to have achieved instant success and has eliminated several features which were becoming burdensome to the older pupils and teachers. The program was given entirely by the pupils and was a success from the moment the curtain rose till it descended for the last time.

Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A. filled the office of chairman in a pleasing manner and announced the various items.

The first number was "O Canada" led by a chorus of trained voices in charge of Miss Connal with Miss Helen Porter at the piano.

Following this most fitting introduction to the evening's program, Mr. Simpson made several presentations, which he prefaced by a few explanatory remarks.

It has been Mr. Simpson's custom to make a presentation to the Lakefield pupil who wins the county prize on the entrance examinations. This is a personal gift from Mr. Simpson and nearly every year since Mr. Simpson has been a resident of Lakefield the prize has been won by one of Miss Duff's pupils. This year Master Robert Spence was the winner and he modestly received the gift.

Mr. Simpson also gives a special prize to the pupil in the High School who takes the greatest number of subjects in the Normal Entrance and Junior Matriculation with honors. It used to be possible to take both these examinations in one year but owing to a change in the regulations this is no longer possible and the examinations must be taken separately. One year a pupil took both these examinations in one year (before the passing of the new regulation) and with honors. The pupil, Mr. Kenneth Petrie, won the double prize.

This year the pupil who took the highest standing was Miss Thelma Carveth.

Then in the sports department, Captain Heron, the inspecting officer in this district of the Cadet Corps, has presented a prize to the boy making the highest individual score in the H.S. cadet team which entered for the Laura Secord Cup.

Lakefield's team took 889 points out of a possible 1000 and took 7th place among 36 schools which entered in the district. The highest local individual score was made by Gordon Northey, to whom Capt. Heron's prize was awarded.

For winning the half mile race and making the highest number of points at the annual Field Day, the new trophy, the Simpson silver cup, was presented by Mr. Simpson to Kenneth Kemp.

Mr. Creighton congratulated the prize winners and the teachers on the pleasing results, which are creditable not only to the school but to the village.

The main feature of the evening's program was a play given by the pupils under the direction of Miss Connal and Miss Curtis. It was entitel "The Merchant of Venice up-to-date" and was amusing and entertaining. Real dramatic talent among the pupils was revealed and the comedy was wholesome and never overdone. The characters well known to all lovers of the "Merchant of Venice" were there, but in modern garb and their high flown Elizabethian phraseology," liberally interlarded with modern slang. Interesting it always was and amusing often, but never was there the slightest trace of anything objectionable.

The plot revolved around Bassanio's endeavor to win the hand of the fair Portia. Bassanio was a college student who loved football more than classics and by the will of Portia's father the man who would win her must choose one of the three caskets in which was contained an examination in Latin, one in Virgil, one in Cicero and the third Caesar. The idea that the college football star does not excel in scholastic pursuits was stressed cleverly throughout. Antonio offers to assist his friend and suggests the use of a "pony" and as Bassanio does not possess one, offers to rent one from Shylock, who makes money by betting on the football team. A bargain is struck with the rapacious Shylock, who stipulates that if the "pony" is not returned within a month that Antonio will allow Shylock to cut one pound of hair nearest the brain. The great problem lay in Bassanio's luck in choosing the Caesar casket as the only "pony" Shylock possessed was Caesar as he sarcastically said: "Football players never get any further." The choice was made and proved to be lucky but alas the "pony" was forgotten and on the day of the great game Shylock came to claim his pound of hair nearest the brain. By the cleverness of Portia who rose to the occasion with ability and skill the hair was saved in a climax which brought down the house.

All the parts were well taken and well acted. The fair Portia; the vivacious Nerissa, beloved of Bassanio's friend, Gratiani; Jessica, the ward of Shylock and sweetheart of Antonio, who with the aid of Lancelot rescues her from the bolts and bars of Shylock's abode; the duke who so wisely presides at the trial and gives his verdict with lordly dignity; Shylock, the unscrupulous, who makes his money betting on football games; the opposing team; the maid; the teacher, Miss Threedeyes, who presides at Bassanio's examination; Mrs. Gobble, Lancelot's long lost mother; the professor Surgenham Bloomenheimer; and lastly the policeman, all filled their parts well. Lancelot was responsible for much of the comedy and his healthy appetite, his remarkable raiment and his gallantry in assisting Antonio to rescue Jessica, brought down the house.

The following is the cast of characters:

Bassanio—Wilfrid Pluard.
Antonio—Kenneth Kemp.
Gratiano—Lemuel Pamment.
Shylock—Norman Lemay.
Portia—Miss Mary Tanner.
Merissa—Miss Helen Porter.
Portia's Maid—Miss Barbara Dench.
Miss Threedyes, the teacher—Miss Elva Hendren.
Jessica—Miss Merle Crawford.
Lancelot—Jack Gibson.
Mrs. Gobble, mother of Lancelot—Miss Margaret Tanner.
Captain of the Belmont team, the Duke—Ivan Madill.
The policeman—Willie Whetung.
Professor Surgenham Blumenheimer—Wallace Hendren.
Football players—Harry Sherin, Jack Nicholls, Ronald Kemp, Emerson Kemp.

Following the play a jolly little dance was held, the music being supplied by a Peterborough orchestra and about midnight the young people dispersed after what is probably the best and most enjoyable conversat ever held by the school.

IN POLICE COURT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 30.—Herbert Leonard, merchant of the town of Campbellford, appeared in police court yesterday morning before Magistrate Floyd. There were two charges against Leonard; breach of Section 33 and also breach of Section 42, sub-section 1 of the Liquor Control Act. Leonard was fined $100 on the first charge, while hearing of the second was laid over. The charges were the direct result of a search which was made of certain places in the town by Provincial Officers Clarke, Storie, and Sylvester on the night of December 10th. At this time, the officers visited all the towns and villages in the district for the same purpose: to find if there were any breaches of the L.C.A.. From the evidence given in court, they searched Leonard's store between ten and eleven at night. The results of this search were the basis for the charges brought against Leonard yesterday morning.

To the first charge, Leonard pleaded not guilty and Archie Cochrane, Cobourg, Prosecuting Attorney for the Crown, called Provincial Officer Storie as the first witness. In his evidence, Storie stated that he had made a search of the store occupied by Leonard. He had been assisted by Officers Clarke and Sylvester. They had entered the store about 10.30 and found the accused and one or two young men there. There was clothing strewn all over the floor and numerous empty beer bottles. In the back room there was a beer bottle open and containing some beer. Behind the store room they found a carton of native wine. Also there were beer caps lying around. These with the bottle containing the beer, were confiscated and later sealed and submitted to the government department for analysis. The report showed that the beer was 4.52 per cent by volume. This beer had been in a government control bottle but Storie could not swear to the label. He thought it was O'Keefe's beer. The accused, he claimed, had first said that he had a permit and later admitted that he had not. He claimed to have bought the wine from a traveller and had thought it to be perfectly legal to do so. He had also said that the liquid in the confiscated bottle was "just a drop of sour beer."

N. Alex. MacColl, for the defence, then questioned Storie. The officer said that the charge was laid in connection with the beer. He further related that he had not sealed the bottle till he had arrived in Cobourg approximately an hour and a half later. The accused had not admitted owning the beer, merely saying that it was "just a drop of sour beer."

Due to a remark made very casually by Mr. MacColl, Storie was recalled to the stand by Mr. Cochrane and asked if there had been any change in the contents of the bottle confiscated. Storie swore that there was not and submitted the seal and number.

Sergeant Clarke, provincial officer from Belleville, was the next witness called. His evidence corroborated that of Storie as regards times and other details. He described the amount of confiscated beer as "a couple of inches" and further stated that accused had not produced his permit when asked to do so. Besides bottles, there were also several glasses concealed beneath the clothing in the store, and a small bottle with a fresh trace of liquor in it. This bottle was produced as an exhibit.

Questioned by Mr. MacColl, Clarke admitted that beer left open would ferment up to a certain stage.

Provincial Officer Sylvester, in plain clothes, was then called to give his evidence. He stated that he was a provincial officer specially assigned to the enforcement of the L.C.A., and had previously been a license inspector under the O.T.A. In his evidence, he stated that Leonard had given as his reason for keeping the beer in his store that his wife objected to having it in the house.

Mr. MacColl raised the point that since Storie had been away from Leonard when the bottle was found, it was just possible that the bottle had been otherwise concealed. It was immediately taken that an insinuation was being cast on the integrity of the officer, and Mr. Cochrane had him recalled to the stand to ask if the bottle had been concealed about his person. Storie replied: 'Certainly not! Wouldn't do such a thing. Accused was present at the time." Mr. MacColl admitted that he had not wished to in any way insult the officer and if he had done so tendered his sincere apology to him.

The Defence Case.

This completed the case for the prosecution and Leonard, himself, was the first witness to be called for the defence. Questioned by Mr. MacColl, his attorney, witness stated that he recalled the night of the search, December 10th, and said that he knew nothing of the bottle till it was found by the officers. He did not know whose it was and had not had any of it himself. When the beer was found he was standing between the officers and previous to that he had been in the front shop all evening. Some man whose name he could not recall had come in the store during the search and had gone out again. He said the man had previously made purchases from him, but that he could not recall his name without looking up his order book for clothes. Accused further stated that it was not an uncommon thing for men to come in his front shop and go through to the rear for the purpose of using the lavatory. He had no objection to this. The beer, he said, was not brought there by him nor was it consumed by him.

Questioned by Mr. Cochrane, Leonard said that he could not remember the name of the man who had entered the shop, but said that he lived about three miles the other side of Warkworth. The bottles found by the officers were all empety and had been brought to the shop in readiness to be packed and returned to the vendor's for the rebate allowed on them. The beer had been purchased on his permit which expired last October and he had never renewed it. All the bottles were, he said, in plain sight, though somewhat scattered. He could not give the date of purchase, but claimed that this information could be obtained from the vendors at Peterborough, Belleville or Trenton. He further claimed that Storie showed him the beer and he (accused) had claimed it was sour. Of the liquor he knew nothing.

As a new angle, Leonard stated that Storie had called him to a corner and said, "Look here, Leonard. This is a trivial charge. We don't want to push it." The officer then went on to say that he would return in a week's time and call again. Asked if he had done so, Leonard said that he had not but that he was not greatly worried. There had been no other conversation except that referring to the permit and about his wife's objection to the beer being kept in the house. He was not a heavy drinker, he said.

Mr. MacColl then proceeded to question the witness, but had to proceed subject to objection by the Crown. By his questioning, he revealed that there were no windows in the part of the shop where the beer was located and that the bottle had been found where the winter clothing was stored. An objection by the Crown precipitated a hot argument between counsel as to the proper method for Mr. MacColl to pursue. At length Mr. MacColl proceeded. He revealed the fact that it was the habit of some men to sit around the store, particularly in the winter time. There was no assistant in the shop, but anyone present was asked to tend to the business if the proprietor wished to leave the shop for any length of time.

Questioned by the Magistrate, Leonard said that he lived above the store and sometimes kept the beer in his house and that the empties came from above in his living quarters. The reason the loose bottles had been in the store was that he was waiting for a new carton to pack them in.

The next witness called, said she had not heard the evidence given by the officers, but said there was no objection to beer being kept in the Leonard apartment save that the apartment was small and there was not room for it. She said that Leonard did not often leave the store except to get suits from the express office or go to the bank.

This concluded the case for the defence, and Officer Storie was again recalled to the stand. He stated that the shop was "crowded with bottles," and that every bit of clothing which he lifted ,a bottle fell out of it. He flatly denied Leonard's statement except that he did say he would return in a week. This he said was for the purpose of serving a summons, but he had sent the document to Chief Light instead.

Counsel Give Address.

This concluded the case, and as the lunch hour had arrived, Court was adjourned till 1.30. When proceedings we erresumed, Mr. MacColl proceeded with his address to the Magistrate. He admitted that Leonard had no permit and that liquor had been found on his premises, but claimed that as the liquor had been legally purchased, it need not be destroyed. His client having taken oath that he had purchased it on his permit, which had expired, there was no offence against the Act, and therefore no grounds on which to base a charge. He did not think that a man could be held responsible for that which he did not know he had in his possession. In the absence of bars, Mr. MacColl claimed, it was not an uncommon thing for sheds and outhouses to be used as store houses for liquor. The evidence showed clearly that there were men in the store alone at various times, and any one of these might have been responsible for the liquor being placed there. That the liquor found had been discarded as quite useless, was quite evident by its position on discovery. Also the amount of beer found was really too small to base a charge on.

He did not wish to cast any reflection on the honor of the officer, but reminded the Magistrate that the bottle had not been sealed in the presence of the accused, but after some time had passed and the bottle carried many miles. He further pointed out that the officer had been alone when the bottle was sealed and that the Government report had only stated that the beer was 4.52 per cent., and did not say whether or not it was intoxicating liquor. He thought the Act should be very carefully interpreted.

Mr. Cochrane, for the prosecution, pointed out that the beer was double the strength permitted at the time it was purchased, and thought there was no question but that it was intoxicating. He admitted that the bottle had not been sealed till it reached Cobourg, but claimed that the word of an officer on oath must be taken, and that the officer had sworn that the contents of the bottle had not been altered. In default of the "mysterious stranger" to appear, the accused must be held responsible for the offence committed. The evidence was "proof positive." and the hidden bottles showed that the liquor was kept for illegal purposes. He did not think there was one extenuating circumstance ,and referred to the accused's conduct in the box. In conclusion, he submitted that the case was one for conviction.

Magistrate Floyd, before passing judgment, spoke at some length to the accused regarding his length of married life and business in town. He thought that the evidence showed clearly that he was guilty, and fined him $100.00, and costs, in all $125.35.

The hearing on the second charge was laid over till Friday, January 6, 1928 ,at eleven o'clock in the morning. In the meantime the amount of bail was set at $500.00, and counsel for the defence is instructed by his client to enter an appeal against the judgment.

ELECTION CARD.

To the Electors of Campbellford

Having definitely decided to allow my name to go before you for the responsible position of Mayor for 1928, I make this appeal to you for your support, if you consider I have the ability to handle with satisfaction this important post.

Our town stands to-day in a very critical condition. True, we have a few thousand dollars in the bank, but at the same time we have an urgent call for assistance from our labouring people, which would soon use up our little surplus. Our town, since 1923, has been on the downward path without any reason for same. What we need to climb back again is new industries and the steady running of the present industries. After sizing up the work of the present Council, I would say it is very easy to sit snug on a cash box and display a stop signal of economy, but quite another to run to open the gates of future prosperity.

What I consider Campbellford needs at present is an up-and-coming Mayor, who carries not a financial padlock, but the keys to a busy manufacturing town.

This town should take example from the capitalists who are eager to invest money in the country and make our great asset—our cheap light and power—known to them as a drawing power instead of hiding it behind a bushel basket.

I am strongly in favor of making the Campbellford Cloth Company live up to its agreement with the town, which I consider is only fair to the ratepayers and also the laboring class of people in our midst, and, if elected, will insist that your agreement with this company must be lived up to in every detail. If the position of Mayor is a question of qualification or ability, I am pleased to offer the following:

75th Canadian Infantry Battalion,
In the Field, October 4th, 1917.
To Mrs. T. E. Hyland,
162 Coleman Ave.,
Belleville, Ont., Canada.
Dear Madam,—

I take great pleasure in notifying you that your husband, Sergt. T. Hyland, has been recommended as a commissioned officer.

His work has been so satisfactory as an N.C.O. that I consider his services as an officer will be of the greatest value to the battalion. He is at present in England, attending a training course, and I hope to have him returned to the battalion on the completion of the course.

C. C. Harbottle,
Lieut.-Col. Commanding 75th Canadian Infantry Batt.

I may not be able to see you all personally. I therefore take this opportunity of soliciting your support and wishing you all a very prosperous New Year.

Yours for Success,

Capt. T. E. Hyland.

Campbellford, December 29, 1927.

To the Electors of the Town of Campbellford

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Having served you for six years in he Council, I am again a Candidate, and will appreciate that generous support from our citizens which has been so fully accorded me in the past elections. While a member of your Council, I was for four years Chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee, during which time the saving in this department was considerable when compared to the expenditures before or since. If I am again elected I will endeavor to serve you to the best of my ability and with the same strict regard to economy as in former years.

With best wishes to you all for the coming year, I am,

Yours faithfully,

R. H. COLE

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE MUNICIPALITY OF

Campbellford

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having served for two years as Commissioner on the Water and Light Board and having received a nomination for the coming year, I am again a candidate for the honor. During my term in office, I have endeavored to carry on the business of the Commission in the best possible manner. Also during this time, the Board had returned the amount of $35,000.00 to the town for the purpose of reducing the rate of taxation. The ratepayers have received further benefit by a reduction of ten per cent in the domestic power rates, giving a twenty per cent discount where it had previously been ten.

If returned to office, I will do my duty in the best interests of the welfare of the town and its citizens.

Wishing you all a very Happy and Prosperous New Year, I am,

Respectfully yours,

A. L. Riendeau

Manitoba Premier is Under Care of His Minister of Health.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29— (Canadian Press.) — The Hon. John Bracken, Premier of Manitoba, was stricken with appendicitis to-day. He was rushed to the hospital where the Hon. Dr. E. W. Premier Bracken was preparing to leave his home for the Legislative Buildings when he suffered the attack.

SNOWDEN CAUSES FURORE BY RESIGNING FROM PARTY

Resentment of Criticism of Socialists One Reason, Say Politicians.

STRENGTHENS CLAIMS.

Former Chancellor of the Exchequer in Good Position to Succeed MacDonald.

LONDON, December 30 (United Press). — The resignation of the Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, from the Independent Labor Party because he thinks the work of that party is finished, and only the Labor Party should exist, is causing much political efflorescence.

It is emphasized that Snowden resented the criticism from the Independents that he is no longer in touch with Labor because he refused to agree that the surtax should be devoted to social reform schemes and insists that it should be devoted to the reduction of the national debt.

Snowden himself declares that he has found that Laborites don't want the Independent Labor Party, and predicts that the latter organization will soon die a natural death.

His decision to resign has strengthened his claims to be regarded as the natural successor to Ramsay MacDonald, and although there is much criticism of him from theorists on one side and Communists on the other, it is admitted in Labor ranks that no other man has the intellectual attainments of Snowden, nor is any more fitted to succeed the present Labor chief.

Prices Firm In Mines In Quiet Session To-day

TORONTO Dec. 30 Canadian Press —Prices were firm in quiet trading on the Standard mining exchange this morning. Many issues showed slight gains. Lake Shore jumped 20 to 27.15. Noranda gained 5 in closing at 23.55. Tough Oakes was an active seller and was unchanged at 75. Teck Hughes continued to drop, falling 5 points to 10.25. Sudbury Basin also dropped 5 points to 11.45

Trade Slackens To-day On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. Canadian Press. — Further irregularity developed in to-day's stock market with trading turning dull on the approach of the holiday. The undertone was fairly firm, with pools active in a number of issues which are likely to attract re-investment funds after the turn of the year. Buying centred largely in a selected assortment of food independent steel, office supply, copper, tobacco and public utility shares.

Little attention was paid to the retention of relatively stiff call money rates and the sharp increase in federal reserve brokers loans. Among the score or so of issues to break into new high ground for the year were Nash and Packard Motors, International Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Christie Brown, Detroit Edison Simmons Company International Business Machines, Life Savers and Mexican Petroleum.

Further Dividend Paid By Brading Breweries

Holders of the no-par-value Common Stock of the Brading Breweries, Ottawa, will receive a further dividend of fifty cents a share.

This old-established company is again making additions to its plant at Ottawa, having in course of erection a new Racking Room, Chilling Building, Ale Storage and Garage, and installing new Brewing Equipment.

The company's history since 1865 has been one of steady progress.

Wheat Prices Lower With Demand Light

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—With selling from the northwest in evidence here and with buying power light, wheat prices early averaged a little lower to-day. Better weather gave some advantage to bears in the corn market. Opening unchanged to ¼c up, wheat later sagged all around to well below yesterday's finish. Corn started unchanged to ½c off, and subsequently underwent moderate general setbacks. Oats kept relatively firm. Provisions were easy.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 126¾; March 129. Corn, December 81¼; March 85¾. Oats, December unquoted; March 53⅜.

Toronto Trading Brisk; Slight Gains Are General

TORONTO, December 30 (Canadian Press). — Trading was brisk on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, with prices holding firm or showing slight upward movements. Walker's occupied the centre of attention with a large turnover and a gain of 2¾ points on the close at 66 after selling up to 67. Massey-Harris furnished equally heavy trading, and advanced 1½ to 41¼. British American Oil maintained the pace it has been setting for the past few days ,and advanced 1¼ to 38½. With a heavy turnover, International Nickel dropped a fraction to 86. Christie Brown recovered from its drop of yesterday to close at 85, up three. The largest jump of the morning was furnished by City Dairy, which climbed seven points to 221.

CANDIDATES FOR CIVIC HONORS

Club and the City baseball league, as well as a director of the Y.M.C.A. The mottto "We Build," he has applied to his work on the Board.

Said he: "The new building is just about completed, and the work before the incoming board will be chiefly that of purchasing and installing equipment, a most important work, which experienced members are likely to do best. I think that the teachers who have given such good service under trying conditions should be remembered also."

Frank H. Dawson.

Another condidate for the Board of Education is Frank H. Dawson, flour and grain merchant, Water street, whose father, the late Adam Dawson, it will be remembered, was alderman in this city for many years. Mr. Dawson is a new man in the field so far as the Board is concerned, but he has taken an active part in many other activities of the city. He has served as both Rector's and People's Warden of All Saints' church, is a director of the Peterborough Exhibition, president of the Peterborough Poultry and Pet Stock Association, and has been an active Kiwanian for six years, having been on the club executive. He is also associated with the local Humane Society of which he is vice-president.

He will be remembered by citizens as the chairman of the committee that arranged the big horse parade during the Produced-in-Canada exhibition this year—the biggest thing of its kind ever produced in Peterborough.

E. Bruce Fowler.

E. Bruce Fowler, president of the G. Walter Green Company Limited foundry, having had six years experience on the Board of Education, of which he was chairman in 1927, is now standing for re-election. He has been associated with city affairs in various other capacities. His absence from the city prevented an interview.

ALDERMEN.

E Arthur Stinson.

"In order to have a bigger and better Peterborough we need more people and the only reason we haven't more people is the lack of employment," Mr. Stinson said. "If we had the employment to offer there would not be an empty house in the city inside of a month.

"I would be in favour of putting on engineers to ascertain the cost of obtaining cheaper power from Locks 4 and 5 in order to have some inducement to offer new industries to locate here.

"In regard to the government laboratory which is to be retained here, I would favor a full time MO.H. The different organizations could work under this officer and avoid overlapping.

"I would also advocate having as much city work as possible done by our home tradesmen and laborers.

"Anything for the building up of Peterborough will receive my hearty support."

James E. Haggart.

Born in Peterborough, James. E. Haggart has lived and worked here all his life. For 27 years he was a prominent member of the volunteer fire brigade, while he was engaged in contracting work. He has not previously been a candidate for municipal office.

Mr. Haggart has little criticism to offer concerning the work of the present Council, remarking that the aldermen control only 28 per cent. of the money they raise, except along the line of road work. The methods of the city and oiling them could, he feels, be much improved, to the great benefit of the city.

A drive for more industries and the employment of local labor will be planks of Mr. Haggart's platform should he be elected.

Ray Paquette.

"Being in the contracting business for a number of years, I quite frequently come in contact with a number of ratepayers who are continuously seeking lower taxation. It is therefore my whole ambition to endeavor to help the public obtain lower taxation and see that the moneys expended are used to the best advantage. There is paving to be done in the city this year. We have our own gravel and only need the cement. Why not engage local labor and use the money that is paid in taxes in our own city instead of paying it to outsiders as has been done in previous years? Oshawa is progressing favourably by adopting this method and employing home labor so why shouldn't Peterborough?" Thus spoke Ray Paquette.

"Another live issue of to-day is our transportation," he continued. "We are grateful to the Border City Transport Company for having come in and helped us when we were in need, but from the viewpoint of the public on a whole our transportation is not adequate for a city of its size. If there is any way whereby the public can have better accommodation I am going to do my utmost to obtain same.

"We want more industries if we want to have a progressive city and to do this we must have cheaper power rates to induce factories to locate here."

James Hamilton.

James H. Hamilton, seeking aldermanic honors, is the president and manager of the Peter Hamilton Company and is not a new man in municipal work. For four years he was in the City Council and was chairman of the Manufacturers' committee several years ago. "I have been away and have not had much time to think over what I should tell you," he concluded in an interview with The Examiner.

W. A. (Bert) Halpin.

Mr. Halpin, when called upon at the Canadian Aladdin Company, where he is employed, stated that he is a new man in the field, but he has been a resident of Peterborough all of his life and feels that he can handle the problems of the mechanic and working man. He is a resident of Ashburnham.

HARRY C. HUFFMAN.

Mr. Huffman has not held any civic office, but he has been active in Kiwanis Club. In 1926 he was a member of the Board of Directors. In 1927 he was chairman of the Public Affairs Committee, instituting many important civic movements, such as the decorating of the streets. For 1928, the Club has done him the high honor of electing him District Trustee, in which position he will represent Peterborough Kiwanis Club in meetings of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime District.

"It has always been my opinion that the people should be told on what grounds their votes are asked," Mr. Huffman told The Examiner. "If they do not know what a candidate for public office will do if he is elected, how can they vote intelligently? For this reason I have endeavored to make clear my position on several questions that will be considered by the 1928 City Council. I know that I cannot alone carry the plans that I outline for James Stevenson Park or King Edward Park, or using local labor in paving. My best efforts, however, will be given to carry out the wishes of the people as I understand them."

G. A. MACDONALD.

George A. Macdonald, superintendent of the De Laval Company, has had two years' experience in the City Council, and during that period he has been active in various phases of municipal work. As chairman of the Legal and Reception Committee in 1927, he has done most creditable work. He also assisted with the decorating for the Diamond Jubilee celebration.

"I have been a resident of the city for the last twenty-six years, have played on city baseball, rugby, and football teams, and during my tenure of office have used my best judgment in the interests of the people," he said in conversation with The Examiner.

S. A. LOWE.

Mr. Lowe, for eleven years associated in business with the Canadian Packing Company, and now a member of the firm of Lowe & Outram, Limited, confectioners, is appealing to the electors, believing that since his business brings him in touch with all parts of the city, he may be able to give the city the benefit of this experience.

This candidate is well known among the sporting fraternity of the city, he having been a member of the Peterborough baseball team which won the Central Ontario championship in 1920. He has been a resident in the city since 1911.

Lieut.-Colonel Charles H. Ackerman.

Lieut.-Colonel Charles H. Ackerman, general insurance and investments, has been a resident of the city for thirty-five years, and therefore knows it well. He has been a member of the City Council for the last two years and was on the committee that had to do with the big July 1st parade.

Lieut.-Col. Ackerman has also been prominent in connection with military matters, being a past president of the Canadian Legion and a reserve officer of the Peterborough Rangers. The Chamber of Commerce has also felt his beneficial influence as a director, and the Peterborough Humane Society is proud to own him as an honorary president. He was president in 1925 and again in 1926.

All of the candidates could not be located in time to obtain their interviews for to-day's issue, and some desired more time to prepare statements. Those whose aims are not printed to-day will have an opportunity of stating their case to-morrow.

BANDITS ROBBED BANK OF $23,000

Money Taken From Hamilton Branch All Recovered—Johnston Remanded.

HAMILTON, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—A statement was made by police officials here today that the sum of money stolen by the bandits on December 27th from the Bank of Commerce at Sandford Avenue branch was not $3,100 as stated, but $23,000.

The total was not made public as the bank had not been able to check carefully what was taken. It has been found that the bandits actually had $23,000 in their possession, every dollar of which was recovered. In Police Court today Reginald Johnston was charged "That he did on December 27 rob the Canadian Bank of Commerce of $23,000 while armed with an offensive weapon." He pleaded not guilty and elected to go to a higher court. The Crown asked for an adjournment of seven days, which was granted without any evidence being taken.

CONGREGATION ENJOYS SOCIAL

CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS.

For three hours last evening continuous mirth and merriment prevailed in the basement of St. George's Church, the occasion being a congregational Christmas party. this was the third evening in succession that the room had been given over to social festivities, but while the two former had been for the benefit of members of organizations, the A.Y.P.A. and the Sunday School, this third evening was a free and open house to all members of the congregation, young and old. The number present was an exceedingly good one, surpassing, as the rector said during the evening, his expectations and all without exception enjoyed themselves thoroughly. After the opening with a verse of a hymn and prayer, the chorus singing of "The more we are together the merrier we'll be," struck the keynote for the evening. Contests, interspersed with the singing of choruses and rounds, caused the time to pass quickly and happily, and at 9.15 everyone welcomed the half-hour interval during which dainty refreshments in abundance were served by ladies of the congregation under the direction of Mrs. G. Monk, president of the Guild. Contests with the winners were as follows: Musical chairs, Miss Dorothy Churchill; Rolling Lemons, final heat, Mr. A. Thomas; Newspaper Race, final heats, gents, Mr. A. Sims, ladies, Miss D. Dosset. Mirth knew no bounds in the singing contest. For this, four groups were formed, according to numbers drawn for, each group to sing a verse and chorus of its own choosing. A large box containing candies went to the winning group, conducted by Mr. A. Thomas, while the booby prize, a box containing "dates,' went to the group conducted by Mr. A. Robertson. Mr. Charles Cole and Mr. Wilfred Jones were conductors of the other groups. During the evening vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. E. W. Cooper and Rev. J. L. Hughes, and violin selections were played by Mr. A. Robertson. The accompanists for the evening were Mrs. J. L. Hughes, Mrs. R. King, and Miss K. Robertson. Rev. J. L. Hughes accorded a welcome to all present, and expressed thanks to the ladies who supplied and served refreshments. The last half-hour was devoted to dancing, the fascination of the Old Country dance, Sir Roger de Coverley proving so great that all were eager to join in. A waltz and a schottische followed, and the evening then came to a close at eleven o'clock with the singing of the National Anthem.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Because her horror-numbed brain had not yet been able to formulate any plans, Faith mechanically parked the sedan before the Myrtle Street house which had once been her home, sat for a long minute—or it might have been several minutes—with her hands on the wheel, staring dazedly at nothing. Then, automatically, she carefully powdered her face without realizing what she was doing, and walked up the path to the house, stiffly but steadily.

"We're waiting dinner, honey," Fay sang out, as she came forward to get the box containing the carving set which Faith still held in her hands, though she had forgotten it completely. "Oh, did you forget the dessert spoons? But it doesn't matter. I was hoping that you'd bring Bob back with you, but I suppose he was too busy."

"Yes," Faith laughed queerly, "he was too busy! Too awfully busy!"

"And had Cherry gone out with her date?" Fay asked cheerfully.

"Yes, she was with her date," Faith nodded violently and laughed again. She must stop laughing like this, or she would be screaming—Was this what they called hysterics? "I tell you, Fay," she choked on that crazy, tearing laughter, "it looks serious this time. One of her old flames, probably the only man she ever really loved. But I mustn't tell secrets—Isn't there something I can do to help?"

"Dinner's dished up," Fay assured her. "All but the roast leg of lamb, and Junior's going to carve it in the kitchen. He says he simply won't make a spectacle of himself before everyone else—"

Faith tried to listen as she followed Fay into the dining room, but other words were shrieking in her ears—"Only a coward refuses to face life. I'm not going to let you be a coward, Cherry. Face this thing, Cherry. If it's the real thing—" Then Cherry's passionate wail, "Oh, it is!"

Somehow she found herself seated at the table, on Grandpa Lane's right. Grandpa was cupping his ear with his hand and bending close to her to hear what she was saying, but she had forgotten—At the foot of the table, which Fay had lengthened with all its extension leaves, Grandma Lane was a huddled, stoop-shouldered little bundle of too many clothes, dim, smiling eyes, thin gray hair, withered cheeks sucked close to toothless gums. Faith, striving to clear the mists of horror in which her mind was befogged, looked from Grandpa to Grandma Lane. They were horribly old now and eager only for food and warmth, but had Grandpa when he was young broken Grandma's heart by loving another woman? Her great, stricken brown eyes flitted to Junior, her brother, who had been "wild." Did Junior really love Fay as much as he seemed to, or did he sometimes pick girls up in his car and make love to them? Or was there a girl whom Junior had not been willing to give up when he married, into whose house he crept now and then, guiltily?

"You aren't eating a thing, Faith," Fay worried. "I don't believe you've tasted the lamb—"

"I feel a little sick," Faith said suddenly in a loud, queer voice and rose from the table.

"There's some aromatic spirits of ammonia in the bathroom medicine closet, honey," Fay called anxiously, as Faith ran waveringly from the room.

Because she was afraid she would be followed, Faith locked the door of the bathroom, then crept stealthily to her mad eyes scanning labels for the welcome sight of skull and crossbones.

DRESS

One long glove may be worn at the opera—a convenient arrangement if you have gleaming bracelets to show on one arm. Above, at the left, is a white glove with silver and rhinestone embroidery on a black cuff—for afternoon. Just below that a beige kid glove with cuff embroidered with brown and gold sequins. Below, at the left, is a blonde suede glove with cuff outlined with gold beads and to the right an eight button mousquetaire glove for afternoon wear.

When Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt sat through the opera the other evening wearing just one long white glove she was perhaps not aware of the fact that she had started something. Of course, there was no reason why she should not have worn one glove—or two gloves or no gloves at all if she had chosen. Gloves are optional for evening wear even at so formal an occasion as the opera.

Some women have apparently forgotten the importance of gloves. They are so busy considering their stockings that they have forgotten to think of their gloves. Nowadays the matter of keeping the seam of one's stockings in the mathematical center of one's leg is —a matter of vital importance. But the set or fit of one's gloves doesn't seem to matter at all.

Carelessness with regard to gloves has become so widespread—especially in this country—that the woman who is obviously well gloved gains thereby real distinction. Gloves are an accessory of dress concerning which French women have never permitted themselves the laxity that has been so widespread in this country within recent years.

Rubies, sapphires and emeralds are more often seen in engagement rings than formerly, though of course most girls prefer the diamond. With American girls the diamond is chosen, one assumes, because it is precious. If another stone is used instead it must be one of the very precious sort. But in France the diamond is chosen because it is white and colorless—the emblem of maidenly purity. If another stone is chosen it must be as white and colorless—hence the white sapphire or less expensive white stones are sometimes selected. It is only for the second marriage that a colored stone would be considered appropriate in France.

Speaking of rings, let me quote from that amazing new book dealing with the manners of millionaire society, "Move Over," by E. Petit. Marion is showing Sheila a gift from Don.

"And she exhibited seven tiny gold bands on her finger. Each set with tiny stones, the first with diamonds, the second with emeralds, the third with amethysts, the fourth with rubies, the fifth again with emeralds, and then sapphires and topaz. 'Dearest, they spell. Neat, eh?' " is Marion's comment.

Very neat, indeed, I think—and now that finger rings are back in fashion perhaps you would like to have a set of rings like it.

HUNT'S FATHER HIRING LAWYER

Wishes Son To Get Square Deal—Won't Go To Los Angeles.

HICKMAN'S PARTNER.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—George L. Hunt, father of Welby Hunt, was here today to enlist the aid of an attorney to defend his son, who was implicated by William Edward Hickman in the robbery and slaying of a California druggist. Hunt and the youth's mother, like Hickman's parents, separated several years ago. The mothers of both youths live in Kansas City. The elder Hickman is a crane operator at El Paso, Texas, while Hunt is employed at Seminole, Okla.

The fathers both declared they only wanted a square deal for their sons, and that if they were guilty they should be punished. Neither planned to go to Los Angeles.

FLYING PAGEANTS TO BE CONTROLLED

R. A. F. Will Assist at Several Different Parts of England.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 30.—There are so many flying clubs in the country now that the arrangement of the various air race meetings, if they are to be on adequate scale, is likely to become a difficult problem, and recently a meeting of the Royal Aero Club Associated Clubs' General Council was held to consider the best arrangement in the interest of sporting aviation.

There are now over a dozen clubs represented on the council, and this year the help of the Royal Air Force was enlisted to give display events at some of the larger meetings. It is desired, however, in 1928, to fix in advance the extent of the assistance of the Royal Air Force.

Flying clubs exist primarily to train members to fly and afford facilities for flying when trained, and every club race meeting makes a big drain of flying equipment of other clubs, for instructors and machines are diverted to racing purposes at the week-end when the greatest demand for flying facilities comes from the non-racing members. It is proposed, therefore, to meet these two requirements, and generally assist financially the flying-club movement by limiting the really elaborate flying club pageants, for which Royal Air Force assistance will be enlisted, to four or five meetings a year. These would be allocated geographically to the North, South, East and West of England, with, possibly, another meeting in the Midlands, and a proportion will be fixed to coincide with the usual Bank Holiday week-ends.

It is suggested that the home-club entrusted with the organization should have a first percentage call on the profits after all expenses have been met, and then the other clubs which have supported the meeting should have a percentage of the profits according to the number of aircraft they have raced, while the residue should go to a general pool for the assistance of the flying clubs generally.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

JOHN THE BAPTIST AND JESUS

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 1. John the Baptist and Jesus. Mark 1:1-13.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

Text: Mark 1:1-13.

The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God:

As it is written in the prophets, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins.

And there went out unto him all the land of Judaea, and they of Jerusalem, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan, confessing their sins.

And John was clothed with camel's hair, and with a girdle of a skin about his loins; and he did eat locusts and wild honey;

And preached, saying, There cometh one mightier than I after me, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose.

I indeed have baptized you with water: but he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost.

And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan.

And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens opened, and the Spirit, like a dove, descending upon him:

And there came a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

And immediately the Spirit driveth him into the wilderness.

And he was there in the wilderness forty days, tempted of Satan; and was with the wild beasts; and the angels ministered unto him.

* * *

There could be no more fitting lesson for the beginning of a new year than this which in its opening phrase sets before us the beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ the Son of God.

If we would live the new year well, can we begin better than by contemplating the highest, by inquiring as to the reality of the claim that God has made a revelation to men of the way of life through his own Son.

Facts and Realities.

The Christmas season has again emphasized both in its Sunday school lesson and in its whole spirit the great fact of Christ—his coming into the world in lowliness and meekness and the beginning in time, in the glory of motherhood, of the eternal mission of the Savior.

It is important in all our thought of Christ that we begin with facts and realities rather than with theories, for what men think about Christ has resulted from the impressions of his earthly life. Those who knew him and experienced the power of his salvation gave their impressions to the world, and these have come down to us in indelible records. But just because we are far away from the facts there is all the more need that we should not allow the modern theories of men to take the place of the knowledge of Jesus that is to be derived from the simple Gospel story.

We do not mean by this that theories or critical interpretations are unimportant. Each must evaluate these things for himself. But we do mean that beyond all theories and interpretations there are set before us clearly and simply in the Gospel records certain things that enable every man, even the lowliest, to form for himself a very definite portrait of the Christ.

And in that portrait we believe that every man who reads in sincerity and in truth with the desire to do justice to the simple facts, even though he may not come to orthodoxy in his theories or his doctrines, will establish as the supreme thing the goodness of Jesus, the complete and uncompromising passion of his whole being to do the Father's will in proclaiming and practicing the love of that Father who "maketh his sun to shine upon the evil and on the good and sendeth rain upon the just and on the unjust."

The Great Gospel.

Here in our lesson we begin, however, rather with John the Baptist than with Jesus, though it is the "beginning of the Gospel of Jesus." Every great gospel, in fact every great life, begins in preparation.

John the Baptist cannot be considered apart from Jesus, for in all his references to himself he emphasized the fact that he was a forerunner, that his mission was to prepare the way for a greater, who should come after him. Is there not in this a very fitting suggestion for the new year?

If we are going to know Jesus better and more fully, if we are going to fulfill his purposes and live near to him, must we not begin in preparation? Will there not be value in going out into the wilderness with John, in hearing him as he speaks of repentance and the remission of sins, and in yielding to his words so that we may humble ourselves and become worthy of that Great One whom we desire to come and fill our lives?

Will it not be, perhaps, that in seeking the baptism of repentance we shall find that Jesus himself is joining our throng even as he came from Nazareth of Galilee to be baptized of John in Jordan? It is in the experience of the wilderness and under the quickening of the true repentance that we may find the revelation of glory in this great Savior, the lachet of whose shoes we, like John, are unworthy to unloose.

It is not simply a way that is to be prepared for Christ: that heart must be prepared, in humility and repentance, in which he would be received with joy and satisfaction.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1927.

Good and evil planetary influences disturb this last day of the year, according to astrology.

Although a benefic aspect dominates business early in the morning, adverse rule is strong later.

Banks and bankers should benefit from this sway, which makes for tremendous expansion of business in the new year.

This is a most unfavorable direction of the stars for interviews or conferences with men who wield commercial or political power.

It is a planetary government under which individuals should keep aloof from one another, while taking stock of the year's achievements.

As Uranus is in a place making for despondency it is well to seek amusement and change of scene, while this rule prevails.

Women may be nervous and sensitive under this sway and for this reason they should beware of family dissensions.

This is not a lucky day for weddings or for engagements to marry, as the emotions may be changeable and hearts inconstant.

Labor comes under a sway that is most promising for 1928, when industry will benefit owing to surprising and unusual market conditions.

Educational advantages are to benefit in 1928 by large benefactions and American scholars are to win wide recognitions, astrologers foretell.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have added responsibilities in the coming year, which brings changes. Saturn promises financial security.

Children born on this day will enjoy a life of activity and happiness.

Hints on Etiquette

1. Is New Year's calling still a custom in large cities?
2. What is the procedure in smaller places?
3. How long a time should each call take?

The Answers.

1. Yes, to some extent.
2. To plan a regular route and go in groups to first one friend's house, then another.
3. Not more than a half-hour.

Rumors of "Hockey War" Heard at Boston

BRUINS WOULD SELL 'TRUANT'

Harrington Refuses to Obey Recall Order From New Haven.

RECEIVE OFFERS

BOSTON, Mass., December 30 (Canadian Press). — Rumors and rumblings of a "hockey war" between the National League, major organization of the ice game, and the Canadian-American Junior circuit, were heard here last night as the latest phase of the Leland "Hago" Harrington case.

Harrington, a member of the Boston Bruins National League team, who has been farmed out to the New Haven sextette of the Canadian-American League, recently refused to obey a recall order to Boston, and according to newspaper despatches, played with the New Haven team on Wednesday night "on advice of Canadian-American officials."

President Charles F. Adams, of the Bruins, announced last night that Harrington probably would be sold in the near future to some other team in the Canadian-American League. At the same time he advised the New Haven club that any offers the Bruins had made to sell Harrington outright to New Haven were withdrawn. The Bruins owner said he had received two offers for Harrington from other Canadian-American clubs. Harrington probably will be sold to the junior circuit, he added, inasmuch as the Bruins have no desire to sell him out of a league in which he has made a good drawing card.

Adams also notified President Frank Calder of the National League of Harrington's reported participation in Wednesday night's New Haven game, but as far as discussing the possibility of a hockey war, he confined himself to advising other club owners to "read the Tenth Commandment." The Canadian-American League began this year's operations with the announced intention of admitting fewer National League reserve players than before, but almost every club has a few in their regular line-up, and according to hockey concensus here, could ill afford a break with the senior organization just now.

EVERTON CLUB HAS ROUGH ROAD AHEAD

First Division Leaders Face Couple of Hard Games.

LONDON England, Dec. 30.—Canadian Press Cable.—As the clubs in the English Football League approach the half way mark in the first and second divisions and southern section of the third division anything may still happen and a definite and impressive lead in the averages is not held by any one club. In the first division though Everton are leading by four points, they have a rough road to travel in the near future. On Saturday they must travel to Sheffield to play The Wednesday and on the following Monday must go to Blackburn Rovers, being under ground disadvantage on each occasion.

Following Everton are the five clubs jostling each other for second place. Their matches on Saturday are as follows:

Huddersfield Town go to Newcastle probably the best fixture in the league, that day, Leicester City will be hosts to Aston Villa, Cardiff City are at Bolton Wanderers and Blackburn Rovers go to Burnley. Some interesting developments can be expected among the leaders in the next two weeks.

Chelsea Should Win.

In the second division Chelsea, now only leading the standing by one point, are hosts to Reading on Saturday and it looks as if two points are being handed to them on a platter just when most needed.

However, four teams are hot after the leadership Preston North End, Leeds United, Manchester City and Oldham Athletic.

In the southern section of the third division Millwall are leading. They must play Northampton, second club at New Cross, Saturday. Exeter City, third team, have their eye on the top seat particularly after giving Plymouth Argyle their first beating at home for nearly two years on Tuesday.

In the Northern Section of the Third Division Bradford and Doncaster Rovers turn into the stretch well in front of the other clubs in this branch of the league.

Close in Scottish.

In the Scottish First Division Rangers are out in front but by no means in a healthy position as Motherwell are close on their heels. Both leading clubs have tasks over the week end and on Monday they should surmount, though Rangers have to travel, Saturday to St. Johnstone, and Monday to Celtic, while Motherwell are at home first to Clyde and next to Hamilton Academicals. On Tuesday Rangers are at home to Partick Thistle and should win, while Motherwell go to Falkirk, where the going may not be so easy.

CANADIAN MOST VERSATILE OF ALL ATHLETES

Jim Thorpe is recorded as one of the greatest of all athletes because he was a superb football player, a baseball player good enough for experience in the major leagues and a track and field star who made the record for the Olympic pentathlon and decathlon.

George Owen was one of Harvard's most celebrated athletes because he won nine letters in three years of varsity competition in football, hockey and baseball and three freshman numerals.

Other noted athletes like Christy Mathewson, Eddie Collins, George Sisler, Mickey Cochrane and Frank Frisch starred in football and baseball, and any number of baseball players have been equally proficient at hockey and baseball.

But perhaps the greatest of all the versatile stars is Lionel Conacher, starring now with the New York Americans hockey club. He has a record of having been better at more sports than any other athlete.

He was recently selected as the greatest Canadian rugby player of all time in a survey conducted by a Canadian newspaper.

He was good enough at baseball to play a season as a regular with the Toronto club of the International League.

He was an amateur wrestling champion of Canada, a heavyweight boxing champion, good enough to go four rounds in an exhibition match with Jack Dempsey.

He was a great lacrosse player and a hockey player so good that he was known as Canada's "Hobey Baker" when he had been playing only a year or so.

He is 27 years of age, six feet two inches tall and weighs 200 pounds. His athletic career started at the age of 16 when he won the 125-pound wrestling championship of Canada.

He tired of the wrestling game and turned to boxing and eventually won the light heavyweight championship in 1918 at Ottawa. Growing into a heavyweight, he attracted notice when he boxed a four-round exhibition with Jack Dempsey before wounded soldiers in Toronto in 1921. He made such a good showing that Dempsey recommended a professional career in the ring for him.

Conacher's baseball record is singular. For four years, from 1917, he played amateur baseball with the Toronto Hillcrests, a star team, but he abandoned baseball and turned to lacrosse where he became a star.

He had no intention of going back to baseball until he received an offer from the Toronto International League club. He accepted and played one season, being one of the very few amateurs who stepped from the amateur diamond into a class AA league and made good.

His greatest records were made as a rugby player and his knowledge of the game brought him a position as assistant football coach this year at Rutgers University where he specialized in the instruction in lateral passing.

He is still in his prime and probably can hold his own in any of those many branches of sport.

LEAFS DEFEAT BOSTON BRUINS

Score Winning Counter in Last Few Minutes—Cougars Beat Maroons.

NEW YORK TEAMS TIE.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—True to their performance in the past the Boston Bruins and Maple Leafs provided the spectators at the Arena Gardens last evening with an exciting contest, one that was not decided until the final bell, and to make the evening most enjoyable for the local team and their supporters the Leafs emerged on the long end of the score. It was another of those one-goal decisions that keep the interest at fever pitch until the game is terminated, the final count being 2 to 1. The game was replete with fast skating, some smart stick-handling and sturdy defensive work by both sets of rearguards, while the Bruins added to the enjoyment of the occasion by staging a number of well-executed plays that were dangerous, and several times threatened to pull the game out of the fire. While it was a small scoring affair the play was far from a defensive style, both teams making continual attacks into their opponents' area, but these mainly only gave the opposing defence a chance to show its true worth, and also gave the spectators many thrills as each goal in turn narrowly escaped falling.

Detroit 3, Maroons 0.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 30.— Outplaying those masters of defence at their own game, the Detroit Cougars grabbed two more valuable points when they blanked Montreal Maroons here last night, 3 to 0. All the goals came in the second chapter.

Minus Babe Seibert and still feeling the effects of Wednesday night's game at Chicago, Eddie Gerrard's men were not at their best. They put up a great defensive formation all the way, but it was not good enough to stop the speed of the Cougar front line.

George Hay, Lawrence Aurie and Carson Cooper grabbed all the honors for scoring. Hay notched the first goal on a lovely lone rush, and Aurie duplicated the feat a few moments later. Then Hay picked up another point for his total when he laid down the pass on which Cooper made it 3 to 0.

Americans 3, Rangers 3.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Playing the most exciting game of the hockey season, the New York Americans and the New York Rangers came to a glorious 3-3 tie at the end of seventy minutes of a brilliantly played struggle last night. More than 12,000 fans roared and cheered over the battling of their favorite sextets. By the tie, the Rangers clung to a slender lead in the American section, for the Detroit Cougars crept up to within one point by winning from the Montreal Maroons.

Four Hockey Games Scheduled At Boston

PRESIDENT HAS A ZOO.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Admirers of President Coolidge have given him enough animals to outfit a small circus. Even the Washington Zoo, at which some of his animals are housed, could not have readily accommodated all that were presented to him in the Black Hills last summer. Those brought to the zoo here include a lion, deer, a pair of bobcats, a peacock, a bear and a wallaby.

30 SKATERS WILL TAKE PART IN MEET

Canada Seeks to Repeat Victory in Middle Atlantic Outdoor Championship.

NEWBURGH, N.Y., December 30 (Canadian Press). — The colors of more than 30 of the leading ice skating clubs of North America are to be carried in the middle Atlantic outdoor championships here next Monday when Canada seeks to repeat its victory of last year.

The entry list, largest in the history of the championships, includes many of the foremost speed skaters of the continent. Charles I. Gorman, of St. John, N.B., international champion, as well as holder of the Middle Atlantic title for the past two years, defends his crown against the challenge of Val Bialis, of Lake Placid, N.Y., former international and national title holder; Irving Jaffee, of New York, Oympic team member; Andy Roesch, alternate of the Olympic team; Louis Morris, metropolitan champion, and a host of others.

Canada will seek to combat this array with the speed of Gorman, Ross Robinson of Toronto, Canadian National champion and international five-mile title holder; Willie Logan, of St. John, Gorman's protege; Roy Pendril, of Toronto, and others.

In the woman's divison, Leila Brooks Potter, of Toronto, will seek to repeat her triumph in the championships last year. Arrayed against her will be Elsie Muller, of New York, national champion, and other woman stars.

The races are to be skated over an eight-lap course at Downing Park. Qualifying heats will begin at 10 a.m. with the finals at 1.30 in the afternoon.

SPORT BITS

Pro. scouts have run the scale as far as city leagues in quest of material. They are interested in several prospects in Hamilton City League—Jack McKay, son of the O. H.A. president; McGowan and Jolleys.

• • •

Nothing like taking them young. It did not take long for hockey to get into the baseball class of signing on prospects against the time when they are ready to be transplanted.

• • •

Can.-Pros., limited to ten players and an extra goal-tender, are already considering the advisability of adding two more to the list. The matter will come up next Wednesday at London.

WILL MEET TABLERS.

NEW YORK, N.Y., December 30 (Canadian Press). — The Canadian Soccer Club of Chicago will meet the Tablers F.C. of St. Louis, in one of the Western Division first round matches for the national challenge cup. The game will be played on January 14 or 15.

Thirty-two clubs, equally divided in Eastern and Western divisions, will compete in the first round.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., December 30 (Canadian Press).—Rothschild, wingman, was unconditionally released by the Pittsburgh Hockey Club yesterday. Rothschild was indefinitely suspended last Saturday for failing to keep in condition. He was purchased from the Montreal Maroons early this

DOYLE FOR TORONTO CLUB

Possibility That Right-hander Will be Found With Leafs Next Season.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—It looks like a case of up agin down agin with Jess Doyle. It's a poor autumn for the base boxman if he isn't drafted or sold to some major league club, and by the same token it is a quiet sort of spring if he isn't shipped back to the Leafs. All of which means that it is more than likely that the veteran right hander will be returned to the Toronto club by the New York club for the season of 1928.

Doyle's contract was assumed by the Giants before the end of the past campaign, some cash and players being involved. Manager McGraw may have some idea at the time that he could use the old-timer to advantage, but apparently he has suffered a change of heart in this connection. At any rate, "Bill" O'Hara, leader of the Leafs, is counting upon having Doyle on his staff again next season, and he must know something.

When right there are few better minor league pitchers than the former Californian who came to the Leafs originally from Detroit. He has always been a consistent winner with the Toronto club, and one season made a fine name for himself as a relief twirler with the Bengals. Doyle in all probability would have remained in the big show, so-called, but for his easy-going nature. Baseball is anything but a business to him. He likes the game and its associations, but it is an effort apparently as far as he is concerned to take it seriously. That is the reason why he has been in and out of the majors so many times.

May Keep Sorrell.

Vic Sorrell is another pitcher who may be back again. It was reported some time ago that the Detroit club which has a claim of some sort on the youthful twirler, had exercised its option and that in return for his release would send one or two players to the Leafs. Manager O'Hara named Don Hankins as the hurler that he would like, and it was understood that the latter would be sent to Toronto. But since then some hitch has occurred and until this is straightened out Sorrell will be considered as still the property of the Leafs. He didn't have any too good a season last summer, due to illness, but there is little doubt that he is as fine a prospect as can be found anywhere.

Dan Howley would be more than pleased to get him for his St. Louis Browns. It was Howley who took him in hand when he came here fresh from college two years ago and nursed him along until he was ready to shoot with him, which was not until the last part of the campaign. Sorrell proved a winner from the start and wound up the season with eight straight victories, including a triumph in the little world series against Louisville. On the form that he exhibited at that time he was rated to be an even better pitcher than Owen Carroll, the highly touted Holy Cross hurler who was then with the Toronto club.

Minor League Meeting

The meeting of the minor league presidents to consider the draft question in relation to the major leagues, will be held in Chicago on January 9 instead of in West Baden, Ind

M. H. Sexton, president of the National Association, said the switch was decided upon as the minor leaguers desired to be in closer touch with Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner.

Club owners of the American Association were summoned to attend a special meeting her January 8 to map out the course they will pursue should the minor leagues refuse to rescind the action at the Dallas meeting of the minors, providing for abrogation of the present major-minor agreement.

*Potato On The Half Shell.—Select, thoroughly scrub, and bake medium size potatoes. Never test by puncturing with a fork as this will make them soggy, but grasp with a towel and slightly squeeze. When potatoes have become thoroughly done remove from oven and cut in halves lengthwise while hot. Quickly scoop out centers and mash, adding a little cream, and beat until light and fluffy. Mix in a small amount of chopped parsley, spinach, or other green vegetable, and heap into shells. Sprinkle generously with Melba toast crumbs and place in moderate oven for about ten minutes.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mrs. E. W. asks: "What would cause one to have to take a deep breath every minute? If I don't I feel like choking. I am healthy otherwise, and gaining weight, and have no pains whatever in my chest."

Answer—If you would take deep-breathing exercises two or three times a day I am sure you would lose the desire to take the deep breath every minute. It might be well for you to stop whatever you are doing several times during the day and inhale and exhale several times to the extreme. Your lungs no doubt want more air, and the deep breathing supplies this.

Question: J. R. K. asks: "Does milk form a solid in the stomach?"

Answer: If milk is taken in large swallows it will form large curds in the stomach and is then not easily digestible. However, if small amounts of lemon juice are taken with the milk, or if the milk is taken very slowly, the curds will be smaller, in which form the digestive juices can have a better effect in digesting these curds.

Question: F. J. P. writes: "Please answer these questions through the column: (1) What does "paresis" mean? (2) What was the cause of a pain around the heart when I carried a bucket of coal from the cellar up the steps to the second floor? Every time I tried to breathe or bend over I felt the pain. It lasted about two hours."

Answer: "Paresis" means a form of brain degeneration, and is a very serious and usually fatal disorder. The pain you tell me about may have been due to heart strain, or to the less serious but painful symptoms which come from an injury to the cartilages between the ribs. If you could feel the source of the pain with your fingers on your ribs, it was due to the latter cause and not to any heart injury.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

MONEY AND SAND

Money, my boy, is like the sand
A fellow holds within his hand,
Or tries to hold, it seldom lingers.
It trickles somehow through his fingers,
A little here, a little there.
Trickles about him ev'rywhere,
Finds somewhere to slip out and under.
"Where did it ever go, I wonder?"

And yet if he had put it all
In some safe place, had built a wall,
A city with a street and alley,
A tiny mountain, tiny valley,
A castle or a cottage made,
I'm sure his sandpile would have stayed
Right where he put it—not gone blowing
Away without his ever knowing.

Money, my boy, is like the sand.
You cannot hold it in your hand,
For here a penny, there a penny,
And soon you find you haven't any.
But with the tiniest amount
A boy can start a bank account.
The boy who thinks of thrift, and heeds it,
Who saves his money till he needs it.

GRADS DEFEAT THREE TEAMS

Play One Period Against Each of Ottawa's Leading Clubs.

FINAL SCORE 10-3.

The Auditorium, Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press.) — The Varsity Grads' hockey team, which is to carry Canada's maple leaf in the Olympic games next year, took on three of the capital's leading amateur teams here last night and belabored them with a 10 to 3 defeat. A crowd of 5,500 fans turned out for the exhibition match, that in reality turned into a hockey lesson after the opening period.

The novel arrangement reached in an attempt to give the big Blue machine some opposition and a workout before they sail for Europe next month, pitted them against Ottawa New Edinburghs in the first round, Shamrocks in the second frame, and the fast-skating La Salles in the final stanza.

After they had been held even in the opening period by the New Edinburghs, the Grads ran riot bagging four goals in the middle frame against the Shamrocks, and continued their onslaught in the third period, adding another five tallies.

New Edinburghs scored one goal and La Salles two.

District Churches

MARMORA CHURCHES

MARMORA, Dec. 30.—Joyous services attracting good congregations were held at St. Paul's and United Churches on Sunday. St. Paul's was lavishly decorated with evergreens, artificial flowers and other Christmas decorations. Choice hothouse blooms adorned vases on the altar and organ, these being given by the Misses A. and M. Pearce.

There were two celebrations of Holy Communion, the earlier one being at 8 a.m. At the eleven o'clock service, the hearty singing of old familiar Christmas hymns was led by a strengthened choir. The Rector's appropriate discourse on Luke 1:78 was followed very closely by those assembled.

The third Anglican service of the day was conducted by the Rector in the evening at Deloro, the Company House being placed at the disposal of the Deloro congregation.

A bright service was held in Marmora United Church at 7.30. The pastor, Rev. C. J. Beckley, chose as his subject, "The Babe of Bethlehem," following which the congregation took part in the singing of old time Christmas carols.

OMEMEE CHURCHES

OMEMEE, Dec. 30.—Sunday services in the churches were bright and attractive. Service was held in the Anglican Church in the morning. The Rector, the Rev. A. T. Weir spoke from the words found in Isaiah 9:6, "For unto us a child is born, unto us a Son is given, etc." An excellent anthem was rendered by the choir, "Glory to God in the Highest," also a solo by Miss Marion Dickson.

In Trinity Church, Rev. E. W. Rowland spoke on Christmas in the morning and the choir assisted in two pretty carols, "The Christmas Message," and "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men." In the evening, the text was taken from Isaiah 9:6, and special music included two appropriate anthems, "There Were Shepherds" and "The First Christmas Morn," also a pleasing solo entitled "One Stilly Night," by Miss Mary Lowe. A unique feature in connection with the service was the presentation of life membership certificates and pins from the Mission Band to Russel, Arthur and Jack Williamson and Russel Weir, by the president, Mrs. E. W. Rowland.

The gift of a magnificent picture, "The Last Supper," from Lady Eaton, which was hung in the vestibule was received with thanks and, upon motion of Messrs. H. Lamb and W. Wilson, the expression of the congregation will be forwarded to the donor.

WARSAW CHURCHES

WARSAW, Dec. 30.—On Sunday morning, the Presbyterian Sunday School was opened by "Take It to the Lord in Prayer," and "Silent Night," by the Sunday School orchestra, consisting of: Violins, Hector Munro and Della Tucker; Cornets, Gerald Crowe and Tom Davies, with Miss Helen Douglas at the organ. Then followed the usual exercises. In giving the synopsis of the lesson, Dr. Munro drew attention to how God works out his own purposes. Caesar Augustus levied the tax on each family, thus bringing Joseph and Mary to Bethlehem, so that Jesus was born there. It had been so prophesied. He also noted that David was a shepherd boy and it was to shepherds on duty to whom the great miracle of the ages was announced by angels, and these shepherds did not say "Let us go and see if this be true," but "Let us go and see this thing which is come to pass." They believed.

At the evening service Mr. McCleary took the story of the Good Samaritan, as told in Luke 10, and from that told the story of love, to one another, and in so doing we followed the Saviour, who showed love to the world.

Mr. McCleary and Mrs. Vivian Jackson sang a Christmas carol, "Noel."

The church was quite well filled.

The Christmas Communion service in the Anglican Church was held at three o'clock in the afternoon on Sunday. Rev. J. T. O'Conor-Fenton officiated. The beautiful Christmas service was read, followed by a short sermon on the coming of the Saviour, and the Communion.

The church was prettily decorated for the occasion, and there was a good congregation of people.

At the Baptist Church on Sunday morning the Rev. Mr. Ikaner preached on the Birth of Christ. There was special Christmas music, principally about the infant Jesus, in which the children took the greater part.

The United Church was decorated for Christmas. The choir gave two anthems, and Henry Batten sang "Jerusalem." Rev. H. B. Herrington preached from the first verse of the Gospel of John and showed the difficulty of understanding and getting true meaning of words. He showed the conception some people had of gods, and the difference between these ideas and the true God and Jesus Christ, who embodied purity and love.

SPRINGVILLE UNITED CHURCH.

Services were held morning and evening in the Springville United Church with the pastor, Rev. A. H. McConnachie in charge.

The series of studies on the Lord's Prayer was continued. "Thy kingdom Come" was briefly reviewed, and the subject of the morning, "Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven," was dwelt upon.

"In heaven God's will is done by the angels and archangels without thought of resistance, so also the sun ,moon, and stars and seasons fulfill their mission on earth as God wills that they should do," said the pastor.

"We sometimes err in God's plan of life by making our own plans and expecting God to grant their fulfilment. God will fulfill our plans and grant our prayers if they are also willed by Him. Our will must be enclosed by God's will. We must be obedient to His marching orders, submissive to Him when we are tried and follow Him when he guides us.

"Just as Jesus thought not of pleasing Himself, but constantly pleased His Father ,so we must submit our will to the will of God."

The morning text was taken from Matthew 1, 21: "And she shall bring forth a son ,and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins."

The popularity of Jesus is apparently increasing among a class of people who do not believe in Him as their personal Saviour or do not recognize His divinity. They find that the name of Jesus wins for them a new respect from their fellow-men so they therefore claim Him as belonging to them. They believe in Him as a great historical character. One who is the glory of the race and a wonderful teacher, but the reward of their belief would be decreased if His saving love was recognized. Humility is not their aim. Their pride of Jesus is in what His name gains for them as they journey through life, said Mr. McConnachie.

"Jesus saves us from sin and induces in us the principle of love, charity, and goodwill. Jesus does not promise to cure all at once the results of sin, but only as He sees fit.

"It is easier to understand the sin principle than to define each act. Sin is a transgression of the law. It taints the mind and heart. The ideas of sin have changed with the advance of years. It is no longer considered a sin to read the daily paper or take a walk on Sunday as it was in years gone by. If we have the indwelling sprit of Christ we need not fear failure to designate right from wrong. Christ brings to us the spirit of liberty. To Him we owe all educational progress.

"The real joy of the Christmas message can never be known or appreciated until Jesus is recognzed as personal Saviour by each ndividual. Sin still exists and cleaves to us, and unless we are careful we are in danger of infinite loss. Christmas time is so filled with excitement and with thoughts of pleasure that there is no room for Jesus—our sins are covered with a veneer of respectability. Jesus waits to save us, so let us give Him room and say: 'Oh, come to my heart, Lord Jesus.'"

CHRISTMAS AT MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 30.—Special Christmas services were held in all three of the local churches on Sunday, the decorations featuring evergreens, poinsettias and tiny red bells; in the Anglican church beautiful pink and white chrysanthemums were on the altar, and green wreaths with red flowers intertwined encircled the end of each seat in the choir stalls.

Grace Church.

The special music in Grace Presbyterian church included a solo by Miss Katharine Lancashire, and an anthem, "Hail, O Morn, the King", both selections being much enjoyed.

Rev. Mr. Riddell chose as his text, Isaiah 11:6: "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion, and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them," basing his discourse more particularly upon the last clause.

Pointing out how this prophecy looked toward the time when the Kingdom shall be established, "they shall not hurt or destroy in all my holy mountain," the speaker showed that Christ, whose birthday was being honored that day, did indeed have a leadership and a following while here on the earth, though the numbers of those who believed on Him were comparatively few, but there will come a time when His sway will be universal. The Babe of Bethlehem will one day come fully into His own.

The sacred responsibility which children involve, and the influence which 'the child in the midst' has exerted, with special reference to the childhood of the Christ, was the line of thought developed.

Preparatory service will be held on Thursday evening of this week by Rev. Mr. Riddell, the observance of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper to take place on Sunday, January 1, both here and at the Centreville charge.

The annual Christmas tree, and entertainment for the Sunday School will be on Friday evening of this week, December 30, in the basement of the church.

St. Thomas' Church.

Rev. Mr. Boulden, of Trinity College School, Port Hope, preached in Saint Thomas' church in the morning, and at Christ church, Baillieboro, in the afternoon, the rector, Rev. Canon Allen, being still to ill to take part in the church services.

Rev. P. C. Howard, the assistant clergyman of the parish, had charge of the service in the evening, preaching an appropriate Christmas sermon from the text, Matthew 2:2, "Where is He that is born King of the Jews?"

"Christ is the soul of the Christmastide, the festivities incident to the season being but the clothing for the spirit which really inspires the joy. Representatives of the heathen world came to the city which was the very centre of the Christian religion asking the King's whereabouts, and the religious leaders themselves knew not that He had come.

"In following the star the wise men were led to find the Babe in a very humble place, and finding the soul of Christmas they offered their rich gifts, and returned rejoicing. Following the star to-day may not always lead us to the exalted places of earth, but if we are true to the highest ideals which Christ inspires, we too will find the only lasting and satisfying joy."

Under the leadership of Mrs. Allen the choir sang a number of carols at the close of the regular service, which were much enjoyed, the selections including: "Good Cheer, We Will Rejoice"; "Glory," Miss Elizabeth Russell singing the verses, the full choir joining in the chorus; "Like Silver Lamps in Distant Shrine", "The Holy Night", in which Miss Russell again took the solo part; "Noel", and "Holy Night, Silent Night."

The United Church.

Morning worship only was held in the United church, the evening service being withdrawn because of the many home gatherings on Christmas Sunday.

The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. H. W. Johnston, rendered three anthems: "There Were Shepherds", "Unto Us a Child is Born", and "The Birthday of the King", Messrs. W. H. Coombe and M. McDowell taking the solo parts.

Rev. F. H. Howard chose as his text, "Then Peter opened his mouth and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respector of persons", Acts 10:34, the line of thought developed being that we are only prepared to keep Christmas properly when we are living in faith and obedience to Christ, when we have enthroned Jesus and set about in earnest, in doing as He taught. The festival of giving will then become a festival of love, a promise of the good things to come.

"The joy of Christmastide is God-sent, and we value the gifts we receive because of the Divine love which impelled the greatest gift of all, for the birth of Jesus was but an added demonstration of the love God has toward all His children.

"We marvel at God trusting the world to men and then trusting His Son to the world, but when we respond to His Spirit we will reach to the ideal the Father had in mind when He sent His only-begotten Son."

The Sunday school of the United Church is holding its anniversary on Sunday, January 1, Rev. E. W. Rowland, of Omemee, to preach morning and evening; there will be no afternoon session of the school, the latter combining with the regular worship service in the morning. The rewards for the year will be distributed, and the sermon will be specially for the young folk.

On Monday, January 2, the annual entertainment will be given in the town hall, Miss Pearl Newton, elocutionist, and Mrs. Ethel Grainger, contralto soloist, both of Toronto, to furnish the program.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TICKLE BUG

Uncle Wiggily took a long breath and pushed his pink nose hard against the side of the log so he wouldn't sneeze. The reason the rabbit gentleman pushed his nose against a log was because he was inside one that was hollow, like a room in your house. And the reason Mr. Longears did not want to sneeze was because he didn't want the Bear to know he was hiding in the log.

I told you about that part last night—how Uncle Wiggily, with his candy cane, had crawled in the hollow log to hide away from the Bear. The Bear was chasing the rabbit and had taken one bite off the candy cane. The Bear loved candy.

Then Uncle Wiggily found in the hollow log some brown acorns that looked just like chocolate drops and the bunny gathered his paws full of them. Then he felt the sneeze coming and he pushed on his nose.

"Well, I guess I'm not going to sneeze now," thought the bunny uncle as his pink nose began to twinkle again. "Now if I can throw these acorns out of the log, and make the Bear think they're chocolate drops, he may run far enough away to get them so I can creep out and hop home without having my ears nibbled."

He hopped as fast as he could go.

Uncle Wiggily was about to throw the acorn chocolate drops out one end of the hollow log, on top of which, outside, the Bear was sitting, when the rabbit happened to think that if he rubbed the candy cane on the acorns it would make them smell more like something sweet. He knew that Bears are very fond of sugar and honey.

"Now I'll surely fool him!" chuckled the hidden rabbit. So he rubbed the acorns on the red and white striped candy cane.

All this time, up outside, on top of the hollow log, the Bear was sitting and wondering what had become of the rabbit he had chased.

"I saw him," said the Bear to himself, "and I bit the end off the candy cane that Mr. Longears shoved into my mouth. Then I shut my eyes a moment, 'cause that candy was so yum-yum good, and when I opened my eyes again Uncle Wiggily was gone. Where did he go, I wonder?"

The Bear had never been to school so he wasn't smart enough to think of looking inside the hollow log on which he was sitting. That is what school is for, to make you learn how to think.

All of a sudden the Bear heard a noise at one end of the log. Then he saw, shooting out of it, a lot of small, round objects that landed on the snow and went skiddering a long way off.

"Ha!" growled the Bear. "Those look like chocolate drops! I am very fond of chocolate drops. I wonder where those came from? This hollow log must have been a chocolate tree once upon a time. Well, so much the better for me! I love chocolate drops and I'll run and get those that just popped out. Then I'll come back and try to think where Uncle Wiggily went."

"Ha! Ha!" softly cried the rabbit gentleman to himself as he threw the acorns out of the hollow log and saw the Bear chasing after them. "Ha! Ha! My trick worked! Now when the Bear gets far enough away I'll skip out the other end of this log and hurry home before he finds out those are acorns and not chocolate drops."

Away scurried the Bear scrabbling over the snow after the rolling acorns, his toe nails going scritchie scratchie. And when he was far down the hill out popped Uncle Wiggily from the other end of the log, and away he hopped as fast as he could go with his candy cane.

Then, pretty soon, the Bear reached the acorns and found out they were not chocolate drops and he was so angry he snapped his teeth. Then he looked back toward the log and saw Uncle Wiggily running away.

"Ho! A trick! He fooled me!" growled the Bear. "But I'll get him!"

However, Uncle Wiggily had a head start and soon was far ahead of the Bear and on his way to his bungalow. Then, all of a sudden, as Mr. Longears was nearing home, he heard from the bushes behind him a voice.

"Wait! Wait for me!" the voice called.

"Wait for you? Indeed, I'll not! You can't catch me, Mr. Bear!" chuckled the rabbit, and he hopped faster than before.

"I'm not a Bear! Really I'm not!" the voice said. "Look, I am only a Bug," and looking back the bunny saw a large, fuzzy Bug crawling on the snowy path.

"What kind of a Bug are you?" asked the rabbit, no longer afraid.

"I am the Tickle Bug," was the answer, "and I have something to tell you, as well as a favor to ask. Wait for me." So the rabbit, knowing he was safe from the Bear, waited for the Tickle Bug, wishing to hear what he had to say.

— "TWO ARABIAN KNIGHTS"

A pair of new comedians make their appearance in "Two Arabian Knights," in the persons of William Boyd and Louis Wolheim, and get a lot of fun out of their adventures in Constantinople and in Arabia, where they become involved with a veiled lady and also with a group of blood-thirsty Turks. The pair have a thrilling time of it in their escape from various traps set for luckless feet and there is plenty of laughter in the episodes that portray the big "plug ugly" with the extensive nose and the good-looking youth who is his companian. Louis Wolheim is the hefty comedian whose facial expressions are really marvellous. He can convey almost any expression with a twist of his eyes and a turn of the head, and his pantomimic recital of the rescue of the governor-general's beautiful daughter, Miraz, is one of the uproarious bits of the picture.

The story centres about the adventures of Private Phelps and Sergeant McGaffney, following their escape from a prison camp in Arabia, and progresses later to shipboard and then to the Arabian home of the governor, who is enraged at his daughter's infatuation for Phelps, and plans to kill both the adventurers. Their escape from him and his servants is ludicrous and quite in keeping with the hilarious atmosphere of the whole affair, which had a filled house watching it last night. —Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT.

MEN WHO STAND BY THEIR GUNS

Warner Bros. are starring Monte Blue in a melodrama of railroad loyalty "The Black Diamond Express." The film is now to be seen at the Regent Theatre. Dan Foster, the engineer in question is the archtype of the faithful soldier who stands at his post whatever danger threatens. In this day when pride in work well done seems to be passing, the facts that there are hundreds of thousands of Dan Fosters, is encouraging.

There are over one million seven hundred thousand railway employees in the United States, yet rarely is a case of unfaithfulness to duty recorded. From the old or disabled men who watch the crossings to the dispatchers who order the multitudinous courses of thousands of trains, devotion to duty is the rule. This unassuming integrity belongs especially to those to whose care human lives are entrusted.

American railways in 1925 carried over nine hundred and two million passengers. Sixty-nine thousand four hundred and eighty-six locomotives were in use. Of the casualtics for the year, railway employees numbered 1,599, trespassers 2,644, nontrespassers 2,314, passengers 209. Grade crossings in which trains and automobiles collided killed 1,784 as against 1,688 in 1924. These latter were usually caused by the recklessness of drivers.

The total mileage of railroads in the United States is 250,156 miles, the Southern Pacific having the greatest, 13,099, and the Union Railway of Pa. the smallest, 46 miles.

Monte Blue, star of the Warner Bros. "Black Diamond Express" was himself a railroader and is the son of a railway engineer and his portrayal is absolutely authentic. No one who follows the thrilling sequences of "The Black Diamond Express" can fail to have an added respect for the men of steam and steel, to whose keeping we daily entrust our lives.

FALLIS LINE SCHOOL

MILLBROOK, Dec. 30.—The Fallis Line school held its annual entertainment in the church on the evening before the holidays began, the seating capacity being fully occupied by the opening hour of eight o'clock.

Rev. F. H. Howard acted as chairman, and gave an opening address appreciative of the work being accomplished by the popular teacher of the school, Miss Gladys Gray, who is for the second year teaching on the Fallis Line.

The decorations were of a Christmas character, the tree with its shining ornaments and load of gifts, being naturally the centre of attraction. The programme was carried through most successfully, the items including:

Chairman's Address.
Songs and "Yell" by the School: (a) Old Santa Claus; (b) Solo by Mary Ball; (c) School Yell.
Recitation by Edna McKnight.
Recitation by Isobel Aiken.
Recitation by Nan Fallis.
Recitation by Tom Belch.
Recitation by Mary Ball.
Song by the School: "Carol, Sweetly Carol."
Music by Miss Lillian Crocker.
Dialogue,—"Mr. Keepintab."
Recitation by Eric Fallis.
Recitation by Marian Belch.
Recitation by Ruby Fallis.
Song by the School—"Winter Brings December."
Music by Miss Lillian Crocker.
Dialogue—"A Sudden Change."
Recitation by Mary Ball.
Recitation by Pearl Kennedy.
Dialogue—"Betty's Blunder."
Carol Songs—(a) "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks:" (b) "Holy Night, Peaceful Night."
Recitation by Kenneth Fallis.
Music by Miss Lillian Crocker.
Dialogue—"Bridget Makes a Mistake."
Recitation by Verna Fallis.
Dialogue—"A Christmas Eve Dream"

As usual the jingling of sleighbells, announcing the arrival of Santa Claus (Clifford Fallis), was the signal for much happy laughter and exciting anticipation among the children, and the distribution of gifts from the tree was, for them at least, the outstanding event of the evening.

No pupil was overlooked, and many parcels, large and small, bore the teacher's name showing the affection in which she is held by her scholars; bags of candy and nuts were Miss Gray's personal gift to each boy and girl.

The financial returns were quite satisfactory, and the money will be used in purchasing an organ for the school room, though it may be necessary to add to the funds on hand before this worthy object can be accomplished.

Zion School.

The annual concert of the Zion school, west of the village, was held on Wednesday evening, with practically all the parents and a number of friends in attendance, Mr. Martin Brock filling the position of chairman capably.

The school room was prettily decorated for the occasion, Christmas bells and cut-outs, red and green hangings at the windows, and a tree glittering with tinsel, and laden with gifts, giving the interior a festive appearance.

The programme, which was well rendered by the boys and girls, included the following items:

Dialogue, "The Introductory Speech," by John Coulter, Wilfrid Lunn and Stanford Brown.
Chorus—"Away in a Manger," with a violin accompaniment played by Master W. Lunn.
The Christmas Story, recited from the second chapter of Luke's Gospel by the whole school.
Recitation—"Christmas Greetings," by Lawrence Coulter.
Musical Selection (Victrola).
"A Christmas Exercise," each pupil carrying a letter spelling the word 'Christmas;' and reciting appropriate verses.
Recitation by Joyce Kennedy.
Recitation by Ray Kennedy.
Lullaby, "Hush a Bye," by Betty Carveth, May Kennedy and Lazelle Lunn, each carrying a big dolly.
Recitation, "Santa's Cake," by May Kennedy.
Recitation, "When Pa Begins to Shave," by Wilfrid Lunn.
Chorus, "Hurrah for Santa Claus," by the school.
Recitation, "A Christmas Thought," by Betty Carveth.
Recitation, "I'm Going to Write to Santa Claus," by Douglas Carveth.
Recitation, "In My Christmas Stocking," by Lazelle Lunn.
Dialogue, "How to Break Bad News," by J. Coulter and Stanford Brown.
Recitation, "If You're Good," by Stanford Brown.
Violin Solo by Wilfrid Lunn.
Recitation, "The Tale of a Mouse," by Fred Coulter.
Chorus, "Gather Round the Christmas Tree," and "A Welcome to Santa Claus," by the school.

The arrival of Santa Claus (Mr. S. Carveth), in his bright red suit, and with glowing cheeks in happy contrast to his white beard, was the signal for pleasureable excitement among the children who flocked about him as he handed the gifts from the tree.

Everybody was remembered, the teacher, Miss Jean L. Burnham, receiving a number of gifts from her pupils, and in turn giving to each one of the latter a generous bag of candy and nuts.

Special prizes were awarded to Lazelle Lunn, and Betty Carveth for highest marks for good conduct during the term; these were the teacher's personal gift.

The chairman father reversed the usual order and gave his brief speech at the conclusion, instead of the beginning of the programme, expressing the hearty appreciation felt by the trustees and parents of the good work accomplished by Miss Burnham since coming to the school in September. Mr. Brock also emphasized the benefit resulting from a public gathering of the nature of the one just being held, not only to the young folk taking part, but because too, of the better understanding established between the parents, the trustees, and the teacher in the building up of the school interests and standing in the community.

The singing of the National Anthem brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

The Sunshine Mission Band closed a successful year with a business meeting at the home of the superintendent, Mrs. G. W. Sayles, the large attendance testifying to the interest the boys and girls take in the work.

The reports of the meetings held in the last nine months, and of the funds raised, were most encouraging, the special activities having met with unqualified success, and the allocation of $75.00 being overtopped considerably.

Mrs. (Rev.) F. H. Howard presided for the election of officers, the list being:

President—Marguerite Hawken.
Vice-President—Jack Stinson.
Secretary—Helen Mitchell.
Asst.-Secretary—Bryer Edmunds.
Treasurer—Mary Burnham.
Pianist—Charlotte McMahon.
Asst. Pianist—Dorothy McDowell.

There are over forty members in the mission band, and a long list of life members, several of whom now live many hundreds of miles from this vicinity, but who were enrolled in the initial days of this flourishing organization. The bale sent to Miss Hawken for the Ruthenian children's Christmas Tree, weighed over fifty pounds and contained many toys, dolls, picture books, etc., which will surely speak to these little foreigners of the good-will their Canadian brothers and sisters feel toward them.

CAVAN, Dec. 30.—On Thursday evening the pupils of S.S. No. 7, under the leadership of their teacher, Miss Helen Staples, joined with Cavan Centre Sunday-school in giving a program and social time in Cavan Centre school house.

The school had been prettily decorated for the occasion by the teacher and her pupils. In one corner at the front of the room was an attractive-looking Christmas tree well laden with decorations, candy and Christmas gifts and parcels.

Mr. Fred. Staples was chairman for the following program:

Chorus: "Joy To The World."
Chairman's Address.
March of the Christmas Dolls.
Recitation: Helen Smith.
Song: Edward Kernock.
Recitation: Elias White.
Recitation: David Staples.
Dialogue: "A Minister's Mistake."
Song: Mr. John Graham.
Recitation: Happy Staples.
Recitation: Billy Boyles.
Song: Edward Kernock.
Recitation: Mary Staples.
Chorus: "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."
Recitation: Gwenyth Staples.
Christmas Lullaby: Four girls.
Reading: Ralph Staples.
Song: George Thompson.
Recitation: Olive Smith.
Duet: Mr. Matchett and Mrs. Staples.
Reading: Mrs. Matchett.
Address: Mr. Boyles.
Song: Edward Kernock.
Recitation: Miss Helen Staples.
Recitation: Mrs. Boyles.
Chorus: "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again."

The children were well trained and their part of the program was much enjoyed, as was the selections by the Seniors which followed.

A treat of candy was handed around after the tree had been stripped.

S. S. No. 5. MANVERS

LIFFORD, Dec. 30.—A concert and Christmas tree was given in Lifford Temperance Hall, by the pupils of S.S. No. 5, Manvers, on Thursday evening.

The entire programme was well given by the pupils.

It consisted of recitations, monologues, choruses, a star drill, four short dialogues, and a play, "The Goose Creek Line," which took an hour to present. The children took their parts remarkably well.

Music was supplied by Messrs. Cecil and George Tims on violin and autoharp.

Mr. Jas. Strachan made an excellent chairman.

There was a good attendance, the receipts being fifteen dollars and forty-five cents. All children were admitted free.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XLVII — by Nicholas Afonsky

Early in May the Goodwill Flight of United States army planes returned to the United States from their visit to South America. Though their trip had been marred by the fall of one of the planes and the death of its two occupants, the trip was successful in furthering understanding between the two Americas.

In April the Italian flier de Pinedo reached this country in his four-continent flight, having flown over Europe, Africa and South America. After an eventful time here—which included the burning of his plane at Roosevelt Dam—he again crossed the Atlantic and returned victoriously to Rome, where he was enthusiastically greeted.

Early in May, 1927, the French war ace Nungesser, accompanied by Coli, started from Paris for New York. His plane, the White Bird, dropped its landing gears after it took off from Le Bourget Field to lighten its load. It was seen flying over Ireland. That was the last authentic report of the brave French fliers.

On May 20 and 21 the young American mail pilot, Charles Lindbergh, alone in his plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, flew from New York to Paris, through sleet and fog and rain, the first flier to accomplish that journey. This brilliant accomplishment by the flying ambassador did much to stimulate aviation.

NEW WHIPPETS OUT IN JANUARY

Will Have Many Improvements, Says President of Company.

PRODUCTION STARTED.

Important developments in the low-priced field were predicted to-day by John N. Willys, President of Willys-Overland, Inc., in a statement in which he said, "There can be no monopoly in the light car class."

At the same time he announced that the Whippet, the original European type light car introduced 19 months ago, would be shown at all dealers' on January 6th with improved bodies, new and added equipment, and at prices which would place it in direct competition with the lowest priced car on the American market.

Mr. Willys said that production economies of a kind not to be exceeded by any other manufacturer had been worked out by Willys-Overland. A new body building plant and a new forge shop, completed this year and now in operation, have effected marked savings. He also said that the service costs of the Whippet for the past 19 months had been so low that the list price on the car need not include heavy allowances for service and replacements.

Production of the Whippet with the improvemetns, which will be included despite the new low prices, is already under way and immediate deliveries are promised at all dealer points early in January.

While the new prices will not be advertised until January 6th, Mr. Willys stated that they would be reduced by a striking margin and will be the lowest prices in the history of the Willy-Overland Company. This will be the first time in the history of the industry that there has been direct competition in the lowest price range.

Production capacity on the Whippet at the Willys-Overland plant will now permit a daily output of 1,000. With facilities already under way to increase this figure, the improved Whippet at the new prices will be announced simultaneously in all parts of the country.

During the 19 months in which this car has been in volume production, it has established numerous performance records, including a national economy run of 3,559 miles from Los Angeles to New York under the official observation of the A. A. A. in which a fuel average of 43.28 miles to the gallon was maintained, an owner economy test participated in by 5,205 owners with a national average of 38.7 miles to the gallon and an official speed test on Rockingham Park Speedway, Salem, N.H., in which a speed of 71.6 miles an hour was maintained for 50 miles.

The Whippet was the light car in this country to use four-wheel brakes as standard equipment and the first in its class to introduce high speed. Low centre of gravity obtained by the use of low swung bodies was a characteristic of the Whippet which has since been followed by other light car manufacturers

NO, INDEED!

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir: — The debenture debt of the County of Peterborough, Dec. 31, 1927 is $8,788.90 lower than at Dec. 31, 1926.

Is it any wonder that almost all of the 1927 representatives are returned for 1928 by acclamation?

Yours truly,
County Ratepayer.

LINDBERGH LEAVES GUATEMALA TO-DAY

Will Fly To Belize and Possibly Go On To San Salvador.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—The Tropical Radio Telegraph Company announced today that Col. Charles Lindbergh took off from Guatemala at 6.25 a.m., Central Standard time, for Belize, British Honduras. If Col. Lindbergh maintains the speed with which he travelled to Guatemala City from Mexico, it is estimated that he would be at Belize shortly after nine o'clock. If a landing is not possible, Lindy announced before leaving that he would fly on to San Salvador, 260 miles from Belise.

The departure was witnessed by a thousand persons who had gathered at daybreak. Lindy personally supervised all preparations for his hop-off. The plane was declared ready at six o'clock, and soon afterwards Lindbergh bade good-bye to his hosts.

The Pride of St. Louis got under way, under the firm hand of its pilot, took the air and described a circle over the field at a height of one hundred feet. Then the nose of the machine was turned to the north in the direction of Belize, and the plane steadily swept from sight among shouts and acclamations from the crowd.

PRINCE'S CATTLE WELL PROTECTED

All Employees Trying To Keep Foot and Mouth Disease Off Estate.

LENTON, England, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press). — Stable help, farm workers, and everybody else employed in an active capacity around the Prince of Wales' farm here was on the alert today in a fight to keep foot and mouth disease away from his famous herd of prize Shorthorns. This dread malady of cattle was spreading in Nottinghamshire and other Midland counties. A suspected case was discovered in the herd of a Wilford farmer, whose place is within a quarter of a mile of the Prince's land.

Some of the Prince's cattle are intended for the Royal Show, and the strictest precautions are being taken. Everybody approaching the estate is required to dip his boots in an antiseptic preparation. There is also a natural barrier which may prove more effective, the River Trent, which separates the two farms.

LIBERAL DRIVE FOR FREE TRADE IS CONTINUING

Bad Position of Protected Cutlery Industry Cited in Latest Article.

IMPORTS STILL LARGE.

Party Intends Investigating Every Industry Which Has Protective Duties.

LONDON, December 30 (United Press). — The Liberal drive for the return of complete free-trade is gathering momentum.

The Liberal Council has published an article purporting to show how safeguarding duties has hit the cutlery trade, which has passed through the worst period in living memory. The article says that the makers of foreign cutlery simply add the cost of duty to the selling price which the British public pays, and instances cases where duty was placed on American safety razor blades manufactured from British steel in order to help a firm in England which made blades from Belgian steel. Moreover, adds the article, cutlery imports have returned to the old figure so that the duty obviously has failed.

This is an example of Liberal propaganda designed for the next election, and it is understood that the Liberals intend investigating every industry which "enjoys" protective duties.

The Westclox By-Law

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—Kindly permit us to ask the qualified electors to support the by-law which is to be voted upon on Monday next to fix the assessment on the new building of the Western Clock Company.

When the company were preparing to erect the buildings they asked the Council for this fixed assessment. The Council wished to comply with the request at the time, but it would have cost several hundred dollars to have submitted a by-law to the electors then.

The Company agreed to go on with the building, with the assurance from the Council that it would submit the by-law to the electors at the time of the municipal elections, when it would cost much less, and that the members of the Council would endorse the by-law and request the electors to support it.

The Council is anxious that the by-law should pass in order to keep faith with the company, which is one of the most progressive industrial concerns in the city, and feels confident the electors will turn out on Monday and give the by-law the necessary two-thirds vote.

GIRL'S BODY FOUND.

Clothing Torn From Corpse — Negro Arrested as Suspect.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—The half-naked body of Thelma Young, seventeen, of Washington, with a deep cut in the forehead over the right eye, was found in a field at the city limits today. Blood, spattered over a radius of fifty feet, indicated that the girl struggled with her assailants. It was believed that she was killed with a brick found nearby. The clothing had been ripped from her body, which bore many scratches and bruises. Fred Drew, seventeen, a negro, was later arrested as a suspect in the case. He was found hiding under the bed in his home near the field where the body was discovered.

Wages in motor car and motor truck factories during 1926 amounted to $657,724,869.

Forty Gypsies Frozen To Death in Camp Near Vienna.

COLDER IN ENGLAND.

Thirty Below Registered on Prairies—Japanese Ship Lost in Storm.

VIENNA, Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press.)— A despatch to the Vienna Stunde states that forty persons were found frozen to death in a gypsy encampment in the forest of Bielitz. The paper says that thirty other gypsies were taken to hospitals suffering from the effects of the bitterly cold weather.

Church Collapses.
NAPLES, Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press.)— One child was killed and the Mother Superior of the orphanage at Barra was seriously injured to-day, when the wall of the church there collapsed during mass to-day. Prompt aid by firemen, militia and police resulted in the rescue of the remaining orphans. The church had been strongly buffeted by the storm which has prevailed here for the last few days.

Ship Sinks in Storm.
LONDON, Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—A Lloyd despatch from Yokohama states that Japanese steamship Dainichizan Mary is reported to have been lost with all aboard during a snow storm on December 28, near Otaru.

Colder in England
LONDON, Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—Contrary to overnight predictions of milder weather, Great Britain was established more firmly than ever in the grip of the snow king to-day, while still colder weather was forecast for to-night. With the mercury at eleven above zero, London and its environs experienced the coldest day of the year. To-day the gale had abated in the English Channel after raging incessantly for four and a half days, and the cross channel steamers resumed full service, as did the continental air routes.

Shipping Held Up.
ANTWERP, Belgium, Dec. 30.—(Canadan Press.)—Harbor traffic is being seriously hampered by the snow and intense cold weather that has held this shipping town in its grip for several days. Hundreds of ships and barges are held in their berths, while coast traffic has been totally suspended Railway communication likewise is suffering heavy delay and the railroad stations are crowded with people seeking to leave the city or awaiting the arrival of out-of-town friends or relatives.

Cold in Prairies.
WINNIPEG, Dec. 30.— (Canadian Press.)—The weather man has fully justified his forecast of a bitter cold wave throughout Western Canada for the closing days of 1927. The frigid blasts which swept out of the distant north yesterday had brought extreme drops in temperature to-day over an area extending from the Pacific Coast to Western Ontario. Edmonton felt the maximum sting of King Zero's assault, the mercury there dropping to thirty below zero during the night. Elsewhere on the western prairies dips ranging from ten to twenty-five below zero were general.

30 Below in Montana.
KANSAS CITY, Kans., Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press.) — With sub zero temperatures general in the northern Rocky Mountain States, the cold wave to-day moved into the Middle west and south-west. Elk Park set the record for Montana with thirty below. Sharp slumps in temperatures were reported in Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

OBITUARY

ARTHUR E. HERITAGE.
NORWOOD, Dec. 30. — The citizens of Norwood were shocked to learn this week of the very sudden death at Toronto of Mr. Arthur E. Heritage. Mr. Heritage left on Saturday afternoon to spend Christmas with his family in Toronto. He was in the best of spirits and apparently in good health when he left. Upon the arrival of the train at Toronto he got up to leave the train but suddenly dropped to his knees and expired in a very short time, death being due to heart failure.

Deceased, who was 60 years of age, had been employed as engraver in Mr. Hugh Robb's monumental works for the past 11 years. He was a man who was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him.

He was an Anglican in religion and a faithful attendant and a willing worker of Christ church here.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon from Craig's funeral parlours, Queen street, Toronto. The services were conducted by Rev. Dyson Hague of the Church of the Epiphany. Interment was in Park Lawn cemetery.

Deceased is survived by his wife, Mrs. K. Heritage, and one daughter, Mrs. K. Bridge, both of Toronto, who have the sympathy of Norwood friends in their bereavement

CONTINENTS SLIP AWAY FROM POLES

Earthquakes and Volcanoes Caused By Movements, Geologist Thinks.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—The theory that earthquakes and volcanoes are caused by continents slipping gradually away from the Poles was advanced before the Geological Society of America today by Dr. Frank Taylor, of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Recent maps showing the distribution of earthquakes and volcanoes reveal, he said, that these earth disturbances are concentrated in or near the so-called "young" mountain regions of the continents, for example, the region of the Rockies in North America or the coastal ranges of Asia.

Dr. Taylor believes these "young" mountains were thrown up by the tremendous pressures resulting from the slide of the continents, which is still going on.

APPEAL DISMISSED.

TORONTO, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—The appeal of Frank Skelly, Beeton cattle rustler, who was sentenced to two years less one day, has been dismissed by the Second Divisional Court at Osgoode Hall. Skelly was the only one of the group of cattle thieves who pleaded guilty.

President R. S. McLaughlin Gives Address To Newspapermen.

NEW WONDER CAR.

Visitors Much Impressed With Showing and Demonstration of New Model.

Forty representatives of Canadian newspapers were the guests yesterday in Oshawa of the General Motors of Canada. The party was given the privilege of seeing the Bigger and Better Chevrolet at the company's show rooms before it was shown to the public on January 2.

The party was met at Toronto by representatives of the company and taken by special busses to Oshawa where it was the guest of General Motors for luncheon. After luncheon addresses were given by Ross MacKinnon, General Sales Manager and W. C. Marshall Commercial Sales Representative at which the newspapermen were treated to a practical demonstration of the magnificent new car. This was followed by a trip through the factory and at 4 p.m. the entire party was entertained by R. S. McLaughlin at "Parkwood Arena." The party left at 5 p.m., for Toronto where it was the guests of the Campbell-Ewald Advertising Agency at dinner at the King Edward Hotel.

At the luncheon at noon R. S. McLaughlin, President of General Motors of Canada, Limited, gave a very inspiring address, reviewing briefly the history of the company, and its present important position in the motor car manufacturing industry. He explained the structure of the organization and touched upon the happy arrangements that have been made for co-operating with the large number of employees that are now on the company's payroll, many of whom have become shareholders in the business.

Concluding his address Mr. McLaughlin introduced with pleasing and complimentary references in each case, the chief executives of the company and their assistants.

Mr. McLaughlin spoke as follows:

May I say to you collectively and individually that our organization feels deeply flattered indeed that you should have seen fit to accept our invitation to be with us here in Oshawa—Canada's baby city—to-day. Being exceedingly busy men with varied and great responsibilities in connection with operating of your papers and magazines, we realize that it has been at a considerable sacrifice that you have given us a day. It shall be our aim to recompense you for the time thus given up by making your afternoon as interesting and entertaining as possible We shall try to make your program not too tiresome, but we do sincerely want to show you all just the scope and type of operation we are conducting here at Oshawa.

BALDWIN THINKS SPIRIT BETTER

Improvement in Relationship of Capital and Labor Stressed in Message.

REVIEWS PAST YEAR.

LONDON, December 31 (Canadian Press). — Premier Baldwin, checking over the progress made this year toward the restoration of industrial prosperity in England, believes that a better spirit in industry has been shown and a greater desire on the part of capitalists and labor to cooperate with each other in the solution of the problems of their industries. A message from the Premier to the Primrose League, a Conservative organization of which he is Grand Master, contained the foregoing belief.

Ten million safety razors and more than half a billion blades are produced annually in Boston.

Duchess As Salesgirl Popular With Buyers

LONDON, Dec. 31.—A number of people this year will receive Christmas present bought from the Duchess of York, who held a stall at the Royal School of Needlework Sale of Christmas Presents recently. Throwing off her coat, and working hard in her pretty pale grey georgette frock, she cleared the stall in little more than an hour of most of its small artistic gifts in antique silver, glass and embroidery and was still surrounded by a crowd of people anxious to buy.

In a quick tour of the stalls the Duchess herself bought a dainty baby dressing jacket, two warm white woolly coats, a pretty toy or two, and a blue cot cover. Wonderful embroidery, lingerie, upholstery, lace and antique needlework were among the goods offered.

The Queen had bought beforehand an old fashioned embroidered cotton box, a tapestry bag, and a tiny pink dressing gown, with cats' heads embroidered on the pockets.

NEW BREAKER IS INSTALLED

Utilities Commission Told By Hydro That Fault Has Been Corrected.

FINAL MEETING.

The final meeting of the 1927 Utilities Commission was held on Friday afternoon in the committee rooms, city building. Routine business, including numerous communications, were disposed of, one of them from the Hydro Electric Power Commission stating that a circuit breaker at Auburn had been replaced, in conformance with the suggestion of the Peterborough Utilities Commission in a letter from that body to the H.E.P.C. An interruption in the delivery of power was noted early last month and the old circuit breaker was blamed.

William Tinker and Mr. McFarlane of the Canadian Woollens Company, Limited, located at Auburn, were present at the meeting in support of their letter asking that the company, now served by two circuits, one from the Peterborough and one from the Hydro, be placed entirely upon one or the other. The matter was allowed to stand over, the above named gentlemen to interview the Hydro.

W. H. Bradburn presided during the meeting.

FOG HAMPERS RELIEF WORK

LONDON, December 21 (Canadian Press).—Fog to-day baffled the Salvation Army and the British Air Ministry in their joint efforts to aid the snow-bound inhabitants of small villages. The two organizations are collaborating on extensive plans to distribute food and other necessities by airplane to the small places in Kent, Surrey and Hampshire Counties which have been without means of communication with the outer world for some days.

CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR'S CHAIR TELL OF PLANS

Both Pledge Themselves To Work To Obtain New Industries.

CHEAPER POWER.

Both Men Have Had Wide Experience in Municipal Matters.

Nagle Phelan, candidate for Mayor, was born and educated in this city. He was employed in the Bank of Montreal for ten years, and the last two years he has been district manager of the North American Life Assurance Company. He has been in the City Council eight years, seven of which he has been the chairman of the Finance Committee. During all these years on the Council, Alderman Phelan has only been absent from one City Council meeting.

"Having a thorough knowledge of the financial conditions of the city, I believe that if elected Mayor I can reduce the tax rate for 1928. I will devote all the time necessary to fulfill the duties of Chief Magistrate of the City of Peterborough, and I will make every effort possible to locate new industries here and to obtain more and cheaper power. My motto will be: A Bigger and Better Peterborough," said Mr. Phelan.

Roland Denne like Mr. Phelan, is a Peterborough boy, being born and educated in this city. He is one of Peterborough's business men, and was for 12 years a member of the Board of Education. He has been Alderman for three years, and president of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition for 10. He was manager of last July's Jubilee celebration, and was also chairman of the Red Cross Committee during the war.

"If elected I will co-operate with the Council in order to get more industries in Peterborough, to better the transportation service, to get cheaper gas and light rates, and to advance Peterborough to the place where she belongs," said Mr Denne.

PREMIER MACKENZIE KING ISSUES NEW YEAR'S MESSAGE

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—Premier King has issued the following New Year message:

"The Dawn of 1928 has a special significance for Canada. It marks the close of one period in our history and the beginning of another. Behind us lie sixty years of united effort. In this time we have built steadily upon the foundations laid at Confederation and have extended the boundaries of the Dominion from sea to sea. Forty years hence many now living will join in the commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of Confederation. The happiness of that day will depend in large measure upon our labors in the New Year and in succeeding years.

"As a result of the celebration of the past year, we understand more clearly than before the greatness of the task of building a Canadian nation. We know that the dream of the Fathers of Confederation was not realized without courage and perseverance. We know, too, that national unity in a country of different races and creeds is not achieved without charity and forbearance. The true wealth of Canada consists less in the abundance of our material possessions than in these moral qualities and habits of thought which have come down to us as an inheritance from the past. In the new period of expansion which lies before us, it is our highest duty to conserve this inheritance for the benefit of those who will some day stand in our places. So may it be said of us as it was said of those who created the Dominion: 'Providence being their guide, they builded better than they knew.'

(Signed) W. L. MACKENZIE KING."

PRICES ARE HIGH ON MARKET TO-DAY

Inside Market Section Well Filled, But Outside is Deserted.

Holiday prices were fairly high on the farmers' market this morning, but fowl was plentiful. Turkeys were selling from 38 to 45 cents a pound, chickens from 25 to 35 cents, geese from 26 to 30 cents, and ducks at 28 and 30 cents a pound.

Eggs were quoted from 55 to 65 cents a dozen, with pullets' eggs at 50 cents. Butter was 40 and 43 cents a pound.

On the open market, carts were few and far between, the constant rain moistening everything but the fish, sheltered under an awning. Plaice were 15 cents a pound, whitefish and salmon trout 20 cents, pickerel, boneless herring, and haddie 18 cents a pound.

Potatoes were $1.60 a bag. Apples ranged from $4.50 to $8.00 a barrel.

Who May Vote —And Where

Each year there is a certain amount of confusion as a result of citizens being either uninformed or misinformed as to the qualifications of voters. The following are the qualifications of voters in the coming municipal contests:

Mayor, Utilities, Commission, Aldermen—A person assessed as owner or tenant for $400 and wives or husbands of such owners or tenants, or persons assessed for $400 for income and whose names appear on the voters' list.

Board of Education—Public School supporters with any of the above qualifications.

Daylight Saving By-law—Same as for mayor, aldermen, etc.

On all of these, all electors may vote at only one place, though his name may appear on the voters' list in more than one ward.

Western Clock Company By-law—Owners whose names appear on the voters' list. On this by-law, qualified electors may vote in each ward in which they are qualified and their names appear on the list.

Time of Voting.

The polls will open at nine o'clock on Monday morning and will close at five in the afternoon.

Many people have been under the impression that they did not close until 6 p.m., but this is not so.

For the information of voters, the following is a list of the polls and the districts they serve.

MORE MEN GIVE PLATFORMS IN CIVIC ELECTION

Candidates For City Council Explain Reasons For Seeking Election.

OFFER SUGGESTIONS.

Qualifications For Municipal Office and Policies Favored Set Forth.

More candidates for the City Council told The Examiner to-day what policies they will favor and what qualifications they have to hold office if elected on Monday.

D. J. Holland.

One of the aspirants to the Aldermanic Board is D. J. Holland, who was born in Ashburnham in 1870, and acquired his early education in the public schools of Otonabee. Leaving school, he followed different lines of work that embrace the strenuous side of life. In 1893 he entered the Peterborough Business College and Commercial School of Shorthand, graduating in 1894 from the several departments. Since that time he has worked continuously, first, as junior then as chief clerk for the McAllister Milling Company. Leaving there he entered the office of the McDonald Lumber Company. Then the Campbell Flour Mills Company, and after serving the latter for a time, was promoted to the position of manager, which post he held for some fifteen years. At the present time he is employed by the Peterboro Cereal, Ltd., in charge of the local sales and grain department. Mr. Holland believes that the experience acquired as mentioned above will make him a good public servant on the Aldermanic Board.

R S. Cotton.

R. S. Cotton, power superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Company, has been a resident of the city for the past twenty-eight years, during which time he has taken an interest in municipal affairs. He entered the Council two years ago and since that time has been a member of many of the committees— the Board of Works, Manufacturers' committee, Finance, Legal, Railways and Parks committees and for the past year has been chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee. In discussing this last body, Mr. Cotton said:

"For some time previous to my first tenure of office, the city had been burning the street lights without any view to saving and as a result, it piled up a large number of kilowatt hours unnecessarily, owing to the fact that no one saw fit to go into the city lighting problem or do anything about it.

"Two years ago I began laying out the lighting and showed where we could have three times as much light for the same money by putting in larger lighting units and putting them on a time switch so that they would be shut off when not required. This would allow for usage of an additional amount of power to be used in the day time by the utilities commission.

Now, the Fire, Water and Light committee is spending a certain amount each year to continue the up-to-date lighting system throughout the city and in every instance we are getting our street lighting for less money than under the previous system and we have three times as much light. This, I hope, will continue until the entire city is properly lighted.

There was another subject— daylight saving—which Mr. Cotton saw fit to speak of. "Personally," said he, "I am not interested in daylight saving and when I brought the by-law before the city council to be voted upon this year it was with a view to giving the electors an opportunity of deciding the issue. Other towns have voted for it this year after having turned it down in previous years."

Regarding the fire department, Mr. Cotton expressed the hope that the citizens would pay a visit to the fire hall where they may view the new four hundred foot capacity ladder truck, and the pumper, recently added to the equipment. "Our fire department is now one of the best

FORESTRY MATTERS DISCUSSED BY THE HON. WILLIAM FINLAYSON IN ADDRESS TO KIWANIS CLUB

THE WEATHER

The highest temperature yesterday was 37 degrees the lowest 33 degrees. This leaves but 4 degrees variation in 24 hours. This is so unusual that it is worthy of note. This morning the thermometer was at 31 degrees, and heavy wet snow had fallen. In this section the old year never goes out without snow on the ground, although at times there is not sufficient for sleighing. In 1899 on Dec. 31, there was but one-half inch of snow, the thermometer, however went down to 14 below zero. On the last day of 1910 we had it 26 below zero; in 1915 10 below; and in 1917 22 below. December of that year had 12 days of below zero. At this time I extend to every reader of these little squibs my sincere good wishes for a happy pleasant and prosperous New Year. This is meant for you, personally, not necessarily for somebody else.—W.P.

DIVERS READY TO DRY OUT SUB

Chains Can Be Attached Then To Raise Sunken S-4.

MAY RECOVER BODIES.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., December 31 (Canadian Press).—Two weeks after the submarine S-4 sank off here in collision with the coastguard destroyer, divers from the salvage fleet were in a position to-day for the first time to enter the tomb of the forty officers and men who went down with the submarine. Divers had completed the second and last tunnel under the boat's hull through which the lifting chains are to be passed. If the weather conditions remain favorable to-day, divers will enter the shattered hull and start the work of sealing the compartments preparatory to unwatering the craft and attaching the big pontoons which will support it on its trip to the dry dock at Boston.

It was thought possible that some of the bodies of the victims might be recovered in the course of to-day's operations.

VALUABLE INDUSTRY.

Ontario Derives Large Income From Trees—Province Divided Into Three Districts.

The year 1927 has been an eventful one for the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough. Its community efforts have been numerous and marked by success, and its meetings have been a splendid indication of what everything Kiwanian has come to mean to each individual member. The executive for the year 1927 has fulfilled its obligations both to the club and to the community and with the final termination of its tenure this week it saw fit to cap that progress by rendering a last service to both by making possible a meeting at which the members were privileged to hear the Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, whose subject was one of vital interest and benefit to the community—"The Provincial Government's policy with regard to Forestry."

There was a splendid attendance at this, the last meeting of the year. Departing from custom, those in charge arranged for it to be held early in the evening rather than at noon hour and though it has sometimes been said that the turnout at evening meetings is not usually as large as at the regular noon hour, there was no indication of this fault. Not only was there a large representation of Kiwanians, but there were many guests who were duly introduced and who enjoyed to the fullest extent, the splendid discourse of Mr. Finlayson. Among those introduced were His Worship Mayor Holloway, E. A. Peck, M.P., Magistrate O. A. Langley, R. Denne, E. G. Patterson, A. Moir, W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., J. J. Duffus, C. H. Ackerman, V. Eastwood, Fred J. Overend, N. E. Phelan, A. Stevenson, Capt. H. P. Ayres, Charles B. Adair, J. A. Feir, S. Lowe, Walter Stocker, S. R. Armstrong, W. T. Young, H. J. Rush, J. Turnbull, R. W. Haddow, A. Macdonald, B. D. Hall, O. H. Huffman, R. Fair, Reg. H. Turner, W. F. Turner, A. W. Turner, R. M. Glover, G. A. Gillespie, D. A. McKinnon, Fire Chief George Gimblett, William McDonald, Harold Chadwick, Ken. McCannan, and Harold Lee of Peterborough, and C. H. C. Wright of Toronto. The two musical numbers of the evening were contributed by two of the above, namely, Harold Lee and H. J. Rush. Both contributions, vocal numbers, were heartily appreciated.

There was some sense and some nonsense in the events which preceded the main address of the evening. The retiring president, I. P. McNabb, did his best to make things lively and interesting. Never has he imposed fines or sentences with such telling effect as on those occasions during last night's meeting when he ordered Jack McKone's table to make use of none-too-responsive vocal chords; the Turner family—there were four brothers, Reg., W. F., A. W., and J. J. —to render a quartette number, and other members to pay the price of trivial folly in fines ranging from dimes to bills.

He it was who later introduced the main speaker, telling in complimentary terms of the ability and career of the honored visitor.

There were several awards made during the above-mentioned "preliminaries." Frank Stinson, as booster, announced the lucky numbers which carried with them three prizes, won by J. J. Feir, E. G. Patterson, and Jack Dewart. He extended to officers, members and guests the season's greetings.

Coleman Blewett's cigar, to be awarded to the best looking man present, went to Charlie Cook.

Hon. William Finlayson.

Mr. Finlayson, who entered the political world as representative of East Simcoe, was heartily applauded when he arose to speak. He complimented the Peterborough club on the splendid spirit of the meeting and the Turner family on its splendid rendition of the National Anthem. He also recounted an amusing incident that had occurred during his service in France in which the Prince of Wales figured.

Without further preface, he opened his address proper.

PENSIONS ACT OF 1925 AMONG NEW LEGISLATION WHICH WILL BECOME EFFECTIVE JANUARY 1

Grants Allowance of Ten Shilling Weekly to Those Over 65.

IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Trades Union Act of 1927 Also Becomes Operative at New Year.

LONDON, Dec. 31. — (Canadian Press.)— Among much new legislation which will become operative January 1 and will affect many classes of the community, the principal measures will be the pensions act of 1925 and the trade unions act of 1927.

The pensions act grants an allowance of ten shillings weekly to all insured men and women at the age of 65 years, regardless of whether the recipient has a private income. Heretofore such allowances could only be obtained at the age of 70 and were scaled according to the recipient's private income.

It is estimated that more than half a million new pensioners will be brought in as an aged married couple can now obtain a united pension of a pound sterling ($4.85) a week it is said that many of the older workers may retire, and so relieve unemployment.

Revolutionize Industry.

The trade unions act will work a revolution in the industrial world. It renders strikes and lockouts illegal and prevents a man from being penalized by his union for refusal to participate in them. More important, however, is the clause affecting a political levy. Members of unions previously have had to "contract out" of subscribing to political funds. Henceforth, if unionists desire to contribute to such funds, they must sign a paper "contracting in."

This is almost certain to bring about a large diminution in the number of political contributors, and the loss to trade union funds.

All unions have been busy in the past weeks printing and distributing about 5,000,000 forms for signature, but it is feared that much apathy will be shown, despite the strongest efforts of the union executives, and, should a general election come within the next year or two, this loss of funds may have a serious effect on the prospects of the labor party.

Other legislation operative with the new year includes acts fostering the British film industry, prohibiting the use of preservatives in articles of food and placing heavy restrictions on the transactions of money lenders and their interest charges.

Youth Sentenced In Assault Case

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—Sixteen-year-old Fred Number, who looks no more than 13, was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail by Police Justice J. Watts yesterday when convicted of assault, third degree, on complaint of his mother, Mrs. Alice Number.

The woman said the boy continually pestered her for money with which to gamble and that Thursday night he attacked her with a knife and threw a sugar bowl at her when she refused him cash to play dice. The boy took his sentence lightly.

HEAVY DAMAGE IN WHARF FIRE

Estimated $1,250,000 Damage Done When Blaze Sweeps Hoboken Waterfront.

ORIGIN UNKNOWN.

HOBOKEN, N.J., Dec. 31.—(Canadian Press). — A great fire swept an area of two blocks along the waterfront yesterday, destroying the Clyde-Mallery Line ship Seneca, several small vessels, two 700 foot piers and endangered shipping worth many millions. The damage exceeded $1,250,000. Fed by a heavy film of oil and gasoline on the Hudson River, the flames raged over the area in the space of an hour. They were placed under control at the end of that time, but broke out anew several hours later with the explosion of an oil storage chamber aboard the Seneca. Fire Chief Gildea had only a skeleton force on duty, but succeeded in confining the fresh destruction to the ship.

The cause of the conflagration was not learned. One report was that a spark dropping from the acetylene torch of a workman repairing a tug touched off the oil on the surface of the water, while another said that gasoline exploded on one of the piers. The fire started shortly before 9 o'clock in the morning and brought out all apparatus of the Hoboken department, several New York fireboats and a large number of tugs and other craft which towed many vessels out into the river.

One of Score.

The conflagration was one of almost a score which has visited the crowded Jersey waterfront during the past decade, and the destruction of the Seneca was one of a series of disasters to overtake ships of the Clyde Line. Several of the company's best boats have been burned on the seas or in port.

The Seneca had a capacity of 280 passengers and freight and was listed at 2,963 tons gross. It was valued at $750,000.

The ship was tied up at Pier 1, owned by the W. A. Fletcher Drydock Company. At the same pier was the Indian Arrow, another Clyde liner, and the Hendrik Hudson, of the Hudson River Day Line. Both were manoeuvred to safety, their bows catching fire from sparks meanwhile.

The pier was burned to the water's edge, and with it automobiles and tractors valued at $75,000, nautical equipment and four barges.

Three firemen received slight burns and two officers aboard the Seneca who lingered, attempting to put out the fire when it first took hold, were forced to flee over the side, down ropes. They were picked up on a raft.

HICKMAN TO ENTER PLEA OF INSANITY

Announced By Attorney as the Basis of His Fight For Slayer.

HAD FOUR COURSES.

Counsel Convinced That Fiendish Act Not Committed By One Person.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—Insanity will be the answer pleaded by William E. Hickman for his confessed abduction and murder of Marian Parker, it was announced yesterday by his attorney, Jerome Walsh, who was sent here by the mother of the 19-year-old youth to defend him.

After a study of the California Penal Code, the insanity defence was outlined by the attorney as the oasis of his fight for Hickman, who yesterday told officers that the $1,500 ransome obtained from the dead girl's father meant more to him than the child's right to live.

Walsh, who arrived Thursday from Kansas City, Hickman's home town, spent the day closeted with Los Angeles officials and in Hickman's cell with the prisoner. He said that a night's examination of the State's Penal Code offered four possible avenues of plea. These are, he pointed out, "guilty," "insanity," "guilty and insane," or "not guilty and "insane."

The last pleas would require first a trial as to guilt of the charge of kidnapping and murder and later separate trial as to sanity, before either the same or a different jury.

The legal roads open to a defence of Hickman on plea of insanity are founded on new sections of the penal code, legal authorities said, which have not been tested before the Supreme Court.

Walsh expressed his belief that Hickman had withheld information of the kidnapping and murder of the 12-year-old daughter of Perry M. Parker, bank official. He said he was convinced that the crime had not been committed by one person alone.

Might Attend Trial

The attorney also announced that Hickman's mother and sister might come to California for the trial.

In revealing that Hickman had said the $1,500 ransom money was more important to him than the right of Marian Parker to life, Chief of Detectives Herman Cline pointed out that Hickman had changed the story told in his written confession. The killing of the girl first was attributed by Hickman to an unconquerable desire to kill, as the girl sat before him blindfolded and tied to a chair.

NEW MEMBERS ARE ELECTED

Take Seats at January Meeting of Deloro Safety Committee.

FROM FOUR PLANTS.

MARMORA, Decembr 31. — Four new members will take their seats at the January meeting of the Deloro Safety Committee, which is also the annual meeting of that organization. It was decided at the last monthly meeting that the employees of the Silver Plant, Oxide Plant, Engineers, and General should elect a representative from each department. A. McCallum was the unanimous choice of the Engineers, H. Phillips defeated G. Brooks in the contest at the General. Lively electioneering was seen at the Silver and Oxide plants, with four candidates in the field at each place. W. J. Cottrell was successful in the Silver plant, the others finishing in the following order: A. Ellis, C. Bergevin, and V. Melville. J. Reardon headed the Oxide poll, the unsuccessful candidates being W. Chrysler, P. Brawley, and B. Johnson.

$10,000,000 Loan Made To Argentina

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press)—Transactions in gold yesterday involved $12,000,000 of which $10,000,000 was scheduled for Argentina and $2,000,000 came in from Canada, a loss on balance of $8,000,000.

The largest amount in the day's consignments were $5,000,000, which the Seaboard National Bank is sending to Bunge & Born, Ltd., in Buenos Aires for the Bunge North American Grain Company. Another of $3,000,000 has been arranged by Louis Dreyfus & Company for the Buenos Aires offices, and $1,000,000 each by the American Exchange Irving Trust and the Anglo-South American Trust Company.

The gold movement back from Canada to New York, recently started when the Canadian dollar was quoted at a discount, has now reached $5,500,000.

Pilot Held To Blame For Grounding Vessel

MONTREAL, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—Pilot Alphonse Paquet was held to blame for the grounding of the S.S. Corthorne on or near the Lark Reef in the St. Lawrence River on November 20, when the vessel suffered extensive damage, in a finding by Captain Demers, Dominion Wreck Commissioner. Captain Demers presided over a hearing which went into the cause of the grounding.

The blame for the mishap was laid to the pilot who was asleep while on duty but as his evidence was given with candor and he did not resort to subterfuge, and owing to the fact that he has had forty years' unblemished service on the St. Lawrence, his license was not revoked. However, he was ordered to pay the full costs of the investigation within one month.

CHILDREN ENTERTAINED.

Primary Pupils of St. John's Have Party.

The Primary Department of St. John's Sunday school held their annual Christmas treat on Wednesday afternoon December 28th, at 3 p.m. There was a very large attendance. The children had a thoroughly enjoyable time and did full justice to the supper provided for them. The tables were appropriately decorated decorated with red and green. Each child had a Christmas favor beside his plate. A short program was given by the children and there were also numerous games. Everyone had a wonderful time and the whole affair was a success.

The superintendent was assisted by other teachers of the Sunday school, and by some of the parents of the children.

ZERO WEATHER FOLLOWS STORM

Intense Cold, With Snow, Forecasted For Week End in England.

LONDON, December 31 (Canadian Press).—Traffic conditions created by England's worst winter storm of years were improved last night, but intense cold continued with forecasts of probable snow at the week-end.

While milder weather is forecast for the western and northern districts, severe frosts were expected again in the southern counties, which are now fighting their way from vast snowdrifts.

In Dublin, which enjoyed balmy weather while England shivered, winds were bitter cold last night and snowfall threatened.

Channel steamer service was almost normal yesterday, with calmer seas and kindlier winds after a tempestuous week. The steamship Majestic, arriving at Southampton, reported a quiet voyage across, and her passengers were astounded to find England snow-covered.

Railway service, which was severely crippled by snow and ice, also was nearly normal yesterday as a result of continuous work by an army of snowplows and shovel wielders. There are stretches of important high ways, however, that are still impassable, and many automobiles stand half covered in snowdrifts, where they were abandoned three or four days ago. A few isolated villages in Monmouthshire, Devonshire and Kent remain lost from the outer world, with only airplanes to bring emergency food supplies. Airplanes which Thursday despited bread, butter and tea in the front yards of marooned Kentish citizens, yesterday supplied condensed milk to their weather-bound charges. The problem of getting fuel to them is becoming an important one as motor trucks or horse-drawn vehicles could never make the trip.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

R. S. Staples To Succeed J. W. Perrin on Cavan School Board.

CAVAN, Dec. 31.— On Wednesday the annual school meeting was held in Cavan S.S. No. 7. The retiring trustee was Mr. J. W. Perrin, with Mr. R. S. Staples as his successor.

The trustees for 1928 are; Messrs. S. Boyle, D. White and R. S. Staples, S. Boyle being secretary-treasurer.

The candidates for muncipal offices are calling on Cavan voters during the week. The contest for Deputy-reeve promises to be a close one. Both men have been in the council and have a good business record.

The candidates for the Council each have numbers of friends who will be anxious to advance their interests, so that it would be impossible to say, before election day, what the issue will be.

Mr Robinson has stated that he is in favour of the old way of maintaining the roads, that is, by statute labor. This may influence some votes.

Congress of Learned Societies Hear Addresses at Washington.

REDUCE WAR DUTY.

Thompson's Proposal For Censorship of History Text Books Denounced.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (United Press).—The American Council of Learned Societies continued to hear "hands across the sea" speeches yesterday after disposing of Mayor Thompson's historical ideas with a mere resolution.

One of the learned bodies, the American Historical Association, resolved that official censorship of history textbooks, such as Thompson proposes, would be a form of "pseudo patriotism" leading to falsification of the records.

U. S. Co-operation.

Meanwhile other learned groups heard stirring addresses advocating American co-operation with the world in general.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, said the United States owed Europe a debt because the old world has sent so many of its sturdy sons here as valued immigrants or "human capital."

Reduce War Debts.

Prof. E. L. Hogart, of the University of Illinois, and A. Piatt Andrews, of Massachusetts, urged revision of war debts so Europe might prosper, buy American products, stabilize international business conditions and settle its unrest.

FIRE DESTROYS OMEMEE SHOPS

Entire Business Section of Village Threatened By Early Morning Blaze.

SOME INSURANCE.

OMEMEE, Dec. 31.—Fire of unknown origin broke out this morning about 12.30 in the rear of Fred Parker's barber shop in the centre of the town. The building was a frame structure and was destroyed with all its contents.

The fire spread to R. Tate's butcher shop, which was also destroyed, but the fixtures were saved.

The new fire equipment gave splendid service in preventing the spread of the fire. The sample room of the Commercial House and the residence of Mr. J. Mitchell, on either side, were scorched.

If there had been any wind, the damage would probable have been much heavier.

The loss is partially covered by insurance.

THE FARMER AND DAYLIGHT SAVING.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear sir:

One of the arguments used against daylight saving, and one that will salve the consciences of many people who will oppose the measure on Monday is that daylight saving works a hardship on farmers.

It is claimed, for instance, that hired men wish to start work at the usual farm time and want to stop by standard time. It is also claimed that the closing of the stores at 4 o'clock standard time prevents many farmers from shopping in the City and it is threatened that they will go to the mail order houses.

May I quote a few figures that show the authority that is behind these statements. According to the Dominion census there is a city population of 24,216 and a rural population of 18,045. Taking it that there is one worker in four people, there are 6,054 workers in factories affected against 4,511 workers on farms. There are in Peterborough County, 3,802 farms of which only 1,545 have more than 100 acres. It is a significant fact that although the total occupied farms aggregate 467,099 acres, there are only 141,579 acres under cultivation. This total area does not include the rocks and bush of North Peterborough County but according to the Government statement only includes land capable of cultivation occupied by farmers. The total value of farms in Peterborough County is $23,370,577 and the value of farm products in a year, $7,090,357.

Now with these figures compare the record of the industries in which the 6,054 workers are employed. The total investment in the industries in the City is $27,157,129. The payroll of the industries in the City in one year is $3,712,801. The value of the products in a year is $28,214,481 and the amount expended on materials in a year is $19,625,553. This is a total turnover of $51,553,335 in a year in the City compared with the seven million odd dollars represented by the value of farm products and when one adds the twenty-seven million dollars invested in these industries the huge total of $78,710,464 compares strikingly with the total value of farms and produce in one year of $30,360,934.

It is also interesting to note that in Otonabee Township which is most affected by daylight saving in Peterborough City, there is more idle, fallow and pasture farm land (unworked) than in any Township in the adjoining counties of Hastings, Victoria, Northumberland and Haliburton. It is also worthy of note that in Peterborough County the value of crops in one year is less than in any of the adjoining counties of Northumberland, Hastings and Durham and the value of livestock raised on the farms of Peterborough County is also less than in any of these counties. One wonders in fact, what the farmers are so busy at that they cannot accommodate themselves to what would be so great a benefit to the City.

Then on considering these facts and also that the farmers in Peterborough County raised fewer calves, colts, lambs and pigs alive than in any of these adjoining counties, Mr. Editor, I suggest that the farmers in Peterborough County have no legitimate argument against the City's going on daylight saving time, either on the grounds that they are so busy or because of their numerical strength or on the grounds of large investment. Daylight saving will benefit those who indulge in sport; it will give every family an opportunity for another hour a day of recreation together; and it will even prove a boon to the farmers by giving them an extra hour of daylight by clock time to get in the harvest under what they claim are the most favorable conditions and it does not appear that the argument about shopping out of town is worthy of consideration. Anyone who visits the Peterborough Post Office will know the huge quantity of mail order matter that now comes into Peterborough County and this is not coming in because of anything the merchants are doing to hurt the farmer.

In any event if daylight saving is tried for one year, it cannot do much damage and it may show those who are against any advancement in any way that such innovations are not so terrible as they make themselves believe.

Yours truly,

CITY DWELLER.

Whippet

Fours and Sixes will be the most valuable cars ever offered for so little money

John N. Willys

President, The Willys-Overland Company

AFTER months of preparation, we are ready to present the perfected Whippet for 1928.

You will be satisfied and delighted with every detail of its equipment and performance. You will be amazed when you learn how low is the price. For Willys-Overland resources and equipment are now such that no car of equal quality can be built and sold at a lower price.

The factory service cost on the Whippet has been the lowest of any car we ever built. As a result, we have been able to minimize materially the usual allowances for service costs—another contributing factor to the lowered price of the 1928 Whippet

Many Added Features

Among the many things you will like in the 1928 Whippet are improved bodies in a wide variety of beautiful colors—four-wheel brakes—low centre of gravity—exceptional economy—exceptional roominess—an engine that doubles its rated horse-power—full pressure lubrication—silent timing chain—gasoline tank in rear—long, semi-elliptic springs—oversize balloon tires and snubbers—an adjustable steering wheel—automatic windshield wiper—rear view mirror and stop light.

Remarkable Records

Owners have driven and tested the Whippet for more than five hundred million miles. It has established record after record in proof of its superiority. It holds the A.A.A. Coast-to-Coast economy record, averaging 43.28 miles to the gallon. It set a record of 71.6 miles an hour in a speed test on Rockingham Park Speedway. It accelerates from 5 to 30 miles in 11.5 seconds; turns in a 17-foot radius, and parks in 14 feet of curb space.

We suggest you see the Whippet and get the new price next Saturday.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

MORE THAN NINETEEN HUNDRED YEARS AGO, certain wise men came from the East to Jerusalem asking, "Where is He that is born King of the Jews?" If they were right in thinking that to the Jews a king had been born, they did the logical thing in coming to Jerusalem to look for Him. Jerusalem—whose heart does not beat quicker at the very name? Children have lisped it as they have learned to sing of it as their "happy home." Poets have chanted its praises, and warriors have fought fiercely for it. Difficult indeed is it to write about this city, so different from any other; the city associated with the highest hopes and aspirations of millions on earth today, as it has been in the past, the only city that is to have a heavenly counterpart. But it is not about the city that I want to write at this time! My thought is to write about Him, the King who was supposed to have been born there.

THE MYSTERY OF BIRTH.

An Australian preacher once wrote: It is indeed a great matter to be born. Birth is a mystery. Is it not the supreme mystery? Does it not involve everything? Is it not the one fact vital and fundamental from which everything proceeds? We talk of success, we flatter, we worship it. We do not say with Solomon, "Wisdom is the principal thing, with all thy getting get wisdom." We say, "Success is the principal thing, the thing for which one cannot pay too high a price."

Ah! what a price some people are prepared to pay for success. They are willing to sacrifice their own flesh and blood, yea, their own souls, if the reward be success.

Well, when next you look at an infant, an infant of days, an infant of hours, say to yourself: "This little atom of humanity has achieved the most wonderful success possible to man—a success which conditions every other success, from which every other success must inevitably flow—it has succeeded in getting born; it has made the tremendous passage from nothingness to actuality. It is! It contains within itself not only the measure of the future, but its promise and its potency."

WE ARE WHAT WE ARE BORN TO.

Where is He that is born King? It will ever be true that we are what we are born to. Birth is the final step towards the goal of our speciality. It is possible to miss the way; many do. They were born to be statesmen, but they became journalists. They were born inventors, but they are frittering away their time growing poor crops and indifferent pork. Some of them were born for the ministry, but they have taken to business and are piling up a fortune, or possibly a heap of bad debts. I hope I may be understood when I say—there are people who never succeed in becoming what they were born to be, who succeed disastrously in becoming what they were never intended to be. They are like round pegs in square holes. Surely we have all met them. I meet them every day of my life.

On the other hand, are we not frequently encountering the man who is developing naturally, just following his bent, just expressing his aptitude, just doing and honorably doing what is written down in his constitution, to which all the energies of his nature contribute.

DON'T DESPISE TITLES.

Jesus was born King. Let us not despise titles, heredities, what are called the accidents of descent. The word of God doesn't despise these things; it has much to say about family, the family name, and family traditions. The Bible not only insists that Christ was born King, it studies His history, traces His genealogy, shows with a minute particularity the kind of people through whom Christ came. And the striking thing is that they are not all names to be proud of. Some of them stand out and burn, but not with heavenly lustre. We believe that Christ was sinless. That is the faith of the church, that is the verdict of the world. The world says with Pilate, "I find no fault in Him." The same cannot be said of those from whom Christ came in the direct line of descent. There are some questionable characters among them. If we would get at some of them it would be necessary to dig deep into the pit of shame.

THE COMMON HERD.

In these days people make a lot of primogeniture and precedency. In these democratic times, when Jack is supposed to be as good as his master, if not better, people feel flattered and comfortable and safe if from the midst of shadowy ancestors they can pick out some one a little above the common herd. Well, let me repeat, Christ had little to boast of in those who predeceased Him. For one and another He might have blushed. But there is this to be added, He stands out in happy and honorable contrast, not only to the worst, but the best, the most illustrious. If you would be convinced of His kinghood, then match Him with those who went before Him, in whose train He followed, whose highest eminence He immeasurably transcended. Christ is the greatest illustration of the truth of the saying that, "Sometimes a great figure stands upon a common and rough pedestal." This is shown to be so by the most casual study of the genealogical table which was written to show that in very deed he was born a King.

THE WORLD'S NEED.

What the world needs is a born King. I know that many think we have too many kings now. And perhaps they are right if they confine themselves to the kind of kings with which the kingdoms of this earth have been too long burdened. The Scriptures say in prophetic utterance, "The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together against the Lord and against His anointed." That would appear to have been the business of kings from time immemorial. They have fathered ever conspiracy, aided and abetted every crime, every infamy. The Pharaohs, the Nebuchadnezzars, the Neros, the Caligulas—to select typical instances—what a crew, what an abomination!

Nevertheless the world waits for a King who will command not its allegiance simply which may be forced, but its homage, its admiration, its unqualified consent. Whether we know it or not, the world has come to a sorry pass. And to those who are capable of getting beneath the surface of things it is really crying out for a strong grip, a dominating will, a shaping, ennobling influence.

HUXLEY'S KING.

I have read somewhere that Huxley said that if he could find a king perfectly wise, and perfectly good, he would be willing to forego his own personal liberty and personal initiative and place himself and his destiny in his hands. Well, Christ is a being perfectly wise and perfectly good, and, having been born King, He invites the world to place itself and its destiny in His hands.

Through a baptism of tears and blood which is not entirely completed the world is staggering on toward the hour when two remarkable Psalms—the Second and the Twenty-fourth—shall have a literal fulfillment.

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Kingdom First.

I will place no value on anything I have or may possess, except in its relation to the kingdom of Christ. If anything I have will advance the interest of that kingdom it shall be given up or kept, as by keeping or giving it I shall most promote the glory of Him to whom I owe all my hopes, both of time and eternity. May grace be given me to adhere to this.

—David Livingstone.

TELL US A STORY

THERE comes to me at this season of the year, when all our thoughts are of Christmas, the remembrance of a story of those awful days of the World War. Perhaps my young readers have never heard it.

A day was dawning on a battlefield in Northern France through a fog so thick that no one could see more than a few yards from the trenches. In the night the Germans had drawn back their lines a little and the French had gone forward, but between the two positions a lonely farmhouse was still standing. As the sun rose, heavy guns began to boom. But suddenly on both sides the firing ceased and there fell a strange, dead stillness. Midway between the trenches, near the shattered farmhouse, there was—no, it must be impossible! But it was not, for there in the green meadow, crawling on its hands and knees, was a little baby. It appeared perfectly happy and contented. Not a shot was fired; scarcely did a soldier on either side dare to breathe. This spot which had been an inferno of shot and shell, was now something like a peaceful island or a cool friendly oasis in the desert. Suddenly a soldier jumped out of a trench and ran to where the child was crawling. He tenderly took it up and carried it back to shelter. No shots came from the trenches, but along both lines there rang out a mighty cheer. The coming of a little babe had brought peace, just as nearly two thousand years ago, when the Prince of Peace was born on that Christmas morning, He brought peace and goodwill to men.—A. F.

Rest and Comfort

TIME, in the poet's words, says a famous editor, brings roses, and the loveliest of them all is the white rose of death. But our true, abiding rest, our unfailing comfort, is to be found in the sacred Scriptures. Open them, and, if we will, we may escape from the currents and waves of the atmosphere around us, and be plunged in the profoundest sense of the presence of God.

The Great Sun

THE fires of the great Sun are not dying. They are lighting up the regions that are still under the shadows of night and death, and the Bible will shine on as the world's one book.—W. R. N.

WHITHER BOUND?

WHEN the last word has been said about heredity the practical fact remains that none of us can choose our grandparents. Whatever they were they were, and we are of the here and now, with no chance to retouch the past or eliminate undesirable antecedents. On the whole, it would seem wiser not to spend too much thought on where we came from, but concentrate our energies on where we are going. Heredity may have bound us hand and foot, but if we are really Christian we cannot be hindered from walking with God. —A. F.

THERE has passed away at Benton, U. S. A., to which place he had retired about three years ago, the Rev. James D. Gold, who for ten years and more served both Blackfoot Indians and white people under the Presbyterian Board of National Missions in Browning, Mont. His parish was one of great difficulties because of distances to be travelled in the round of pastoral work, and because of the peculiarly severe winters when roads would be impassable and the church all but frozen in. Born in Scotland, he came to America when he was twenty years old, and was educated at the College of the Ozarks and Lebanon Seminary. Before going into Montana he was Presbyterian minister at Uniontown, Penn. He was in the ministry forty-five years.

A Church Solely for Youth.

UNUSUAL Thanksgiving services were held in the Church of the Crossroads, Honolulu, when the members themselves conducted the worship on the Sunday after Thanksgiving. This plan of allowing the members to take part in the service is followed several times a year by the Church of the Crossroads, which is a church solely for young people. Membership in the church is maintained fairly equal between representatives of Anglo-Saxon, Japanese, Chinese, Korean, Filipino and Hawaiian ancestry.

Edward J. Kushi, a Japanese student at the University of Hawaii and Vice-Moderator of the church, presided at the service. Others taking part included a Korean girl, a Japanese girl, and a Chinese boy, all students at high schools or normal schools, who spoke on Thanksgiving themes.

On Making Resolutions

ANOTHER Yuletide has come and gone and we are at the beginning of a new year. If 1927 has not brought me all the happiness I desired, truth compells me to say that it has brought more than I deserved. It is good for all of us when there is just enough grief to make the joys of life really appreciated. The sweet is all the sweeter because of the bitter that preceded it. The night makes its own peculiar contribution to the day. And pain creates a larger capacity for pleasure. So, when you think of the past year with its grief, its bitter experiences, its night winds of despair, and the pain all these brought—think also of the joys, the sweet, the day and the pleasure!

But the year has gone and another one has taken its place. What this new year will mean in the experiences it will bring no human can tell. Knowing that it is likely to be called a platitude by some I have no hesitation in saying that, for even the most heavily handicapped life, 1928 is full of hope and promise.

But for me there will be no resolutions. If one is trying every day to do his best and to make each tomorrow better than today, there is no place for resolutions. It's a poor sort of individual, anyway, that says only once a year that he is going to try to do and be better. We haven't learned anything if we haven't learned that resolutions are easily made and as easily broken. Unless one has a real desire to do good, resolutions are worthless, and if he has a sincere longing for better things they will come in spite of resolutions.

If I were to make a resolution, it would be that I would speak only good of others or nothing at all. Suppose all Peterborough made such a resolution and lived up to it, can you imagine the change that would come over the face of things? For one thing there would be more economy in the use of words—and fewer sore hearts!—A. F.

GETTING OUT TO VOTE

While the Examiner has commented upon the fact that able-bodied citizens with no physical handicap to keep them from the polls have refused to vote unless driven to the place where they mark their ballots it should be remembered that there are those who are not able to walk to the polls and yet who are anxious to have a chance to express their opinion on municipal matters.

Citizens who are in that category were of course excepted from anything said in the column about apathetic voters and for their benefit it might be pointed out that many of the candidates are providing means of transportation and that a telephone call will undoubtedly ensure voters of this kind being taken to the polls and home again after they have exercised their ballots.

People who are anxious to perform their duty as citizens even when their physical condition makes it difficult for them to do so should undoubtedly be encouraged and assisted in every way possible.

They are in quite a different class from other citizens quite capable of walking a block or two to vote who refuse to put themselves to that much trouble.

KEEPING FAITH.

Mayor Holloway and Ald. Malcolm McIntyre, Chairman of the Manufacturers Committee, in their card to the electors endorsing the Westclox by-law points out that the submission of the measure at the municipal election is simply implementing a promise made to the Westclox Company before the erection of the new building commenced.

The fixed assessment provided for in the by-law was asked for by the Company at that time, but when it was pointed out that the submission of a by-law would involve a cost to the city of several hundred dollars the Company readily decided to proceed with the construction work, confident that when the ratepayers were given a chance to vote on the question their verdict would be favorable.

The Examiner has no fear that this confidence was misplaced.

The Westclox Company is indeed, as the Mayor and Chairman point out, "one of the most progressive industrial concerns in the city" and ratepayers will show their appreciation of that fact on Monday.

Incidentally it should be remembered that particular by-law requires the support of two-thirds of those votes to carry.

It should pass that minimum by a comfortable margin.

A LAST WORD.

Notices telling each person on the list where he or she is to vote on Monday have been mailed and this information should prove a material factor in bringing out a large vote.

In fact it leaves the indifferent citizen without much chance to produce an alibi for failure to exercise his franchise.

For the benefit of those who may be in doubt on some point or other in connection with the election and to further assist in helping to secure a more general expression of public opinion it may be stated once again that the polls open at 9 o'clock and close at 5 p.m.

In the case of aldermanic candidates it is necessary to vote for at least four candidates.

Five are to be elected and five may be voted for but marking ballots for less than four or more than five invalidates the ballots so marked.

In the Board of Education election where five are to be chosen there are no regulations against "plumping."

The elector may vote for five, four, three, two or one as he prefers.

In addition to these contests the election for the Mayoralty and the Utilities Commission, there are two by-laws.

The Examiner, as a last word, would urge all citizens who have the franchise to exercise it and let Monday's verdict be that of practically all the electorate and not merely of 50 or 60 per cent. of it.

GOODBYE AND WELCOME

The world is at the threshold of another year; tonight we say farewell to 1927 and eagerly welcome 1928.

For Canada the year that is quickly speeding on to its extinction has been memorable.

It has been marked by the nation-wide celebration of the Dominion's Diamond Jubilee, an event that more than any one factor save alone Canada's participation in the great war has helped to awaken an interest in Canadian history, a pride in Canadian advancement and progress and a satisfaction in Canadian citizenship.

It has been a great year for Canada. We are all of us better Canadians than we were a year ago today, because of the wonderful outburst of pent up enthusiasm for Canada that distinguished the Diamond Jubilee celebration.

And it has been a great year for Peterborough.

Here it has been made notable by the marked development of a community spirit that made its appearance in the preparations for the Diamond Jubilee celebration and has been in evidence on other occasions since.

The value of such a gesture of co-operation and good-will to a city cannot be over-estimated and because this spirit of mutual helpfulness has been on the increase in Peterborough during the year 1927 should be remembered gratefully by citizens of Peterbourough.

Goodbye 1927—may 1928 bring Canada and Peterborough still greater blessings.

THAT CHICAGO "TRIAL."

The "trial" of School Superintendent McAndrew, of Chicago—suspended because Mayor Thompson charged him with putting King George's ideas into the Windy City's educational system—is developing many amusing features, says The Border Cities Star. This could be expected, of course, considering the farcical nature of the whole situation that has developed since "Big Bill" went on the warpath in the last election campaign and swore to "get" all and sundry minions of the British sovereign.

One Chicago teacher, testifying at the "trial" this week, accused Mr. McAndrew of using slang. "I'll betcha 50 cents none of them got it," the superintendent said on one occasion, according to the witness. He was referring to a music test. In another instance he used the expression, "O Lord, where did you get that?" when she asked him to correct a "bad boy" who had been swearing.

Neither of the expressions quoted offers a particularly delicate example of good English, but isn't Mr. Thompson opposed to the English language anyhow? He wants Chicago pupils to talk "pure American." Perhaps that's what Mr. McAndrew had in mind, in the one instance, at any rate. "I'll betcha" and "You betcha" are part and parcel of the language today. Ask Ring Lardner or Will Rogers or Mr. Thompson himself if this isn't so.

THE SHIPPING RING FALLS OUT.

There is trouble in the North Atlantic Conference, that gathering representative of North Atlantic shipping concerns which hitherto has controlled the rates for both passenger and freight traffic between Canada and the United States and European countries and against which the attack of the Peterson investigation of some years ago was directed. Until recently, the members of the Conference (from which the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, the shipping company controlled by the Canadian National Railways, withdrew) have managed to get along upon fairly amicable and harmonious terms. The Conference fixed the rates in accordance with which passengers and freight were carried across the Atlantic, and the different shipping companies loyally abided by them.

But a few months ago the Cunard line, a powerful British shipping organization, decided for reasons of its own to strike out for itself. It announced considerable reductions in the passenger rates which had previously prevailed, and in spite of pressure brought upon it from fellow-members of the Conference, it declined to alter the new policy which it had adopted. And now comes the announcement that the Canadian Pacific Steamships have withdrawn from the Conference, in protest at this manoeuvre, and there looms ahead the interesting possibility of a rate war upon the North Atlantic upon a gigantic scale with the Cunard line and the Canadian Pacific Steamships as the chief participants. Rumor has it that the Canadian Pacific will not be content to establish its own passenger rates, but will enter the field of freight rate-cutting, with the much discussed cattle rate as the first item to receive attention. It is the opinion of officials of the Department of Agriculture that that rate, now standing at from $15 to $18 per head, will be brought down to from $10 to $12 per head, while it is also believed that the Canadian Pacific (and, in all probability, other lines as well) will meet the special rates which have been adopted by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, which is not a member of the Conference, upon certain exports.

This will be good news for those who are endeavoring to place a greater quantity of Canadian exports upon the British and European markets. One of the reasons why Canada has not captured a larger amount of such business is that the Atlantic freight rates, dictated by the North Atlantic Conference, have been too high to allow goods being disposed of at a profit. This has been especially true of cattle. Although the embargo upon the export of Canadian cattle to the Old Country has been long since removed, very few animals have gone forward, since the prices offered in the United States have been too favorable to make oversea shipment a profitable arrangement. With the rate for cattle brought down by $5.00 or $6.00 per head, it is quite possible that the British market will be re-opened to Canadian shippers and that Canadian steers will once more cross the Atlantic in some volume.

Withdrawal of the Canadian Pacific Steamships from the North Atlantic Conference, coupled with the announcement that this line will set about the establishment of its own rates, constitutes a serious threat to the supremacy hitherto enjoyed by the members of the Conference. With the Canadian Government Merchant Marine already setting its own rates, the Canadian Pacific Steamships about to adopt the same policy, and other lines in all probability following suit, a day of lower trans-Atlantic freight rates, with accompanying benefits of almost untold value, is commencing to dawn for the Canadian shipper and exporter.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, December 31 (Canadian Press). — Little business was done with foreign buyers in grain here yesterday. There was no improvement in the demand from local or country buyers for coarse grains, and the domestic market was quiet but firm.

Extreme dullness again marked the trade in spring and winter wheat grades of flour, but prices were steady.

The millfeed was active and values were firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet, but the undertone was steady.

Owing to the near approach of the holidays there was a steady demand from grocers and other dealers for eggs yesterday, and a fairly active business was done. The tone of the market was steady. The receipts were 806 cases.

The demand for potatoes continued dull, but values were unchanged. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.15 per bag of 90 pounds; Prince Edward Island whites at $1.05 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.00 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk; and New Brunswick White potatoes at 95c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, December 31 (Canadian Press). — Wheat prices tended downward yesterday influenced by an apparent lull in North American wheat export business and also by snowfalls in domestic wheat territory. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled ½c to ½c net lower; with corn and oats each at ½c decline to ½c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of $1.00.

Although some Canadian wheat was said to have been taken by Europe yesterday on direct offers from Winnipeg, export dealings otherwise in North American wheat were about at a standstill. Meanwhile Winnipeg messages to Chicago said wheat storage in Canadian lakehead elevators had risen 10,000,000 bushels since the close of lake navigation and that virtually no grain is moving all-rail as yet toward Atlantic ports. Another bearish factor was word of favorable weather for the progress of wheat harvest in Argentina, and there was also talk of enlarged offerings from South Argentine shippers.

Heavy snows reported at various Kansas points and elsewhere southwest and west were looked upon here as important in regard to winter wheat crop prospects. Advices heretofore were that winter wheat generally was without snow protection, and that under such circumstances the outlook was somewhat dubious with a cold wave forecast. On the other hand, the market yesterday received considerable support on the ground that the cash wheat basis showed little change here or in the North-West, although bids on durum at Minneapolis were sharply lower in some cases.

Corn values were eased by better weather for the handling of the new grain. A good deal of notice, too, was taken of sales of corn to be shipped to Chicago from Omaha, but something of an offset was the announcement of corn export buying to the amount of 100,000 bushels. Oats followed corn. Provisions were firmer, helped by steadiness of the hog market.

WANTS TO KNOW.

Dear Sir: Would you kindly state in your paper that I fully agree with Mr. Butler and Mr. Faiers of North Monaghan that the ratepayers of North Monaghan should be notified, or a notice put in the local press, when the annual meeting is to take place. I have been a ratepeyer for several years in North Monaghan and I thought school trustees would be elected the same time as the council, or I should certainly have been at the meeting to give my vote for Mr Milley, who is the man for the position. Yours sincerely.

ABOUT THE DRAIN

To The Editor:

Dear Sir.—Referring to the statement over the signature of Mr. T. Hunter, where he sets out what he asserts as fact, namely: "The drainage question could have been settled for $60.00, but the Reeve and Council persisted in a mistaken course. It has cost $820.00 for a survey, and is not started yet"; also stating "T. M. Hunter was the only Councillor voting against the big expenditure."

Mr. Hunter would do well to retract such utterance, from the fact, that there never was a vote taken by the Council of North Monaghan with regard to the Park Street drain, and Mr. Hunter should know there wasn't when attaching his name to a statement that is not in accordance with the facts.

R. T. LILLICO, Reeve.

WANTS IDEAS.

The Editor of The Examiner,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—May I suggest through your columns that candidates for election should be required to state to the people what their plans will be if they are elected.

It is not right to merely say to the people, "Please elect me." There are hundreds of people in the city who do not know the candidates, and if these candidates do not say what they will do if they get into Council, or whatever body they run for, how can people vote intelligently?

Surely a man running for public office must have some idea more than merely to get elected? If he has no other idea what use is he to Peterborough? And if he has an idea that will make it worthwhile electing him, shouldn't the people know it?

Yours truly,
WORRIED VOTER.

SMITH ELECTION

To the Editor:

Dear Sir:

Mr. Coons told the Reeve he was going to stand for reeve. Mr. Coons had himself nominated for reeve, deputy and councillor. He also had Mr. Cann nominated for deputy, who after the nomination assured Mr. Coons that he would not oppose him (Mr. Coons) if he had no other opponent.

Ascertaining the above I decided to elect to enter the deputy reeve contest knowing the necessity of all old reeves bringing in bridge reports at the January session that means from three to five thousand dollars subsidy from the Government for 1927.

I consequently leave the matter to the ratepayers, who should be the parties to determine such matters.

Respectively Yours
GEORGE H. SIMPSON

SINGLES OUT DR. CRAIG.

Editor, The Peterborough Examiner.

Dear Sir,—This is the only means I have as a private citizen of expressing my appreciation of the number of highly qualified men who are this year offering themselves as candidates for public offices. It speaks well for our city to see men of such high calibre being willing to give freely of their time and talents.

I cannot mention all those whom I would like to see elected, but I want to single out Dr. J. J. Craig for the Board of Education, because I feel that the city is indebted to him for the enormous amount of work he did in connection with the First of July celebration ,which turned out to be one of the biggest things ever put on in Peterborough.

Of course everyone knows what a hustler Dr. Craig is, and of the splendid work he has done in the Kiwanis Club. I also know, too, that it was to a great extent due to his efforts that we are having the new addition to our Collegiate Institute. Here's a man we want to keep on the Board. Let's all vote for him.

Yours truly,
D. BETHUNE.

Lakefield Presbyterian Ladies Hold Annual Business Meeting.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 31.—The annual meeting of the Presbyterian Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Miss Tanner on Wednesday, December 21, and was attended by a goodly number of members despite the busy season, which makes extra demands on the busy housekeeper.

The president, Mrs. J. W. Ridpath, was in the chair and conducted the opening exercises. After the business was discussed Mrs. Ridpath addressed Mrs. Ross "who has been so devoted to the work of the Society and its extension since coming to the village, giving of her strength, her time and her energy in the cause which lies dear to all our hearts and as Christmas is a season of gift-giving the W.M.S. wish to present Mrs. Ross with a life membership certificate and pin as a token of love and appreciation of one who has grown very dear to ever member."

Mrs. Ross was very much surprised but thanked her friends for their remembrance. The gift pleased her more than anything else could have done, as it entails the privilege of lifelong membership and service to the cause of missions and the work of His Kingdom.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Andrew Fairbairn.

Miss Agnes Millar sang sweetly a pleasing version of "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say."

The secretary, Mrs. J. M. Simpson, presented the annual report of the Society, which showed a successful year.

During the past year ten regular meetings were held and also nine sewing meetings, which were held at various homes, which not only were of material assistance in preparing the bale but also were of social value in bringing the members together.

A bale valued at $37.48 was sent to the supply secretary, containing quilts, clothing and Christmas presents. A nice warm quilt was also given to a family who had lost their home by fire.

During the year the text book entitled "Moslem Women" had been studied with profit.

In July a delightful and successful afternoon tea was held on the grounds of Mr. Preston.

A tribute was paid to the work of the Welcome and Welfare secretary, Mrs. Ross, who had visited the homes of people who seldom went to church and had induced them to send their children to Sunday school.

The branch has a paid up membership of 18 and there is every hope of increasing the number.

Instead of a thankoffering meeting the congregation was asked to co-operate and the response was most generous.

During the past year the grim reaper removed one who had always been an enthusiastic, useful member and an earnest faithful worker, Mrs. J. C. Smith. Another faithful member, Mrs. Clifford, has removed to Peterborough.

The Society owes a debt of gratitude to Miss Tanner for the use of her home for the meetings.

The Society took pleasure in presenting Mrs. Ross with a life membership as a token of esteem and appreciation of her leadership.

The nominating committee presented a report and on motion the following officers were elected:

President—Mrs. J. W. Ridpath.
Vice President—Mrs. McKibbin.
Secretary—Mrs. J. Simpson.
Treasurer—Miss Tanner.
"Glad Tidings" Secretary—Mrs. C. Thomson.
Welcome and Welfare Secretary—Mrs. (Rev.) J. Ross.
Roll Call Secretary—Miss Preston.
Literature Secretary—Miss Hilda McKibbin.
Programme Secretary—Miss A. Millar.
Supply Committee—Mrs. M. F. Sanderson, Mrs. C. Thomson and Miss A. McKibbin.

Before the meeting adjourned afternoon tea was served by Miss Tanner.

SANTA AT LAKEFIELD P.S.

On Thursday afternoon, December 22, Santa Claus arrived about 3.30 to pay a visit to the Lakefield Public school. Scarlet clad, white-beard and all he drove up, not with the traditional reindeer, but in a modern sedan motor driven by a smart chauffeur. He drove up the main street, and to the school, where he was welcomed by the children. He made Mr. Wannamaker's room his headquarters, and presented the pupils with gifts and addressed them in an admonitory fashion. Santa, however, was generous and visited all the room of the Public School to say "how do you do?" to the children, and hear requests for further benefactions. Each room, especially in the Primary Department, had a tree, and the pupils all spent a marvellous afternoon. Refreshments were also served.

A.Y.P.A. Card Party.

Seven tables of euchre were played on Thursday evening at the A.Y.P.A. card party. Prizes were won by Mrs. W. Millage and Mr. E. Bickell, and the consolation prizes by Miss Odell Watson and Mr. Charles Lake.

The Canadian Legion is holding a dance and card party in the Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening, January 3. A fine radio outfit will be drawn for during the evening. There will be both round and square dancing and a good time is assured.

RYE

FOR

Reeve

I am again seeking election to this office at the request of many ratepayers of North Monaghan, and appeal for the support of the electors, who know my record during my several years in office.

Dr. J. H. HESS

has served the municipality of Hastings for 17 years.

Last year he was instrumental in obtaining a grant of $25,000 for permanent paving in the village.

He has been Reeve for eleven years and during that time has given his best in the interests of those who reposed their confidence in him.

In soliciting the support of the electors at this time, he promises the same careful attention and active interest in Hastings affairs—and he will be a contestant for the position of Warden.

VOTE HESS

Reeve of Hasting

To the Electors of the Town of Campbellford

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Having served you for six years in he Council, I am again a Candidate, and will appreciate that generous support from our citizens which has been so fully accorded me in the past elections. While a member of your Council, I was for four years Chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee, during which time the saving in this department was considerable when compared to the expenditures before or since. If I am again elected I will endeavor to serve you to the best of my ability and with the same strict regard to economy as in former years.

With best wishes to you all for the coming year,—I am,

Yours faithfully,

R. H. COLE

2d-154-4109

To the Electors of the Township of Smith.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having decided to again ask your support for the Deputy Reeveship of Smith, I do so mainly for the following reasons:

The Highways Department at Toronto requested, at the Fall Session of this year, all the County Representatives to bring in a report of all County bridges in their respective townships that are over 20 feet in length, giving the exact location, lot, concession, etc. Such report to be concentrated in a united form, and resolutions and by-laws passed embodying such bridges in; in order for the County to avail itself of the extra government assistance for the year 1927; which means, if such proceedings are carried out according to request, from three to five thousand dollars receipt to the County for 1927.

Your rates for 1927 and the conduct of the affairs by the present Council have elicited practically no criticisms from the intelligent ratepayer;

Therefore I again ask for a renewal of your confidence for the year 1928, so that I can assist in securing the desired percentage for highways and bridges for the County.

Wishing all the Compliments of the season.

I am, Yours,

George H. Simpson.

2d, 154

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE MUNICIPALITY OF

Campbellford

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having served for two years as Commissioner on the Water and Light Board and having received a nomination for the coming year, I am again a candidate for the honor. During my term in office, I have endeavored to carry on the business of the Commission in the best possible manner. Also during this time, the Board had returned the amount of $35,000.00 to the town for the purpose of reducing the rate of taxation. The ratepayers have received further benefit by a reduction of ten per cent in the domestic power rates, giving a twenty per cent discount where it had previously been ten.

If returned to office, I will do my duty in the best interests of the welfare of the town and its citizens.

Wishing you all a very Happy and Prosperous New Year, I am,

Respectfully yours,

A. L. Riendeau

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE Township Of Smith

I have been placed in nomination for the position of Deputy-Reeve of Smith Township.

Having had several years' experience as a member of the Council, I feel I can give good service to the ratepayers and, if elected, will give earnest attention to the duties of my office.

I respectfully solicit the support of the ratepayers, and wish all a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

ELECTION CARD.

To the Electors of Campbellford

Having definitely decided to allow my name to go before you for the responsible position of Mayor for 1928, I make this appeal to you for your support, if you consider I have the ability to handle with satisfaction this important post.

Our town stands to-day in a very critical condition. True, we have a few thousand dollars in the bank, but at the same time we have an urgent call for assistance from our labouring people, which would soon use up our little surplus. Our town, since 1923, has been on the downward path without any reason for same. What we need to climb back again is new industries and the steady running of the present industries. After sizing up the work of the present Council, I would say it is very easy to sit snug on a cash box and display a stop signal of economy, but quite another to run to open the gates of future prosperity.

What I consider Campbellford needs at present is an up-and-coming Mayor, who carries not a financial padlock, but the keys to a busy manufacturing town.

This town should take example from the capitalists who are eager to invest money in the country and make our great asset—our cheap light and power—known to them as a drawing power instead of hiding it behind a bushel basket.

I am strongly in favor of making the Campbellford Cloth Company live up to its agreement with the town, which I consider is only fair to the ratepayers and also the laboring class of people in our midst, and, if elected, will insist that your agreement with this company must be lived up to in every detail. If the position of Mayor is a question of qualification or ability, I am pleased to offer the following:

75th Canadian Infantry Battalion,
In the Field, October 4th, 1917.

To Mrs. T. E. Hyland,
162 Coleman Ave.,
Belleville, Ont., Canada.

Dear Madam,—

I take great pleasure in notifying you that your husband, Sergt. T. Hyland, has been recommended as a commissioned officer.

His work has been so satisfactory as an N.C.O. that I consider his services as an officer will be of the greatest value to the battalion. He is at present in England, attending a training course, and I hope to have him returned to the battalion on the completion of the course.

C. C. Harbottle,
Lieut.-Col. Commanding 75th Canadian Infantry Batt.

I may not be able to see you all personally. I therefore take this opportunity of soliciting your support and wishing you all a very prosperous New Year.

Yours for Success,

Capt. T. E. Hyland.

TENNIS CLUB "AT HOME"

A very successful and enjoyable dance was held last evening in the hall of the Canadian Legion, when the Tennis Club held their annual "At Home." Between four and five hundred people enjoyed the excellent music provided by Gilbert Watson and his Sunnyside Pavilion (Toronto) dance orchestra. The program included a number of novelty and favor dances and a cause of much laughter was the draw for a baby, which turned out to be a young pig, and was won by Jack Primeau. The decorations of the hall were carried out in colored crepe tissue paper, which gave the interior a festive appearance. The committee in charge of arrangements included Messrs. A. McLeish, B. Jackson, F. Bowness, H. A. Cranfield, W. A. Jackson, H. Wilgar.

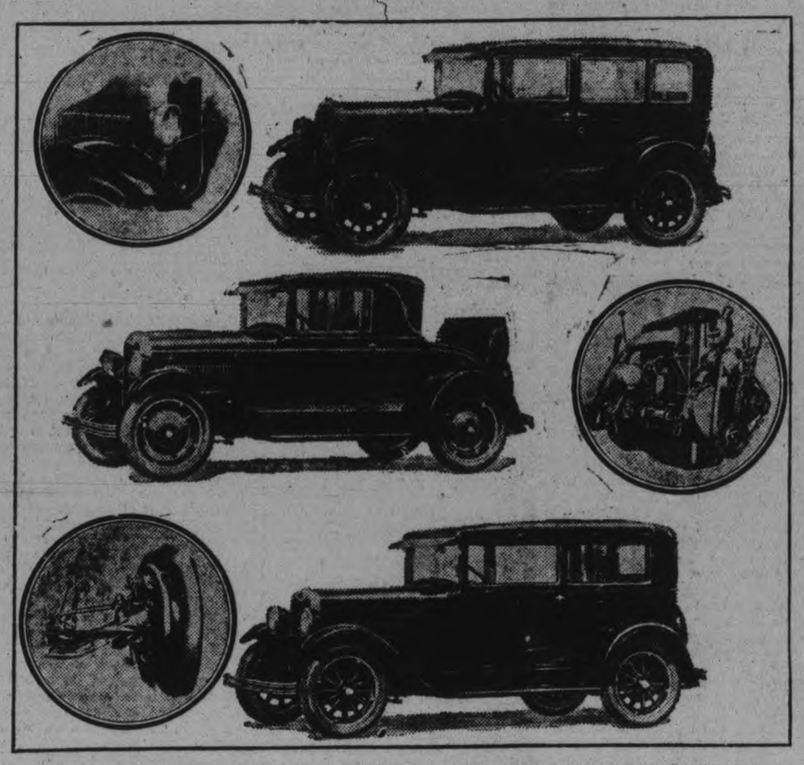
Grain Prices Go Up As Weather Changes

CHICAGO, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—Reports that high winds in the West were causing snow to drift and leaving many fields unprotected tended to bring about early higher prices today for wheat. Upturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool were also a stimulus to buyers here. Starting at ½c decline to ¾c advance, Chicago wheat soon scored material gains all around. Corn, oats, and provisions were also firmer, corn opening unchanged to ½c up and later showing a moderate general rise.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 126, March 129¼, Corn, December 81⅝, March 86¼. Oats, December 51¼, March 53⅞.

THE NEW CHEVROLET



That interest aroused in the New Chevrolet has been well merited is indicated by these first photographs of this latest addition to the light car field. The rounded corners and graceful lines of the new Chevrolet sedan are shown in the upper right-hand photograph. The smart sport cabriolet, with its folding seat and disc wheels, occupies the centre, while at the lower right is the coach, the body of which is five inches longer than former models. Insets are: upper left, the massive new radiator and heavy full crown fenders; right, the sturdy and clean-cut motor of the latest model, with new two-port exhaust and complete enclosure; lower left, a view of one of the four-wheel brakes. The new Chevrolets, which are reduced in price, are to be available at once. They are larger and longer than former models.

MORE MEN GIVE

and we are proud of it," he concluded.

Walter Stocker.

"A resident of the City of Peterborough for 40 years, in business for 35 years, a member of the Canadian Patriotic Association for seven years, a member of the City Council for four years, Chairman of the Board of Works, also Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. I am pleased to notice some candidates are advocating day labor. I have advocated this for years," said Ald. Walter Stocker. "All we want is some men with vision, and the spirit of their convictions, and energy, and time, and we could open the people's eyes. We could pay union wages, work nine hours per day, and pay for a power mixer and power graded in one year. How can we expect to build up a city if we send the bulk of the money out of the city? If I am returned I will do all in my power to have all city work done by day labor. Build up Peterborough."

FRED T. TUGGEY.

"We know that this city needs new industries to make it what it should be. Why don't we get industries? If it is the power question, let us make a special effort to get at the Government if it is possible, and make things encouraging for industries to come here. I am in favor of trying to do this.

"I am in favor of a new industry which to my mind is an advantage to the city. That is a paving plant owned and controlled by the city. We have the material and we have the men. The taxpayers have to raise the money to pay for paving. Why give corporations big dividends and the taxpayers higher taxes?

"This city needs careful judgment, careful decisions, in regard to all questions that come up for discussion in regard to our city in general. There are many other things which may come up for consideration which men on the outside do not know anything about until they are elected and have the proposition placed before them."

This is the platform of Fred T. Tuggey, who has several times been a candidate for municipal honors. He has been in this city for twenty-four years and is a contractor and builder.

E. BRUCE FOWLER.

E. Bruce Fowler, who is seeking re-election to the Board of Education, has been a resident of this city practically all his life. He is Canadian representative of Hood, Haggie & Sons, Ltd., Newcastle-on-Tyne, who are the oldest and largest makers of steel wire cables and cordage in the British Isles. For many years he has maintained a sales office and distributing warehouse in Peterborough.

Mr. Fowler is a director of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition and Y.M.C.A., a member of Nicholls Hospital Board, and the Chamber of Commerce, and has been for six years a member of the Board of Education. He was chairman of the building committee that gathered the special information for the new addition to the Collegiate Institute, and during 1927 he was chairman of the Board.

J. A. McNABB.

A member of the Board of Education for the past two years, J. A. McNabb, candidate for re-election feels that the experience gained thereby will stand him in good stead during the coming term. As member of the Finance and Property Committees, he thoroughly understands the affairs in connection with the new Collegiate building, and would like to be in at the finish of the work which he helped begin.

Mr. McNabb is well known in the city, of which he has been a resident for the last fifteen years. For seven years he has been operating a chain store organization, and has come to know the public interests. He has also taken part in other public movements, being a director of the Peterborough Exhibition, and of the Children's Aid Society. He was also a charter director of the local Kiwanis Club, and is a citizen who lends himself to furthering anything that is good for Peterborough.

FORESTRY MATTERS

shop worn subject, but I feel that it is a subject worthy of deep thought. Therefore if I can persuade the people that some change is needed with regard to our forests and that the laws on our statute books must be backed by strong public opinion, my time will not have been wasted.

"To Peterborough people, forestry is not a new subject. Many of the older families of the city having derived wealth from the forest resources of this county in the old days. Some idea of the value to Ontario of her timber resources may be gained from the fact that it has brought to the province $120,000,000 each of the last ten years, has resulted in a payroll of $35,000,000 each year and made up ten per cent. of the income of the province.

"Ontario has been in the lumbering business for one hundred years and it is fitting that to-night we should sit down to count the cost and decide whether we have or have not acted intelligently. Though Ontario has had the finest timber resources in the world, there is only a forty-five year supply of white pine left, and unless we do something, there will not be any valuable timber after that time." Mr. Finlayson mentioned some of the main timber areas where white pine is growing extensively. The supplies of maple, birch and other timber was also touched upon.

"Are we, after one hundred years, going to do anything to preserve our timber wealth? I do not blame the lumberman for past exploitation. The government encouraged him and therefore, it is up to the province to devise a remedy.

Three Districts.

"The province is divided into three parts, the southern part along the St. Lawrence west to Georgian Bay, which is intended by nature for agriculture; the Huron-Ottawa territory, including Parry Sound and Muskoka districts, as well as the northern parts of Peterborough and other counties, and thirdly, that vast new land north of the French River, essentially a timber country. Our remedy. We propose to restore timber areas in the southern part where it is adviseable and urge the farmers to take advantage of our offers in this connection. We have several nurseries to supply young trees for the purpose of reforestation, among them those at St. Williams, Orono, Midhurst, Kemptville and Prince Edward. Between eight and nine million trees were distributed this year and I hope for the time when we will deliver twenty millions. We will give the farmer 3,500 trees suitable for his land, instruct him in planting and in addtion will supply him with five hundred spruce for the purpose of windbreaks and hedges, the result of which will be enormous when estimated in dollars and cents. Besides, the hedges will make our near countrysides look more beautiful, as in England.

"The farmer has been inclined to favor a crop that matures in a few months but if I can persuade him that the timber crop is quite as valuable and advisable, then my time will not have been wasted."

Trees a Crop

Mr. Finlayson drew a distinct line between mining and reforestation, when he stated that the mine, once exhausted is of no further value, while the crop of timber may be harvested and repeated indefinitely. The agriculturist each year may count himself wealthier because his crop has been harvested and his land is as good, if not better, so that he may repeat the process the following year. This is also the case with timber which is a crop of more extended cycle. Mention was made of the forestry policies of Norway, Sweden, Scandinavia and other countries, in which it is considered criminal to cut immature timber. "I consider it as great a crime to cut immature timber as it would be to cut a crop of grain in July. Timber must be treated as a crop, not as a mine!" declared Mr. Finlayson.

"The farmers are gradually coming to see the wisdom of reforestation on their lands and here is an opportunity for the service club which may take an interest in some small area, persuade its owner, and have it planted with small trees. The wisdom of this act will see seen ten or fifteen years later when a fine demonstration plot will have developed.

"We are also attempting, and with considerable success, to persuade the various counties to lay aside, say, one thousand acres and after thirty years of reforestation, we make them three offers. We will either buy out the crop, will sell it to them, or will continue in partnership with the county in reaping the benefits. All this is an experiment to restore land to the crop it is fitted to produce.

Moving Settlers.

"In pioneer days, when the lumberman was working a section, many of his employees settled on which which is not fit for agriculture. They made a good living in the camps or on the drive but when the lumbermen left, they found difficulty in living on their unfertile land; unfertile, so far as agriculture is concerned. With a view to assisting these settlers we have taken representatives to Northern Ontario to spy out the land and with their approval, have assisted a number of families to remove from parts of Haliburton County to the district around Englehart. These families have been assisted in every way and are now content. We hope, in the future to make this movement a more extensive one." In concluding this part of his address the speaker declared: "I would rather spend money in taking Canadians from poor to rich land than bring in settlers from foreign countries. Charity begins at home."

The closing of several townships "which are fit for only two crops, timber and tourists" has resulted or will result from these removals.

North of the French River and Upper Great Lakes is the Ontario of the future. While the population and business of the southern part of the province is lessening, the north is going ahead by leaps and bounds and eighty-five per cent of the wealth of Ontario lies there. Ontario is a gambler, and has spent money to open up this northern part, but it has proven, and is proving worth while. Iroquois Falls and Kapuskasing are indications of the increased business and progress of the north.

Realizing that their investments are large, paper companies, and indeed, the people of the north generally, are in sympathy with the government's desire to make the timber resources perpetual, and the cutting of the timber is on a cycle basis so that each area is only harvested about once in forty years. Spruce resources are being increased or will be increased, so that Ontario may possess the finest crops in the world.

The forests have given Canada a favorable trade balance across the border, thus benefitting the resident of Peterborough and Southern Ontario as well.

The Fire Menace.

"Our greatest problem, however, is the fire menace which each year has destroyed more of our timber wealth than is cut," continued Mr. Finlayson. "Millions of acres of potential wealth have been destroyed by fire and until 1923, there was not an adequate means of prevention.

"However, in that year, benefitting by the war, the government found a means whereby it could not only give employment to many splendid Canadian veterans, but could protect the forests as well and now there is a modern fire brigade in the form of aircraft, centred at advantageous positions in the north, and during the fire hazard, the timber areas are patrolled constantly. As a result, the annual loss by fire has been cut down from a million or more acres to thirty-five thousand acres." The speaker enumerated several incidents to show the efficiency and application of this air force.

In conclusion he said: "Every town and city of southern Ontario there are many people who think and give service, and it is these people, whom I would interest so that a great public opinion would be formed to back the government's drastic unpopular and unpleasant but necessary legislation with regard to the forests. The Government is going to go on and with its legislation backed by popular opinion will develop a future timber wealth for the province that will be worthy of Canada."

Vote of Thanks.

Kiwanian Joseph Wearing, as an old Simcoe county boy paid tribute to the ability and purpose of Hon. William Finlayson and voiced the appreciation of the entire gathering. His seconder was His Worship Magistrate Langley, who spoke in glowing terms of the speaker and his mission. President McNabb conveyed the vote of thanks to Mr. Finlayson.

Messrs. Lee and Rush were also thanked for their assistance, and the meeting closed with "O, Canada."

This is my record of service in Peterborough. I am leaving nothing to you to guess, but am showing what I have done. Don't buy a pig in a poke.

There is no big issue in the contest for the Board of Education. The work of the incoming Board will be the completion of the new Collegiate Building, the buying of the equipment, and the selecting of a competent staff of teachers.

To my mind, the appointment of competent teachers will be the all-important work of the coming year. We have teachers on our staffs at present who have given the very best of results under difficulties. With poor equipment and few facilities, they have given wonderful service. In making appointments to positions in the new school, these are the teachers who should be given the preference.

Vote to re-elect me to the Board of Education on Monday.

HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL.

Dr. JOHN J. CRAIG

You hear and see nothing but ECONOMY. This has been rolled over and over for years by nearly every candidate for election until it is a very big snowball indeed.

There is no taxpayer in the city who does not want necessary economy, but when that is all the candidates have to offer, it is like Mother Hubbard's cupboard—BARE.

GIVE US INSTEAD SOME NEW IDEAS! Let us get out of the rut. Where would we be if our local factories kept saying "Economy?" Progress with economy is right, but when it fails to progress, there is something else the matter. Let's find it.

Vote for a man who has progressed with economy, and may the New Year bring the citizens of Peterborough Health and Prosperity.

Prices Will Speak Louder Than Words

JOURNALISTS ENTERTAINED

So many people have undoubtedly a wrong conception of what we are endeavoring to do. Our plants here are really manufacturing plants as you will see. We are trying to manufacture or buy in Canada as nearly 100% of our cars as we possibly can. Already Chevrolet is 55 per cent. Canadian made, and Pontiac about 60 per cent. It has been very difficult in some cases to get a satisfactory start made but we are gradually gaining our object, and as time goes on, and if the volume permits, we hope to make quicker progress in the future than we have been able to make in the past.

A Canadian Development.

A great deal has been said about the invasion of American capital in Canada. As a native born Canadian, with a native born Canadian father and mother I say "More power to our neighbors to the south who will come in here and invest their money, as General Motors has invested it in Canada!" I think it is fair to say that probably as much as if not more than, the amount of capital invested in Canada is held by hundreds, if not by thousands, of shareholders in Canada to-day. Our contention is that when a company such as ours, comes into Canada, spends its money here in bricks and mortar, when it gives employment directly to thousands of workmen, when it pays out millions of dollars in wages to British Canadian subjects; when it buys a great many millions of dollars worth of parts and materials from other Canadian manufacturers, and when its employees are, as ours are, more than 98 per cent. British subjects, they should be welcomed to this country where capital has been needed, and where the interest of the country's future industry should be encouraged.

Spend Large Sums in Canada

It may interest you to know that General Motors of Canada, Limited, leaves more money in Canada than it could possibly take out, for the reason that the amount of extra money left in the country, on account of the very large purchases of raw material and parts for the export business very much more than balances any profits which might ever be made. You undoubtedly would be interested to know that this year we shall have purchased in Canada nearly $27,000,000 worth of materials of various kinds. We have paid to the Government in Excise and Sales Taxes and in duties, $9,800,000. Total wages paid directly to our own employees at Oshawa and at our Branches amounted to $7,821,000. Total number of people employed directly has averaged about 5,600. Surely these figures show the value of our industry to Canada, and entitle us to rank as real Canadian manufacturers.

Constituent Companies

General Motors of Canada, Limited, is a holding company, the constituent companies being, McLaughlin Motor Car Company, Limited, Chevrolet Motor Company of Canada, Limited, Cadillac Motor Car Company of Canada, Limited, Oakland Motor Car Company of Canada, Limited, Olds Motors Works of Canada, Limited, General Motors Trucks Company of Canada, Limited, General Motors Products, Truck and Coach, ivision of Canada, Limited, Limited, Canadian Products, Walkerville, and General Motors Products of Canada, Limited, the latter being a sales organization, handling the products of some of the above-mentioned companies. Then, we also have a company known as Modern Dwellings, Limited, through which Company houses are built for some of our employees and sold to these employees on easy terms, also a recent incorporation, known as Motor Accounting Company. This Company was formed for the sole reason of assisting our dealers in their accounting and bookkeeping, it being realized that any exertion or money spent in that direction would be very beneficial to the dealers, who are enabled to set up a proper accounting system. Expert accountants are prepared to visit our dealers, help them set up their books, help them organize their businesses, and make themselves as useful as possible. This new venture is proving to be very acceptable and of great benefit to the dealers.

Fisher Bodies

On all of our cars we use Fisher designed bodies, and you will be interested this afternoon in going through our body plant to see the wonderful strides we have made in turning out a very high-grade of coach work. We follow the Fisher designs; we use their factory practices wherever possible, and the quality of the product is unsurpassed.

You will also be shown through the Radiator plant, where you will see how radiators are made from brass and copper rolled and manufactured in Canada. You will also see our wonderful new stamping plant, in the equipping of which we have spared no expenditure which would make it absolutely the most modern and up-to-date plant in the world, equipped with the finest machinery of every description, and you will see huge dies for fenders and other parts being manufactured on the spot.

In addition to the above-mentioned companies, we have associated with us as an entirely separate organizations, however, but with headquarters in our office, General Motors Acceptance Corporation, which aids in the financing of the dealers, and also in the retail financing of dealer to consumer.

Welfare Work

Our activities in connection with welfare work are broad, though in no way paternal. Every employee has medical inspection, and during the past two years this inspection has been the rule in connection with our employment office. We have a well equipped plant hospital, with doctors and nurses in attendance—in fact, we try to inject the human element into our business just as much as possible.

Our employees have what is called The Association of Employees, and various committees throughout the plant take care of all grievances of every nature, thus promoting good will and fine 'esprit de corps" so absolutely necessary these days if the best results are to be obtained between employer and employee.

Group insurance, taking in about 90% of our employees is in force.

Employees Shareholders

We also have what we style the Employees' Saving and Investment Fund. Into this fund our employees are allowed to pay twenty per cent. of the total amount of their salaries. For every dollar the employee puts into the fund, we add fifty cents, the component portion being invested in the stock of the Corporation at advantageous prices. Interest at the rate of 6% is paid on the entire amount. Each year a group is formed, and at the end of five years the employee is paid the value of his or her investment in General Motors stock. In the past, some of the classes have shown most remarkable results for the employee. In this scheme, the worst that could happen a man would be—should he leave our employ for any reason—that he would get his money back, with 6% compound interest added from the moment he put it in. Thus quite a large percentage of our employees are now shareholders in the Company and participate in the profits.

This is a brief outline of the physical composition of our Company, and gives an idea of our many and varied activities here in Oshawa.

Some Difficulties.

The motor business in Canada is, owing to our geographical position and the comparatively small population of the country, which is scattered over a distance of over 3,600 miles from east to west, and over a territory from north to south of not much more than one hundred miles, rather a difficult one. About 80 per cent. of our sales take place in the comparatively brief period of 7 months, while 55 per cent. is done in 4 months. During the balance of the year, unless a reasonable amount of Export business can be secured, you can readily see the difficulty of carrying on. Fortunately, our Export business, on account of our association with the parent Company in the United States, has been very good—in fact, nearly 40 per cent. of our entire production is exported to some eighty foreign countries. We are, therefore, able to carry on a fairly even schedule, giving our employees reasonably steady employment.

When you stop to consider that the population of Canada is approximately nine million, and that with a five or seven cent street car fare, it is possible to reach as many people in the city of New York as there are in the whole of Canada, you can see why it is much more expensive to carry on here in Canada than in the United States. The total number of cars in use in Canada is something less than one million; it is estimated that in Los Angeles County alone in California there are more cars than there are in the whole of Canada. In Canada there are only 23 cities of 10,000 and over; in this territory we have 898 direct dealers, with dealer outlets totalling 1,413.

How Business is Divided.

It will interest you to know where our Domestic business comes from. It is divided as follows: East of Fort William 65 per cent., West 35 per cent. The province of Ontario furnishes us with 44½ per cent. of our entire business.

During the year which is coming to a close, there have been approximately the same number of cars sold in Canada as in the previous year. A considerably greater number were imported during the past year, however, than ever before The total number manufactured was less than last year. General Motors' proportion of cars sold as compared with last year showed an increase of approximately 40 per cent. Our total percentage of cars sold in Canada this year has been approximately 40 per cent.

Grown Up With Business.

It has been said that the motor car business is a young man's business. Compared to many other industries, it is a young business, and naturally the people who have grown up in it are fairly young—perhaps taking myself as an example. In our organization here, we have built up around us a group of very fine, capable young, or comparatively young men. Many of them have been associated with us for a great many years. I am going to ask the chief officials of our company to stand up as I call their names, and I shall begin first with our General Manager, H. A. Brown. It has been said that he is one of the youngest executives in the Corporation to occupy so important a position. I can say in all sincerity that he deserves the appointment, and that he is capable of performing the duties which will fall heavily upon him. He was advanced in October from the position of Comptroller of the Company, and he well deserves the honor. I might say that before he had been acting in the capacity of Comptroller more than three months, the boys referred to him as our Scotch Comptroller—he can look after the "bawbees."

I hope I have not wearied you with all this detail, but we thought it advisable to give it to you in order that you would have a clear conception of our business, that you would see the personnel of our managerial staff, and that you would understand some of the difficulties and the many ramifications of the business.

We shall leave here immediately for a small temporary building which we have been using for some of our smaller conventions, where Mr. Mackinnon is going to take you into his confidence, showing you and having described to you a new line of cars which will, we think, create a world interest, and which you will endorse.

I again thank you for your presence here, and trust you will enjoy the program which we have laid out for you for the afternoon.

HICKMAN TO ENTER PLEA

Hickman's new admission as related by Cline was: 'She was restless Saturday morning; I was afraid she would make an outcry, and anyway, the $1,500 was more important to me than her right to live."

Officers continued their investigation yesterday of the murder of Ivy Thomas, a druggist, which has been confessed by Hickman and his admitted accomplice, Wilby Hunt, 16, who also is in jail. While attorneys prepared for an appearance of Hickman in court Tuesday to enter his plea, an elusive and persistent double for Hickman held a place in the complex picture.

The double came on the scene in the Bellevue Arms Apartment where Hickman, under the name of Donald Evans, engaged quarters November 23. On the previous day Ralph Katz, who had engaged rooms November 12, moved his belongings to a room near that of "Evans."

Katz and "Evans" were so similar in appearance that persons who knew both were unable to tell their pictures apart.

The similarity of the two youths brought confusion when police photographs of Hickman, taken when he was arrested for forgery, were shown John Henry, owner of the apartment house. He identified Hickman's picture as one of Katz. Mrs. Shirke, who managed the apartments for Henry, made the same mistake. Katz since has moved from the apartments.

In their investigation of admitted robberies by Hickman and Hunt, police have identified them as the pair who held up and stabbed B. L. Casteel, fruit stand operator, on Christmas Eve, 1925. Casteel identified pictures of the pair as his assailants.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Editor, The Examiner:

On the street yesterday one of my personal friends told me that Reeve Lillico was circulating a report that I made an untrue statement about the Park Street drain.

Now, I made the statement at the nomination in the presence of Mr. Lillico and he had then the chance to reply, but he kept silent until the last hour.

Now I can prove the statement I made by the Mayor and the City Council and our Clerk, Mr. Johnston, that Mr. Lillico would not accept the city's offer of the estimate of $150.00, the city paying 60 per cent. and the Township of Monaghan 40 per cent. and jointly clean out the drain. Now I spoke in favor of accepting this offer and as I recollect voting for it. Reeve Lillico stood pat.

And the City Council passed the by-law in the presence of us all, appointing Mr. Webster, with absolute power to take the levels in both areas, and assess the costs to be borne by the respective municipalities, with the result that we are assessed 73 per cent. of $820, and also 73 per cent. of clearing the drain and the upkeep of it in future on the same proportion.

Now I think this is cowardly of Reeve Lillico to take this means of villifying me at this late date in the election, and I ask the electors of North Monaghan to take no notice of Reeve Lillico's ravings until I reply to his letter (if there is one) after the election.—Yours.

NEW CHEVROLET IS ON DISPLAY FIRST OF YEAR

Many Improvements Have Been Made in Appearance of Car.

COMPLETE NEW LINE.

Many Cars of Various Classes Will Be Shown on Monday.

Claimed by its sponsors to be the most distinctive low-priced automobile yet offered to the public, a new Chevrolet goes on display for the first time here Monday Two achievements of volume production almost as outstanding as the car itself are indicated in the news that it is to be offered at a reduction in price and that Chevrolet dealers everywhere are able to promise prompt delivery.

Newspapermen privileged to attend a pre-view of the new car were particularly struck by radical improvements in appearance. Built on a 107-inch wheel base, the new Chevrolet is four inches longer than before and is impressively large, low and racy. From the massive new radiator—deepened in a fashion reminiscent of the LaSalle—the lines of the car sweep back to blend into the graceful contours of the bodies. Sharp corners have been entirely eliminated, and in the closed models it was noticed that the roof curves into the rear quarters in unique manner.

Complete New Line.

A complete new line of cars is included in the announcement to-day, which follows immediately on the close of Chevrolet's greatest year, when its volume of a million units made it the world's largest builder of automobiles. Specifications show that the new Chevrolet incorporates all the advantages of the popular "most beautiful" model and in addition embodies a number of features that combine to produce what General Motors officials believe will be the sensation of the automobile industry in 1928.

The first official list of these features includes: Massive, deep and beautiful radiator, four-wheel brakes, extended wheel base, an improved engine that gives 34.6 per cent. more power and five miles an hour more speed, longer and roomier Fisher bodies, new Duco color combinations, thermostat control of cooling, shock absorber springs, motor enclosure and indirectly lighted instrument panel.

Seven passenger cars, including five closed and two open types, comprise the line Every driving requirement is cared for in the make-up and appointments of the various body types.

The new car has a distinctive big car appearance entirely foreign to its price class. This is achieved by adding four inches to the wheel base. The frame also has been deepened and strengthened to make a smoother-riding, sturdier and better balanced car.

Stressing the beauty of line are the new honeycomb Harrison radiators of deep slender, graceful design. Their added depth has so raised the front of the car that from the cowl to the base of the new low radiator cap the line is unbroken and nearly level Radiator shells are heavily nickelled, while thermostat control of the cooling system is an additional feature.

Four Inches Longer.

Complementing the extra four inches in wheel base is increased length in several of the body types. The Coach body is five inches longer than a year ago. The Sedan body likewise has been increased two and three-quarter inches. Among the many new body refinements is a fully enclosed and indirectly lighted instrument panel, oval in shape, with the speedometer, anmeter and oil guage in full view for day and night driving.

Mechanically the car has been improved to parallel in performance, speed and roadability its new beauty and advanced design. It is powered by an improved valve-in-head engine that as previously mentioned, developed in road tests 34.6 per cent more power and approximately five miles more per hour than the previous Chevrolet engine. New features apparent in the engine include a new motor enclosure which completely covers the valve lifts and makes for a quieter and cleaner engine, new crank case breathing system which eliminates the leakage of engine fumes through the body of the car, new two-port exhaust, new Bohnalite constant clearance "invar strut" pistons, new hydro-lamianted crankshaft gears, improved mushroom valve tappets and large camshaft. Send in for head take TWO

An oil pump provides efficient lubrication to all bearing surfaces while an AC oil filter and an AC air cleaner protect all moving parts of the engine from dirt and other foreign matter thus adding materially to the life of the motor.

The new four-wheel brakes, designed by General Motors and Chevrolet engineers, are of the non-locking type, with positive brake linkage. Front brakes are internal expanding and rear brakes external contracting. Front and rear brakes have been proportioned to prevent side drag or pull. Their total braking surface amounts to 189 square inches.

Each brake has an individual, easily accessible adjustment, while "stops" are provided at the wheels to simplify an adjustment operation. So accurately has the leverage on the foot pedal been worked out beween the front and the rear brakes that maximum application of the brakes is obtained with a very slight pedal pressure.

In addition to the four-wheel brakes the new car has an emergency brake, with an additional braking surface of 70 square inches. This operates entirely independently of the four-wheel service brakes, thus assuring adequate braking facilities at all times..

New Shock Absorbers.

Anoher item of importance in the new Chevrolet is the introduction of dual action shock-absorbers semi-elliptic springs which run parallel to the frame and stretch for 90 inches along the side of the chassis. The springs represent another innovation pioneered by Chevrolet engineers. They provide 50 per cent. better riding qualities than the old type of spring, according to observers.

In developing the new springs the Chevrolet engineers, it is said, strove not only for smooth boulevard riding but also for maximum comfort at high speeds over rough roads. This end could be attained, they discovered after exhaustive testing and experimenting, through increasing spring friction by putting reverse "checks" two to each spring—midway between the centre shackle and the spring end. These "checks" resemble inverted steel bows with the centre sections pressed down against the top spring leaves under 600 pounds of pressure.

The new models have a slender 17-inch walnut finished steering wheel, while increased steering ease has been attained by the addition of ball bearing thrusts to the steering mechanism, and by the increasing of the steering ratio from eight to nine-and-one-half to one.

Transmission, universal joint and rear axle are of the dependable construction that gave such satisfactory service in the "most beautiful" Chevrolet as is the electrical system.

The chassis, in addition to its four inch increase in length, has a new extra strong front axle. The frame is of channel steel 4¾ inches deep, with five rigid steel cross members.

Vacuum fuel feed has been retained and also the safety gasoline tank with a gas guage in the rear where a wide steel rear cross member protects it.

The lubrication of the chassis is by the Alemite pressure gun system.

All models have one piece, deep, full crowned fenders of heavy guage steel, deep-cushioned comfortable seats, demountable rims, with a tire carrier and extra rim, indirectly lighted instrument panel, theft-proof steering and ignition lock, rear vision mirror, and complete kit of tools with tire pump and jack.

In addition the closed models by Fisher have plate glass windows, Ternstedt window regulators, one-piece VV windshield, remote door controls with lock in handle military type sun visor, automatic windshield cleaner and dome light in certain models as well as foot rest, ashtray, robe rail, etc.

Many Proving Facilities.

In a statement made public today Ross Mackinnon, general sales manager of he Chevrolet Motor Co., of Canada, says of the new car, "The New Chevrolet, which is heralded as 'Bigger and Better,' owes its outstanding virtues to the manifold facilities at the disposal of the Chevrolet Motor Company, including the General Motors proving ground the General Motors research laboratoy, the Chevrolet experimental laboratory, the Chevrolet engineering department and the skill and resources of the Fisher Body Corporation.

"Beauty in appearance, performance in driving and economy in operation are the keynotes of the car that owes its every detail to withering tests of days, weeks and months under all type of weather, road and driving conditions.

"Every detail has been proved true in exhaustive tests. As a result the new line achieves to a degree hitherto unexampled in the low priced field a standard of smartness, advanced performance, striking color combinations, completeness of equipment and minute attention to style, comfort and luxury."

All the closed bodies of the new Chevrolet are by Fisher, styled and designed with the smartness and beauty for which the Fisher name is famous. All are of composite steel and hardwood construction of the type found on the highest-priced cars. And all are finished in genuine Duco colors—five beautiful combinations on the seven models.

The Imperial Landau is finished in Cossack Brown Duco with Mountain Brown body, beading and gold striping; the Coupe and Sedan in Fauncе green Duco with black body beading in striping in golden yellow; the port cabriolet in Dundee gray Duco with Brocatelle green Duco beading and gold stripe. The coach in avenue green Duco, black beading and striping in gold; and the open touring and roadster in Falmouth gray Duco with body beading in black and striping in French gray.

Large Tires.

All passenger models have larger 30 x 4.50 tires as standard equipment. Other standard equipment includes stoplight, rear vision mirror, gasoline guage, complete tool set, and theft proof steering and ignition lock. Additional equipment is standard with individual models.

THE MARKETS

Stocks Move Upward At Year's Last Session

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—Speculators for the advance retained control of the price movement to-day in the final stock market session of the year. Although a few soft spots cropped out here and there, the general tendency was upward, with numerous gains running from one to five points. Trading was unusually heavy for the pre-holiday session. Encouraged by the optimistic tenor of the year-end reviews, the pools succeeded in marking up a wide assortment of specialties to new peak prices for the year. The rails, which have been rather sluggish all week, also showed a firmer tendency. St. Louis South-Western Preferred running up five points to a new 1927 high.

In the industrial group, Greene Cananea Copper, Warren Brothers, United Drug, Calumet, and Arizona and Otis Steel Prior Preferred all climbed three to five points above yesterday's final quotations.

ROYAL BANK OF CANADA MAKES NEW HIGH RECORDS FOR CANADIAN BANKING

Banking history for Canada is made by The Royal Bank of Canada in its annual report for the fiscal year to November 30th. For a great many years the bank has been forging steadily ahead, but it has remained for the year 1927 to see it make not only its greatest forward movement, but also to establish in practically all departments the highest records ever recorded by any bank in Canada.

The shareholders of The Royal Bank have almost become accustomed to marked gains from year to year, but it is doubtful if any could have anticipated the growth indicated in the report now going forward to them.

Total assets at $894,663,903 are not only by far the largest ever reported by any Canadian Bank, but represents a gain for the year of over $128,000,000. As is natural with an institution which enjoys to such a marked degree the confidence of the Canadian people, the largest gain was in deposits, which now stand at $722,636,090, as compared with $612,860,288 a year ago, an increase of nearly $110,000,000.

OMEMEE NEWS

OMEMEE, Dec. 30.—The Young People of Trinity United Church scored another triumph on Monday night when they presented their annual drama, entitled "Eyes of Love," to a crowded house under the auspices of L.O.L. 113.

The curtain arose promptly at 8.15 o'clock, showing a bevy of pretty girls, arrayed in picturesque costumes, ranging in shade from a deep rose to the most delicate pink who sang sweetly a chorus, entitled "Highways are Happy Ways," following which the play began and continued throughout three acts with little or no prompting. To state that any particular character starred in his or her delineation of the part played would be unfair, for it was an all-star cast, who not only played but lived the part given them.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Carolina, the negro servant—Miss Mary Faulkner.

Gailya, an adopted daughter—Miss Violet McBain.

Reeta, the two-faced friend—Miss Elda Overholt.

Burt Wade, Reeta's brother—Evy Corneil.

Mrs. Barry, Gailya's foster mother—Mrs. E. W. Rowland.

Judge Barry, Gailya's foster father—Mr. H. Lamb.

Clarke, busy butler—Mr. Morgan Rowland.

Lora, lively housemaid—Miss Mary Weir.

Royal Manton, Burt's rival — Mr. Stanley Tripp.

Jim Rankin, the manacled man—Mr. Russel Brooks.

The inimitable "Teddy" Marsh in humorous costume renewed his popularity as an entertainer in two splendid songs, entitled "They all went Marching Home" and "The Onion Song," both of which elicited rounds of applause, and to which he was forced to respond.

Between the second and third acts, the chorus girls again appeared dressed in old-time costume and rendered to the pleasure of all, "Poor Old Maid," followed by the popular song, "Meet me at Twilight."

The proceeds of the evening amounted to about $180.

Ten million herring were landed in one day recently at Yarmouth, England.

A.Y.P.A. ENTERTAINS

MILLBROOK, Dec. 31.—The Wide Awakes Group of Canadian Girls-in-Training held its Christmas meeting at the leader's home on Friday evening, with almost all the members in attendance.

The president, Miss Hazel McMahon, was in the chair, and a brief business session preceded the devotional period, when the Christmas story, as recounted by Matthew, Luke and John, was read in unison.

A talk on the "First Christmas" was given by the leader, and copies of pictures by famous artists, illustrating events associated with the Saviour's birth, were studied.

A pleasant surprise was prepared for the leader of the group when she was presented with a leather-bound and beautifully-illustrated copy of "Flint and Feather," containing the poems of Pauline Johnston, and a sketch of her life by the Duke of Connaught. The president read the following address, and Elsie Spence, on behalf of the Group, offered the gift:

Dear Miss Burnham,—It is nearing the anniversary of the time when Christ, the Saviour, was born one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven years ago. When but a babe He received gifts more costly than man can give.

As Christ was the First Gift to the world, it has been the custom to give gifts at this time of the year in memory of His birth.

We would ask you, Miss Burnham, to accept this book, with our best wishes for a Merry Christmas, as a slight token of appreciation of the helpful work rendered the group during the past year.

Signed on behalf of the Group,
Wilma Falls.
Hazel McMahon.

Millbrook, Dec. 23, 1927.

Suitable acknowledgment was made by the recipient of the gift to whom the whole event came as a complete surprise, and a social time followed with a contest, music and other entertainment making the hours pass pleasantly, the service of refreshments bringing a very enjoyable gathering to a close.

The annual meeting of the C.G.I.T. group will be held at the church on Wednesday, December 28, at 7.30 p.m.

The officers and members of the A.Y.P.A. of Saint Thomas' Church entertained the teachers, officers, and scholars of the Sunday School, and the superintendent and members of the Junior Auxiliary at a delightful "Christmas Party" in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening, over fifty being in attendance.

Suitable decorations gave the room a festive appearance, the well-laden Christmas tree, with its lighted candles and load of gifts, being particularly attractive.

Games and music made the time pass happily, and finally Santa Claus distributed the presents from the tree, a box of candy, nuts, and oranges being given each guest, the A.Y.P.A. providing the gifts.

As president of the Association, Mrs. (Rev.) P. C. Howard, with Rev. Mr. Howard and the other officers of the Association, did all in their power to make the gathering as enjoyable as possible for the many guests who had gladly accepted the invitation to the "party." The event was the initial one of its kind on the part of the A.Y.P.A., and of its decided success there was no manner of doubt.

Hearty thanks were extended to the hosts and hostesses when the programme of good things was finally brought to a close, a comparatively early hour being chosen because of the younger folk included among the guests.

The A.Y.P.A. is increasing in membership and interest, and the outlook for future activities and usefulness is very bright indeed.

EXPANSION

Owing to the increase in our business, we found it necessary to build an addition to our factory and install therein a ten-ton hoist, also a granite surfacing machine that prepares the stone for the polishing mill. We will also add a sand blast machine. These additions to our plant will give us one of the best equipped Monumental manufacturing shops in Ontario, and will enable us to handle, with a great saving of time and labor, all orders entrusted to us at prices that defy competition.

BRADBURN FOR The Commission

TO THE ELECTORS:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—At the end of my second term as a member of the Utilities Commission, the last year and one-half as Chairman, I, in seeking re-election, am willing to be judged by my record as a Commissioner and in other public capacities in which I have been privileged to serve. During my connection with the Utilities Commission I have been guided by no other motive than the desire to see that the two most important public services under our control should be as economically and efficiently administered as possible.

With the experience of six years' service on the Commission to help me, I believe that I can be of greater service to you during the next three years, inasmuch as all details of the very many problems before the Commissioners are at my finger tips. This aspect of the situation, I respectfully submit is worthy of your serious consideration when you are deciding as to how your ballot shall be marked.

I feel that my experience gained during six years' close association with the manifold activities in the Commission's jurisdiction will enable me to successfully look after your interests.

May I wish you all the Happiest of New Years.

Yours sincerely,

Vote DENNE for MAYOR

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—In asking for your support and votes on behalf of my candidature for Mayor I do not propose to make any extravagant promises as to my course should I be elected. My record as a member of the City Council and of the Board of Education is before you, and I am satisfied to rest my claim for your support upon my past services.

There are, however, several matters concerning which I believe an energetic policy should be adopted and therefore if I am honored with your confidence on New Year's Day, I pledge myself to work for

1. Better transportation facilities.
2. Cheaper power and cheaper gas rates.
3. The securing of more industries.

When other Ontario cities are marching forward, Peterborough should not stand still.

She should be in the forefront of the marchers and should my candidature be endorsed I sincerely believe it will be possible for me to contribute some driving power that will start this city on the road to better things.

Yours for a bigger and better Peterborough.

MORE POWER MORE INDUSTRIES MORE PEOPLE MORE BUSINESS

These are some of the things Peterborough needs if the city is to progress and if its people are to have the prosperity they deserve.

Recreational facilities help to make life worth living and make happy workers—therefore they should be provided in abundance without delay.

People come where there is work—therefore the first thing to do is expand our industries. But industries must have plenty of cheap power.

In all of these endeavours I will give my best services if the confidence of the people elects me Alderman.

May 1928 be a happy year for every citizen, and a year of growth and expansion for Peterborough.

Wishing one and all a happy and prosperous New Year.

The hall was decorated with colored lights and the mystic signs of the order: a large owl with one eye open, sitting in a new moon with motto, "We never sleep." At one end of the hall was a large new moon which alternated light and dark. Paper strings of moving camels were strung across the hall in unique effect. Members of the order were dressed in their regalia: long blue Turkish trousers, with short red bolero jackets and yellow sashes tied at the side, and red Oriental caps with yellow tassel. Mr. C. Mowry acted as Master of Ceremonies and Mr. Don McIntyre as Sergeant-at-Arms, and many were the fines imposed on unsuspecting visitors. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Dobbin of 622 George Street are today celebrating the fifty-second anniversary of their wedding day, the golden celebration of which was commemorated two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Dobbin are in excellent health and spirits and interested in the many activities of the community of which they have been members for several generations. Mr. Dobbin, who suggests that no particular publicity should be given to this anniversary, in view of the larger celebration in 1925, and characteristically remarks that if he had fallen off of a roof or been run over by an automobile, it might have been matter for mention in the press, will probably pardon The Examiner for extending to him, as a type of gentleman of an older school whose sense of humor and keen estimate of values would be hard to duplicate anywhere, and to his wife, the felicitations of a large circle of friends.

TUESDAY IN The Examiner

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

The part of her brain that was still sane looked on and congratulated itself on its cunning and calmness as Faith selected bottles from among the large store in the medicine chest. She was glad that Fay had not thrown away the drugs which had accumulated during her mother's long illness. Here were a few of Mrs. Lane's veronal tablets left. Faith thrust the bottle into her handbag, which she had been clutching tightly since her return from the house that already seemed like another woman's home to her. Cherry would have it— But she mustn't think of Bob and Cherry now. Here was a bottle of iodine. Did iodine burn your mouth and lips? But what did it matter? A dark-brown, triangular bottle of bichloride of mercury tablets, trangular-shaped, too, and a queer, ugly blue.

A wave of faintness swept over her and without considering the incongruity of her action, she carefully measured a dose of aromatic spirits of ammonia into a glass, added water, looked at the cloudy liquid curiously, then drank it. The faintness passed quickly and she let herself out of the bathroom very quietly. A burst of laughter, dominated by Junior's hearty young bellow. Grandpa's shrill voice: "What's that? I didn't hear ye! What's that ye say?"

No, she couldn't face them all again. At the thought of the ordeal her knees buckled weakly. Of course she must run away. It wouldn't be fair to do—that thing—in Fay's house. Fay was going to have a baby. A bad scare now might be fatal, for the baby at least—Baby! The word made her pause on her tiptoe progress down the hall. She couldn't run away without seeing little Hope again—Cherry's baby. But she mustn't remember now that it was Cherry's baby. She wouldn't! Hope was hers, hers! She had taken care of Hope all the six months of her life. Hope would miss her—

She turned into the bedroom that had once been Cherry's and was now Fay's guest room. Hope was lying in the middle of the double bed, her almost emptied bottle beside a sleep-flushed, lovely cheek. Faith bent over the bed, dispassionately surprised that she felt no more pain at saying goodbye forever to the baby that had been hers almost as truly as if she had given birth to it. Funny that she felt nothing! But this queer numbness was better than a very toothache of agony along every nerve, such as would come later if she didn't hurry, hurry—

She did not think of her coat and hat until a vicious gust of icy wind seized her dark-blue silk skirt and whipped it above her knees. But she never considered going back into the house for them.

Very cunningly she planned her escape so that she might not be seen. She ran fleetly through the back yard to the alley, was dismayed only for a moment to discover that Junior had at last mended the rickety fence. She and Cherry had slipped through that gap when they were children—over the fence she climbed as agilely as if she were still a child, and dropped to the rutty ground. She had no plan yet, except to get away. Breathless, her cheeks stung scarlet with the cold, she emerged at a cross-street—Vine Street. She was aware that passing motorists looked at her curiously.

"Faith; Faith! Wait a minute!"

She was crossing Vine Street, unmindful of danger, but at the shouted command she drew up, her skirt whipping the hood of a car. George Pruitt was leaning toward her, his face ludicrous with amazement.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Sunday, January 1, 1928.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Benefic aspects dominate on this first day of the year, according to astrology, which reads in the stars many great events for 1928.

There is a sign of promise and pleasure for those who journey to visit friends or relatives.

Prosperity for the new year is presaged by the stars and those who read their message prophesy extremes of human experience.

While the United States is to profit amazingly in the next twelve months the nation will nevertheless face supreme problems, if the signs are rightly interpreted.

All that is constructive or progressive is well directed and it is forecast that the mass of the people will accept life more seriously than it has since the war.

While this rule prevails there should be far vision and the sort of foresight that precedes success.

Mars in the first house and Scorpio in the ascendant give promise of great national development.

Enterprises will be undertaken on a scale so large that no previous achievement has even approached them, it is foretold.

There will be titanic struggles in which labor and capital will be associated in overcoming tremendous obstacles, the seers predict.

Neptune is in a place supposed to encourage intrigue and old scandals may be revived in government affairs.

Science and invention will receive great impulse that will mean rapid improvement in all that pertains to aviation.

Persons born on this day have the augury of a year of much happiness in the course of which there may be much travel.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly energetic, generous and successful. They make many friends.

Beauty culture, including face lifting, manicures and hairdressing, costs English women about $20,000,000 a week.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

TOO MUCH INCONVENIENCE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: It is up to the citizens of our city to turn out Monday and defeat the Daylight Saving issue. Our merchants cannot afford to lose the farmers' trade which they will if Daylight Saving is carried because this measure is a great inconvenience to our rural friends. The mothers and children are inconveneinced by Daylight saving in June as that is the month when the children need their sleep to prepare for their final exams. It is impossible for the children to go to bed and sleep when it is daylight outside and under daylight saving they lose one hour's needed sleep.

The factories who want the extra hour for recreation could start one hour earlier and close at 4 p.m.

Why should the older people and little children be ruled by a few sporting organizations. I say leave the clock alone.

Standard Time.

FATHER IS WILLING.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: As the time for the vote upon the daylight saving issue draws near it behoves me to speak now or forever hold my peace. I sincerely hope that every reader of The Examiner and particularly those who have a vote on Monday took note of the recent editorial in which daylight saving was advocated on behalf of the younger people who are so vitally interested yet lack the franchise to put it into effect. And it is an absolute certainty that daylight saving would be carried by an overwhelming majority if the vote were taken from the Federal list. I am one of the many excluded from voting on this issue but I feel free to say that in all fairness to the community at large and to bring us in line with other up and going cities daylight saving should be given a trial.

As a father of two young children, I can scarcely be said to belong to the younger generation but my sympathies are entirely with them; and as for possible loss of sleep to my own "brood" due to longer evenings of daylight, am prepared to argue the point with them, if necessary, for an evening or two, until they get acutsomed to the change.

And isn't it rather amusing to think of any business man voting against daylight saving when it is more than likely he makes numerous summer business trips to Toronto where he indulges in an exhilirating day's mental arithmetic with his watch. Thanking you Mr. Editor, I remain.

"INTERESTED."

FARMER IN FAVOR.

The Editor of The Evening Examiner,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I have noticed letters in your paper, discussing the advantages and disadvantages if any of daylight saving. Every year this question has been brought up, and there have been a great number of farmers who have written letters against it.

When will the farmer realize that daylight saving in the city of Peterborough will not affect him, or his day's work? When, also, will he realize that he has not a vote on daylight saving, and should refrain from giving his opinions through the press?

The farmer has the same cry this year, that with daylight saving he loses an hour in the morning. Now, if he has to get up an hour earlier, which he doesn't, and were honest with himself, he knows that around a farm there is lots he can do in that hour. He also knows that he would not have to change his working day a particle. In the past, we have found it an inconvenience that the stores were not open earlier, but daylight saving will solve this problem satisfactorily. Why can't the farmer think of the man working in the shop, who has very little pleasure in the sunlight? The farmer knows how valuable sunlight is, and he enjoys lots of it.

Daylight saving was originated to give the people who are confined to factories, stores and offices all day the pleasure of the extra hour each day. Let the farmer get over his selfishness, and get a little of the spirit of helping somebody else. Ladies and gentlemen, don't think I am always against the farmer. I am one myself, and enjoy good fresh air and sunlight the same as my friends. I cannot see how daylight saving will inconvenience farmers.

Wishing daylight saving every success,—I remain,

FARMER.

CHILDREN GO BY SUN.

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have never before taken part in the daylight saving discussion, but I cannot let this vote pass without calling attention to a few reasons why it should have a fair trial next summer.

Progressive cities all over Ontario have almost without exception tried it rather doubtfully and then voted for it again and again with ever-increasing majorities. Is this one of the many ways in which our city is not so attractive to new citizens and why its population is not noticeably increasing?

It has been found by people of other cities that after the first few days, the change in the clock is forgotten. The exceptions to this rule are those who deliberately refuse to change their clocks.

Since voting the last time, we have been experimenting in the care of a baby. In this, we have discovered that children run on daylight saving anyway and rise with the sun.

We also notice a certain amount of what radio fans would call "outside interference" from the rural population. We do not wish to cause them undue inconvenience, but must remind them that if anyone works on daylight saving, they do in the summer. Who ever heard of farmers lying in bed until, say 6.30 a.m. in July? Although they cannot work in the field until, as they say, 9.00 a.m., they evidently have other work which causes them to rise at 5.00 a.m., or earlier.

Many local merchants are worried over losing trade, but in spite of not having daylight saving, we notice that mail order houses have become well established in Peterborough.

There are many other reasons, but every citizen should give the measur careful consideration. Surely, we can at least give it a trial next summer and if it does not suit the majority turn it down next year.

Thanking you, I remain,
Yours truly,
M. V. P.

AN AID TO HEALTH.

The Editor of The Evenig Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Our City Council have once again given us the privilege of voicing our opinion on daylight saving for the summer months, and we should not let the opportunity slip.

The health of a city is a big item and fresh air and daylight are essentials to good health. Daylight saving, which only means go to work one hour earlier than regular time, and therefore have one hour more of daylight in the evening, surely helps a little to solve the problem of more daylight to the factory, stores, and office workers. These are the people who make up a city, and hence these are the people who must have good health.

Daylight saving seems to be a question between old and young, but because our fathers did not have it is not sufficient proof that we should not.

We are living in a day of many improvements, and daylight saving is a step ahead and not back. For proof, look at the prospering cities, the most of which have daylight saving for the summer months.

If for health and aggressiveness only, let's get behind daylight saving and say it with votes on Monday.

Thanking you, I remain,
Yours truly,
A VOTER.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Dear Mr. Editor: Just a line or two in answer to G. M. of last night's issue on the above subject. He first quotes the question asked by the farmer of a few days previous: "Why touch the clocks?" and then in his own feeble way attempts to answer by saying, "Because daylight saving, like everything else must be properly organized to be successful," and goes on about confusion to travellers doing business, etc., etc. I ask him how he is going to eliminate the confusion when the trains are running on standard time, which means that the post office, the express offices, the hotels catering to the transient commercial trade have to observe standard time. Oh no, Mr. G. M., if you want confusion in abundance just try daylight saving under the above conditions.

He then asks the farmer to name some of the items the farmer has to conform with in the city program, and admits that he can't name one; and in this I will try to enlighten Mr. G. M. What about the early closing bylaws of the stores, the barber shops, the post office and banking hours, and many others too numerous to mention, that the farmer has to observe.

G. M. then tries to point out the object of daylight saving, which is to enable the city workers to get an extra hour's recreation out doors, and I answer him by saying, that if he wants to get that extra hour's recreation, let him get up an hour or two earlier and get the good fresh morning air, which is the more beneficial. I am quite sure no one will try to interfere or try to keep him in bed; then why ask for legislation to compel him to get up, for if he is legislated out of bed the recreation does not appeal to him very strongly. I venture to say, that not two per cent. of the people who are asking for daylight saving ever saw the sun rise or experienced the exhilaration of it, in the summer mornings of June, July or August. If they ever did they would rise voluntarily, and take their recreation in the mornings, instead of the evenings.

G. M. says Toronto has daylight saving, and it is very popular. I do not think it can be so very popular for if my memory serves me correctly it is only two or three years ago they voted on it there, and it was turned down. I don't think Hamilton has daylight saving, and only a short time ago London took a vote on it and turned it down overwhelmingly. It has been voted on here on two previous occasions, and was turned down, and will be again. This is a needless expense, as was explained by two of the aldermen when it was introduced this year, and the balance of the aldermen would have shown their sense by concurring therein and save that much; for everyone knows that our taxes are high enough now.

It isn't very hard to tell from whence this question emanates judging from the alderman that introduced it, and there are some other points in G. M.'s communication that I would like to reply to but I think I have taken up quite enough space. Here's for

STANDARD TIME.

(Editor's Note:) Just to clear up a misapprehension, since "G.M." will not have an opportunity to reply before the vote is taken, it should be stated that while the railways run on standard time, theoretically, they really run on daylight saving time. It will have been noticed for the past few years that when daylight saving comes into effect in Toronto the C. P. R. changes its timetable, and Peterboro people have the nuisance of rising an hour earlier to catch the trains.)

Hints on Etiquette

1. Upon whom should one call on New Year's Day?
2. Does the informality of "open house" give outsiders an opportunity to "break into" a social group?
3. Why is it bad taste to use this time to meet folks you want to know socially?

The Answers.

1. Only upon families that have entertained one.
2. No person of good taste would use it for this purpose.
3. Because taking advantage of the occasion's informality would be like striking an unarmed man.

Many Champions Who Started the Year as Title-Holders Were Faced With Some Dispute as to Their Property Rights—Heavyweight Class Has Unusually Attractive Year in Elimination Series.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

Registered by competitive records, interest displayed by the public and prosperity attending promotion, the sports year 1927 was another one of those "biggest and best" years that have come in succession since the war days.

In commenting upon the tremendous growth of sports and athletics as amusements, it is necessary to go back to those days before the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, when Tex Rickard said he was about to promote a million-dollar fight.

The public, while appreciating the daring of Rickard's gambling nature, thought he was balmy when he wrote out checks in advance and gave Dempsey $300,000 and Carpentier $200,000.

Rickard's crazy dream of a million dollar gate came true, and came so true that he cleared almost a half million for himself.

Marking the progress of the times came the first meeting between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney in Philadelphia in 1926, which introduced a "two million dollar gate" and led to the prediction that the peak had been reached.

But there remained a step forward to attain—"a three million dollar fight"—and Rickard just missed it when he put Tunney and Dempsey in the ring again in Chicago and drew $2,800,000 from 150,000 spectators, the largest crowd that ever had seen a boxing match.

The astounding success of Rickard's greatest show was typical, in a comparative way, of the increased interest shown by the public in other sports.

Notre Dame and Southern California played a football game in the Chicago stadium and drew 113,000 spectators. There perhaps would have been as many customers as there were for the big fight if it had been possible to seat spectators all over the field.

The receipts were not announced but it was understood that Notre Dame and Southern California each received $150,000 for their share and when a football team can earn that much in one afternoon there is plenty of loose money and a lot of persons interested in football.

It is impossible to compute or estimate how many spectators saw all the big and little football games scattered all over the country but it is safe to assume that more than one million fans spent Saturday afternoons watching the college teams in action.

The world's series between the New York Yankees and the Pittsburgh Pirates fell far short of records for attendance and receipts but it was due not to any lack of interest but to the fact that the Yankees won in four straight games.

The two major leagues enjoyed a prosperous season and it was reported that the Chicago Cubs, for one, cleared more than a million dollars on the season. The runaway race that the Yankees made of the American League season might have hurt attendance if it had not been for the home-run duel between Babe Ruth and his young teammate, Lou Gehrig.

Every department of sports and athletics had heroes and outstanding stars but there were several who distinguished themselves so they might be placed on a super-honor role.

Among them were:

Bobby Jones, who became recognized as the world's greatest golfer with 66's at Minneapolis, St. Andrews and in the Southern open, and with victories in the British open and the American amateur championships.

Jack Dempsey, who staged a comeback by knocking out Jack Sharkey and by failing to regain the heavyweight championship on a "long count."

Tommy Hitchcock, who distinguished himself as the world's greatest polo forward in helping the American team beat England for the international cup.

Sabin Carr, the Yale star, who made a new world's record of 14 feet for the pole vault.

Johnny Weismuller and Martha Norelius, who made almost fifty new world's swimming records.

The New York Yankees, who made a new American League record by winning 110 games during the season and equalled the record by winning the world's series from the Pittsburgh Pirates in four straight games.

Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, who in his third season and Paul Waner, Pittsburgh outfielder, in his second season, won the major leagues' most valuable player awards.

Charles Borah, Southern California sprinter, who ran 100 yards in 9.5 seconds and 220 yards in 20.9.

There were countless others worthy of mention in various other lines of sport but these athletes were the ranking ones for place on the honor roll.

JONES HAS GOOD YEAR

Low Scores Gave Golfers All Food For Thought They Wanted.

HAGEN UP WELL.

Bobby Jones, with sensational victories and scores in the British open and the American national amateur golf championships, was not only the outstanding golfer of 1927 but he convinced even the old hard-boiled, weather-beaten Scots that he is perhaps the greatest golfer of all times.

Jones shot a series of astounding rounds in 66's at Minneapolis, St. Andrews and in the Southern Open. He was within striking distance of an astounding 28 going out at Minneapolis but carelessness gave him a 31, which was enough to break the heart of his hardiest opponents.

The young southerner was acclaimed almost as a national hero in Scotland and was made an honorary member of the Royal and Ancient Club, the paternal body of golf. Jones, who always seems to do the right thing every way, reciprocated with a gracious gesture by leaving the cup with the Royal and Ancient Club instead of bringing it back to the United States.

Given Purse.

Not only did Jones win world-wide respect for his golf but he dug himself so deeply in the affection of American sportsmen that his fellow townsmen of Atlanta gave him a $50,000 home.

The gift of such elaborate proportions caused some brows to be lifted in England, where it was hinted that his amateur status might be involved but he is so immensely popular in England and Scotland that it probably would have been forgotten. Any other golfer would have been dragged before the jury.

Tommy Armour, British war hero, won the American open championship after a sensational play-off with Harry Cooper in which Armour won by astounding putting.

Old Reliable.

Walter Hagen, the old reliable, distinguished himself again as the greatest of all the professionals by winning the P.G.A. championship for the fifth time and the fourth in succession.

Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, Kansas City, caused a surprise by winning the American women's championship from a field that included Mlle. Mlle. Thion de le Chaume, the French star and the winner of the British women's championship, and Glenna Collett, the former American champion.

Watts Gunn, one of Atlanta's famous corps of golfers, shot fine golf in winning the intercollegiate championship and the "Haig" cut in for additional honors by winning the Western Open championship.

Bob Stein, of Seattle, won the Western amateur championship and Mrs. Harry Bresler, Los Angeles, won the woman's Western.

Tommy Armour won the Canadian open in addition to the American. Ada Mackenzie won the Canadian woman's and Donald Carrick won the Canadian amateur.

When Jones went to England for the British Open it was accepted as a foregone conclusion that he would win and the phenomenal scores he made in winning was the only surprise, if it was a surprise.

Unknown Wins Title.

There was a surprise in the British amateur championship, however, when Dr. Tweedell, almost an unknown, won the title.

There were no Walker Cup matches, an agreement having been reached two years ago to play for the amateur team cup only on alternate years, and the matches will be played in the United States this coming summer.

When Dempsey got up off the floor in the seventh round of the Chicago fight and galloped away to an unquestionable decision over the former champion, a howl of equal volume was raised that Tunney had been given a count of at least fourteen and that if the champion had been forced to get up within the count of ten, Dempsey surely would have clipped him.

Profitable Year.

Regardless of the protests and the squawks, the record book will have it that Dempsey knocked out Sharkey, the most promising of the younger contenders for the championship, and that Tunney retained the heavyweight championship by winning a ten-round decision from Dempsey. The books of the Madison Square Garden corporation will show also that it was a profitable year for Mr. Tex Rickard, even if he and his six hundred millionaire associates did clear only $250,000 on the Chicago fight.

Tunney, with a flat purse of a cool million dollars, was the big money winner of the year, but Dempsey, with $450,000 as his end of the Tunney fight and $250,000 as his bit of the Sharkey fight, did not have a lean year.

Retain Titles.

Gene Tunney, Mickey Walker and Sammy Mandell were the only champions who started the year as title-holders and survived without some question as to their property rights. Even in their cases they were fronted with some dispute.

The long count in the Chicago fight took some credit away from Tunney; Walker was charged with the act of running out of an agreement to give the late Tiger Flowers a return match for the title, and Mandell was accused of picking set-ups in the tank towns.

Fidel LaBarba started the year as the flyweight champion but the title became vacant when he retired to enter Stanford University. Before he resigned LaBarba was trounced twice by Johnny Vacca, a Boston boy, in no-decision fights.

Charley Rosenberg, who for one reason or another always was an unsatisfactory bantamweight champion, got into trouble with the New York Boxing Commission for signing two sets of contracts for a fight with Bushy Graham and was suspended for a year. He had grown out of the class, however, and was ready to enter the feather-weight division. Bud Taylor, who also is having trouble with the weight and with fragile hands, is the outstanding claimant for the title.

The featherweight championship became vacant when Kid Kaplan resigned to enter the lightweight class. He was knocked out in his first attempt by Billy Wallace. Benny Bass is generally recognized now as the champion.

Dundee Suspended.

Pete Latzo lost the welterweight championship to Joe Dundee and Dundee gave promise of being a fighting champion but he got into trouble in California when he failed to appear for a match against Ace Hudkins and a nation-wide suspension was slapped on him.

Jack Delaney, who had an unquestioned right to the light-heavyweight championship, resigned to enter the heavyweight division where he hardly had ordinary success. Before he vacated the title he had been matched to meet the veteran former champion, Mike McTigue, and the New York Commission passed the title on to McTigue, ruling that he was entitled to the title by default.

The National Boxing Association disputed the ruling of the New York commission and decreed that Jimmy Slattery was the champion. Loughran then met and defeated McTigue and then trimmed Slattery.

Through the return of Dempsey to the ring and the elimination tournament that Tex Rickard staged among the contenders for the championship, the heavyweight class was unusually active and as Rickard says—"When the big fellers are working business is good in all the other classes."

INSIDE SPORTIN' DOPE

By A WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, I suppose the customers is all so het up over the civic elections and so forth that they won't want to read nothing from me. Anyway they ain't been nothing happened in the local sport world since my last to be wrote about, seeing that a hunka Florida weather drifted in here this week just in time to put the skids under the Marlboro-Petes game what was to have pried the lid off of the O.h.A. season. The Petes was all ready to go, and the postponement was ablowto all and sundry, but they'll get a chance to see the Dukes tangle with Mister Wright's lads next week, so it ain't a total loss.

Right now, Mac, before it slips my mind, if any, I want to tell the customers what believe daylight saving is a good thing to get out and vote for it, if on providing they got a vote, and if they haven't to try and persuade somebody what has to mark his ballot for the summertime stuff. Anybody what realizes that healthful sport saves doctor's bills and cuts down the health appropriation ought to be for this extra hour of daylight that'll make all the difference in the world to the sporting clubs of this city. They is a lotta folks talking bunk about the drawbacks about daylight saving, but I'm willing to bet a perfectly good permit, scarcely used and with 1928 markers, to a package of clothes-pins that if the clocks was all shifted the night before June 1st without nobody being put wise to it that life would go on as usual, and them birds what is knocking daylight saving wouldn't know the difference. To hear some guys talk the stores would have to put up their shutters, kids would stop growing, and the whole world would go on the blink if Peterboro was to adopt a summer-time schedule. Well, the stores seem to be doing about the same as usual, the kids look healthy, and there ain't no sign of a blight setting in in the towns what has daylight saving every summer and wouldn't be without it. 3 mos. of it ain't going to hurt nobody in Peterboro, and on the other hand, it's going to mean a lot more fun to a whole lotta young people. Citizens what is getting too stiff in the joints to do much themselves in the sport line oughta remember they was young once themselves, and vote to give the kids a chance. They's encugh birds what want to take the joy outa like now. I for I sez let's give this thing a trial 3 mos. this summer. At the worst, it ain't going to kill nobody.

Well, Mac, hockey fans should not fail to notice that next week they get a chance to look over Peterboro's 2 jr. O.h.A. teams. Mister Lew Lebarr's boys perform for the 1st time this season before a home audience Wed. evening with the lads from Sheriff Paxton's home town here, while the new gang in the jrs., St. John's, which is making their O.h.A. debut next week, will have Lindsay here Friday. Them 2 games should be well patronized. It's the jrs. that's going to provide most of the hockey in future years, and the fans what want the ice game to flourish must get out and encourage the kids. If they don't they'll have to go out of town to see any hockey.

Just got time to wish everybody a happy New Year before I sign myself as always,

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

SPLENDID PLAY OF YANKEES IN AMERICAN LEAGUE RACE FEATURED BASEBALL SEASON

Spectacular Performances By Ruth and Gehrig Enlivened Year.

YANKS SET RECORDS.

Win 110 in Season — Take World Series in Four Straights.

Spectacular performances by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and the New York Yankees and the spirited pennant race in the National League enlivened major league baseball in 1927 into one of its most successful years, financially and artistically.

The New York Yankees in running away with the American League pennant set a new league record by winning 110 games and they equalled another record by taking the world's series from the Pittsburgh Pirates in four straight games.

The performance of the Yankees was so impressive that they were tagged by such an eminent authority as Wilbert Robinson, president and manager of the Brooklyn Robins, as the greatest team in the history of baseball. This tribute was all the more significant because Robinson was a member of the famous old Baltimore Orioles, which for years had been recognized as the greatest of all teams.

Prominent in the spectacular dash of the Yankees to the world's championship were Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, who engaged in a home-run duel through three-quarters of the season that had baseball on its ear. The Babe, forced to his best by the young first baseman, stepped out in the final quarter and broke his old record by hitting sixty home runs.

The Babe and Buster didn't do it all, of course. There was brilliant work by Tony Lazzeri and Mark Koenig, young infielders, and sensational pitching by Wilcey Moore, but the two sluggers caught the public fancy.

Bush Ranks High.

Donie Bush, in his first year as a National League manager, earned a high place on the season's honor roll by driving the Pittsburgh Pirates into the championship after a hot fight with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Clubs.

Bush gained a lot of notice also by his courage in benching Kiki Cuyler, one of the greatest outfielders in baseball, and by using rookies in his place. The differences between the management and Cuyler resulted in one of the biggest deals of the year when he was traded recently to the Chicago Cubs. The trade caused as much comment as the first big one of the season when John McGraw sent Frank Frisch from the Giants to the Cardinals for Rogers Hornsby.

The sensational work of the Chicago Cubs under Joe McCarthy, another bush league manager, was one of the features of the year. The Cubs looked like probable pennant winners until the field headed into the stretch. Infield weakness and the youth of the team then caused the club to fold up.

The St. Louis Cardinals made an interesting fight of the race even though they were badly crippled through the season and were handicapped by a falling off in the work of Lester Bell and Flint Rhem. Bob O'Farrell, handicapped by injuries and the burden of management, was not of the expected value to the club.

Outstanding Players.

The Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, were two of the outstanding players of the year. The young infielders had a major part in winning the pennant for Pittsburgh and Paul, in his second year as a regular, had the good fortune to be selected the most valuable player of the league.

The contest for the most valuable prize in the American League was not as close as it was taken almost for granted in advance that Gehrig would be the choice of the sport writers.

Waner, in addition to winning the valuable player prize, won the National League batting championship with an average of .379. Jess Haines, St. Louis pitcher, led the hurlers with 24 games won and 10 lost.

Harry Heilmann, Detroit outfielder, won the American League batting championship with an average of .396. Al Simmons, Philadelphia, who was hurt and played in only 106 games, was a close second with .392. Waite Hoyt, Yankee right hander, had the best average of the American League pitchers, winning 22 games and losing seven.

Eight new managers started the season and three of them were relieved at the end of the season. The new managers were Stuffy McInnis, Phillies; Bob O'Farrell, Cardinals; Jack McCallister, Cleveland; Ray Schalk, White Sox; George Moriarty, Detroit; Bill Carrigan, Red Sox; Dan Howley, Browns, and Donie Bush, Pirates.

Four new managers will be seen next year—Burt Shotten with the Phillies, McKechnie with the Cards, Peckinpaugh at Cleveland and Slattery with the Braves.

Football Rules Changed Back

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—After sharp debate over the changes made early this year in the foot ball rules, the American Football Coaches' Association yesterday approved a recommendation to eliminate the alterations affecting use of the lateral pass and the recovery of fumbled punts. The coaches voted in favor of returning to the 1926 rules affecting these features.

IRVIN DECLARED OUT OF DANGER

Well on Way Towards Recovery From Slight Skull Fracture.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—Dick Irvin, captain and star forward of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, was declared out of danger yesterday and well on the way toward recovery from a slight skull fracture.

He crashed into the boards in the Coliseum Rink Wednesday night in a collision, and probably will be out for the rest of the season. He is the second Black Hawk star to be put out for the year. Babe Dye, one of the leading scorers of the league last winter, broke his leg during practice at Winnipeg a week before this season opened.

HOCKEY LEAGUES REACH AGREEMENT

Owners To Meet For Final Conference on Harrington Case.

BOSTON, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press) War in the hockey world between the National League and the American Hockey League Inc., formerly the Canadian-American, seemed to have been averted for the present after an amicable conference yesterday between President Charles F. Adams of the Boston National League Club and Morris Podoloff, owner of the New Haven American League team on the status of Leland "Hago" Harrington.

Harrington, an alleged Boston reserve player farmed to the New Haven club, precipitated talk of an inter-league hockey war recently by declining to heed a Boston recall order and continuing to play with New Haven. President Podoloff, who came to Boston on advice of President Frank Calder of the National League, pointed out that Harrington's status was considered differently in New Haven, and President Adams agreed to take no further action on the sale of the disputed player until a conference with his manager, Art Ross, on the latter's return from Toronto.

Both club owners plan to meet again next week for a final conference on the case, and both expressed the belief that the matter could be settled in a friendly manner without involving league officials in the affair. President Adams consented to allow Harrington to represent New Haven in its game against Philadelphia on Sunday.

C.G.E. EMPLOYEES TO PLAY HOCKEY

League of Fifteen Teams Organized at Local Plant.

The hockey enthusiasts at Peterborough Works of the C.G.E. Co. have recently completed the organization of an inter-departmental hockey league. An executive has been elected, consisting of Joseph Begley, President; V. R. Craig, Treasurer; S. J. Hayes, Secretary; and Messrs. J. G. McCarney, W. Bennet and C. Jay, Schedule committee.

Fifteen departments have entered teams and three groups have been arranged as follows:

Group A—Tool Room No. 1, Drafting, Ind. Control, Test, Engineers.

Group B—Punch Press, Fitters No. 2, Armature, Lathes, Office.

Group C—Fitters No. 1, Tool Room No. 2, Brass, Fitters No. 3, Production.

The schedule has been drawn up and the opening games will be played on Saturday, Jan. 7, 1928. The schedule calls for six games a week and the group winners will play off for the Works' championship. A trophy will be provided by the Prize committee of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club with which the Hockey Association is affiliated.

A glance over the team personnel would indicate that a satisfactory brand of hickey will be played as some of Peterborough's most prominent hockey players are included on some of the teams.

The Ind. Control team have lined up the McDonagh brothers, Jack and Bill, who have played City League, as well as Shield the former Port Arthur Junior Leaguer.

Such stars as Abbie Rose and Clarke of the Peterborough Seniors, George Helson, the former City League hockey and baseball star, and Foley of Interemdiate fame will be seen wearing the uniform of the Tool Room No. 1. Hatten, Rishea, Swanger and Corkery will compete this team which is out to win honours in Group A.

What is probably one of the most unique teams in Canada will represent the Test Dept. This department will attract considerable interest in that almost ever province and most of the Provincial universities will be represented on the line up. Nova Scotia will be represented by Jack Cameron; New Brunswick by Steeves; Quebec by Dunfield and Hooper; Ontario by Hall of the Senior O.H.A.; Quipp, formerly with U.T.S.; Gore, the Argonaut football star; Simpser will represent Saskatchewan; Willis from Alberta; Farr from British Columbia and Starr, Butcher will uphold the honours for Newfoundland.

Then the Drafting Dept. expect to have out the Jackson brothers, Walter and Bill, Jack McCarney, Ken Anderson and many Cognawaga players, including Dorsey Davis, E. Rowe, D. Allen and A. Rooke. Jack Thornton, the flashy intermediate player, will also be out with the Draftsmen.

In Group C, the Fitters No. 1 expect to have a good team. Missen, a former Toronto Industrial Leaguer, and Chase, a Havelock, product, will be with this team.

Most of the other departments will depend upon local players who, while they have not appeared on senior teams, can be relied upon to play fast, clean hockey. By plyaing in this Works League many inexperienced players will get an opportunity of mingling with O.H.A. players of considerable repute and in this way they should quickly learn many of the finer points of the favourite winter sport of hockey.

The executive are busy preparing the final arrangements and under the leadership of Joe Begley, an athlete of former years, this league should do much to develop hockey locally besides providing an excellent sport and amusement for the eighteen hundred employees of the local plant.

ST. JOHN'S VISIT LINDSAY TUESDAY

Fans Are Accompanying New Team For Its First Game.

St. John's Hockey Club will not lack for supporters when Peterborough's new Junior O.H.A. team makes its debut in Lindsay next Tuesday night, as a squad of fans have signified their intention of going to Lindsay for the game. In order to accommodate those who wish to go the St. John's Club is arranging for a special car to be attached to the freight train leaving Lindsay after the game, bringing Peterborough fans home the same night. The round trip fare will be $1.25. Those who intend to go are asked to notify the officers of the club.

AMAZING RECORD OF "CHARLEY'S AUNT" IS RECORD OF THE STAGE

It may not be generally known that "Charley's Aunt", which will be presented here for the first time by an All-English Company, under the direction of the author's widow, Mrs. Brandon Thomas, at the Grand Theatre on Thursday, January 5th, has all other records of the theatre beaten by miles. It was originally produced in 1892, thirty-five years ago, and has been played continuously without a break from that day to this. It opened in the reign of Queen Victoria, ran right through the reign of King Edward, and is "still running", as the posters have it, in the reign of King George V. It has been played in every part of England from Land's End to John O'Groats, and in every town and village in every part of the globe from Iceland to the Equator, and has been translated into every known language: French, German, Spanish, Russian, Scandinavian, Greek, Chinese, and heaven only knows what besides.

When it was first produced in London at the Royalty Theatre, it was an instantaneous success, so great that it had to be transferred to a bigger theatre, the Globe, within a month, and ran for four solid years without a break. During that time companies were sent broadcast all over the world, and on one night there were no fewer than forty companies playing the one piece in forty different theatres throughout the world.

More extraordinary even than that is the fact that in spite of the world having been revolutionized within the last generation, and, although we can hardly even remember what 1892 was like, "Charley's Aunt" still remains the most popular play and the biggest success the world has ever seen. All-the-year round companies tour Great Britain, and every Christmas London has its big season of "Charley's Aunt" twice daily.

DRAMATIC MURDER CASE THE FOUNDATION OF NEGRI DRAMA

On trial for her life! And she had to live—for her child and the man she had once given up for another. So—Julie Morland told her story.

Six years before, she had been in love with and loved by Pierre Bouton, an impoverished young artist. These had been the happy days! Gayety and friendship were always to be found. At one of their Bohemian parties the truth as to Pierre's condition came out. After having been examined by a doctor it developed that he would die if he remained in Paris; a home in the Alps was the only thing that would save him.

What to do! Pierre must be sent away, but how—with no money. Julie's chum, Henrietta, advised her to marry wealthy John Morland. Hoping to help Pierre with her husband's money, a marriage ceremony was performed. Five years passed. Julie's whole life was centered in her child, Paul. Life was becoming more and more unbearable as Morland had become fanatically jealous of his beautiful wife.

At a dance one evening, Gaston Napier, one of Julie's friends from the Latin Quarter and a debtor of Morland's, showed Julie a letter he had received from Pierre. At a sanitarium in the Alps, supported by Julie's money, alhough it was unknown to him, Pierre asked only one thing—that he might see Julie before he died.

Julie hurried to Pierre's side and —Morland followed. He demanded a divorce, and not being allowed the custody of the child, determined to find a way of getting him back. His lawyer pointed out one method—by proving Julie an immoral woman.

Gaston, owing him money, was forced to do Morland's bidding. Taking advantage of his mutual friendship for Pierre and Julie, he had forced himself into her confidence. Back in Paris after a holiday at the seashore, Gaston offered to paint Julie's portrait as a present for Pierre. Then came the day on which he took her into his arms and made fervent expressions of love—just as the door opened to allow the entrance of Morland and the witnesses. In one cruel blow, the man she had trusted took her child away. So—she shot him.

That was the story Julie Morland told the jury that memerable morning. After many hours of deliberation, a verdict of—but come to the Capitol next, Monday and see the supreme triumph of Pola Negri's artistry, Paramount's "The Woman On Trial."

As Julie Morland, Miss Negri is said to have the finest role of her brilliant career. Mauritz Stiller, the man who directed "Hotel Imperial", screened Ernest Vajda's stage success "Confession."

AT THE REGENT.

"FAIR CO-ED" A HILARIOUS FILM.

It isn't very often that an audience gets more than it bargains for at a motion picture showing.

Audiences will view bad pictures and enter the theatre next time with a whole load of optimism that is sometimes dispelled and sometimes realized.

"The Fair Co-ed." which opens on Monday at the Regent Theatre, is the sort of film that makes one optimistic for pictures. In fact, it gives the picturegoer much more than he can rightfully hope to see in one film production.

It is a screen vehicle, magnificently handled from a dictatorial angle and with a cast of players that works hard—and successfully to give every ounce of their support to the star.

Marion has the role of an American co-ed and she looks the part as she puts it over in a most convincing manner.

Johnny Mack Brown, who appears opposite the star, works as zealously on celluloid as he used to work with the pigskin when he was star halfback a couple of seasons back on the University of Alabama's football team. Johnny has looks, screen personality and talent. He shows all three and has the advantage of having a new face for confirmed moviegoers to gaze upon.

THE WESTCLOX BY-LAW

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Kindly permit us to ask the qualified electors to support the by-law which is to be voted upon on Monday next to fix the assessment on the new building of the Western Clock Company.

When the Company were preparing to erect the buildings they asked the Council for this fixed assessment. The Council wished to comply with the request at the time, but it would have cost several hundred dollars to have submitted a by-law to the electors then.

The Company agreed to go on with the building, with the assurance from the Council that it would submit the by-law to the electors at the time of the municipal elections, when it would cost much less, and that the members of the Council would endorse the by-law and request the electors to support it.

The Council is anxious that the by-law should pass in order to keep faith with the Company, which is one of the most progressive industrial concerns in the city, and feels confident the electors will turn out on Monday and give the by-law the necessary two-thirds vote.

W. T. HOLLOWAY, Mayor.
M. McINTYRE, Chairman Manufacturers' Committee.

The Support of the Citizens of Peterborough of the By-law above referred to, which has been recommended by the City Council, would be appreciated.

ST. JOHN'S SUNDAY SCHOOL

One of the most successful entertainments ever held in connection with St. John's Sunday School was held Thursday evening in the Parish House commencing at six o'clock. Nearly two hundred pupils of the main school and junior Bible Classes sat down to supper, which was graced by the presence of the two church-wardens, Col. A. Stevenson and W. J. Kent, as well as by members of the staff and officials of the school. The dining hall was made attractive by the addition of candles and other Christmas decoration and the excitement of the young people reached its climax when at the end of supper bags of candies were passed around.

At seven-thirty the program, to which many adults came, was commenced by the Vicar, Rev. Dr. Blagrave, who expressed in warm terms his appreciation of the faithful workers in the Sunday School and the splendid efforts that had been made by those responsible in providing for the evening's entertainment. "There is no better or more efficient staff in any Sunday School anywhere," said the Vicar, who mentioned the superintendent, E. Sorby; the secretary, Harold Lang; the Pianist, Reg. Howden, who is also assistant secretary; the librarian, Jack Marshall; Mrs. Hoyland's orchestra; Mrs. F. D. Craig, superintendent of the Primary department; the convenors of the committees, Mrs. Deyman, Mrs. Parlour and Bert Graham, and several others, including W. S. THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XLVIII — by Nicholas Afonsky

The next big record was made by Clarence Chamberlain and Charles Levine when, on June 4 and 5, they flew from New York to Berlin—or nearly there, for they came down a little short of their goal, having lost their way and run out of gas. They broke the long-distance record which Lindbergh had established.

Next came the thrilling flight of Byrd—with Acosta, Balchen and Noville. Leaving New York with Paris as their goal they ran into bad weather at the start, and could not get away from it. When they finally dropped into the sea just off Ver-sur-Mer on July 1, they had proved that a plane can live through really terrific weather.

In 1925, Commander Rodgers flew 1,992 miles from California toward Hawaii, when he was forced to land in the sea. On June 28 and 29, 1927, Maitland and Hegenberger made the first non-stop flight to the islands. A little later Smith and Bronte, though lost for hours in fog, landed in a tree in Hawaii with their last drop of gas gone.

And what of the future of flying? Here is a quotation from Tennyson's "Locksley Hall":

For I dipt into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the Vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be:
Saw the heavens fill with commerce, argosies of magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with cosly bales:
Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rain'd a ghastly dew
From the Nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue!
Far along the world-wide whisper of the south-wind rushing warm;
With the standards of the peoples plunging thro' the thunder-storm;
Till the war-drum throbb'd no longer, and the battle-flags were furl'd

Appreciation from
J. J. Duffus Ltd.

"Through Service We Grow"

NOT IN WORDS ONLY, but from the bottom of the heart, we sincerely express our warm appreciation for the valued patronage we have enjoyed during 1927.

We have tried to build honesty, efficiency, courtesy and supreme satisfaction into everything that has been entrusted to us. That we have succeeded in a generous measure is best evidenced by the fact that during this year we have put through our Service Department over 24,000 service jobs. We view this performance with pardonable pride and true thankfulness and as a real expression of the confidence our thousands of customers have had in us.

The sale of Willys-Knight, Whippet and Falcon Knight Automomobiles far exceeded our expectations and daily continues to increase.

Our Painting, Battery Service, Tire and Accessory Departments have surpassed that of any other year.

Our Filling Station, "SNAPPY SERVICE," has proved a marvel in the dispensing of gasoline, oils, anti-freeze, greases, water and air and has enabled us to give our customers the kind of service they are entitled to.

For all of these we are truly happy and most thankful, and we give all automobile and truck owners our assurance that we are entering the New Year of 1928 with a greater determination to give even better service and satisfaction than in the past.

To all those who we have been privileged to serve, to those whom we hope to serve and all other citizens, we trust that each passing year may augment their happiness and that this season of Holiday Greetings may find them content with their past achievements and eager for those which are yet to come.

Respectfully yours,

J. J. DUFFUS, LIMITED.

IN MEMORIAM.

LEAN. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. John Lean, who passed away December 27, 1926.
Just one year ago to-day
The heavenly gates were opened wide,
A loving voice said "Come."
She never failed to do her best,
Her heart was true and tender;
We often think of the days gone by
When we were all together;
A shadow o'er our lives is cast,
A loved one gone for ever.
So December brings back sad memories
Of you that's gone to rest;
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
—Sadly missed by Husband and Family.

VOL. LXI., No. 1 — PETERBOROUGH, ONT., TUESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1928 — PRICE THREE CENTS

DENNE ELECTED MAYOR FOR 1928

FACTORY BYLAW GIVEN APPROVAL BY CITY VOTERS

Electors Vote Favorably For the Westclox By-law By 1,612.

HAD EARLY LEAD.

Daylight Saving Defeated With 2,614 For and 2,957 Against.

Daylight Saving came as near being carried in Peterborough yesterday as it has for many years, the majority against it being only 343. For a long time, in fact, it seemed as though it might go through, but when Poll 29 at Central School reported an opposition of 41, the sponsors of the proposal were given a knock-out blow and never recovered.

The first poll to report was 11, with 14 opposed; then came 13, with a majority of 24 in favor; and third was 32, with a tie, 65 each way. When four polls had been heard from the majority in favor of Daylight Saving was 11; the fifth brought it up to 14, and that was the highest it climbed. The sixth report brought it down to 10 in favor, and then came Poll 29. The vote was: "Yes" 2,614, "No" 2,957.

Westclox By-law.

There was no doubt left as to the opinion of the voters on the Westclox by-law, when 2,224 people voted in favor of its passing and only 612 opposed it. A curious feature is the largest contrary vote, 43, cast at King George School, in the district where the Westclox factory is located. The smallest opposition was at Poll 14, the City Buildings.

The first poll reporting was number 13, with 21 in favor and 2 opposed; next was 29 Poll, with a majority of 41 for the by-law; and the third was number 15, which had 19 to 7 in favor.

Has 946 Majority Over Nagle Phelan In Mayorality Race

Polls 3,323 Votes Out of 5,700 Registered, Leaving 2,377 To Losing Candidate and Has Winning Majority in All But Nine of the Sub-Divisions—Cotton Leads the Aldermanic Contest From First

CRANE ELECTED TO COMMISSION WITH MAJORITY OF 1,434 VOTES

Election of Cotton, Ackerman, Stocker, MacDonald and Hamilton Conceded at Final Count, With Lowe and Huffman Close Sixth and Seventh.

Alderman Roland Denne was yesterday promoted by the electors to the position of Mayor of Peterborough for 1928. He polled 3,323 votes out of 5,700 leaving 2,377 to Alderman Nagle Phelan.

Number 14 poll, manned by Felix Brownscombe, was the first to report, shortly after five o'clock, with 81 to 52 in favor of the winning contestant, and Number 27 poll followed quickly with 101 to 32. When Number 2 poll turned in a majority for Mr. Denne of 15, an indication of the result was given, the majority then being 111. The losing candidate had majorities in only nine of the polling places: King Edward School, No. 3; Sacred Heart School, Nos. 4 and 5; St. Peter's School, Nos. 20 and 21; Queen Mary School No. 24; Immaculate Conception School, No. 36, and King George School, Nos. 37 and 38.

Cotton Leads Aldermen

In the Alderman ic contest, Poll 15 was the first heard from, with Alderman Cotton leading the parade, as he continued to do throughout, until he headed the poll with a total vote of 3,409. Number 27 was second heard from, and here Alderman Ackerman had the highest vote, with Alderman Cotton second. Next came Number 2 poll, giving Alderman Cotton 83 to Alderman Ackerman's 70. When the count was made at 10 o'clock last night election of Cotton, Ackerman, Stocker, MacDonald and Hamilton was conceded, with Lowe and Huffman close sixth and seventh, and Holland only four behind Huffman, a difference of 700 separating Holland and the next highest.

There was a constant see-saw for the tail-end positions on the Aldermanic board. At one time the standing was Cotton, Ackerman, Stocker, MacDonald, and Lowe, with Hamilton and Huffman sixth and seventh. Then, with 23 polls heard from, Hamilton stepped up to fifth place, pushing Lowe and Huffman down to sixth and seventh places. When the results of 28 polls had come in, the standing was the same as the final result, but between that and the receiving of the thirty-eighth poll there were many ups-and-downs.

The last poll to report on the Mayoralty election was 16, which gave Denne 98 and Phelan 69, and the last to supply returns on the Alderman contest was 26, at Central School, giving Ackerman 82, Stocker 64, MacDonald 63, Cotton 61, and Lowe 46.

Crane for Commission

John Crane yesterday received 3,529 votes, electing him to the Utilities Commission over W. H. Brudburn, who received 2,095 votes, a majority of 1,434. The retiring chairman of the Utilities Commission did not receive a majority at any poll, although he tied his opponent at two—Number 1, with 77 each, and Number 25, with 64 each.

The first poll to report was 14, where Felix Brownscombe was in charge, with 87 to 44 for Crane, and Number 22 was not far behind with 95 to 45. The third to report was 33, at Queen Alexandra School, with 75 to 40 for Crane.

The last poll to report was 30, where Mr. Crane's majority was 28.

MARINES HOLD TOWN.

U. S. Forces Lose Five Men in Repulsing Nicaraguan Rebls.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, January 3 (Canadian Press). — The reinforced garrison of United States Marines today held Quilali after fierce fighting, in which six marines were killed and twenty-eight wounded. The forces of Sandino, the rebel leader, were driven out. The reinforcing on Sunday of the patrol which captured Quilali on Friday, resulted in the death of five United States Marines, and many rebels. The rebel casualties in the two encounters were not determined because the dead and the wounded were quickly removed to

Thirteens Common In Losers' Columns

Thirteen was a jinx yesterday for six of the Aldermanic candidates, but it stalked with special venom on the heels of F. T. Tuggey and J. E. Haggart, the low men.

Mr. Tuggey had 13 votes at polling places 11, 15, 21 and 22, and four thirteens, while they add 52 to the total vote, form too much of an unlucky handicap to overcome. Mr. Haggart, who was lowest man, had two 13 votes, at polling places 14 and 33.

The others, each with one 13 vote, were H. C. Huffman, E. A. Stinson, J. R. Paquette, and W. A. Halpin.

Of course, there were two 13 votes in the Westclox by-law, but since there was one on each side the evil spell was offset. At polling place 13, S. Lowe had a majority of 13 over Mr. Huffman — nearly the margin by which sixth place was decided.

BIRTHS, WEDDINGS, DEATHS INCREASE

Births, marriages and deaths all increased in Peterborough during 1927 over the previous year. Last year there were 556 births, 222 marriages and 336 deaths, while in 1926 there were 556 births, 204 marriages and 295 deaths, showing an increase of two births, eighteen marriages and forty-one deaths.

For the month of December, 1927, there were 54 births, 19 marriages, and 39 deaths for the same month in 1926 there were 45 births, 17 marriages and 30 deaths.

FIRE LOSS LESS DURING MONTH

Were More Fires in Ontario During November, However.

CHURCH FIRE LARGEST.

The Ontario Fire Marshall's report for the month of November, 1927, gives some interesting information. There were 962 fires, an increase of 115 over the same month a year ago, yet there was a decrease in loss of $124,385. The insurance loss also decreased by $134,579, but the loss not covered by insurance increased $10,194.

Comparing the eleven months of 1927, with the same months of 1926, it shows that there was an increased number of fires, 599 being the amount of increase, the total loss increased by $64,472. The surance loss decreased by $97,077, but the loss not covered by insurance increased $161,549. The largest fire during the past month was that of Erskine United church, Toronto, the loss in this in-

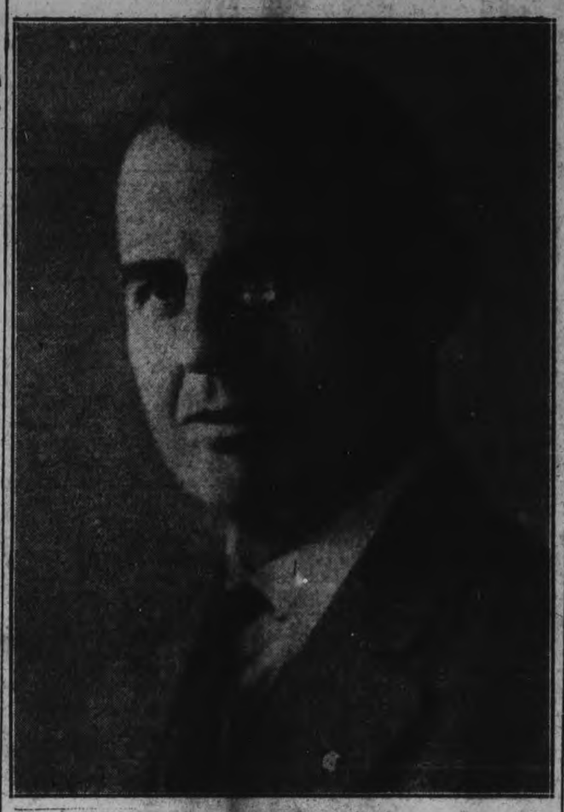
PROMOTED BY ELECTORS



MAYOR-ELECT ROLAND DENNE,
Who Was Elected to the Chief Magistracy of Peterborough Yesterday by a Large Majority Over Alderman Nagle E. Phelan.

LAST POLLS TO REPORT DECIDE FINAL PLACES ON TWO BOARDS IN KEENLY CONTESTED ELECTION

City Council and Board of Education Seats in Doubt Until End.

INTEREST MAINTAINED.

Runaway Contests For Mayoralty and Commission Fail to End Intense Excitement.

While yesterday's election was not the close contest, in the main events, that many looked for, there was sufficient competition to keep the interest up until the last poll was received. In fact, that last poll had a lot to do with the settlement of the Aldermanic contest as far as the tail-enders were concerned, and specially in deciding sixth and seventh places. The Board of Education personnel, too, was decided by the last vote turned in.

Mayor-elect Roland Denne polled his largest majority yesterday at polling place 28, Central School, where he had a lead over his opponent of 107. Nagle Phelan's largest lead was at polling place 24, Queen Mary School, where he received 69 more than his opponent.

Ashburnham Elected Phelan.

If Ashburnham had its way, Mr. Phelan would be Mayor. The voting places across the river gave him a majority of 23 votes over Mr. Denne.

The largest vote in the Mayoralty contest was at polling place 24, Queen Mary School, 209, with poll 23, at the same place, a close second, 202. The smallest vote was cast at polling place 15, City Buildings, with 66. This was the only polling place having less than 100 votes.

Two years ago Mr. Phelan polled 2,601 votes; this year his total was 2,377 votes.

Big Utilities Turnover.

John Crane, new member of the Utilities Commission, received his highest majority at polling place 25, Queen Mary School, where he led his opponent by 85 votes. There were two tie votes, at polling places 1 and 25, and the new member led in all the others.

The largest vote in the Utilities Commission contest was at poll 24, with 203 votes cast, and the smallest at 15, where one more was cast than in the Mayoralty contest—67. The turnover yesterday was 500 less than that which defeated Robert Hicks in 1926, but Mr. Bradburn received 2,095 votes yesterday, compared with the 1,672 given him in his contest with

Average Man May Yet Attain 100-Year Span

BATTLE CREEK, Jan. 3. — Canadian Press. — The average man may yet acquire a life cycle of one hundred years in the opinion of Dr. Eugene Lyman Fiske, Medical Director of the Life Extension Institute. Dr. Fiske, who was here to address the race betterment conference, said that advances in hygiene, eugenics, and preventative medicine, have added 37 years to the average life expectancy, in the last four hundred years. With continued progress in these fields it is felt the span will be lengthened. "There is no known limit to the average life time a man might acquire by scientific nurture and control of his tisues," Dr. Fiske said.

FIRE LOSS LESS IN PAST YEAR

More Fires Had To Be Fought in 1927, But Damage Was Much Lower.

FEWER ALARMS.

The annual report prepared by Fire Chief Gimblet indicates a decrease in the number of alarms and an increase in the number of fires, but in the total fire loss of the city there is a decrease when compared with 1926.

For 1927 there were 437 alarms sent in. There were fifty-three fires, with a loss, up to Nov. 30, of $27,699.07, while the estimated loss for December was $3,600.00.

These figures compare well with 1926. In that year there were 405 alarms, 48 fires, and a loss of $76,448.20. It will be seen that though there were fewer fires in that year, the loss was $45,140.13 greater.

The number of fires in both cases does not include chimney fires.

Dr. J. J. Craig Heads Polls In Election For School Board

Return of Mrs. W. R. Morris With Highest Vote She Ever Polled is Feature of Yesterday's Election For School Trustees —Total Mark Made in 1920 744.

COMPETITION FOR FIFTH PLACE KEEN AS IN ALDERMANIC RACE

Dr. H. M. Yelland, E. B. Fowler and Frank H. Dawson Are Other Members Elected, the Latter By Gain of Only 22 Over Roland Wilson.

The features of the Board of Education election yesterday were the return of Mrs. W. R. Morris with the highest vote she ever polled, after two years' absence from the Board, and the election of Dr. John J. Craig at the head of the poll. Dr. J. J. Craig, Dr. H. M. Yelland, E. B. Fowler, Mrs. W. R. Morris, and Frank H. Dawson were elected, the latter by a majority of only 22 over Roland Wilson.

Dr. Craig's achievement is specially outstanding in that he won majorities in all but three of the voting places, in two of which Dr. Yelland led by a total of seven votes and in the other Mr. Fowler had a lead of eight. Dr. Craig's lead over the next highest was 419.

When Mrs. Morris captured, in 1920, the distinction of being the first woman to hold a civic position in Peterborough, she was placed third in a field of ten, with a total of 1,162 votes. Yesterday she received 1,007 votes.

Keen Competition

As in the Aldermanic Board, the competition for the fifth position on the Board of Education was keen. At one time Frank Dawson held this place by a majority of one.

Leads from First

The first polling place making returns on the Board of Education was No. 15, which gave Dr. Craig a lead of five over Dr. Yelland and Mr. Fowler, who tied with 39 each. Next came 27, with 33 votes for Dr. Craig, 30 for Dr. Yelland, and 66 for Mr. Fowler. No. 2 poll was third to report, giving Dr. Craig 61, Dr. Yelland and F. H. Dawson each, and Mrs. Morris 50.

Last in reporting was Poll 19, which gave Dr. Craig a majority of 21 over Dr. Yelland, Mr. Fowler being third with 98.

Dr. Craig established a precedent last night, when he handed around cigars in celebration of his victory. The thirty or so men who gather in the City Clerk's office annually to receive the returns do not recall ever before been treated in this way.

Old Campaigners Attend In Force

Year after year there gathers in the City Clerk's office to hear the election returns a crowd of men more than ordinarily interested in the results. Most of the candidates are there, their faces rising and falling as the totals in their columns grow or diminish. Friends of the candidates, too, gather there, and many old war horses who still respond to the smoke of an election battle. In the last named last night were Bob Hicks, who served the city so well on the Utilities Commission, John Turner, whose term as Mayor was a bright spot in civic history; Joe Maher and J. O. Fife, Aldermen of last year, and previous years and others who looked in for a minute at the busy crowd, were Mel Turner, Harry Gainey and John Edgar, all of whom have served on the council.

CUSTOMS REVENUE CONTINUES HIGH

Collections For Nine Months of Fiscal Year Ahead of 1926.

DECEMBER TOTAL GOOD.

In the first nine months of the Government fiscal year the amount of collections at the Port of Peterborough have almost equalled that collected in the previous twelve months. During December $127,686.89 was collected, and the amount collected up to the end of December was $1,333,839.32. From April to December in 1926 collections amounted to $1,127,623.91.

THE WEATHER

The New Year was ushered in with much colder weather but a decided change for the better from the slush and general disagreeableness prevailing on Saturday. The thermometer got down to within one degree of zero and continued a little above the zero mark all the day. Monday was somewhat colder, six below zero being the figure in the morning. This morning it was nine degrees above. In January of last year, from the 7th to 12th it was cold, the coldest being 16 below. On the 15th it was 19 below; on the 16th, 18 below. Then again from the 23rd to the 27th it was sharp. On the 26th it was 21 below, and on the 27th (5 day) it was 25 below. Altogether in January we had 14 days below zero. On the 1st of the month there was snow to the depth of 8 inches on the ground which was gradually increased to 16 inches on the 31st. Rain fell on six days.—W.P.

Between eighteen and twenty million British women were bobbed and shingled this year.

Howe, of Appin Village, was arraigned in the County Police Court here to-day before Magistrate Hawkshaw on a charge of murder. The body of the child was discovered in its crib on Sunday by the father upon his return home from work. After the preliminary inquest, the woman was arrested and placed in Middlesex Jail here. Mrs. Howe has been a patient at an Ontario Hospital on previous occasions. The case was adjourned pending the outcome of the inquest, which is slated to be held in Appin on January 10.

Factories, Houses, Garages and Other Buildings Numerous.

281 PERMITS ISSUED.

February Low With One Permit For $700—July Leads With $307,557.

The year 1927 was a banner one in the history of Peterborough's building operations. Houses, garages, and many miscellaneous buildings were erected in the city, and the Clean-Up Campaign inaugurated during the spring aided greatly in having many of the homes in this city improved.

There were 281 permits issued by the City Engineer, and these involved an amount of $634,296.80, which is almost double that of 1926, when 229 permits were issued valued at $342,757.00.

Thirty-eight new homes were erected and many houses were turned into duplex so that more than one family could be houses in the same building. There were 94 private garages erected, valued at $23,269.00, and 149 miscellaneous permits issued, amounting to $487,327.00.

During the year the large extension to the Collegiate Institute was commenced. Work was completed on the addition to the Westclox factory. A. Comstock & Sons erected an addition to their store on George St. James S. Fanning built a new laundry on King Street, and H. M. erected a fine garage next the Telephone building on Hunter St.

...ELECTION IS KEENLY CONTESTED

Mayor Kingston Given Substantial Majority Over T. E. Hyland.

ONE COUNCILLOR BEATEN.

Larger Percentage of Votes Cast Than Usual in Spite of Cold Weather.

Yesterday was an unusual election day in more ways than one. Coming as it did on a holiday, the percentage of the vote cast is usually very low and it is not an uncommon occurrence to have the whole list of officials returned by acclamation. When there is an election and the vote is small, the blame is invariably attached to adverse weather conditions or some other similar circumstance. But the bitter cold yesterday was not inviting, yet there was a heavy vote. There was practically no street corner "buttonholing." In fact there was hardly anyone on the streets all afternoon just at the time when election fever is at its hottest. But all day, fleets of cars carried voters to and from the polling booths.

With two exceptions, there will be the same officials in office during 1928 as there were last year. Mr. MacDonald, who was a councillor last year, was unseated by the small margin of thirty-one votes. A. T. Linton, appointed to the school board to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Glenn Thompson from Campbellford, is replaced by Thomas Hall.

The feature which caused the greatest interest in the election was the contest for the mayoralty. G. A. Kingston, who has been mayor for the past two years, was again in the field and was opposed by T. E. Hyland, manager of the Regent Theatre. The stoutest plank in their platform seemed to be the affairs of the Campbellford Cloth Company. Mr. Hyland was for taking more drastic and immediate action than Mr. Kingston, who favoured a more conservative line of deliberation. That Mayor Kingston has the support of the majority of ratepayers is shown by the fact that of the 946 votes cast for mayor, 645 went in his favour, more than doubling the vote polled for Mr. Hyland.

It is of interest to note that Mayor Kingston did not solicit one vote during the time that has elapsed between nominations and yesterday. He is a man who has seen twenty years service as an official of the municipality. During that time he has served fifteen years on the school board and for two terms occupied the position of chairman. The remaining five years are divided between service as a councillor and two years as mayor.

When interviewed by The Examiner Mayor Kingston wished to express his sincere appreciation of the loyal support he had received at the polls and to state that he would continue to serve the town of Campbellford to the best of his ability and in the best interests of the ratepayers.

T. E. Hyland, the defeated candidate, was among the first to congratulate the mayor. While the contest between the two men had been of the keenest nature, nothing but the best of friendship existed all during the campaign.

For the council, Nelson Stone headed the polls with a margin of only two votes between himself and Gillon Wiggins, who was second Mr. Stone had pledged himself to serve the public to the best of his ability and with their interest constantly in mind. He wished to express his sincere appreciation of the support he had received at the polls. He has had many years' municipal service. The council will be the same as last year with the exception of Mr. MacDonald, who was unseated by Mr. Wilkinson by a matter of twenty-one votes. Mr. Wilkinson has had considerable experience with municipal affairs.

For the three school trustees, four men were in the contest. There seemed little to choose between them. Thomas Hall was the choice of the people, for he headed the polls by a plurality of 147 over Mr. Anderson, who was second on the list in order of votes polled. Mr. Denyes was the third man, with only seven votes separating him from Anderson and Linton. The unsuccessful candidate lost out by 135. Since the opening of the High school and the success which has attended that institution, the affairs of the trustees have been

England Threatened By Flood Conditions

LONDON, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—A great thaw which released Great Britain yesterday from the chains of snow and ice which have been holding her, last night had produced flood conditions in many parts of England, where heavy rainfalls accompanied "the big melt."

In the valleys of the Thames, Severn and Trent, distressing conditions have already been reported and many streams have burst their banks under the pressure of the accumulated waters.

Rain has been falling for almost 24 hours in the London district, and the snow, which for a week interfered with traffic, quickly disappeared as the temperature rose from 20 to 30 degrees.

The changed conditions brought relief to a number of remote villages which were snowbound and without their usual daily supplies. While many villages thus were released from their snowbound conditions, others, especially along the river banks, were distressed by overflows and rain which was general throughout England.

BOY'S PARENTS MAKE PROTEST

Mr. and Mrs. Jones Accuse the Navy Department of Cruel Indifference.

"BOYS CRUCIFIED."

WASHINGTON, December 31 (Canadian Press). — The Navy Department to-day was accused by the parents of Commander Roy K. Jones, commander of submarine S-4, with having "crucified our dear boy and his comrades," and also with having displayed "cruel indifference' toward the crew of the sunken ship.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, set forth these views in a jointly signed letter to Representative Mc-Clintic, of Oklahoma, Democrat on the House Naval Committee, who has demanded a Congressional inquiry into the sinking of the ship.

"We both feel that the Navy Department has crucified our dear boy and his comrades, and the cruel indifference which they have shown these poor boys who died in the service of their country is inhuman and without precedent," the letter said.

McClintic, in making public the letter, issued a statement declaring that it will be a "travesty on justice" for Congress to refuse to create a special committee to investigate the disaster.

Gordon Re-elected Mayor of Midland

MIDLAND, Ont., Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—In the civic elections held here yesterday, George Gordon, last year's mayor, was re-elected by 210 majority over J. B. Roebuck. Fred Hill was elected second deputy reeve by 284, over Alf. Gray, who held the office last year. The school board, where four out of six had to be elected, resulted in the election of George J. Moore, Paul E. Angle, H. H. McGill and T. W. McCullough. The Public Utilities Commissioners elected were David Hurrie and F. E. Dudley.

In Ward 1, the only ward where there was a contest for Aldermen, John Anderson and Larne Lockhart were elected. The electors voted for the fixed assessment of $150,000 on the new C.P.R. elevator which was carried by 743, and a bylaw to raise $60,000 for another public school also carried, but the money may not be used if the move to establish separate schools is carried out. The electors also voted to retain the present ward system of voting. The vote was not a heavy one, as the day was rather cold and blustery.

War-Time Friend of Queen Marie Succumbs After Short Illness

PARIS, January 3 (Canadian Press). — Lois Fuller, noted dancer and close wartime friend of Queen Marie of Rumania, died yesterday after a ten days' illness from pneumonia, which followed an attack of grippe.

The dancer, who was born on a farm near Chicago, but made her home in Paris for many years, was eulogized in long articles of appreciation in the entire Parisian press. She is referred to as "La Lois," which is the French usage in stamping an artist with greatness.

Columns of the afternoon papers were filled with descriptions of the beauty of her dancing and of the famous troupes which she sent around the world, along with almost ecstatic references of joy which her use of color and light gave to the eye of the spectator of scenes which she directed.

Miss Fuller's close relations with Queen Marie appeared somewhat clouded during the queen's visit to the United States in 1926. She and the queen had been the closest of friends for many years, the queen even discussing family problems with the dancer. During the queen's American trip there was discord after Miss Fuller joined the royal party at Spokane, Washington, and the dancer left the train at Denver. The two women had not seen each other since then.

It was also reported that the dancer tried to mediate with with the queen in behalf of Madame Magda Lupescu, with whom former Crown Prince Carol eloped from Rumania.

Whether either or both of these affairs caused the coolness between them, their friendship seemed to have suffered a break.

LINDY MAY EXTEND TRIP

Would Include Columbia and Venzuela in Good Will Flight.

NO PLANS MADE.

SAN SALVADOR, Salvador, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press), Colonel Lindbergh has under consideration an extension of his Central American tour to include Colombia and Venezuela, but will not make a decision until he reaches Panama.

The flyer from the United States told correspondents yesterday he had made no definite plans in this respect, but acknowledged that they were under consideration.

Receptions and official ceremonies took up Lindbergh's time yesterday. President Romero Bosque pinned a commemorative gold medal upon him at a reception at the national palace. Members of the Cabinet, the diplomatic and consulate corps, and other high public officials were present at these ceremonies.

On the way to the palace the streets were lined with some 10,000 persons who flocked to view the private citizen who is honored here as a special ambassador of the United States. New and news photographers had their cameras trained upon him at points all along the route to get every detail of his progress. Overhead a squadron of Salvadorean aeroplanes performed evolutions in friendly demonstration for the visiting flyer.

Other entertainments in his honor yesterday were at the United States Legation and the San Salvador Country Club.

Lindbergh expects to hop off this morning between 11 and 12 for Tegucicalpa, Honduras, where he will be only a short distance from the Nicaraguan border, (Fighting between United States Marines and Nicaraguan rebels of the past few days is just over the border and Lindbergh probably will fly almost directly over the scene of the fighting when he leaves Tegucicalpa for Managoa, probably Thursday).

Believed Part Of Plane Found

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—The number stencilled on the piece of wreckage picked up last Monday morning off Savage Harbor by Milton Coffin, was A-1393. It was said that if Coffin's description of the stick was correct, it might have formed a part of the missing plane, Dawn, or of the machines flown by Nungesser and Coli or Count De Lesseps.

The Dawn had the Department of Commerce number NX-01282 painted on its wing.

NEW YEAR'S DAY

Among the white races of the world, New Year's Day is welcomed by a variety of quaint and picturesque observances.

In Lombardy, for example, the "royal infant" is often met by processions of maidens, carrying garlands of flowers, and rival processions of young men bearing sticks. When the two processions meet, each maid hangs her garland on the staff of the youth she favors, who will proudly cherish it as a pledge of love until it is redeemed at the altar.

In Europe indeed, many features of New Year's observance are quite unfamiliar to us. In Rome, thousands of people flock to the churches to see the presepi, which are tableaux of the Nativity. Thus, memories of Christmas still hover around the initial day of the New Year. The scene shows views of the Holy Land lighted up by electricity, with running streams, flocks and shepherds of carved wood moved by machinery, and in the foreground a Madonna and Child, surrounded by adoring shepherds, while angels are seen in the air, and from the mountain passes, kings descend, followed by trains of richly-attired knights.

At the famous Ara Coeli church, on the Capitoline Hill, may be seen a wooden image of the Child Jesus, covered from head to foot with shining jewels. The figure is said to have been carved out of a tree from the Mount of Olives and tradition further relates that the workman was no less a person than St. Luke, the disciple of Jesus.

In England.

In Devonshire, England, it is the practice in many villages for the church bellringers to equip themselves with handbells and to make a tour of the parish, ringing sweet peals and changes in greeting to the young year.

No less quaint is a centuries-old custom in Yorkshire. A number of men and boys, disguised in grotesque costumes, pay visits to certain favored houses, where they proceed to sweep the floors, dust the furniture and clean the grates to the accompaniment of a humming chorus. The reward of their quaint house-cleaning efforts consists largely of hot and potent liquid.

In United States.

In the United States, especially in New England, still survive many customs introduced by early English settlers. Many of these customs still survive in the new land long after their disappearance from the old. A case in point is the New Year's Mummers' Parade which reaches its climax in the City of Philadelphia in a procession of figures, decked out in the most grotesque costumes the participants can devise. By far the most striking spectacles are presented by the "Kings" whose magnificent trains stretching the whole width of the broadest thoroughfare are borne by a retinue of a score of pages.

In sections of California the first smile of the infant year is seen through a mass of roses. A mile-long procession of vehicles—from six-horse coaches and 10,000-dollar automobiles to bicycles and sedan chairs, all loaded with flowers, fill the air with perfume and delight the eye with color.

New York now behaves itself with decorum proper to a metropolis, but time was when the big city unreservedly let itself go on January 1. New Year's Day in Dutch New York was celebrated by a custom which was unique at the time, but has now spread throughout that country and several others as well. This was the New Year's calls paid by the gentlemen of the town to every lady of their acquaintance, who so hospitably fed him on wine and punch and cake, that the day was known as "the great day of cake." When the French and British came into the town, they approved of the idea so heartily that they too adopted it, and even Washington, who was thoroughly human (despite Big Bill Thompson to the contrary), when he made New York his capital liked the custom so well that he carried it to Philadelphia, when he went there.

Scottish Celebration.

Scotland is still the classic country of New Year observances, and the Scot carries his customs with him to the four corners of the globe. Strictly speaking, the bulk of the festivities take place on Hogmanay, in the closing hours of the Old Year, and a recital of time-honored observances still in vogue would fill a volume.

In certain parts of the Highlands, Hogmanay still witnesses some strange rites. One custom calls for the filling of a pitcher with water over which a funeral has passed. On New Year's Day the family is sprinkled with this water, some of it is poured over the silver in the house and the remainder is given to the animals to drink. After these ceremonies, which are supposed to ensure good fortune have been duly carried out, the rest of the day is spent in sports and revelry.

Nor do the children lack their Hogmanay festival. In the morning of the last day, the children sally forth in bands, claiming their measure of good cheer in lines like the following:

"Rise up guidwife an' shake your feathers,
Dinna think that we are beggars,
We are but bairnies come to play,
Get up and gie's our Hogmanay."

A few pence or some pieces of cake or currant bun meet the claim in full.

In Gay Paree.

"Gay Paree" celebrates the New Year in characteristic fashion. Ceremonious visits and presents of boxes of flowers or sweetmeats are exchanged among friends. Every popular actress ensures good luck for the next twelve months by saluting the theatre fireman by a kiss from her pretty lips, and every male is careful to give his first New Year's kiss to one of the opposite sex. On New Year's Day the good Parisian must tip everyone who gives him service, from his barber and washerwoman to his concierge, who wishes him "Bonne Annee" and the multitude of beggars who flood the streets reap a rich harvest on this day of hope and rejoicing.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1928.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Two members of last year's Board of Education will e missing as a result of yesterday's vote, E. R. Wilson nd J. A. McNabb being numbered among the fallen. r. Wilson, had he been elected, would have been parcularly useful in the fitting up of the plant of the new echnical School.

Their places will be taken by Mrs. Morris, who returns to the Board after an absence of two years, and by Frank H. Dawson.

The other three old members were returned, Dr. J. J. Craig heading the polls, Dr. Max Yelland, who had that honor two years ago, finishing second, and E. Bruce Fowler, Chairman of the Board, landing the third position.

These members have given good service, and their return to office was justified.

Mrs. Morris, who during her previous membership championed the cause of technical education, comes back to the Board in time to assist in the details in connection with the new Collegiate Institute and Technical School.

MR. CRANE'S VICTORY.

The decisive defeat of W. H. Bradburn, Chairman of the Utilities Commission, by John Crane, former bank manager and member of the Board of Education, evidences popular local belief in the old proverb about no man being able to serve two masters.

The feeling that Mr. Bradburn had enough responsibility on his hands as the representative of Peterborough City in the Legislature undoubtedly was a big factor in the result, and coupled with Mr. Crane's popularity throughout the city, was fatal to the return of the Chairman.

Mr. Bradburn has been six years a member of the Commission, and has been of valuable service there, but these facts did not serve to offset the opinion that the local field and the arena of Provincial politics should be kept separate.

The new member of the Commission, by reason of his business and financial training and his experience as a member of the Board of Education, becomes a member of the Utilities Commission under most auspicious conditions.

Mr. Crane should make good; he has the necessary schooling and the qualities that are needed for capable public service.

THE FATE OF THE BYLAWS.

As was confidently expected, the bylaw to provide a fixed assessment upon the new building of the Westclox Company was emphatically endorsed by the property owners yesterday.

The Examiner had no hesitation in recommending this measure for approval, feeling that the Westclox Company is a splendid asset to Peterborough, and this opinion is evidently very generally shared, as shown by the very substantial majority given the bylaw.

There will be no trial of daylight saving in Peterborough next summer.

Although the summer-time bylaw received more support than when it was voted on two years ago, it was nevertheless defeated by 343.

Two years ago 2,900 voted against daylight saving, while yesterday 2,957 was the adverse figure; on the other hand, the plan was supported by 2,614 on this occasion, as against 2,257 in 1926.

Little attempt was made to organize the vote either for or against the measure, and there was not the flood of controversial letters that marked the last vote on the question, but for all that there was great interest in the result.

EXPERIENCE WINS.

The electors in their attitude toward the selection of Aldermen yesterday were apparently guided by a desire to "let well enough alone."

At all events there will be few changes in the personnel of the Council as a result of the New Year's voting, inasmuch as the four members of last year's Council who offered themselves for re-election were chosen out of a field of fourteen aspirants, while in place of Ald. Hancock, who declined to run again, ex-Ald. James Hamilton was returned to the Council after an absence of some years.

The honor of leading the polls fell to Ald. Robert Cotton, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, whose splendid total indicated that the electors have approved his work during the past two years.

Ald. Ackerman, Ald. Stocker and Ald. Macdonald came back with substantial votes for another two years' service round the Council Board.

The four old members, with ex-Ald. Hamilton, who has done good work in the past, form a strong quintette who should prove their worth and vindicate the judgment of the electors.

Of the defeated candidates Stanley Lowe, one of the younger business men of the city, made the best showing, finishing only 30 votes behind Alderman-elect Hamilton, and the strong run made by him will undoubtedly be a factor in the decision that will have to be made by the Council in filling the vacancies left by resignations from the Council.

Two such appointments are to be made, and the two leaders among the defeated aspirants are Stanley Lowe and H. C. Huffman, the latter beating D. J. Holland for seventh place by the proverbial nose.

THE MAYORALTY RESULT.

Ex-Alderman Roland Denne, who resigned from the Council to battle against his colleague, Alderman Nagle Phelan, for the highest municipal honors in the gift of the electors, was chosen yesterday as Peterborough's Mayor for 1928.

Mr. Denne's victory was decisive.

The Mayor-elect captured twenty-nine out of the thirty-eight polling sub-divisions, and carried four out of the five city wards, East City being the only ward to register a [illegible] was in tributed over 400 to his majority.

The election, while fought out in the most friendly and sportsmanlike fashion between the two rivals for the mayoralty, was much better organized than is usually the case in a civic campaign, and both candidates had a fleet of cars and a corps of willing workers to help swell the total.

Through an unusual combination of circumstances, the electors were able to select Mr. Denne as Mayor and still not lose the services of Alderman Phelan, who did not resign to enter the contest and has a year to serve as a member of the Council.

Mayor-elect Denne should give splendid service as chief magistrate.

He has a wealth of energy and enthusiasm for a bigger Peterborough, an unique knowledge of all the details of municipal affairs, the willingness to work hard himself and the faculty of inspiring those around him to work.

He is not likely to spare himself in looking after the duties of his responsible position, and can be counted on, judging from his record on the Council, his twelve years' service as a member of the Board of Education and his ten-year tenure of the office of President of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, to be ever and always on the job.

There will be nothing lackadaisical about Mayor-elect Denne's term in office.

That his opponent of yesterday remains on the Council Board to give the city the benefit of his eight years' experience and of his judgment and knowledge of municipal problems is a matter which even most of those who voted against Ald. Phelan for the mayoralty yesterday will find satisfaction.

They will probably feel that a combination with Mr. Denne as Mayor and Ald. Phelan in the Council is stronger than a Council with the latter at its head and the former out of office altogether.

GWENDOLIN, BE YOURSELF!

A blushing young lady at Milwaukee's Normal School anonymously complains in the school's literary magazine about the promenading of male students from locker room to gymnasium in abbreviated athletic attire. The blushing young lady states and avers that said male students traverse a public hall in their progress from said locker room to said gymnasium. In so doing, they affront the ascetically, and perhaps esthetically, but not athletically, focused eyes of the blushing young lady and cause her mental and moral anguish. She hints that the contemplation of such "nudity" is calculated to unfit women students for the high duties of the teaching state.

Bare knees, bare arms, bare neck—and only a single layer of stuff to hide the brawny torse! That apparently is the situation in normal's profaned halls. Men, if you please, thus strut their naked limbs athwart the corridors! And girls—bare kneed, bare armed and bare necked, as a matter of course and custom—are shocked!

If the bashful young lady had only leaned more critically on failing esthetic values, greater sympathy might be manifest. If she had said that this parade of bulging knees, knobby arms and bulky Adam's apples had spoiled her dreams of romance, one might comprehend her dismay. But that a few square feet of reasonably selected epidermis should shock in these days—preposterous!

Bashful young lady, look at yourself and your girl friends in a full length mirror—and be yourself!—Milwaukee Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It was a cool night for some of the defeated candidates—and a cold day for everybody.

Is it a case of three times and out for daylight saving? Not likely in view of the fact that over 2,600 people voted yesterday to give the system a trial.

When they are picking Aldermen the electors of Peterborough evidently lay much stress on experience.

Peterborough apparently thinks that the man who made a success of the Industrial Exhibition should be decidedly useful in the Mayor's chair.

It looks as if the electors believe that Ald. Robert Cotton is "all wool and a yard wide."

Defeated candidates can console themselves with the thought that they received the best support where they were best known.

There was a regular "Big Ben" majority for the Westclox bylaw.

In view of the cold weather, yesterday's vote was large. And that in itself is a healthy sign.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—Grain prices tilted upward Saturday largely owing to reported good European demand for wheat and to possible serious crop damage in domestic winter wheat territory. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Friday's finish to 1¼c higher with corn ⅜ to 1¼c up; oats varying from ¼c decline to ⅜c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25c.

Upturns in Liverpool wheat values Saturday were followed promptly by advices that a liberal amount of Canadian wheat had been bought for trans-Atlantic shipment, stimulating effects on the wheat market here meanwhile were noticeably emphasized by word that winds in the west had caused snow to drift, leaving many fields virtually bare of any protective covering and subjected to sub-zero weather. In this connection, special notice was taken of Montana barometer readings as high as 31.1, pointing to probability of the lowest temperatures of the winter so far with likelihood of crop damage wherever winter wheat is exposed.

End of the year trading in December wheat was very active; shortly before the close the December price advanced to 3 cents under May. Belated efforts to get wheat to fill December contracts here caused the bulge, but when these wants were filled the market for the December delivery fell back to about 4½c under May, premiums continued strong however for all good milling grades of wheat. High protein grades were especially difficult to buy.

Heavy snows throughout the corn best were expected to retard the movement of corn to market, and to enlarge feeling demand. As a consequence corn values advanced readily with strength in wheat a factor; oats were also firmer, sympathizing with other grain.

Provisions were responsive to weather conditions which were indicative of a falling off in hog arrivals. Some improvement was noted in cash demand for lard.

A FEW APPLICATIONS of Chicago Corn Paint will relieve the pain and make the sore corn easily lifted out, roots and all. You will be delighted with the quick results obtained from this corn remedy. 25c.—Bond's Drug Store, corner George and Hunter streets.

TALK ON MISSIONS GIVEN AT WARSAW

Miss Mitchell Gives Address in United Church—Warsaw News.

WARSAW, Dec. 30.—On Sunday evening in the United church, Miss Mitchell gave a most interesting talk on missionary work. She spoke of the work in Africa which had been carried on by the Congregational church for over thirty-five years, and of how anxious some of the people are for the Gospel. One very old man had been seeking something, he knew not what, and when he heard the story of Jesus, he knew he had found the long-for and before, unknown peace. The work in Africa is now part of the United church work.

Miss Mitchell had been in the Canadian West a great deal, and dwelt much on the work there; painting word pictures which held the interest of every one. Her talk seemed naturally to fall into her closing prayer, just before the offering was taken she rose and told the congregation that ninety-eight and one-quarter cents out of every dollar contributed goes directly to the mission field. One and three quarter cents only, is used for administration.

On Monday evening a play entitled "Red-acre Farm" was given in Warsaw town hall by the young people of Carmel. One-half the proceeds went to the Carmel people to help paint the church and one-half to Warsaw United Ladies' Aid, to go towards the piano fund.

A number of good amateur plays have been given in Warsaw recently, but none was better than this.

Dr. Munro's orchestra assisted with the music.

On Tuesday afternoon a Union Christmas service was held in the United Church basement, of the W.M.S. and the Ladies' Aids of that church.

A processional hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful" was sung, and the sunshine mite-boxes were laid on the table as the women passed. The opening hymn, after all were in their places was, "O Worship the King." Mrs. John Sargent read Scripture lessons relating to the birth of Christ, four ladies led in prayer. Mrs. Herrington said a few words of welcome, in which she mentioned how very discouraged she had been, when trying to arrange for the meeting, but she felt it should go on anyway. Mesdames Roland and Arthur Payne sang, "The Bells Are Ringing." Mrs. James Hawthorne very beautifully told the story of the birth of Jesus. She used her Sunday-school class pictures, described vividly the visit of the angel to Mary and the promise; told of the slow travelling to Bethlehem. Mary on a donkey and Joseph walking at her side—of the filled inn, and the resort to the stable where the Infant Jesus was born; of the light that appeared to the shepherds and then the angels' wondrous story to them, and of their haste to see this Child, and worshipping the infant Saviour, who lay cradled in a manger—so came the first Christmas gift.

The hymn, "Hark, The Herald Angels," was sung by groups: Mrs. George Taylor recited, "If I Had Lived in Bethlehem." Mesdames George Taylor and James Hawthorne sang "Silent Night," Mrs. Herrington read the story of the first Christmas rose. Mrs. David Miller gave the story of the coming of the three wise men; whence they came and why, and who they were. She told of their gladly worshipping this little child and leaving prelious gifts and touched on Henry Van Dyke's story of the other wise man who started out, but delayed to help where needed, and finally found the King on the cross.

Sixteen women took part in a "Mite-box" dialogue, after which was sung the hymn, "We Give Thee But Thine Own." Mrs. John Sargent closed with prayer.

No business was done, nor any collection taken at this gathering.

After dismissal lunch was served.

Mrs. Robert Payne entertained Miss Mitchel during her stay in Warsaw.

Miss Helen Bowen came home on Saturday.

SPERITY IS PREDICTED

ker Tells Rotary Club of Evidences of Coming Prosperous Times.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

t Canada is in for a cycle of prosperity was the studied of the prospects before this as given by W. J. Jeffers, l editor of the Toronto Globe, st informative and interest- ress before the Peterborough Club to-day.

. Jeffers was introduced by Ro- n G. S. Matthews, who referred is splendid work in preparing the e's financial review of the year. he speaker, introducing his sub- as a retrospect of 1927, pointed that the Dominion Jubilee cele- tion last year resulted in the de- opment of a greater confidence on part of the people of Canada in ir own country, making the year a t noteworthy one.

obody cared to make prophecies ring a very long term, but Mr. re declared that the prospects Canada during the next six hs were very bright. A period rosperity was before the country, said, and a retrospect of 1927 in- cated progress. The Premiers of e v provinces, leaders in in- stri and prominent men in all rters of the country had sent re- assuring messages showing conditions to be good everywhere, and a study of world conditions upon which Canada greatly depended indicated that the outlook was good with Great Britain and the United States, Canada's two best customers both expecting an improvement over last year.

Mr. Jeffers quoted interesting figures to show the country's progress last year, with bank clearings nearly 2½ billions greated than in 1926, a billion dollars of new life insurance sold, agricultural production good east and west, mineral development increasing ,and Canadian investments in stocks showing great confidence in the chance of the Dominion enjoying great prosperity. He was especially enthusiastic in dealing with the prospects before the mining industry which had changed the country between Old Ontario and the West from a barrier to a link, and which promised to add to the national wealth to an extent not yet even dreamed of by Canadians. Hydro development, too, offered great possibilities, and in every direction there were signs that the twentieth century was to be really Canada's.

Mr. Jeffers' address was an optimistic message that was fully appreciated and the vote of thanks voiced by Rotarian John Crane was echoed by the whole club.

Mr. Crane incidentally received an ovation from his club member on his election to the Utilities Commission. He was greeted with cheers and the singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow."

"That's all right, but your bills will go out every month just the same," declared the new Commissioner when the hubbub ceased.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness, and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralise the acids in the urine, so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney

Prices Move Upward In Spite Of Dear Money

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press). — Upward price tendencies characterised the 1928 opening session of the New York Stock Exchange today, mirroring the widespread hopes of favorable business this year. Stock prices, measured by the average of twenty leading industrial issues, already are at the highest levels in history, but operators for the rise nevertheless conducted their operations with confidence, anticipating an unusually heavy January re-investment demand.

The marking up of call money rates to 5½ per cent, was foreshadowed by the large deficit in reserve shown in last Saturday's clearing house statement, but the higher charge was generally regarded as temporary. The banks called between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 in loans, but large sums flowed here from the interior for temporary employment. An easier undertone is looked for when the January dividend and interest cheques return to the banks.

Wheat Prices Go Up On News From Abroad

CHICAGO, January 3. Canadian Press. — Wheat prices took an early upward swing to-day influenced largely by reports of increasing European demand together with a falling off in world shipments. Furthermore advices were at hand telling of Argentine shippers asking a sharp advance. Starting at 518 to 7-8c gain, Chicago wheat later showed an additional increase. Corn, oats and provisions were also firmer, corn opening 1-8c to ¾c higher, but subsequently reacting somewhat.

Opening prices were: Wheat, 130 1-8; May 131 7-8; corn, Dec. 87¼ May 90 3-8; oats, March 54 3-3; May 55¾.

Toronto Market Active With Prices Firmer

TORONTO, January 3 (Canadian Press).—The Toronto Stock Exchange started the New Year brightly to-day with a very active market and a firmer price tendency. No particular issue dominated the market, active leadership being divided between British-American Oil and Seagrams gained a full point at 26. Imperial Oil and International Petroleum firmed in line with British-American, while Walker's with a half-point gain at 67 was very active. Other liquors were steady. In the regular list City Dairy gained two at 232, the new stock consequently selling around 58½. International gained a quarter at 86, and advances from a fraction to more than a point were shown in Pacific Grain, Brazilian, Canners Preferred, the actire Massey-Harris, Hayes Wheels, and Pressed Metals . Service Station gained a point at 38½ and Canners New Second Preferred was fractionally higher at 19½.

Mine Exchange Starts Year With Busy Session

TORONTO, Jan. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—Conflicting price tendencies were in evidence in heavy trading as the standard mining exchange opened the New Year to-day, but the general undertone of the market was firm and some good advances were shown. Sudbury Basin climbed seventy cents at 12.20 and Vipond sold up six at 84½. Amulet sold 12 higher at 4.99. Transactions in the first session totalled well over a million shares. Advances of a point or more were made by Howel, Corona, Crown Reserve, Tough Oakes, Beaver and Treadwell. Bidgood was about the easiest issue, losing 14 at 1.45. Losses of one to five points were shown in Barry Hollinger, Jackson Manion and Teck Hughes.

BURLEIGH AND ANSTRUTHER.

APSLEY, January 3. — Polling in the municipality of Burleigh and Anstruther resulted in the election of Vernal Windsor as Reeve, who beat his opponent, Herbert Tucker, by 29 votes . The Councillors elected are: Bruce Reed, Norman Lean, James Downing and Russell Hales. The polling was heavy, and following is the complete result:

For Reeve—Windsor 127, Tucker 98.

For Councillors—Norman Lean 136, Bruce Reid 135, James Downing 133, Russell Hales 119, William Earnshaw 103.

The new Reeve is only 26 years of age, and will probably be the youngest member of the County Council. He has been a Councillor two years, and is therefore not without experience in municipal affairs. James Downing is a new man. The others have had more or less experience.

SIX PERSONS ARE DROWNED

Lose Lives When Car Goes Through Ice on Lake.

ONE MAN ESCAPES.

COBALT, Ont., Jan. 3. — Alderique Racicot, his wife and three children, all under six years, and Theodore Racicot, a relative were drowned in Lake Temiskaming Saturday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding plunged through the ice. Only meagre details are arriving as to the tragedy. A man named Lapierre, who was standing on the running board, was the sole survivor of the party which had started out to spend the holiday with relatives at Fabre, Que. It is believed that Racicot was blinded by the driving snowstorm, and, losing his bearings, drove out toward the centre of the lake and into open water.

Gay Throng Celebrates Opening of New Year at Capitol Theatre.

The Midnight Show at the Capitol Theatre on Saturday evening had a capacity house. From ten to twelve o'clock, a gay throng filled the big interior, to enjoy a programme of pictures that included three comedies and a number of entertaining short reels, also popular dance hits played by George Logan's Merrymakers' Orchestra. On entering, the ladies were presented with colored paper hats and the gentlemen with long candy sticks. Later, horns were also passed around and a good deal of amusement resulted from the ensuing noise.

Around the City

Mr. J. J. Duffus is in Toronto attending a meeting of the executive of the Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, who are presenting resolutions to the Ontario Cabinet, two of which emanated from Peterborough Chamber of Commerce.

After several days of inactivity, the firemen were called upon to make many runs over the week-end, probably due to the radical change in the weather and the desire of people to keep warm at all costs.

Calls for assistance in extinguishing chimney fires or overheated pipe fires came in on Sunday at 9.08 a.m. from 413 and 414 Dublin Street; at 9.32 from 303 King Street; at 10.22 a.m. from 337 Rogers Street; and 12.50 p.m. from 106 McDonnel Street. There was also one call on Monday, a chimney fire at 814 Water Street causing alarm at 8.03 a.m.

LAST POLLS TO REPORT DECIDE

A. A. McIntyre in 1925, the last time he contested the seat.

Dr. Craig's Record

Dr. J. J. Craig who headed the polls in the Board of Education contest, received his highest vote at polling place 16, Prince of Wales School, where he had 145. This was just 49 short of all the votes available at this poll. His smallest vote was at 15, City Building, where he received 44 out of 66 cast. At each of six polls he was given more than 100 votes, while only five polls gave more than 100 votes to any other man. His total vote this year was 3,052 compared with 2,319 in 1926.

Dr. H. H. Yelland, who ran second this year, received higher votes than Dr. Craig at three polling places: No. 11, where he had five more; Nos. 16 and 31, with one of a majority each. He received 300 fewer votes than in 1926, when he headed the poll with 2,918.

E. B. Fowler, who ran second in 1926, was pushed down to third place yesterday, with a total vote of 2,312, a decrease from 1926 of 446. He had a majority over Dr. Craig this year at only one polling place, 16, where he had eight more votes. Mr. Fowler topped Dr. Yelland at five polling places, but polled fewer votes than Mrs. Morris, the fourth in line, at only nine voting places. His highest vote was at No. 23, Queen Mary School, where he had 119, and his lowest was at the same school, poll 24, where he received 32 votes.

Mrs. Morris' Vote

Mrs. Kate Morris yesterday polled 1,907 votes, compared with 1,785 in 1926, when she was defeated in a field of six. She has a comfortable lead of 153 votes over her nearest contestant, F. H .Dawson, who polled 1,754 votes.

Mrs. Morris received her highest vote at poll 23, where she was given 84 votes, and her lowest at 11, where only 21 electors marked her ballot.

The two defeated members of the Board, E. Roland Wilson and J. A. McNabb, were elected in 1926 third and fifth respectively, with 2,423 and 2,043 votes. Yesterday they received 1,732 and 1,316 votes.

Cotton Advances.

Alderman R. S. Cotton who headed the poll in the aldermanic contest, had majorities over the field in twenty out of the thirty-eight voting places, and tied Alderman C. H. Ackerman in two others. Alderman Ackerman led in thirteen voting places, and the remaining three were captured by D. J. Holland in Ashburnham.

Once again Ashburnham indicates its general disagreement with the choice of the western part of the city. In the polling places east of the river the following was the standing of the aldermanic candidates: Holland Cotton, Ackerman, Stocker Halpin, Huffman, MacDonald, Hamilton, Lowe, Paquette, Tuggey, Stinson, Haggart, Breckenridge. Mr. Holland received 471 votes in Ashburnham polling places compared with Mr. Cotton's 373 and Mr. Ackerman's 356.

Mr. Cotton received his largest vote at No. 23, Queen Mary School, where he had 139 votes. It is curious to note that this, although Mr. Cotton's highest was ten lower than Mr. Ackerman's high record at the same place.

After substantial returns showed the aldermanic contest decided down to fourth place, interest conentrated on fifth, sixth and seventh places, where it was recognised there would be a close finish. There was a good deal of see-sawing, with Huffman, Lowe Holland and Hamilton leading in turn, and the count last night showed Hamilton leading Lowe by 13 votes. The official count to-day gives him a majority of only 2.

Daylight Saving Loses.

In spite of continued opposition, the Daylight Saving bylaw came near to winning yesterday, being defeated by only 339, with 5,593 votes cast. Two years ago the vote was 2,257 for and 2,900 against, a majority against of 643.

The bylaw had its largest favorable vote at Queen Mary School, poll 23, where 138 voters expressed themselves in favor of daylight saving. The largest contrary vote was at poll 37 where 136 votes were cast against it.

There was no doubt about the passing of the Weteiox bylaw, the opposition at all pills but one being small.

Sidelights.

As usual, the City Clerk was the most unruffled of those engaged in the work of compiling the returns, in spite of the many distractions and annoyances. There were dozens of calls by telephone from people seeking information just at the time when returning officers needed the line in order to report the elections. As a result, many were unable to telephone their returns, and it was not until nine o'clock that all were completed. But Mr. Armstrong answered all inquiries, with the assistance of Alderman M. McIntyre, who relieved him of pressing moments.

There were 89,838 crosses, marked on ballots in Peterborough yesterday.

Full returns by voting sub-divisions will be found on another page.

GREATER TRADE OPPORTUNITIES BECKON

Let Canada Expand her Export Business.

AS is the custom at New Year's, the Department of Trade and Commerce presents a general survey of business conditions in Canada. While this review of national progress should strengthen the faith of every Canadian in his country, the Department urgently desires to point the way to the larger opportunity—export trade.

Canadians are exercising thrift, industry and intelligence—the cardinal virtues of business. The results are that almost without exception the statistics show 1927 to have been a prosperous year. Our trade has increased. Crops have been abundant. Our rocky shields, our forests, seas and lakes have yielded more of their riches. Industry has expanded. Relations between employee and employer have been agreeable. Work has been plentiful. Security prices have advanced. Capital has been encouraged. Taxes and debt have been decreased. We have a solvent country with our dollar at par or better the world over.

Look Beyond Our Boundaries

But what of the future? Our nine million people cannot consume more than a fraction of our ever-growing production, both of natural products and manufactures. We must look beyond our boundaries for markets if we are to continue to be prosperous.

To-day, Canada stands near the hill top. In total trade our country ranks fifth among the nations of the earth, while in population we are but twenty-seventh. As their forefathers blazed the trail into the wilderness, so can Canadian producers and manufacturers place their mark upon the channels of international business—and this with Government guidance.

We can produce quantities of many commodities other people want, and at a price they are willing to pay. We possess the raw material, and the engineering skill to manufacture hundreds of other commodities on which we can profit when sold abroad. Myriad tumbling waterfalls are ours to turn the wheels of industry. Adequate transportation facilities have been provided to carry goods to our boundaries and far beyond.

It remains for our producers and manufacturers to learn more fully of the opportunities awaiting them abroad. To help in this direction—to assist producer and manufacturer—to teach our people "export trade consciousness"—is the duty of this Department of the Government.

The Department of Trade and Commerce has an active organization in the principal trading centres of the world. Working under the direction of the Commercial Intelligence Branch at Ottawa, this organization has already enabled Canadian firms to obtain profitable and permanent markets in foreign lands. Canadian officials, strategically located, search out opportunities for the sales of Canadian products, and investigate all conditions under which these may be transported and offered for consumption. These official Trade Commissioners stand ready to assist the Canadian producer or manufacturer. Their whole effort, co-ordinated from Ottawa, is designed to create new markets for Canada, and help hold those we already have. Such a service is at the call of every Canadian who asks it.

Trade Service to be Expanded

During 1928 the Department desires that every producer or manufacturer should become acquainted with and interested in export trade. The benefits of such a trade are not confined to a few. Every wage or salary earner, every property owner, every business and professional man, every producer participates in the increase to the nation's wealth which export trade returns. All citizens, therefore, are concerned with the Government's efforts to promote its health and rapid extension.

As Canadians, heirs to an unequalled heritage, let us appreciate and grasp our larger opportunities.

"Every nation has become the neighbour of every other. The peoples of other continents sit at our thresholds."

Accomplishments of a Self-Reliant People

Total trade for fiscal year 1927	$2,298,465,647
Increase in total trade from 1900 to 1927	546 per cent.
Excess of exports over imports for fiscal year 1927	$236,680,637

Of Canada's exports the latest figures show 38.5 per cent. of fully manufactured goods and 14.4 per cent. of partly manufactured goods.

Canada now sells to more than 113 countries, including 30 under the British flag. Canada draws supplies from more than 100 countries, 30 of which are British.

Debt and Taxation Reductions

Debt decrease in 1924 fiscal year	$35,993,000
" " " 1925 " "	345,000
" " " 1926 " "	27,706,000
" " " 1927 " "	41,896,000

In spite of reductions in the rates of taxation, the prosperous condition of our people increased our tax revenues from $294,000,000 in 1925 to $346,000,000 in 1927.

During the present fiscal year loans maturing amounted to $100,000,000. Of this amount $55,500,000 has been paid off in cash, and the balance borrowed at a net price of 4 per cent., which is the lowest rate at which the Government has obtained money since 1912.

Security Prices Advanced

A review of the market quotations for December reveals the buoyant condition of the stocks of Canadian industries.

Hydro-Electric Development

Total installation of water-power plants at end of 1927	4,883,000 h.p.
Total installation of water-power plants at end of 1920	2,508,000 h.p.
Total installation of water-power plants at end of 1900	170,000 h.p.

It is estimated that the present turbine installation represents about 11 per cent. of the total resources.

Capital invested in water-power industry at end of 1927	$900,000,000
Capital invested in water-power industry at end of 1910	$121,000,000

Building Permits Authorized

Building permits authorized in 63 cities during first ten months of 1927 amounted to $160,858,088, which was 19.2 per cent. greater than the same period of 1926, the previous high record.

The Employment Situation

With January, 1920, indexed at 100, the employment index for October 1st last stood at 109.0, which is the highest on that date since this index was established. The loss of time through strikes or lockouts during the past year was almost the smallest on record.

Bank Debits

The total bank debits for the first ten months of 1927 amounted to $27,669,000,000 as compared with $24,599,000,000 in the same period of 1926, an increase of 12.5 per cent.

At the end of October the Canadian people had in notice deposits (savings accounts) at the banks, $1,406,041,000, an unprecedented figure.

Field Crops

The last estimate of Canadian field crops, as compared with other years, follows in bushels:

	1927	1926	1922-25
Wheat	444,282,000	409,811,000	386,864,000

Beans	1,090,000	1,159,000	1,259,000
Buckwheat	11,016,000	9,932,000	10,326,000
Mixed grains	34,707,000	34,599,000	30,958,000

Corn, husking	4,355,000	7,815,000	12,492,000

The estimated value of field crops for 1927 is approximately 38 million dollars more than in 1926 and this in spite of generally lower prices.

Thomas Heffernan of S.S. No. 12, welcomed the guests at the door and Charles Webster of S.S. No. 8, in his usual genial manner, occupied the chair for the evening's program. His address and his stories and remarks after the various numbers greatly pleased all the children.

Before the closing number a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the teachers for training the pupils for this program.

LEGION CHRISTMAS TREE.

LAKEFIELD, December 30. — The annual Christmas tree of the Lakefield branch of the Canadian Legion was held on Friday afternoon, December 23, in the Memorial Hall. The hour was set for three o'clock, but long before that time small boys and girls were appearing asking anxiously "When will Santa Claus be here?" The trees, for there were two of them, were placed in the centre of the hall, with the chairs in a circle around them for the little ones, while the adult visitors sat on the side lines enjoying the happy scene as much as any child.

In the unavoidable absence of the president of the Legion, Dr. M. P. Kennedy, Mr. R. J. Webster acted as master of ceremonies, and entertained the children until Santa Claus, tall and benevolent looking, was led in by little Billy Carke. Santa spoke to the children, telling them of his long journey from his home near the North Pole; it was a tiring journey, and the reindeer were very tired. The home of Santa is so concealed by icebergs that it is almost impossible to find, but in spite of this Santa makes his annual sortie forth to make the boys and girls happy.

In taking the gifts from the tree, Santa was assisted by Messrs. T. B. Marling, R. J. Webster, K. A. Mackenzie, and E. M. Grier.

A committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion assisted the men in trimming the tree buying the gifts and in the arrangements for the entertainment of the children. Among the ladies' committee were Mesdames Marling, Chappell, Chads, Wesley, and Leonard.

The following children were remembered: Bernard Burrows, June Burrows, Douglas Burrows, Ducie Chads, Berie Chads, George Chappell, Jack Chappell, Alice Chappell, Elsie Chappell, Jean Clarke, Billy Clarke, Daisy Edwards, Thelma Edwards, Stanley Edwards, Eva Edwards, Leslie Edwards, Bernice Edwards, Theo Elmsley, Jack Elmsley, Peter Elmsley, Yvonne Graham, Baby Graham, Beatrice Grier, Dorothy Harper, Sherman Hill, Denise Hill, Gordon Hill, Jean Hill, Helen Hill, Douglas Holmes, Donald Holmes, Violet Hudson, Freddy Hudson, Baby Hudson, Natalie Lampman, Betty Lampman, Katherine Lampman, Robert McCracken, Bethel McCracken, Jerome McFadden, Pat McFadden, Billy McFadden, Bernard McFadden, Theresa McFadden, Jack Mose, Kathleen Mose, Lorne Northey, Baby Northey, Doris O'Neill, Constance Orr, Jean Orr, Lilian Pringle, Dennis Remnant, Kenneth Remnant, Mary Renwick, Ernie Robbins, Baby Robbins, Earl Robinson, Elwood Rowe, Claude Shewen, Ronald Shewen, Nellie Stenner, Ivan Tighe, Elsie Tighe, Baby Tighe, Elizabeth Twist, Marion Twist, Carson Webster, Frieda Webster, Nora Webster, Kenneth Wesley.

Following the distribution of gifts, the children were entertained by some of the young people. Mr. Mackenzie presided at the piano, and Messrs. E. M. Grier, Mary Mackenzie, Marie Webster, and Dorothy Holmes assisted in the dear old games which are always a joy to children—"Oranges and Lemons," "The Farmer in the Dell," etc.

The whole affair went off splendidly, and was a credit to both the Legion and the Auxiliary.

AT PETHERICK'S CORNERS

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Dec. 30—Christmas concerts have been the order of the day in this community lately, and all the goodwill and joyous festivity of the holiday season have been apparent. On Thursday evening the annual concert of the Zion Sabbath School and the children of S.S. No. 2 was held in Sentinel Hall with a splendid attendance, over $42.00 being received at the door. The program was of a very high order, the children's choruses, dialogues, drills and recitations, under the direction of Miss Nellie Bennett, teacher of S.S. No. 2, showing careful and conscientious rehearsal. Among the other numbers which were appreciated by the audience were a reading by Miss Gladys Petherick; vocal solo and encore, Miss Emma Bennett; Chorus of Old Time Songs by Senior and Intermediate pupils of the Sabbath School; a very pretty and quite different Scarf Drill by fifteen Intermediate Girls, while the main item of the program was the two-act play, "Mother Baker's Christmas," presented by Zion young people.

The title role, that of a poor, sick widow, seemingly destined for the poorhouse on the Eve of Christmas, was played by Miss Jennie Fry, while the part of her wandering adopted son, Billie Merton, was ably taken by Earl Fairman. He returns from his Western ranch in time to save his foster mother from losing her home to the inevitable money shark, ably enacted by Aylmer Petherick. Roy Fry plays the role of Billie's friend Jack, and is much attracted to Mother Baker's latest adopted son, Jackie, portrayed in splendid fashion by little Miss Cora Petherick. She played the boy part to perfection, to the great delight of the audience.

RECEPTION HELD IN APSLEY HALL

Many Gifts Received By Bride and Groom—Nomination Meeting Held.

APSLEY NEWS.

APSLEY, Jan. 3.—More than one hundred and fifty people assembled at the parish hall on Thursday evening, December 22nd for the wedding reception of Walter Tucker and Miss Flora Wilson, who were married in the afternoon in Peterborough by the Rev. Mr. Todd, and were attended by Miss Lulu Knox and Archie Wilson, brother of the bride. After the wedding ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of Mrs. Norman Wilson, the bride's mother, on the Burleigh road, where high tea was provided for a large number of guests. At the evening reception the bridal couple received a large number of presents, and dancing was indulged in till after midnight, music being supplied by Charles Tucker of Peterborough. Visitors came from Keene, Toronto, Peterborough, Lindsay, Brooklands and other points.

Nomination Day brought a number of candidates for municipal honors, the following being nominated: for Reeve, Duncan Brown, Herbert Tucker, Vernal Windsor, William Thompson; for Councillors, Russell Hales, Norman Lean, Bruce Reid, Joe Tucker, Jim Downing, John Coones, William Earnshaw Sr., Mr. Brown announced that he was retiring from the Reeveship and in a brief speech thanked the electors for their support of his seven years as Reeve. He referred to the work that he had done, especially in securing Government aid in improving the roads and also in supporting the Red Cross outpost, resulting in a grant from the County of $200 last December, and a further grant of $250 this month. He also spoke of the Weed Control Act, which would mean an overseer must be appointed to look after the seventy-four miles of township roads, and the New Cemeteries Act, which also would entail extra expense. After the meeting Mr. Knox advocated the forming of an Agricultural Society with the object of holding a fall fair, which met with hearty approval and Mr. Knox was appointed to get all the information possible when a meeting will be held and the matter gone into thoroughly.

A Community carol service was held in St. George's Church on Christmas night, a large congregation being present. The Story of the Other Wise Man was read by Rev. C. A. G. Spence, interspersed with the singing of Christmas hymns and carols, heartily joined in by the congregation, who also evinced deep interest in the reading of the story.

St. George's Church choir augmented by one or two other voices sang hymns and carols in the village street on Christmas eve, braving the cold which was seven below zero. After the singing, Mrs. Dean kindly regaled the singers with hot coffee and refreshments, which was much appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Shewen and family are spending a week with the latter's parents at the rectory.

Mr. Roy Spence, of Toronto, spent Christmas with his parents.

Miss Mildred Hales is at home for the Christmas season.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hales are spending Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. W. Hales.

I was kept awake at night and the torture was terrible.

New Hampshire University Student Wins Marshal Foch Trophy For Ski Jumping

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., January 3 (Canadian Press). — E. O. Pederson, of New Hampshire University, won the Marshal Foch Trophy here on Saturday afternoon for ski-jumping. Pederson made the longest jump of ninety-six feet. Second in the jump was Hans Troya of the University of Wisconsin, with a jump of ninety-one feet; third, Charles N. Proctor, of Dartmouth, ninety feet; fourth, J. Dahl, of Wisconsin, eighty-one feet.

The President Harding Trophy will be awarded this year to the club winning the most points because three events, the forty-four-yard skating race, the two-mile skating race, and the figure skating competition, could not be held, due to unfavorable weather conditions. Without these three events, McGill University and the University of New Hampshire were tied for first place in the competition for the Harding Trophy with fifteen points each. Second place was won by the University of Wisconsin with a total of thirteen points, Dartmouth was third with ten points, and the University of Vermont and Middlebury College tied for fourth place with a single point each. The highest individual point winner in the Harding Trophy competition was Charles N. Proctor, of Dartmouth, with 9 points; W. B. Thompson of McGill with eight points, and Knut Dahl of Wisconsin with eight points were tied for second. Individual trophies will be awarded the winners in the various events. The hockey matches between Williams and Dartmouth could not take place on account of weather conditions.

MALE TRIBESMEN ARE WIPED OUT

BAGDAD, Irak, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—Every male member of one of the Irak tribes, including even male babies, has been slain by Sheik Feisal Ed Dowish and his raiders, advices reaching here state. Thousands of cattle were carried off. A miserable remnant of women was left to starve. Feisal was one of the chieftains of Ibn Saoud, King of the Hejaz, but now is apparently in revolt against the king. The report of the raid caused intense indignation here.

RECORD CIRCUIT FOR WEDNESDAY

Big Radio Broadcast Arranged By Dodge Brothers Company.

Will Rogers, Fred Stone, Paul Whiteman and Al Jolson in four different corners of America will be broadcast to the entire United States by Dodge Brothers for one hour, 10.30 to 11.30, on January 4th, in what is the greatest mechanical achievement in radio telephony ever attempted and probably the costliest radio program yet given. The program utilizing the facilities of the National Broadcasting Company and American Telephone and Telegraph Company will be the initial step by Dodge Brothers in an extensive advertising program, heralding the Victory, a new six cylinder motor car embodying entirely new principles of motor construction, it was announced to-day by Dodge Brothers, Inc., of Detroit.

Will Rogers, as master of ceremonies, will broadcast from Hollywood, California, Fred Stone from Chicago, Paul Whiteman and his band from New York, and Al Jolson from New Orleans in a linkup of 33 broadcasting stations made possible by most intricate engineering with special telephonic circuits and the use of over 12,000 miles of telephone wire. From an engineering standpoint, according to officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the feat entails the overcoming of tremendous difficulties. Three transcontinental circuits will be utilized, one to serve the 33 broadcasting stations, one to transmit the programs of the various performers to New York where in turn they will be distributed to the broadcasting station circuit, and the third to be used for emergency purposes in case weather conditions affect the second circuit. Hundreds of engineers will be at work on these three lines, both prior to and during the broadcasting. Over 200 men operating broadcasting stations in the hookup will be at work at stations throughout the country. Running parallel with the broadcasting circuits will be thousands of miles of wire lines utilizing telegraphic communications in order to transmit orders to engineers at work along the circuit. Over 30,000,000 people scattered throughout the United States will tune in on this program, according to the estimate of M. H. Anylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, who stated this event would place the entire nation in a sense in one radio studio. "The four corners of the United States will be a broadcasting studio," said Mr. Anylesworth.

Mr. Rogers, from one corner in Hollywood, will step before the microphone upon hearing his introduction from New York via the loud speaker. His voice travels by special telephonic circuits from California to New York where it enters the telephonic circuit of the broadcasting stations. In a fraction of a second his voice comes back to him via the air from a local California broadcasting station. The same is applicable to Mr. Jolson in New Orleans, who immediately following his introduction by Mr. Rogers from California, which Jolson hears from a nearby receiving set, begins his performance which travels over thousands of miles of special telephonic circuits and comes back to him via the local broadcasting station almost immediately. So the program will be followed out.

Stations which will be used in the Dodge Brothers' broadcasting program to-morrow night: Red network — WEAF, New York, the key station; WEEI, Boston, Mass.; WTIC, Hartford, Conn.; WJAR, Providence, R.I.; WTAG, Worcester, Mass.; WCSH, Portland, Me.; WLIT, Philadelphia, Pa.; WRC, Washington, D.C.; WGY, Schenectady, N.Y.; WGR, Buffalo, N.Y.; WCAE, Pittsburgh, Pa.; WTAM, Cleveland, Ohio; WWJ, Detroit, Mich.; WEBH, Chicago, Ill.

Stations connected with both Red and Blue network—WSAI, Cincinnati, Ohio; KSD, St. Louis, Mo.; WOC, Davenport, Iowa; WCCO, Minneapolis, Minn.; WDAF, Kansas City, Mo.; WHAS, Louisville, Ky.; WSM, Nashville, Tenn.; WMC, Memphis, Tenn.; WSB, Atlanta, Ga.; WFAA, Dallas, Texas; KVOO, Oklahoma City, Okla.; WTMJ, Milwaukee, Wis.; WOW, Omaha, Neb.; WHO, Des Moines, Iowa; WBT, Charlotte, N.C.; WJAX, Jacksonville, Fla.; KSL, Salt Lake City; WSMB, New Orleans; KPRC, Houston, Texas; KPO, San Francisco, Cal.; KFI, Los Angeles, Cal.; KGW, Portland, Ore.; KOMO-KFOA, Seattle, Wash.; KHQ, Spokane, Wash.; WBAL, Baltimore, Md.; WHAM, Rochester, N.Y.

SNOW COVERS PARIS.

Wintry Weather Surprises People and Interrupts Food Supplies.

PARIS, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—Paris and environs were wrapped in a wintry mantle of snow to-day. The fall was not expected, as the weatherman had forecast a mild, rainy spell. Snow fell all night, playing havoc with the transportation of food into the capital and to the central markets.

I wish to thank the Electors of the City of Peterborough for their splendid support in yesterday's Municipal Election.

I can best show my appreciation by any efforts that I may be able to put forth on their behalf for the next two years.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith's dazed, mad eyes stared at George Pruitt for a moment as if they did not recognize him, then she wheeled and began to run down the middle of the street, reckless of the cars which skidded or swerved sharply to keep from hitting her. Before she reached the first cross street a hand seized her arm roughly, jerked her to safety upon the sidewalk.

"For God's sake, what are you doing, Faith?" George demanded harshly. "I thought that taxi was going to get you sure."

"Taxi?" Faith repeated stupidly, struggling to release herself. "I wish it had. Let me go, George. I don't want to see anyone."

"Are you crazy?" George shook her, his violence increasing with his anxiety. "I'm going to put you in my car, out of this icy wind, and you're going to tell me what the devil this is all about. Come along now, or I'll pick you up and carry you."

She submitted with sudden docility.

George Pruitt bundled her into the front seat of his maroon-colored coupe and wrapped a thick plaid blanket about her, crossing it over her breast like a shawl and tucking the fringed ends about her feet.

"I suppose you've had some row with your brother or with Cherry, and beat it out of the house like a hysterical fool of a woman would, coatless and hatless in this freezing weather. I'm going to take you home," he told her grimly.

"Home?" Faith was instantly aroused to a fighting fury. Her hands tried to tear his from the steering wheel. "I'm not going home, I tell you! I'll wreck this car if you try to take me there!"

"Keep your hands off this wheel!" George shouted. "I'm not ready to die yet if you are! That's better! Now sit still till I get the car into a quiet street where I can park it and get to the bottom of this foolish business."

That gave her time to think. The sane part of her brain planned cunningly what she would say to him, so that she could escape from his surveillance and be free to do the thing she had determined upon. Her fingers closed tightly over her handbag, with its bottles bearing their gruesome decorations of skull and cross-bones.

"Now, what's the row about?" George asked sternly, when he had parked the car on a side street before a house with "For Rent" signs in its staring, blind windows.

"I've left my husband," Faith said with curious calmness. "I shall not go back to him. No one can make me go back to him." Her brown eyes, bright with the madness which had so suddenly descended upon her, challenged him defiantly. She saw a flush sweep over his homely, swarthy face, to the roots of his rust-red, curly hair, and remembered with a queer satisfaction that George had been in love with her before she had married Bob Hathaway, that he was still in love with her.

"What happened, Faith?" George asked quietly, his voice so gentle that her face began to twitch with a threatened spasm of weeping.

"I can't tell you," she cried. "Why should I tell you? I'm just not going back. I'd rather die—" She caught herself up with a gasp. She was going to die anyway—

"All right," George soothed her. "You don't have to go back, until you want to, but you can't go anywhere without a coat and hat in this weather."

Faith did not protest when George told her he was going to take her to his home, for that cunning lobe of her brain told her that here was her chance to escape. She would refuse to leave the car, he would go into the house to get the things he had urged her to accept and she would run away—

"Funny I should have run into you like that," George reflected in his gentle, soothing voice. "The family's gone for the day, I was all alone and lonesome, and decided to drive out to the Myrtle Street house to wish the old couple many happy returns of the day. Cherry told me yesterday that they were celebrating their forty-ninth wedding anniversary and that you would be there. I wanted to see you, too," he added casually, but the flush on his swarthy cheeks deepened. "Here we are. Come on in with me. There's no one at home at all, not even a servant."

"No, thank you," Faith said, smiling with her mad, bright eyes. "I'll wait for you here."

Without argument George got out of the car, but he selected a key on a well-stocked ring and locked the door of the coupe.

Knowing that escape was impossible for the time, Faith sank back against the cushions of the seat and hugged her handbag to her breast. Once she fumbled with the gold clasp to open it, her purpose fixed upon the bottle of iodine which she had taken from Fay's medicine closet, along with the veronal tablets and the bichloride of mercury. But a shudder of distaste shook her. Iodine might burn her mouth and throat horribly. Veronal would be easier, surer. And George might come back before she was dead. Poor George! It would be beastly of her to involve him in this tragedy of hers.

It was queer how swiftly time passed. There was George, striding down the path with a suitcase bumping against his knees, and a woman's blue, fur-trimmed coat over his arm. Dear George! He had probably brought her enough clothes to last for weeks, and she needed only a hat and coat to make her escape in. She still had no idea where she was going—

"Here you are!" George boomed cheerfully when he had unlocked the door of the coupe. "I hope none of the neighbors are watching. They'll think we are eloping. But I thought if you were really determined to go away by yourself for a while you'd need a suitcase. Hotels are so finicky about baggage, you know. Can you get into this coat without stepping out of the car? There's one of those soft felt hats in the pocket. It's an old coat of Velma's. She'll never miss it."

"Hotel?" Faith repeated blankly, but she accepted the coat, reached obediently into the pocket of it for the hat, a pretty thing of dark blue silky felt.

"Why, I gathered you had some such plan," George reasoned. "You can't live on the streets, you know. Any idea where you want to go? I'll drive you anywhere you say."

"Oh!" Faith stared at him, then smiled twistedly. "Of course I want to go to a hotel. I don't know what I was thinking of just now. A quiet place, out of town somehwere."

"I'll bet you haven't any money with you," George grinned at her, lifted a hand from the steering wheel to reach for her purse.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 3. — Mrs. N. Clarke Wallace is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Lockhart, Powell avenue, Toronto, who is seriously ill. The Rev. N Clarke Wallace returned to take charge of the Sunday services in his church on Sunday.

Darrell E. Longmore, Victoria, B.C., who is spending the holidays with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Longmore, Queen street, is recovering nicely, from a minor throat operation. He expects to return to the coast this week.

Miss Evelyn Irwin returned Saturday from Toronto where she was the guest of her brother, Joseph Irwin.

1927 announced itself very quietly in Campbellford. There were no bells rung nor whistles blown as has been the custom for many years. Some of the older residents follow the custom of discharging firearms at midnight just as the old year departs and the new one makes its debut. But this year only one gun was heard to fire. Around the town there was none of the usual hilarity. And aside from the usual round of small private parties which are mostly bridge, 1928 came in with silken tread rather than the usual crash which is usually supposed to accompany such an event. Many of the usual merry makers lay the entire blame on the fact that the New Year began on a Sunday and that all New Year parties would have lacked the usual festivities which only begin after the old year has passed into oblivion. They say that 1929 will be more formally welcomed since it is due to arrive early on a Tuesday morning.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 4th, 1928.

This is rather a threatening day in planetary direction, according to astrologers who counsel caution and wisdom as guides for dwellers on the planet Earth.

Although early in the morning the mind is likely to be keenly awake, warning is given that it may be susceptible to suggestion.

The rule is read as dangerous for all who seek romance or indulge in sentiment, as women are supposed to be selfish and intriguing while this configuration prevails.

This is not an auspicious wedding day, since it inclines women to desire material comforts more than spiritual development.

There is a menacing sign read as presaging increase of drinking among women and a greater laxity in moral standards.

It was foretold months ago that marriage would be widely discussed and legal safeguards sought, but the seers declare reactionary influences will overcome domestic perils.

Although the number of divorces will increase in 1928 astrologers foretell a return to loyalty and integrity on the part of men and women.

Great increase in trade affecting iron, steel and metals used for armaments is indicated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of many pleasures. Gain is indicated by means of journeys.

Children born on this day probably will be brilliant and amusing, fond of dress and amusement, and not inclined toward hard work.

Hints on Etiquette

1. When using the phone from a friend's apartment, what care should one take?
2. If one carelessly burns a hostess' table with a cigaret, or spills something on an upholstered chair or commits any other similar faux pas, what should one do?
3. If your hostess objects, what reparation could you make?

The Answers.

1. Remember apartment calls are usually double the cost of an outside phone and leave money to cover it.
2. Actually see that it is repaired.
3. Send her a note of apology with flowers or some gift.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The fashionable black taffeta and tulle frock has here been glorified by silver and rhinestone embroidery.

A distinguished dressmaker explained to me the other day that at present there are, generally speaking, just three sorts of evening dress.

There are the Frilly, Fluttering Frocks.

The Frocks of Importatn Materials.

And the Beaded Dresses.

The first sort are usually of mousseline, net or chiffon, with drapery that flutters out at the side or back when one moves about the skirts that hang unevenly at the hem—nice frocks for young girls and women a little older who are not too thin nor yet too plump. There is always the danger that these frocks will look bedraggled after a number of wearings.

The beaded dresses are for the most part beaded all over, not in designs worked out just here and there. A white georgette gown beaded with pearls that I saw the other day gave the effect of having been lightly touched by frost all over.

The frocks of important materials are the favorites with many of the dressmakers. They are of flowered and brocaded taffeta, of faille, moire velvet or the new stiff satin. And in the hands of the more important dressmakers these more important fabrics are trimmed sparingly—often only with a jeweled pin, brooch or buckle. The charm of the frock lies in the clever draping or folding of the material.

Most of the new black taffeta and tulle frocks would fall under the first classification—rather frilly and fluttery and better suited to the younger than the older woman. You should know that the combination of black tulle and taffeta has suddenly come into prominence for evening wear. I have seen quite a number of them—the one shown in the sketch is, I think, one of the most attractive.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

CHRISTMAS AT MADOC.

MADOC, Dec. 30.— At St. Peter's Presbyterian church on Sunday the Sunday school and Bible class met as usual at ten o'clock.

At eleven the morning worship began with Chrismas hymns and carols. The subject chosen by Rev. T. G. Marshall was "The Meaning of Christmas." The anthem by the choir was "Behold I Come."

The usual ten minutes' song service preceded the evening worship when the pastor continued his series of Famous Women of the Bible by choosing "Mary, Mother of Our Lord, Most Favored of Women."

A tenor solo was given by Mr. William Hawthorne and the anthem by the choir was "When Jesus Was Born."

In Trinity United church, Madoc, the Christmas service began in the Sunday school at ten o'clock with Christmas hymns and Christmas lesson.

The Sunday school rooms and the church were brightened by a beautiful bouquet of white Christmas lilies placed there in loving memory of the late Mr R. C. Fair by the family.

The choir opened the morning service by the singing of a Christmas carol, "Glory in the Highest" by E. S. Loring. After the first prayer four little girls, Irene Shane, Lorna Roberts, Jean Whytock and Ruth Walker sang "The Christmas Babe."

The solo by Miss Norma Fair was "The Infant Jesus" by F. H. Martens.

The sermon was "An Illustrated Flight," by R. E Nolte.

DON'T STARVE TO END FAT

Few succeed without harm. Try the modern way, embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen everywhere.

Marmola contains a gland element which helps turn food into fuel and energy. The formula appears in every box, also the reasons for results. Thus you will know how the changes occur without harm.

All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Go start it now. Take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Do this because of the new beauty and vim which Marmola has brought to so many, for so long.

Christmas Sermon" with John 3:16, as the text, by Rev. C. W. Rivers, pastor. This he said is "the Gospel within the Gospel," or "the Gospel in a nutshell." He then proceeded to take the Gospel from the nutshell, having ribbons illustrating: Gift, Only Son, Saved, Perish, Everlasting Life, Love.

The evening's message was "A Trip to Bethdehem," with Christmas hymns for the early song service and during the evening's service.

An anthem by the choir was "The Angel's Song," by Ira B Wilson. A solo was given by Mr. Raymond Rivers, "Is He Yours?" and a closing anthem, "Angels Wing Your Joyful

Fight Results

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.— Joe Chaney, Baltimore, 120, defeated Ralph Mendoza, 120, Chicago, 8 rounds. Harry Leonard, 130, South Chicago, won from Paul Allen, Chicago, in 8 rounds.

Dayton— Joe Sextra, 177, Dayton, knocked out Billy Vidabeck, 175, Bayonne, N.J., in the third round of a ten round bout.

Harrisburg — Sylvan Bass, Baltimore, 142½, won the judges' decision over Frankie Hayes, 142, of Philadelphia.

Kansas City, Kan.—Royal Coffman, Omaha, had a slight edge over Leo Wac, of Australia, in a ten round bout, in the opinion of newspapermen. Both are welterweights.

Scranton, Pa.—Billy Kelly, 113, of Scranton, was awarded the judges' decision over Blas Rodriguez, Mexican flyweight and bantamweight champion, 112½, in a ten round battle.

Trenton, N.J. — Jess Stringham, Salt Lake City, middleweight, won his second first round knockout when he stopped Al Gorman of Baltimore in a scheduled ten rounder.

Cincinnati, O.—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, 166, fought ten rounds to no decision with Frank Schoell, Buffalo, 165. Newspapermen gave Maxie the edge, however.

Burlie Loses Out.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—Willie Davies, Pennsylvania flyweight champion, won an eight-round decision from Alec Burlie of Toronto here yetserday. Davies' speed and two-handed punching offset Burlie's body punching tactics and sport critics gave Davies five of the eight rounds.

MARMORA, Jan. 3.—Mr. Harry Smith is in charge of the Deloro Skating Rink for another season. The shed at the rink has been enlarged and renovated. It is hoped that an interdepartmental hockey schedule may be drawn up later on. As yet, softness of weather prevents skating on this and the neighboring Marmora rink.

PIRATES BEAT MAROONS 4-0

Make Spectacular Dash in the Final Frame to Defeat Montreal Team.

STRONG DEFENSE.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., January 3 (Canadian Press). — Pittsburgh swirled from the hockey rut with a vengeance here on Saturday night to electrify a wildly enthusiastic throng by overwhelming the mighty Montreal Maroons in a spectacular final inning rally four to nothing.

A splendid steel city defence held the dark red host at bay throughout the early stages of one of the most brilliant battles ever beheld on the local ice, and in the ultimate session the surge of the golden home tide proved utterly irresistible. Darragh, Milks, McCurry, and Cotton, trusty Buccaneer forwards, counted for the Pirate markers, all of which were reeled off within the span of eight minutes, but the entire Cleghorn squad distinguished itself in hanging up its second victory of the season.

The contest was hot from the initial face-off, but both teams were so tight defensively that neither was able to effect damage on the atttack. Hooley Smith carried the brunt of the Maroon onslaught, and several times succeeded in horning on Goalie Worters, though without penetrating deeply to threat seriously. Marty Burke, newly acquired Pirate husky, shone in breaking up the numerous Montreal sorties and likewise flashed into hostile territory on five or six occasions, but to no avail. The Pittsburgh assault was broken up regularly just inside the Montreal line, Benedict visiting Caseman being called upon to register but three stops only one of which was difficult.

Action was furious in the second frame. Dutton, Maroon right defence, ran the Corsair blockade and unleashed a wicked backhand slash from the right. The puck eluded Worters, and or may not have lodged in the upper right corner of the mesh. At any rate, Worters cleared quickly and the goal umpire declared no tally. The decision incensed the Maroons, who rushed viciously from the ensuing face-off, and there was much bad mixing in middle ice for the next five minutes. Nelson Stewart blew an excellent Maroon chance in the eighteenth minute. Tex White had been banished for roughing Dutton after the face-off. Stewart fared forth up the centre, streaked through the Pirate barricade, and with an open shot before him flipped high and wide of the mark. Thereafter, though the invaders strove vallantly, they were unable to work close enough to menace the local aperture.

The final session brought the blow off. Whirling in with the most meteoric attack beheld here in years, the Bucs seemed for the nonce unstoppable. Milks recovered near the mid-zone from a three-man hostile advance, and breezing up the centre passed Darragh, who hooked a low counter past Benedict that the Maroon goalie scarcely saw.

Hardly had the cheers subsided when "Iron Duke" McCurry commandeered a loose pellet in the centre area, skirted a disorganized Montreal defence, and beat Benedict with a deceptive toss into the upper strands. Goal three was a solo effort on the part of Milks, who wormed up the right, rounded the outer works, and hooked high over Benedict's left shoulder into the cage. The last point hit the strings shortly after White, dribbling into the Montreal stronghold and slipping the washer to Cotton, found Benedict prone before the opening. The rest was easy.

Wins Decision.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—Benny Bass, featherweight champion, yesterday won the referee's decision in his scheduled ten-round bout with Pete Nebo, of New York, after the judges had disagreed.

Bass weighed 127½ pounds and Nebo 127¾. There were howls of derision as Frank McCracken, the referee, decided in favor of the Philadelphia fighter. Bass did not fight with his usual vigor and precision. After a cautious start, Nebo woke to the attack in the fourth round, and from then until the finish showed little fear of Bass' hunching.

COLD WEATHER HOLDS OUT AT SOCCER GAMES

Large Crowd Turns Out To See Arsenal Defeat Bury at Highbury.

LAMBERT STARS.

West Ham United and Derby County Play Draw Game.

LONDON, Jan. 3. Canadian Press Cable. — Despite the fact that freezing conditions prevailed at many points on Saturday fine crowds turned out to witness League Soccer matches in the British Isles.

Twenty five thousand saw the Arsenal defeat Bury at Highbury. Lambert scored for the Londoners in the sixth minute after the start and John five minutes later. Vernon bagged a counter for Bury before half time. A fine truggle took place for 25 minutes in the second half and then Parker scored for the Arsenal.

A capacity audience witnessed the drawn game played by West Ham United and Derby county. Ruffell and Watson scored for West Ham and Bedford and Stephenson for Derby.

Manchester United won a rough and scrambling match with Middlesbrough in the presence of 25,000 people. The game was staged at Middlesbrough. Johnson and Hanson scored both of the United's goals in the first 15 minutes of play, while McClelland hit the target for Middlesbrough.

The pitch was in a very dangerous condition at Liverpool where Sheffield United were the guests, and consequently the brand of football put up was poor. Liverpool got their goals through Chambers and Reid, while Blair put in one for the United.

Bolton Wanderers at home to Cardiff City played like champions; all the scoring in this case took place before the interval Sack and Blackmore scored for Bolton the latter from a free kick, while Miles registered for Cardiff.

Twenty six thousand turned out for a Leicester-Aston Villa affair at Leicester and saw a one-sided contest, Leicester led by one goal at half time and soon after the turn round got two more through Hine and Chandler.

Burnley did not lack for support against the Blackburn Rovers, because 22,000 packed their stands, most of the people being ardent backers of the home team. Deel and Page put Burnley two up at the half way mark. Mitchell scored for Blackburn. Burnley's third marker came when Bruton was fouled. McCluggage scored on the penalty kick.

The record gate of the day was the 40,000 crowd at Newcastle who saw the Newcastle United team beaten by Huddersfield town. Brown put Huddersfield ahead and then Gallagher equalized a minute before the interval. Jackson gave the town the lead once more and in a brilliant goal Gallagher tied up the match again. Barkas put in the winning goal seven minutes from time.

Tottenham Hotspurs were a disappointment at Birmingham. Bradford scored twice and Briggs once for Birmingham, while Womack put the ball through his own goal to give the Spurs a point. O'Callaghan scored the other counter for the Londoners.

The feature of the Second Division games, Reading's tie with the leaders, Chelsea, at Stamford Bridge. There was no score. Chelsea were away off form and unlucky, too. The game was played with snow falling heavily.

The decisive defeat of Wolverhampton Wanders by Manchester City and Preston North End's defeat of Fulham were also high lights. Johnson scored twice and Broadhurst once for Manchester.

Chester and James got the single goal which gave Preston victory. Remarkable net minding by Beecham saved Fulham from far worse punishment.

Other scoring in the second division matches was done by: Grimsby Town, Marshall twice, Coelin; Clapton Orient, Holland; Swansea Town, Lewis, Leeds, Turnbull, Wainscott and Keetley.

Black, Landells and Phillips each scored for Millwall and enabled this London team to pick up a couple of points in the Third Division (Southern Section) averages at the expense of their nearest rivals for the leadership, Northampton

Playing for Accrington Stanley against Nelson Parkins did the hat-trick.

Scorers in Scottish First Division games were:

Aberdeen, King through his own goal and Mohal; Queen's Park, Scott.

Airdrieonians, Murt, Murdock; Hibernians, Braley, McColl.

Falkirk, Gowdy, Houston.

Motherwell, Ferier, three times, Cameron, Stevenson.

Partick Thistle, McDougal, Elliott; Dundee, Smith, Thomson.

Rangers, Morton.

St. Mirren, Rankin twice, McCrae, Connor. Clark, through his own goal; Dunfermline, Sturbock.

OSHAWA SCORES THREE GOALS IN LAST EIGHT MINUTES' PLAY

Defeats Junior Petes 3-0 in Hectic Struggle at Motor Town.

GROUP RACE TIED UP.

Bowmanville and Oshawa in Lead—Whitby Plays Here To-morrow.

OSHAWA, Jan. 3—That the leadership of the O.H.A. Junior Group, composed of such teams produced by Peterborough, Bowmanville, Oshawa and Whitby, will not be decided until the second section of the double schedule is well under way was demonstrated on Monday of this week when Whitby battled in a 1-1 tie game for the first fifty-eight minutes of play in Bowmanville as an afternoon attraction.

In the even Lew LeBarr's Peterborough sextette played Oshawa Shamrocks to a 0—0 score for fifty-two minutes in the Motor City, and then could not hold off the determined attack of the homesters and they ran in three goals in the remaining eight minutes to win the game. From now on the games between the teams of this group are going to be the classics of Junior hockey in Eastern Ontario, and any of the cash customers who pass an individual game up are going to miss something worth while. The first one for Peterborough is to be on Wednesday evening, when Francis McIntyre's Whitby "Tanners" go east.

The game in Oshawa started off at a merry clip with the Motor City kids pressing the Peterborough defence, but Kenneally and his partner always had the detour sign out. Kenneally seemed to dispute the right to the Oshawa gang to wear the Shamrock colors and in an overzealous attempt to put Little on the right detour, slammed him up against the fence, for which he was given a wave to the time pen by the official with the bell and on the way back again brought down the disfavor of the referee by playing baseball with the puck. Fifteen penalties were handed out during the sixty minutes of play and the Peterborough "bad boy" had half of the ten awarded to his team.

It made the most hectic struggle seen in Oshawa this winter, Intermediate or Junior, with both teams giving their best.

And the 700 cash customers were upon their toes from gong to gong.

Many chances to bulge the twine were lost by the respective forward lines, mainly caused through their anxiety to notch the counter that would put their team in the lead. The first Oshawa goal was scored from as nice a piece of combined effort as seen in the Motor City for some time. Rowden stick-handled his way through the Petes and then made a perfect pass to Black, who let drive a sizzling waist-high shot to tickle the twine. For Oshawa's second, Harrington made one of his lone rushes and drove the disc on Mein's pads and then tried a back-hand slap for the rebound, but Little, who had come down the left boards with him, went in like a flash and beat the big defence boy to the puck, placing it safely between the posts. Rowden got the third for Oshawa when he stick-handled his way through, drew the Peterborough goalie out from his posts and when he had him flat-footed, shoved the disc into the net and the game was over, the score being Peterborough 0, Oshawa 3.

The teams:

Peterborough.—Goal, Mein; defence, LeBarr and Calladine; centre, Jones; forwards, Kenneally and Collins. Subs, White and Hatton.

Oshawa.—Goal, Leveque; defence, Harrington and Spanton; centre, Little; forwards, Black and Rowden; subs, Grey and Whitton.

Referee—Dalt Lowry, Toronto.

With Bowmanville defeating Whitby 2—1 in the afternoon, the Gum Lads and Oshawa are still a tie for the leadership of the group, the standing of which is as follows:

	W.	L.	F.	A.	To Play
Oshawa	2	0	9	1	10
Bowmanville	2	0	6	2	10
Peterborough	0	2	2	7	10
Whitby	0	2	2	8	10

Scotland Wins 15-6 Match From France

PARIS, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—Scotland yesterday defeated France 15 to 6 in an international rugby match in which the baiting of officials reached heights hitherto unknown in France. Harold McGrath of Ireland, the referee, escaped uninjured only under the protection of 500 policemen.

(Last year's international rugby match in Colombes Stadium, which was between France and Ireland, was the scene of such alleged unsportsmanlike conduct that it was thought possible Ireland might ask the International Rugby Union to expel France. The Irish team defeated the French players 8 to 3, and the fans invaded the field to get at the referee, R. L. Scott of Scotland, who was saved from a severe manhandling only after police hand interfered.

Colombes Olympic Stadium, which proved amply vast for the 1924 games in which 45 nations were engaged, proved inadequate yesterday to accommodate the great crowd desirous of attending. There were about 60,000 spectators, with at least 5,000 turned away, and most of the spectators mourned, wailed and booed the defeat of the French team.

VARSITY BEATEN AT BOSTON 4-1

Loss of Star Player Contributes Towards Canadians' Downfall.

BOSTON Mass., Jan. 3. Canadian Press. — The Toronto Varsity, intercollegiate champions of Canada for 12 years took one of the worst beatings in the history of their annual invasion of Boston, when a fast, scrappy Harvard team defeated them by a score of 4 to 1 here on Saturday night.

A hard game against the University club the night before, soft ice, and the loss of Mackenzie King, the star centre ice man through injury early in the first period, contributed to the Canadians' downfall, but close checking and wideawake down-the-ice work by the Harvard forwards, gave the Crimson a well-merited victory

It was an Ottawa boy who started Varsity on the downward path, Bobby Giddens, Crimson right wing, and the only Canadian on the Harvard team, scored the first two crimson goals, one in the first period on a lone dash half the length of the ice, and the next in the second period by taking a careless pass out by Capt. Kirkpatrick from behind the Toronto goal and slapping it forty feet into the net.

Johnny Tuder, the Harvard right wing, scored the other two, both in the third. Once he split the Canadian defence and carried cloes in on Snyder. The second time he teamed with Captain Chase, carried behind the Canadian goal and clear around the cage to pole the disc in from the outside.

FEW CHANGES

of the greatest interest to the ratepayers.

For the Board of Water and Light Commissioners there was only one member to be appointed. A. L. Riendeau, member for last year, and A. J. Meyers, who has had considerable municipal experience, contested the election. Both men made every effort to secure the appointment and Reindeau was successful by a majorty of 207.

At the nomination meeting, it was stated that an election would be a good thing for the town. It would show those elected that they had the support of the citizens behind them. Election by acclamation was believed to be a very unsatisfactory method of appointing public officials. So now Campbellford has had an election and generous support has been shown more than one of the successful candidates.

Vierkoetter Wants To Lead Orchestra

PARIS, Dec. 31. — (Canadian Press.) — Ernst Vierkotter, Cologne baker, English Channel swimmer and winner of the Lake Ontario marathon at Toronto, has an ambition to become as "maestro" and swing the little baton of an orchestra leader. This was his reply to a question asked him here. Lack of money was the only cause of his delay in realizing this ambition. "Didn't you bring back $30,000 from Toronto. That was the amount of the first prize, wasn't it?" he was asked.

'Do you know how much I brought back to Germany. Six thousand gold marks, $1,500," replied Vierkoetter. "Too much expense, too much expense," he wailed.

BRILLIANT HOCKEY.

Canucks Outplay Their Rivals Almost Throughout the Entire Game.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—Canadiens wound up the year 1927 in fitting manner, as far as their supporters are concerned, by skating to a brilliant 1 to 0 win over the New York Rangers last night at the forum. The game, a dashing battle between the rival sectional leaders of the National Hockey League, provided over 12,000 New Year's eve fans with a fast and brilliant display of hockey in which the Canucks, although held to a lone goal, outplayed their rivals from Gotham almost throughout. Practically invincible goal-tending by Lorne Chabot, however, kept the Rangers in the thick of the fight.

Chabot, a product of local schoolboy hockey, rose to the heights in checking the Canadiens' avalanche before his home-town fans. His defence, while fairly steady, was not air-tight and many were the Canadien attacks that sifted through. Chabot, with one exception however, was always in the right place at the right time. He kicked them out, caught them, batted them away and several times fell full length on the ice to keep his citadel clear. The one time he was outguessed, was early in the third period when Morenz banged through the hefty Ranger defense on one of his numerous meteoric rushes and fooled the visiting goalie with a low drive into the left corner. Chabot was waiting in the centre of the net for the shot, but Morenz' drive gave him no chance to get in front of the disc.

The display given by Chabot drew plaudits from the highly rabid and partizan Canadien supporters. Time after time, Morenz, Joliat and Gagne flashed in on the Ranger net, only to have their best efforts turned away The Canucks could not be denied, however, and the goal by Morenz finally settled the issue.

The lone goal of the game capped an evening of dashing hockey by the local centre. Morenz gave one of his usual speeding displays and woried Chabot throughout with a variety of drives. He kept up a fast pace throughout and was one of the leading lights in sustained Canuck attacks.

The Rangers played good hockey, but it was not good enough to beat the speed and hard-shooting display by the flying French men. Ching Johnson and Bill Cook were outstanding among their team-mates, the former, especially, giving a fine exhibition of both the offensive and defensive. Bill Cook was a menace to the loacl net throughout, and only good work on the part of Hainesworth, who played another of his cool-headed games, kept the Ranger captain out of the summary. In the second session, Bill broke through and apparently had the Canadien goalie at his mercy when he lost control of the puck just as he was about to shoot. It was a though break for the Rangers and their best scoring chance of the game went astray.

The result further tended to tighten up the standing in the American division of the League while Canadiens were enabled to retain their long lead at the head of the Canadien section. Line-up:

Canadiens — Goal, Hainesworth; defense, Gardiner, Mantha; centre, Morenz; wings, Joliat Gagne; subs, Gaudreault, Hart, Larochelle, Leduc, Langlois.

RED GRANGE TO BE GIVEN TOUGH RACE BY HIS NEW RIVAL

The authority for this statement is Sam Wood, who directed Marion Davies' "The Fair Co-ed," in which Brown has the leading male role opposite the star in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture now being shown at the Regent theatre

Wood also directed Grange in the Galloping Ghosts "One Minute to Play," a college football film that went over with a bang.

"Johnny Mack Brown, one of the best football players that sport has ever known, has fully as much screen personality as Grange and has a better sense of comedy. Grange made a single picture and Brown is in for pictures as a profession.

"Brown is used to the spectacular and had the good fortune to draw a role with which he was familiar as a college student. He has a natural bent toward comecy and possesses much screen personality as well as handsome features and a marvelous physique."

Miss Davis chose Brown to play opposite her because she believed him especially well qualified for the role. She had seen him in action on the gridiron and has watched his film development during the few months he has been under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

"The Fair Co-ed" is based on the famous stage play by George Ade and Gustav Luders, and the cast contains many famous screen names, including: Jane Winton, Thelma Hill and others.

AT THE CAPITOL.

POLA NEGRI IN "THE WOMAN ON TRIAL."

One of the interesting phases of moving pictures is the versatility of method employed by the actors. Pola Negri, in "The Woman on Trial," offers a splendid example of this attribute. She used to be a lady who was a super vamp, with all the technique necessary to the part. In this production, she is an appealing female with sloppy hair, who does a "mother" role to perfection, her artistic presentation of the part of the misunderstood and affectionate Julie Morland being an outstanding example of her art as an actress of the silver sheet.

Pola dominates the picture, which is a one-woman performance, from first to last, and employs the device of having the main actor tell her own story, illustrated by pictures that outline the words from her lips, as she addresses a jury while on trial for her life A glance at the emotional French faces of the talesmen, and the enthusiastic countenance of the judge as he listens to the tale of woe as outlined by the lady draped in flowing veils, is sufficient to warrant the conclusion from the beginning that she will not suffer overmuch for killing her enemy. "The Woman on Trial" is a fine example of the art of the super vamp, although the lady in the piece is taking the part of a mother, instead of a courtesan, as is usual. It abounds in posing episodes. How the lady can maintain her fixed stare as long as she does, in some portions of the picture, is a real mystery.

Julie is always the innocent victim. Any mix-up that she gets into is always the fault of some man. She remains inspired and aloof throughout, and absolutely unconscious of wile. It is an attractive pose, this. Through kindness of heart, she maintains her lover in a sanitarium at Davos, in the Alps, while she marries the millionaire Morland, of Paris, in order to get money to save Pierre. When Morland becomes jealous of her and later secures a divorce, she still retains custody of her child, but unfortunate circumstances, engineered by her husband, cause the baby to be taken away from her. Then she uses a revolver, with more effective results than is usual in the case of a woman pointing at anything. But, costumed in a manner in accord with the occasion, she tells her story and goes free, to join Pierre later on a beach that has a dying sunset and a sentimental embrace as a glorious fadeout to a very well done piece of posing.

There is a funny comedy and the usual run of entertaining short reels.

UNFADING POPULARITY OF "CHARLEY'S AUNT"—A ROMANCE OF THEATRE.

When the Brandon-Thomas' Comedy Company opens at the Grand Theatre here on Thursday, January 5, local theatregoers will have their first opportunity of seeing the most popular play in the world interpreted as its author originally intended, under the direction of his widow.

If "Charley's Aunt" is a comedy, the tale of its unfading popularity is a romance. It was somewhere about the end of the year 1891 that the clever actor, W. S. Penley, asked the equally brilliant author, Brandon-Thomas, for a new play. "Well," said Mr. Brandon-Thomas, "You've appeared in almost every character under the sun, but never as a woman. How do you fancy playing a female role?" and he expanded the idea to him. Penley was delighted and Brandon-Thomas set to work Shortly afterwards Brandon-Thomas read him over the first rough draft script of "Charley's Aunt," and Penley laughed so much he slid down on to the floor and lay there helpless!

But, although these two thought mightily of the story, no producer could be persuaded to take it up. Even so experienced a man as the late Sir Charles Hawtrey turned it down flat. At last, however, one venturesome individual was found to put up a thousand pounds for the production, and even of this only sixty pounds was spent—on a play which has since, netted hundreds of thousands!

Miss Nellie Bennett is one of the inevitable gossips who tries to pry into Mother Baker's affairs without giving any sympathy, while Miss Gladys Simpson is another spinster neighbor who prides herself upon being "free and unattached."

Rev. C. D. Daniel acted as chairman in his usual happy manner and kept the crowd in good humor until the arrival of Santa Claus to hand out the numerous presents on the tree, sendinb everyone away happy, especially the younger children.

PINE GROVE SCHOOL.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 30.—A successful concert was given at the Pine Grove School, S.S. No. 16, Hope, on Tuesday evening before the holidays, Mr. R. D. Wright acting as chairman.

The program was opened with a chorus by the pupils, numbering about thirty, followed by an address of welcome by an older scholar. Other items on the program included choruses, dialogues and recitations, in which even the youngest pupils had a share.

Messrs. Maurice Gray, George Clarke, Henry Gray and Piercey Pitt, of Millbrook, dressed as colored gentlemen from the Southland, added considerably to the enjoyment of the evening by their musical selections, and their jokes.

While the school was singing the chorus, "Welcome Dear Santa," sleighbells were heard outside and the jolly old gentleman, in his red suit with its white fur trimmings (Willilard Lord) entered the room, to the great excitement of the younger folk at least.

The prettily-decorated Christmas tree, heavily laden with many-shaped parcels, made an attractive picture, and from it Santa distributed gifts to all; with their other presents each scholar received a box of candy, the personal gifts of the teacher.

Over one hundred parents, friends, and scholars were present, and the entertainment was voted an unqualified success by all.

CHRIST CHURCH, OMEMEE

OMEMEE, Dec. 30.—On Thursday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, the annual Christmas entertainment was held in the basement of Christ Church

The Rector, Mr. Weir, very kindly and ably acted as chairman and in his speech of welcome drew the attention of the audience to the Sunday School blackboard which had been prepared by the Superintendent, Mr. John Bent. On this board were some very pointed queries for the consideration of the parents, reminding them of their duties as parents, and their obligations with regard to the baptismal vows which they had taken on behalf of the children in their charge.

The program of choruses, recitations, etc., was given entirely by the members of the Sunday School. One number, a pantomime of that beautiful carol, "Holy Night," was enacted by five young girls, the carol being sung by the Misses Marion Dickson, Ethel Stephenson and Mabel Rowan.

A Chorus by the Juniors gave the Christmas story in song, and two little girls from the Primary Class, Betty Deyell and Margaret James sang of the Babe in the Manger.

A two-scene play from Charles Dickens' Christmas Carol was put on, in which was depicted the regeneration of Scrooge; brought about by the warning of the Ghost of Jacob Marley, and the appearance of the Spirits of Christmas Past, Present, and Future.

The young actors took their parts well, not least of which were the four young couples, who in old-time costumes stepped to the stately measures of Sir Roger de Coverley, while a real fiddler made merry music.

At the close of the program, there was a few minutes' tense excitement, but finally Santa Claus appeared bearing a huge pack of gifts and candy—a gift for each member who had attended at least once during the year.

When the gifts were distributed the entertainment closed with the National Anthem, and prayer by the Rector.

The program was one calculated to emphasize the true spirit of Christianity—The Spirit of Giving rather than the Spirit of Getting.

ST. ANDREW'S S.S., BURNBRAE

BUHNBRAE, Dec. 30.—The annual Christmas concert of the St. Andrew's Sabbath School was held on Friday evening in the school rooms of the church, with a good attendance. A splendid and enjoyable program of songs, drills, recitations, musical numbers, both piano and organ, and dialogues, was presented by the pupils of the chool, assisted by a number of friends from S.S. No. 1, among them Miss Susan Atkinson, who is becoming known as a splendid young vocalist, and Master Donald Lloyd, the boy elocutionist, whose performances in this line stamp him as a budding artist. The officers of the Sabbath School and those in charge are gratified at the success of the entertainment, in view of the host of other events as well as much sickness in the vicinity.

S.S. 1, SEYMOUR

BURNBRAE, Dec. 30.—Pupils of S.S. No. 1, Burnbrae School, with their parents and friends, both from this section and others, gathered at Sentinel Hall, Peterick's Corners, for an old time Christmas concert and community rally on Wednesday evening. Under the direction of their teacher, Mr. Earl Fairman, the pupils of the No. 1 School put on a program quite in keeping with the number of the section, and the audience was delighted with the performance. Mr. Fred McMullen, violin, and Miss Ruth Lawrence, guitar, assisted with several musical numbers, while Mr. Will Fry rendered a number of comic songs. Douglas Ingram gave a mouth organ selection, which was well received. All the children's numbers were exceptionally good and showed diligent preparation but as in many other instances the outstanding performer was Donald Lloyd who, both in readings and recitations, showed evidence of ability far in advance of his tender years. Beyond a doubt, Master Don. is winning for himself the title of the "Boy Wonder" of East Seymour, as many of his selections are very difficult and his power of expression would do credit to an experienced elocutionist. An interesting feature was the passing in review of the scholars of each class as called by the teacher. The roll numbered thirty-seven, and all were present. Just before Santa Claus arrived, Mr. Fairman was called to the platform and on behalf of the school, little Miss Annie Fry presented him with a handsome sweater coat.

Mr. Fairman is in his third year at the No. 1 school, and has had signal success here. He and his pupils are the greatest of friends, which is a deciding factor in the success of any school.

NORHAM SCHOOL.

Evergreens, red and green ribbons, Christmas bells and tinsel were arranged to give a delightful festive appearance to the hall. S. S. No. 3 Harvey

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29.—The United Church at Lakehurst and S.S. No. 3 Harvey gave a combination entertainment on Tuesday, December 20, with a bumper crowd present and a good program. The financial returns were most gratifying and the net proceeds will be used toward the purchase of a bookcase for the school.

The chair was occupied by the minister of the church, Rev. A. Huston, who has earned the regard of the community for the excellent work he has done in the district.

The teacher, Miss Isabel Sutton of Lakefield, deserves a large measure of credit for the time and effort used in planning and directing the programme, and training the children and young people.

The following is the program:

FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES — Lord Nelson and Lady Hamilton (II) — By Nicholas Afonsky

When Nelson was nineteen he passed his test for lieutenant before a board headed by his uncle. When the examination was over, Suckling introduced Nelson as his nephew. "Why didn't you tell us before?" asked the other members. "I didn't want the youngster to be favored," answered Suckling.

Young Nelson progressed rapidly after this. He was sent on a cruise to the West Indies and became desperately ill from the almost tropical climate. He was finally carried ashore on his cot at Jamaica, there to be nursed back to comparative health by a black nurse called Cuba Cornwallis in her lodging house.

After a partial recovery in England, Nelson returned to the West Indies, to stay there for four years. There, at Nevis, St. Kitt's, he met a young widow, Fanny Nisbet, whom he fell in love with and married. Until his infatuation with Lady Hamilton, Nelson was a devoted and adoring husband, and they were happy.

About the time of Nelson's marriage, Emma Lyon, then twenty-three, met and became friendly with Sir William Hamilton, British ambassador at Naples, whom she married a few years later. She was beautiful and cultivated, and entered into the social life of Sir William's position with spirit and charm.

JUNIOR BATTLE WITH WHITBY IS NEXT ON CARDS

To-morrow Night Sees Lew Lebarr's Team in Action at Home.

WILL BE FAST.

Both Teams Need a Win and Will Fight Until the Last Bell.

The teams in the Junior Lake Shore group are playing great hockey and the visit here to-morrow night of the Whitby crew, who will clash with Lew Lebarr's Juniors at Brock Street Rink in the first home game of the season, promises to be a real treat for the fans. The young Petes have made a great showing in their two games away from home and they promise to take both Bowmanville and Oshawa into camp when the group leaders come to Peterborough.

The Whitby team, who are the opposition to-morrow night, like the Petes have dropped two games away from home, but they held Bowmanville to a 2 to 1 score yesterday, and figure on their home games to put them right up with the leaders. They are highly thought of down the Lake front, these lads from Sheriff Paxton's town, and will be tough adversaries here to-morrow night, but Lew Lebarr's team are rounding into great shape and are confident of registering their first win of the group at the expense of Whitby.

The ice will be lightning fast, and both teams are satisfied, as they like smooth going.

"Ginger" Edgar, of Bowmanville, will handle the game, and will send the teams away at 8.15 o'clock sharp. There should be a big crowd on hand for the first Junior battle of the season.

MARLBOROS HERE THURSDAY

Harry Watson's Team To Play the First Scheduled Game.

PETES ARE READY.

Marlboros and the Petes will play their postponed senior game here on Thursday night, and the battle promises to be a tough argument all the way.

The drop in temperature has given Eddie Wright's crew a chance to get in some practice, and they will go to the post Thursday night in good condition to meet the fast Dukes who, under Harry Watson's coaching, have been going great guns and expect to grab off a win here. The game means much to both teams, and there will be action from start to finish.

M. J. Rodden of Toronto will referee the battle and will get the teams away at 8.30 o'clock. The reserved seat plan is on sale, and tickets are in demand, indicating a big crowd.

There is much interest in the 1926 Petes, and this opportunity to see them in their first O.H.A. game is not going to be overlooked.

COLD WEATHER BOTHERS WEST

Animals On Ranges Unable To Get Any Food—Barn Supplies Running Low.

CHINOOK WINDS FAIL.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., January 3 (Canadian Press). — With the bitter weather entering its third month without a real chinook or warm break, the weather situation is giving increased concern. Old timers declare that not in forty years have they seen such a continuous period of sub-zero weather. In addition to temperatures that have dropped all the way from 25 to 35 degrees below zero there has been a heavy snowfall, the accumulation of snow soon becoming encrusted. This has prevented cattle, sheep, and horses from obtaining feed, and with the opening of January, range conditions are grave.

The stock is getting thin, feed supplies are low, and unless there is a break soon, heavy losses are feared. Already stockmen have fed as much as they do ordinarily in the whole winter and two months of winter at least lie ahead.

MARRIED
THOMPSON—SOMERS—At Omaha, Nebraska, on December 29, Miss May Somers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Somers, Haines City, Florida, to C. Stanley Thompson, B.A., of Peterborough, Ontario. They will reside at 33 Dennistoun Avenue, Peterborough.

"His playing was of a broad, suggestive character. There was abundant brilliance in his work. He won an ovation by his playing, and thoroughly deserved it." (Toronto Telegram.)

"Scott Malcolm has a distinctive lyric charm in his playing and a keen insight into poetic values. In the Chopin "Sonata" in B flat he was particularly good in the Funeral March, and in the "Presto" at the end, which he purposely made very vivid, a true temperamental and well disciplined young poet of the piano." SLAYER FIGHTS GALLOWS WITH INSANITY PLEA

Defense Enters Pleas of Not Guilty to Two Charges.

COURT ROOM QUIET.

Heavily Armed Guards Escort Prisoner From Cell to Court.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., January 4 (Canadian Press). — William Edward Hickman, confessed kidnapper and slayer of Marion Parker, will make his fight against the gallows with a plea of insanity.

In Superior Court here yesterday afternoon, Hickman entered pleas of not guilty to charges of murder and kidnapping, and coupled with his answer, the defence that he was insane when he abducted and killed the 12-year-old schoolgirl.

Hickman, escorted from his cell to the courtroom by guards armed with tear bombs to quell any possible demonstration by a throng of curious at first pleaded insanity on the murder charge alone, but changed the plea later to cover both accusations. Asked by the court if he knew the insanity plea constituted an admission of the killing, he replied "Yes."

Affidavit Denied.

Jerome Walsh, Hickman's youthful attorney, who was hired to defend him by the accused youth's mother, at the opening of the hearing filed an affidavit asking for delay in entering his client's plea, but this was denied. After Hickman pleaded not guilty, Walsh renewed his argument for a delay in the trial, asking a 35-day continuance, which is five days over the legal limit fixed by the state laws. The judge then set January 25 as the day.

Hickman was asked by the court if Walsh was his only attorney, and he replied, "Yes, Your Honor."

The accused spoke only twice during the session. Throughout the proceedings he sat beside his lawyer at the counsel table with eyes fixed on the floor.

Stepbrother Present.

Behind him, at the rear of the court room, was the only representative of the Parker family present, Perry (Bill) Parker, stepbrother of the slain girl. Young Parker appeared to be under a severe nervous strain, riveting his eyes alternately on the judge and the prisoner.

There was only one delay from the time Hickman was led through heavily guarded corridors to the court room until he emerged again on his way back to the county jail. This came during a conference in the judge's chambers between Judge Hardy and Walsh after the latter had asked for a continuance on the plea.

While court recessed, Hickman was taken to the prisoner's room, adjoining the court room, and was returned four minutes later when Judge Hardy resumed the bench.

The eighth floor of the Hall of Justice was crowded with persons seeking admittance to the court room, but the heavy squad of guards maintained order.

FARM MECHANICS COURSE IS PLANNED

Department Arranges For Classes at Warkworth Next Week.

A course in Farm Mechanics is being conducted by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, at Warkworth, commencing on January 9, and continuing until January 13. This course is so designed that it will be a real opportunity for the men and young farmers in that district as they will get instruction in the essentials of farm mechanics.

Mayor Occupies Chair Which Father Filled

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.— (Canadian Press.)—On assuming the duties of Mayor last night Arthur Ellis, who was elected December 1, although he promised no tax reduction, gave assurance that every effort would be made that the rate of last year be not exceeded. Last year's rate was 31.70 mills, including Public school rates. Separate school supporters paid somewhat more.

Mayor Ellis occupies the same chair his father, J. A. Ellis, sat in during the years he served as Chief Magistrate. It is the practice in Ottawa to present the chair to the retiring Mayor and have a new one for his successor, for sentimental reasons, however, the old chair was brought back from J. A Ellis' home for his son to use.

Five Persons Killed In Christmas Riots

DOGOTA, Colombia, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press). — Despatches from Onzaga, Department of Santander, report the shooting and killing of five persons and the wounding of fifteen others by three officials of the liquor tax bureau. In the general hilarity of the Christmas season, the liquor officials had fallen into the bad graces of the crowd. They barricaded themselves in the municipal palace, and when that building was threatened by mobs they opened a heavy rifle fire on the throng that had gathered in front of the building, with deadly effect.

LONDON WEEKLY DERIDES CANADA

Naval Plans of Dominion Provide Target For Truth's Satire.

COMMENTS ON U.S. NAVY.

LONDON, January 4 (Canadian Press Cable). — The London weekly paper, Truth, is ironical with reference to the two torpedo boat destroyers which the Canadian Government proposes obtaining from Great Britain at an approximate cost of $2,700,000 to take the place of the destroyers Patriot and Patrician, and to be delivered within three years.

Truth says: "The Canadian seagoing Navy, consisting of two cruisers, Patriot and Patrician, is almost worn out, so the Parliament at Ottawa is to be asked to vote money for the building of two more. There is to be no indecorous hurry over the matter, as the new destroyers are to be three years under construction, or about three times as long as is necessary for normal construction of vessels of this type. However, as they are to be built in this country, we must be thankful even for small mercies. The idea of war does not seem to worry the Dominion. She possibly takes it for granted that the Monroe doctrine stretches north as well as south, in which case she must be rather welcoming the big new naval program of the United States."

LOSES INSURANCE BY BURNING HOUSE

Man Sentenced To Penitentiary For Arson Loses Suit Against Company.

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press). — When Joseph Delorme, butcher, set fire to his house in Marieville and later pleaded guilty to arson in the Court of the King's Bench, he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. Yesterday he lost what chance he had to collect insurance on the furniture stored in the house, as the Superior Court dismissed the action that he took against the British Colonial Fire Insurance Company and the Eastern Underwriters' Association.

There was a considerable demand for insulin during the month of December according to the records of the local branch laboratory. As compared with 21,500 units distributed in November, there was a total distribution of 27,400 units in December. Some twenty-five people in the district served by the Peterboro laboratory, were benefited by the free distribution.

ACTOR SEEKS DIVORCE.

Roy Guitse, Known as Roy Darcy, Charges Wife With Cruelty.

LOS ANGELES, January 4 (Canadian Press). — Roy Guitse, known in the films as Roy Darcy, has filed suit for divorce against Laura Rhinock Duffy Darcy, charging her with cruelty and habitual intemperance. Darcy's suit charged that his wife's cruelty began on their honeymoon, when she cursed him and called him a "ham actor." They were married in December, 1926, and separated on December 27, 1927, according to the complaint. The actor accused his wife of attempting to shoot him and stab him on occasions.

DAIRYMEN OPEN BIG CONVENTION THIS MORNING

Fifty-first Annual Meeting of Eastern Ontario Men Begun.

PROTECTION NEEDED.

President Discusses Australian Treaty in Address—Predicts Prosperity.

KINGSTON, January 4 (Canadian Press).—Over one hundred dairymen were present from all over Eastern Ontario at the opening session of the fifty-first annual convention this morning when the principal item of the proceedings was the address of the president, Alex McGruer, of Brinston, who predicted that "the dairy industry of Eastern Ontario is entering into an era that will have in it many changes and much prosperity." The president called attention to the activities of United States breeders in Eastern Ontario, with thousands of cattle being shipped across the border and cattle increasing in value. Referring to the Australian treaty, the president stated: "With our increased consumption and population it is desirable that we have adequate protection so as to maintain production as a guarantee of fair prices both for consumer and producer."

Charles W. Fraleigh, of Bloomfield, director for Prince Edward County, in addressing the convention this morning, stated he would like the association to take some stand on the question of Sunday cheese-making. He stated that he had received a letter from officials of the Lord's Day Alliance to the effect that the Government felt Sunday cheese-making is not necessary, and that if it continues this year prosecutions will follow.

ACTION PROMISED ON NORTHERN ROAD

Minister Having Report Prepared on Catchecoma-Gooderham Highway.

Action is to be taken with regard to improvement of roads in the north, according to a letter received by the Chamber of Commerce from the Minister of Lands and Forests, which reads in part:

"I am asking the engineers to let me have a report on this and will be glad to see that as much work as possible is done on it during the coming year.

"Yours very truly,

"W. Finlayson."

At a meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association of Peterborough, held late last year, a motion was introduced, requiring that a resolution be forwarded to the Department of Public Highways, in Toronto, requesting the Department to consider the improvement of the road leading north from Lake Catchecoma to Gooderham, westerly from Gooderham to Kinmount, and easterly from Gooderham to Bancroft.

It was pointed out by W. C. Ackerman, secretary-treasurer of the D. F. Ackerman & Son Co., Ltd., who, with others had been over the above roads quite recently, that a considerable volume of desirable trade could be diverted to Peterborough by the establishment of new roads or improvement of present roads through the districts named. The trade, owing to local road conditions ,now goes to Lindsay, though from personal contact Mr. Ackerman believes that the people in the north would prefer to trade in Peterborough.

Aside from the trading question, Lake Catchecoma and the surrounding district is extremely attractive as a tourist section, so that there are many reasons why this desirable road improvement should be effected without delay.

The people in the north country more particularly require the early improvement on that section of road leading north from Lake Catchecoma to Gooderham.

The influence of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce was sought in the above connection, and supporting resolutions were forwarded from the Chamber, with copies from both organizations to W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. The roads in question are colonization roads, and come under the Department of Lands and Forests.

Death Due To Exposure, Verdict Reached By Jury In Los Angeles "Sack Murder"

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 4 (Canadian Press). — Exposure suffered after she had been thrown into a ditch along the roadway "by an unknown person" caused the death of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, "sack murder" victim, a coroner's jury decided yesterday.

Trussed in a sack, the body of the wealthy widow was found December 26 near San Fernando, 26 miles northwest of here. Death had resulted from congestion of the lungs due to exposure, said the verdict of the conorer's jury.

Dr. Charles M. McMillan, 57-year-old physician, held as the woman's suspected slayer, refused to testify on advice of counsel. Authorities are investigating his activities in managing Mrs. Appleby's business affairs.

Will G. Noble, an undertaker, testified that Mrs. Appleby had suffered a broken nose and severe bruises about the chest and body.

The autopsy report of Dr. Frank Webb which was read at the inquest together with Noble's statement, established the fact, according to District Attorney's officers, that Mrs. Appleby was not dead when the canvas-encased body was tossed from an automobile.

Charles G. Whitter, who lives directly across the street from the Appleby home, testified that he last saw Mrs. Appleby December 22 or 23, and that she then was seated in an automobile with Dr MacMillan. The suspected physician was arrested at his home soon after the body was found.

SIX PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH RESULT OF LAMP EXPLOSIONS

Mother and Three Children, Woman and Daughter Perish in Alberta.

TRAGIC HOLIDAY.

Five Children Rescued From Blaze By Father at Smoky Lake.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 4 (Associated Press).—One woman and three children burned to death at Legal, a thrilling rescue of five other children by the husband and a woman and daughter burned to death in another fire at Smoky Lake, was the grim harvest reaped by fires over the holiday.

The victims at Legal were Mrs. Labrecque and three children all under five years of age; Lucien, Rosita and August. The fire occurred when a coal oil lamp fell off a dresser. The father was able to rescue the other children.

Mrs. Irene Woychuk, 46, and her eight-year-old daughter Donka, were the victims at Smoky Lake. The little girl was filling a lighted coal oil lamp on the floor when it exploded. The mother was burned to death. The child died on the way to the hospital. The father and brothers were in the barn at the time of the accident.

Fell From Dresser.

Lebrecque's story to Alberta Provincial Police Constable Olsen of Morinville was that on Saturday morning he rose from bed, lit the coal oil lamp and placed it on the dresser while he attended to the kitchen stove.

Suddenly there was a thud behind him and a sheet of flame rose from the floor. The lamp had evidently fallen from the dresser, struck the floor, and burst, throwing the blazing oil out in a ball of flames.

Lebrecque seized a pail of water, which he dashed on the flames, but this only spread the burning oil all the more. With the whole of the room in flames he roused Mrs. Lebrecque and led her to the outer door and safety, while Lebrecque himself rushed to the stables, secured a ladder and raised it to the window of the room where his eight children were sleeping.

He contrived to get the five older children down the ladder, but the dwelling was an inferno of flames before he could reach the three young children.

The rescued children's ages ranged from 14 to five years. The three who died were Lucien and Rosall, three-year-old twins, and August, 1¼ years.

In night attire and with bare feet, the five rescued children were hurried through the bitter cold to the home of a neighbor, where, except for frost-bitten feet, they were little the worse for their terrible experience. It was only when the charred remains of an adult was taken from the ashes of the house that Lebrecque realized that his wife had perished in an effort to reach the children.

The house was an isolated one on the outskirts of the town.

TWO INJURED IN SNOW STORM

Buffalo Whipped By 42-Mile Gale Off Lake Erie.

TRAFFIC HELD UP.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—A 42-mile wind off Lake Erie whipped 13 inches of snow over this city yesterday.

The storm brought injuries to two persons.

While the wind raged, fire broke out in four homes in Seneca Street and drove twenty occupants into the street to face the biting weather.

Thousands were late for work in the morning and street car service, although maintained, was poor all day. Two trolley cars were derailed.

Railroad trains were delayed from 15 minutes to three hours by deep drifts in yards in this city.

The injured are Pio Poalino, this city, who was struck and slightly injured by a trolley car, and Frederick L. Miller of Atlantic City, N.J., who was struck by another street car. Miller, surgeons said, suffered a fractured skull and his condition was regarded as serious.

At nightfall snow was still falling, although in flurries.

SCHOOL BOARD FINISHES WORK FOR LAST YEAR

School Business For Year Is Closed at Regular Meeting Last Night.

SHORT MEETING.

Good Progress On New Building Reported By Retiring Committee Chairman.

One of the shortest regular meetings on record of the Board of Education, was that held last night by the 1927 board to clear up business for the inaugural meeting of the 1928 board, which will be held on Thursday evening. The meeting lasted for twenty-five minutes and was devoted to routine matters.

School Inspector A. Mowat, B.A., was re-appointed to the Public Library board for another term of three years.

Inquiry of W R. Turner brought out the fact that the County Council may appoint members on the board for Collegiate questions, now that the Collegiate Institute is open to county pupils for whom the county pays part of the cost.

E. R. Wilson concluded his term on the board with a report on the Collegiate extension, in his capacity as chairman of the Building committee. He informed his colleagues that the building will be roofed over within a week and closed in shortly afterwards. Work on the interior will be proceeded with all winter. He took advantage of the report to commend the work of the board's inspector, which he said had been carried out in a careful and efficient manner.

E. R. Reid reported for the Property Committee that negotiations have been carried on with the board of George Street United Church with regard to the purchase of the Grace Church property adjoining the Queen Alexandra School, but agreement has not been reached. The matter was left in the hands of the Property Committee.

The matter of owners of property in the city who live outside the city, and wish to send their pupils to the city schools, was brought up by a letter from one of these ratepayers. The practice of the board has been to grant this permission if the parents own property equal in value to the average assessment in the city, but the whole matter was turned over to the incoming Supervision committee.

Before adjournment was made, Chairman E. B. Fowler congratulated those members who, with himself, had been successful at the polls on Monday and expressed regret that Trustees E. R. Wilson and J. A. McNabb had been defeated in the election. They had, he said, been faithful members and had carried out their duties capably.

The attendance report for December is as follows:

She was admitted to Prince County Hospital where the bullet was removed and no serious consequences are expected.

Idylwilde Korndyke Has Canadian Title For Butter and Milk

James Seymour and Sons Have Great Distinction Conferred Upon Animal Bred On Their Farm Near Peterborough—Officially Recognized By Authorities.

Nearly 20,000 Pounds of Milk IN 305 DAYS YIELDING RECORD 819 POUNDS OF BUTTER FAT

Cow Was Shown at Exhibition Here in 1926 and Sister Took Second Place in Dry Class Last Year—All Stock Pure Bred Accredited.

The world's champion cow in butterfat production and the Canadian champion in both milk and butterfat production is "Idylwilde Korndyke," owned by James Seymour and Sons, of Ida. Recognition has just been given this record by the officials of the Livestock Commission of Canada in an official statement which establishes this cow's record beyond dispute. James Seymour and Sons are breeders of dairy cattle, and all their stock are pure bred and fully accredited. Both this cow and her dam were bred at Idylwilde Farm.

The test in which Idylwilde Korndyke won her reputation is a 305-day test with a twice-a-day milking and the average yield in milk over this period was more than 63 pounds a day. The best day came in the seventh month of the test, when the cow yielded 81½ pounds of milk, and the best two consecutive days were also in this month.

Idylwilde Korndyke, an Holstein-Freisan, was sired by Earl Burke Korndyke, and her dam was Idylwilde Dixon De Kol. Her age at the commencement of the test on November 27, 1926, was eight years, and in the 365 days of the test her production in milk was 19,906 pounds, and in butterfat, 819 pounds.

The following was the month by month record:

Months	Lbs. milk.	Lbs. fat.
January	2213.1	78.93
February	1989.5	83.03
March	2000.1	83.20
April	1733.7	97.09
May	1835.0	102.76
June	2181.0	80.72
July	1905.5	69.34
August	1915.5	70.50
September	1385.0	51.25
November	214.7	10.74
December	2225.8	111.29

This champion cow was shown at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition in 1926, but because of the importance of the test she was undergoing in 1927, she was not shown last year. Her daughter, however, was second in the dry class at last year's exhibition. Two half sisters at Bowmanville, owned by R. R. Stevens, a year years ago took first and second places in the 305 day class for both milk and butter.

Idylwilde Korndyke by this feat breaks the former world's record for fat held by Aralia De Kol Mead 3d, whose record was 771.73 pounds against Idylwilde Korndyke's record of 819 pounds. This, according to authentic information, establishes a new world's record for all ages in twice-a-day work.

The world's champion for milk is Bonair Beechwood Ormsby 4th with 21,022.4 pounds, and the Canadian record up to the time that Idylwilde Korndyke broke it, was 18,040 pounds, made by Walker Segis Mead.

In an interview with The Examiner to-day, Mr. Seymour, Sr., spoke of the wonderful benefit to stock raisers and to agriculturists generally through the opportunities afforded at the Peterborough Exhibition for gaining information as to the best classes of stock and the best ways of handling stock. He is a regular exhibitor at the Exhibition, and fully appreciates the wonderful work that is being done for the community and for the district that surrounds Peterborough.

Valued Possession Lost After 60 Years

To wear a tie pin for almost 60 years and then lose it was the George Deannard, of 479 Donegal street. Mr. Deannard is the sad misfortune that overtook father of the genial police sergeant and while either on his way to or from mass in St. Peter's Cathedral on Christmas morning he lost a valuable tie pin.

The tie pin was purchased by him many years ago in New York and had a diamond shaped red stone in it. Mr. Deannard has kept it amongst his precious treasures and if any person found the pin he would be very grateful if they would return it to him.

MARCIL TO ASK ENVOY'S RECALL

Would Have Canada Discontinue All Relations With Mexico.

MOTION FOR HOUSE.

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (Canadian Press) —Hon. Charles Marcil, M.P., for Bonaventure, is submitting a motion at the coming session of Parliament asking for the recall of L. Medina Barron, Mexican Consul at Toronto, and urging that until the policy of persecution against the Roman Catholics in Mexico has been stopped, Canada should discontinue all further intercourse with Mexico. The motion further disapproves the "uncalled for" trip of Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, to Mexico.

The effect of the motion when it comes before the House of Commons will be to precipitate a debate on the trip of Sir Henry Thornton to Mexico and the controversy which followed the subsequent open letter on the subject sent by Bishop Fallon to Premier King.

Mr. Marcil asks for the recall off Mr. Barron on the charge that Mr. Barron, in a statement to the press during the controversy, made "false and insulting" statements regarding the Roman Catholic Church.

CHICAGO, January 4 (Canadian Press). — The greater part of the United States to-day was coming slowly out of the anaesthetic of low temperatures which since New Year's Day have extended their chill as far south as the Gulf of Mexico. Fewer fatalities were reported on Tuesday, although sub-zero temperatures were not an exception throughout most of the north and middle west. Sixty deaths attributed to cold and snow have been reported from widely separated sections of the country since January 1.

PLANES USED IN CAMPAIGN AGAINST REBELS

U. S. Marine General Determined to Expel Bandits From Nicaragua.

HOLD STRONGHOLD.

Believed Leader Sandino Has Established Headquarters at El Chilob.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—With promised reinforcements from the United States and with a column of marines immediately sent forward to strengthen the garrison at Quailali, in the province of Nueva Segovia, now held by United States marines and national guardsmen, Colonel Mason Gulick is hopeful of pushing the campaign against the rebels under former Liberal General Bandino to a successful termination.

The spirit of the marines has been aroused by the recent engagements fought in the territory in which Sandino has well armed contingents. They, already in contact with Americans, have killed half a dozen marines and wounded many others. Notwithstanding the fact that the marines, who set out to drive Sandino out of his stronghold at Quailali, succeeded in their task, strong groups of rebels have taken refuge in the forests and must be bombed out.

Use Planes.

With this object in view, several planes have already wrought much destruction in the rebel ranks. Colonel Gulick declared yesterday that the marine columns, with aeroplane support, had "a splendid day" Monday. The rebels at various times during the march of marines to reinforce those who had occupied Quilali, attempted to concentrate at several strategic points along the mountainous trail. They met the marines with gunfire. But immediately planes would sweep overhead, dropping bombs and then would swing low and strafe the rebels with machine gun fire.

The outlaw bands scattered and, it is believed, suffering numerous casualties, then sought the shelter of the forest, above which the planes still hovered, watching for a glimpse of some group in flight—and then more bombs would be dropped. So successful was the bombing operations that the rebels failed to inflict any damage to the relief column, which reached Quilali late in the afternoon.

Marines Hold Town.

No attempt has been made by Sandino to retake his former stronghold and it is thought doubtful if he will make such an attempt. He has undoubtedly established headquarters some distance back of the recent engagements, possibly at El Chipote, 18 miles away, where he would have an opportunity, if hard pressed, to escape into the jungle country.

With reference to reports that the marines were ambushed Friday, Colonel Gulick declared that he expected resistance, as Sandino had emphatically announced his intention to defend Quilali at all costs. The marines, Colonel Gulick added, were fully prepared for such resistance, but Sandino was securely entrenched in most inaccessible places, and that hard fighting was necessary to drive him out.

Woman Bandit Is Given Prison Term

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Minnie Paul, known as Newark's "bobbed haired bandit" was sentenced to an indeterminate sentence in the Clinton Reformatory yesterday for her participation in the robberies of two grocery stores.

To Alexander Paul, her husband, Judge van Riper gave sentences aggregating 30 years. He was found guilty on three counts of robbery and given ten years on each count, the sentences to run consecutively.

Paul represented himself as a Canadian. When he was arrested, he made an endeavor to protect his wife from prosecution, asserting that she had nothing to do with the robberies.

OBITUARY

MRS. C. M. SMITH.

APSLEY, Dec. 31.—Mrs. Catherine Mary Smith, more than fifty years a resident in this locality, passed away early on Wednesday morning, aged seventy-seven years, after an illness of some months. Mrs. Smith was well known and highly respected by the whole community for her estimable qualities and especially for her services in nursing. During her long residence here she had nursed about one hundred confinement cases without losing a mother's life, besides nursing numerous other cases of sickness. The funeral service was held at St. George's church, of which she was a loyal and staunch member, and was very largely attended. The Rev. C. A. G. Spence paid a warm tribute to her memory and referred to her as the Florence Nightingale of this district. The pallbearers were Wellington Lean, James Downing, Thomas Tanner, Edward Tanner, Charles Tanner and Robert Tanner.

The deceased lady leaves two sons, Charles at home, and Harry of Ottawa, who mourn the loss of a devoted mother.

FLOOD WATERS HALT TRAFFIC

Parts of England Invaded By Rising Waters Following Thaw.

FAMILIES IN PERIL.

LONDON, January 4 (Canadian Press). — The Thames and other major streams continued to rise last night as the tributary valleys send down waters from the great thaw and Monday's widespread heavy rainfall.

Vast low-lying sections of East London and other parts of the Metropolis are already invaded by floods ,which have badly crippled the train service and covered many roadways. More than a score of heavy laden barges at Kingston, just above London, torn from their moorings in the swollen Thames crashed dangerously into the bridges below. Some of them sank, others formed obstructions against the arches.

Hundreds of workers going to or returning from employment were forced to wade yesterday or to use improvised ferries—and there were long delays. The floods in many places weakened the foundations of railway bridges and culverts, some of which collapsed. It became necessary to send trains over devious routes.

Scores of valley communities reported the highest overflow of water in many years.

In the western part of England, numerous places were so flooded that rescuing parties removed by boats entire families from their dwellings. Automobile drivers have been warned to keep away from several districts, as otherwise they would be in danger of being isolated.

Curling

CAMPBELLFORD, January 4. — At the Curling Club, at Campbellford, last night, S. J. Moore defeated A. L. Riendeau to the tune of twelve-six in a ten end game. Lapp defeated West six-two in eight ends. It was a night of surprises. In the latter game the players were constantly changing and when the game ended scarcely one member who had been in at the start was on the ice. Mr. Moore smiled when his rink took the ice and remarked that he had the "boy's rink." But he began to think that the boys could curl not too badly when the score kept mounting and he came out on on the long end of such an uneven score. Not a few times did his skill change the colour of the stones in the ring that would be the counters when all had been played.

It is a matter of regret by the club that the membership is somewhat smaller than last year. Several of the old curlers have not yet signed the book. In view of the coming bonspiel it is hoped that there will be a rush on the secretary during the next few days. Arrangements are being made for a local 'spiel which is to start about January 9th and will continue for three days. After that, a regular schedule will be drawn up and followed as closely as possible during the remainder of the season.

Franco-American Peace Proposal Gains Favorable Impression In Paris

PARIS, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—French diplomatic experts yesterday began examination of the text of an agreement "to outlaw war" proposed by Secretary of State Kellogg. The experts profess the same spirit of optimism with which Foreign Minister Briand originally proposed the treaty.

The reservations set forth in the United States State Department text were the object of special study as the French are quite agreed on the general idea of the arbitration of all differences and exclusion of any idea of war.

The American text as published here, created a favorable impression which was modified somewhat by reports from Washington that the United States government intends to ask other states to join France in the agreement.

It was remarked in official circles in Paris that the pact enters fully into the spirit of the present policy of the French government. Hence there would be no objection to its extension to other powers, but official circles feel that negotiations between more than two countries would involve certain complications. It was stated that the United States thus far had asked France to sign nothing but a purely Franco-American agreement.

CABINET BEGINS DAILY SITTINGS

Parliament Opens Jan. 26 and Much Business Must Be Done.

VACANCIES TO BE FILLED.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4. — (Canadian Press).—With the holidays over and the opening of Parliament three weeks away, the Cabinet will embark on a period of daily sittings. A great deal of work must be done before the members assemble in Ottawa, and Premier King has expressed the desire to have the sessional programme in good shape so that little time will be lost after the opening. In addition to the work of preparing for the session, which includes the important business of revising estimates for the next fiscal year, the Cabinet has some appointments to make before the 26th, when Parliament meets. There are still four senatorial vacancies, three in Ontario and one in Quebec.

CRAMAHE TOWNSHIP.

Cramahe Township Council since election is as follows: Caul Murphy, Reeve; Arthur Samons, Deputy-Reeve; Charles Quinn, Lealle Campbell, and Roy Darling, Councillors.

STIRLING, Jan. 4.— An exciting election took place on Monday. There were seven candidates for the four places on the council, the Reeve, Thomas Montgomery, having been returned by acclamation. Although zero weather prevailed, there was a large vote polled, the women voters being well represented at the polling booth in the old town hall. The result of the counting of the votes was unexpected in some respects, but such is the result at most elections. Three of the 1927 council were returned with number of votes: Lindsay Meiklejohn 242, Samuel Hatton 233, and W. H. Patterson 214, Jetty Thompson, one of the 1927 council, going down to defeat with 168 votes. Elmer Sandercook 220, will take his place for 1928. The other men who failed were W. West, 182, and J. E. O'Donnell 113.

Unearths Canopic Jar In King Tut's Tomb

LUXOR, Egypt, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Howard Carter, noted Egyptologist, who recently resumed explorations of Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb, has unearthed a canopic jar in a wonderful state of preservation, said to contain the viscera of the ancient king.

The jar is of beautifully carved alabaster. It was discovered in an ante-chamber of the tomb with a number of other vases containing various objects.

The tomb will be re-opened to visitors about January 15.

COMMITTEE WILL MEET ON THURSDAY

Formulate Its Findings For Government on St. Lawrence Waterways.

OTTAWA, Ont., January 4 (Canadian Press). — The National Advisory Committee on the St. Lawrence Waterway meets in the Capital on Thursday morning to formulate its recommendations to the Government The findings of the committee will be based upon the report made by the joint board of engineers for the United States and Canada.

It is quite unlikely that the recommendations of the National Advisory Committee will be made public, but the meeting is regarded here as very significant and will be watched with intense interest. At the conclusion of its meetings the committee will confer with a sub-committee of the Cabinet, and it is in this way that the committee's findings will actually reach the Government.

Probably the first business of the committee will be to appoint a chairman. The post was left vacant by the resignation of Right Hon. George P. Graham at the time of his appointment to the Senate. Two alternatives are open, either the committee can appoint one of its own number or it can ask the Government to appoint a chairman. It is said here that a chairman will likely be elected from the eight members of the body as it is at present constituted. The membership is as follows: Thomas Ahearn, Ottawa; Hon. W. E. Foster, St. John; B. Leman, Montreal; E. D. Martin, Winnipeg; Hon. Dr. W. L. McDougald, Montreal; Hon. Sir Clifford Sifton, Toronto; Major-General J. W. Stewart, Vancouver; Hon. Adelard Turgeon, Quebec; and Geo. W. Yates, secretary. So far as is known now, all the members of the committee will be in attendance at Thursday's meeting.

Paderewski Must Tour Without Old Chef; Lord of Artist's Pullman Cuisine Retires

NEW YORK, Jan 4.—When Ignace Jan Paderewski, pianist-statesman, starts his trans-continental tour next week, he will travel without his famous old negro Pullman chef, James Copper. Copper who has cooked for Paderewski on every long tour in America the pianist has made during the past twenty-five years has reached the age limit imposed by the Pullman Company. He sent word to Paderewski from Chicago yesterday that he was retiring.

But, in retiring, the "King of Cuisine" exercised his royal prerogative in one last gesture—he appointed his successor. The Pullman chef to receive the nomination is James Davis, a young man who makes his home in Chicago. Paderewski in one last gesture—he approves the choice.

The old chef has lorded it over the kitchen of Paderewski's private car for fifteen tours. An understanding with the Pullman Company gave the pianist the right to the same chef every time he started across the continent. Copper considered his position one of great dignity, for if Paderewski was an artist in music, was not he, himself, an artist in foods?

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

THE WATER CURE

As the uses of water are better understood we find that this indispensable element can be used in so many ways in the maintenance of health and in overcoming conditions of disease!

It is vitally important to furnish the body with a good supply of water to be used in the metabolistic processes, and for eliminating both the natural toxins and extra amounts of impurities which need to be thrown out after any unusual mental or physical exertion.

There is always more danger in not using enough water than there is in the use of too much. And it is best to do the water-drinking between meals when the stomach is empty; as this does not interfere with digestion, and the stomach is not over-distended by the combination of food and water.

Those who are attempting to cure themselves of any disease will do well to use two or three quarts of water a day, even though they do not feel thirsty for this amount. The purest water obtainable should be used, and if any doubt exists as to the purity of the water, it is always a safe plan to use distilled water, which is entirely free from minerals and bacterial micro-organisms.

In certain disorders where water cannot be taken through the mouth, the system can be well supplied with sufficient water through the use of the Murphy-drip attachment, which can be used with an ordinary fountain syringe. This treatment is taken in much the same way as an enema except that the flow of water is controlled so that it enters the intestines drop by drop and is absorbed through the intestinal walls. Again, distilled water is the best to use for this purpose, as it is absorbed in about half the time required for ordinary tap water.

One of the best uses of water for cleansing the body is the plain warm water enema. One quart is usually sufficient at a time, and such enemas should be used in every case of acute or chronic disorder and their use continued until the patient has entirely recovered.

Much of the bodily elimination of impurities takes place through the pores of the skin.

Frequent shower or sponge baths keep the skin clean and the mouths of the pores open so as to encourage more elimination

Every man, woman, and child should take at least two of these shower or sponge baths daily! If cool or cold water is used, several shower baths may be taken daily without any possibility of a "weakening effect."

Hot tub baths ARE enervating, and should not be used except in rare cases where it seems advisable to bring about bodily relaxation.

A CLEAN body—INSIDE and OUT—cannot be a sick body!

If you wish to get well and remain so, you will find that the various uses of water furnish one of the most effective—most easily available—and, at the same time, one of the cheapest treatments you can employ.

Questions and Answers.

Question: F. A. N. asks: "Will you please tell me how I can overcome fainting spells, and what causes them? I cannot have a slight pain without turning very weak and sick, and unless I lie down under a fan or apply wet cloths to my head I will faint. I cannot even listen to people telling of operations without having a fainting spell which leaves me weak for half a day. Severe pain will not make me sick or faint, but slight, uncomfortable pains always make me sick to the extent that I almost faint."

Answer: You may have some kind of heart trouble, or you may be over-nervous, due to wrong mental and physical training. Of course, I cannot tell you specifically what is causing your trouble without a personal consultation and examination.

Question: Mrs. F. G. H. writes: "Will you please name the foods that are non-catarrh-producing? I have a cold in the head all winter. I may have chronic catarrh. If so, can diet cure this trouble?"

Answer: You can use all of the non-starchy vegetables and the fruits without producing any excessive catarrhal mucus. All of the foods high in calory value, such as the starches, sugars, and proteins may be said to be catarrh-producing if used in large quantities. The hydrocarbons, that is, the fats and oils, also contribute their share in adding to the toxins which irritate the mucous membranes and produce catarrh. The best diet for you to take is one free from starches, sugars, and fats, but with a small amount of protein and plenty of non-starchy vegetables.

Question: M. J. R. asks: "Are sulphur and molasses good for the blood? If so, how often and how much should be taken?"

Answer: The sulphur and molasses treatment is no doubt effective in removing some intestinal toxemias, but a fruit fast is far superior for accomplishing this effect.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

LET US PART QUICKLY

At eventide the ships put out to sea,
That morning time may find them far from shore,
No well-loved islands lying on their lee
No well-loved woman standing in the door.
And I would have it so with you and me:
If we must part, then let us have it o'er.

The evening's sailor sighs to see the land
Drop farther west, and then kind night comes down.
The morning's sailor on his deck will stand
And wear the morning's crimson like a crown,
New duties here, new dangers close at hand,
And all the old things vanished like the town.

Let us part quickly, since we part at all,
For sadness may grow bitter, sad too long;
One sudden kiss for memory to recall,
One clasp of hands to help to keep us strong,
Then to turn bravely, not to cringe or crawl,
Nor talk too much of fortune, or of wrong.

Yes, let the morning find me far from here,
In some new place, where some new duty lies,
You facing forward to another year,
With memory, but no sorrow, in your eyes.
At eventide old islands disappear,
And we must turn to dawn, and other skies.

BRILLIANT PIANIST PLAYS HERE FRIDAY

Scott Malcolm, of Toronto Conservatory, Comes To Women's Music Club.

The Women's Music Club is deserving of great praise for the ambitious programs they have already given, and are still to present until the end of the season in April. Especially are they deserving of praise for the introducing to Peterborough of some of the younger school of fine, sterling musicians whose splendidly presented programs have afforded the members the greatest pleasure, such fine vocalists as Madge Hunter Parker and Myrtle Hare, and the brilliant pianist, Margaret Brown. On Friday evening in the Conservatory Hall, they have the honor of presenting to a Peterborough audience that outstanding young pianist, Mr. Scott Malcolm, of Toronto, a member of the Toronto Conservatory of Music Faculty. Mr. Malcolm is a brilliant and magnetic pianist, his technique is superb, his artistry intensely refined, his tone velvety and of great warmth, and he possesses that priceless gift, a wonderful sense of rhythm. He won an ovation and also warm praise from critics a few weeks ago, after the playing of his own splendidly composed concerto at a recital of original composers, arranged by Dr. Ernest MacMillan. Contrary to custom, this recital will be given in the evening, instead of afternoon, in deference to a request made by some gentlemen who having already heard Mr. Malcolm, desire to have the great pleasure of doing so again. This recital is open to visitors. Mr. Malcolm has forwarded a very fine program, comprising such composers as Chopin, Beethoven, Bach-Burmeister, Schumann, Ravel, Rachmaninoff, and Kreisler-Rachmaninoff. Miss Daisy Murray, soprano soloist of George Street Church, will sing a group of songs. An evening's enjoyment of the finest music may be confidently looked forward to on Friday evening.

THE MARKETS

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

July.	137	136¼	136⅝

Stobie, Forlong & Company's Peterborough office have received information that 2,000,000 shares of Flin Flon, to be known as the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co., will be open for trading if and when issued at $15.00 per share. On completion of financing, there will be two million shares issued and approximately 12 million in the treasury of the company. The feeling among people close to the company is that there will be a heavy oversubscription for this stock.

Sudbury Basin Gains Leading Mine Market

TORONTO, Jan. 4. — (Canadian Press.) — The spectacular climb of Sudbury Basin overshadowed all other dealings on the standard mining exchange to-day. Sudbury advanced 1.70 to 14.15 on top of a dollar gain yesterday. Otherwise the market was definitely weaker, with Bidgood the easiest stock. Bidgood lost sixteen at 128 on a big turnover.

Hughes, Tough Oakes and Jackson Manion. Noranda eased ten at 23.40 and Hollinger sold twenty lower at 17.85. Barry Hollinger firmed four at 117 and Kirkland Lake and Laval were a point higher.

Chicago Wheat Lower With Changes Slight

CHICAGO, January 4 (Canadian Press).— With Liverpool quotations easier and reports that British buyers were refusing to follow advances in price, Chicago wheat averaged a little lower early to-day. Despatches telling of the lack of snow protection for domestic winter wheat, however, tended somewhat to steady the market. Opening at ¼c decline to ½c advance, wheat values here showed a slight subsequent general setback. Corn, oats, and provisions were easy, corn starting unchanged to ⅝c off and later sagging all around.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 130⅝, May 131 ⅞. Corn, March, 86¼, May 89½. Oats, March 53⅞, May 55⅛.

British American Oil Is Feature At Toronto

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—British American Oil featured this morning's session of the Toronto Stock Exchange with an exhibition of strength and activity that was only partially followed in the rest of the list. The leader touched 40, and at noon at 39½ was ⅝ higher than yesterday. International Petroleum sharply gained two points, but Imperial Oil was fractionally easier. Massey Harris, leader in the regular list, closed the morning with a fractional gain at 41¾. Bell Telephone gained two at 156. The liquor stocks generally were steady, though Seagrams, the leader, eased fractionally at 26. Northern Bakeries, an active feature, last ¾ at 44¾. Canners New Second Preferred, in heavy trading, gained a quarter point at 20¼. A drop of 1¾ to 56 in the new City Dairy stock was the largest of occasional recessions, which included also slight losses in Brazilian, Cosmos, Christie Brown, and Hiram Walkers.

NEW HIGHWAY PLANNED

Another ambitious Ontario highways program is officially forecast, the outstanding proposition being the linking of Sarnia and Ottawa by a northern transprovincial road. The route, illustrated here, would be a continuation of the present number seven highway from Sarnia to Guelph, which has already been extended as far as Maple. Comparison with the present route through Toronto, is shown. It would cut off over a hundred miles, being about 450 miles long, while the route via Toronto is about 560 miles. The main construction difficulty will be the lakes section between Peterborough and Perth. Improvement of the Windsor-Niagara highway is also considered. Connecting the new Peace Bridge and the one being built at Windsor, it would attract a large share of tourist traffic since it cuts off 200 miles between Michigan and New York. Also shown is the proposed link between Welland and Hamilton. The total 1928 program will cost about the same as this year, $8,000,000, it is said.

RE-ORGANIZATION PLANS EFFECTIVE

Local Manager of Canadian Department Stores Makes Statement.

Canadian Department Stores Limited, which was organized a year ago, and which comprises the destinies of twenty-two well-established stores, is now in process of re-organization.

C. W. Lapp, manager of the local store, when asked some time ago for a statement regarding it could not pay much attention to the rumors that were being heard on the street, and in the newspapers. However, Mr. Lapp now informs us that the difficulties that the company has been experiencing were the results of a failure on the part of the merger to supply the management with sufficient working capital.

There are periods in the year when every merchant requires additional capital to provide extra merchandise for the busy months, and as this was not forthcoming from the promised source, it put the company in difficulties to meet the bills coming due. There was abundance of merchandise new and clean, but a shortage of cash. It is now that the directors have decided to turn this large stock into a million dollars by putting on a sale at prices that would be sure to attract the people. This would give the company funds with which to meet its obligations. We cordially invite the people of Peterboro and the surrounding district to take advantage of the Million Dollar Sale. Our stock is heavy and has to be considerably reduced. Watch our daily ads., and our windows

C. W. LAPP, Manager.

FORMER OFFICER SENTENCED TO DIE

Witnesses Tell of His Cruelty During Civil War of 1919.

KRASNOYARIK, Siberia, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Vasili Abalakoff, former Cossack officer, was condemned to death after a trial in which many witnesses told of the defendant's horrible cruelties, to which more than four hundred deaths during the civil war of 1919 were attributed.

Eye-witnesses described the burial alive of some persons and the hacking to death of others. They recounted how his victims were thrown under the ice and told of numerous deaths from whippings. In pronouncing sentence, the court held that amnesty for the former officer was impossible.

THE PROPER NOTE.

Mayor-elect Denne sounds the proper note in his address of thanks to the electors when he begged for the co-operation and assistance of the citizens generally in working with the Council and himself for a better and bigger Peterborough.

While the Mayor and Council are the directors, citizens should not fail to remember that they themselves are shareholders in the municipal organization, and it is in their own interest to stand back of and support the men they have chosen to look after the city's affairs.

Mayor-elect Denne will be a better Mayor, the Council of 1928 will be a better Council, if they receive the co-operation from the community generally that their position of responsibility entitles them to from the people.

The whole task should not be thrown upon the shoulders of the municipal organization.

Community spirit working in behind the elected representatives of the community can do much to bring about a new era of progress and development in the city we all love.

THIS YEAR'S COUNCIL.

The general feeling is that Peterborough has builded well in the selection of its civic government, and that the Council of 1928 should rank high in energy, foresight and enthusiasm when a resume of its work is made at the end of the year.

Headed by Mayor-elect Denne, who has been a veritable dynamo in any organization with which he has been connected, the Council combines experience with ability.

Of those elected a year ago Aldermen Phelan, Greene and McIntyre still have a year to serve, while all five of the elected Aldermen on this occasion have had previous experience in municipal affairs.

When the organization is completed by the appointment of Stanley Lowe and H. C. Huffman, the new Mayor will preside over a body of men not only willing to serve the public well but with the ability and training that are necessary to put that willingness into action.

It may make mistakes, of course, but at least this Council of 1923 will not die of sleeping sickness.

From the Mayor down to the rookies to be appointed the Council is well supplied with that quality that can best be described by one of those modern words that defy translation into orthodox English, namely, "pep."

The Examiner will be disappointed if this year's board of directors does not measure well above the average.

THOSE APPOINTMENTS.

There does not seem much doubt about the appointment of Stanley Lowe and Harry C. Huffman, who ran sixth and seventh in the aldermanic race on Monday to the Council to fill the vacancies brought about by the resignation of ex-Ald. Fife and Mayor-elect Denne.

While there is no regulation requiring the Council to make its appointments from among the defeated aspirants and it could go outside of these candidates if it desired, it was undoubtedly a general belief that the two highest among the defeated aldermanic rivals would be selected, and the election was to all intents and purposes fought out on that basis.

Under the circumstances it is not believed that the other members of the Council will even momentarily consider any other course of action than that of oppointing the two men who next to the successful candidates received the largest measure of support.

Messrs. Lowe and Huffman are well-known young citizens who will bring to the Council a good deal of enthusiasm and the willingness to work for community betterment.

In their own business each has been successful, and they should fit in to the municipal government effectively and efficiently.

IS IT THE RIGHT DAY?

In spite of the fact that the total vote polled on Monday was large, there are renewed demands for a change in the date of holding the municipal election, and the system now followed in many municipalities of getting the annual campaign well out of the way before the New Year seems to have many friends.

Theoretically New Year's Day, a general holiday, should be ideal for election purposes.

In practice the results do not always confirm the theory.

It seems easier to get the vote out early and to avoid congestion on an ordinary day than on a holiday when there is a very marked disinclination on the part of the electors to turn out before noon.

Even with a better organized and better motorized campaign than Peterborough had previously known in the municipal arena, there was much difficulty experienced on Monday in persuading the voters to visit the polling booths in the morning—in fact, the bulk of those called for flatly refused to get out until the afternoon.

Naturally then there was congestion at some of the polls near the close of the voting, and there was the usual experience of eleventh-hour voters who found themselves too late to indicate their opinion of the various candidates and issues.

THE VIGOR OF CHRISTIANITY.

In a letter to The Toronto Globe, Hon. George Lynch-Staunton distinguished lawyer, statesman, and Roman Catholic layman, bewails the tendencies of the age. He is disposed, almost, to despair of the human race. The world, he says, has forsaken Christianity. Science has undermined that beautiful and stately edifice. And in engaging in that destructive work science knew not what it was doing.

Are such statements true? Is it true that science has undermined Christianity? That the world has forsaken it? That the doctrines of Christ are less potent today than in centuries, or a century, ago?

They are not true. Not unless all history is wrong.

Take, as an illustration, the cardinal Christian doctrine of the immortality of the soul. There is a tendency in some quarters to make this belief unfashionable, to ridicule it as out of date ("medieval" is the favorite word) and placidly take for granted that the advance of science has left it hopelessly behind in the gloom of dead centuries. Yet the truth is that belief in immortality is comparatively new, and that it is held more widely today than in any century of the past.

The Egyptians excepted, few peoples before the time of Christ had very clear ideas on the subject of a hereafter. To the races of Rome, Greece and Western Asia the future life was a vague underworld in which half-conscious phantoms bewailed the loss of earthly sunshine. Only a few selected souls were chosen either for bliss or torment. Even the Jews with all their religious genius, laid no great stress on the future life until they had come into contact with Persian ideas during their long captivity. When Jesus was born the Jewish world was divided on the question, and the Gentile world, on the whole, rejected the idea. Only a few enlightened philosophers like Plato had reasoned out a real belief in the immortality of the soul, as distinguished from popular legends of ghosts and poetic myths about the underworld.

In the latter days of the Roman Empire, there came a change. Not only was Christianity conquering province after province with its newer teachings of Heaven and Hell, but rivals and imitators were preaching a similar doctrine of the life eternal whose nature was established by the character of life on earth. The pagans of Northern Europe had their own myths of a future life, a dim ghostly existence in the underworld for the majority of mankind and a heaven of beer and butchery for a few heroes chosen from the mass as a reward for exceptional valor. But the Christian doctrine that every soul was immortal in its own right soon conquered the peoples of the north as it had the Mediterranean world. While the Christianizing of Europe was in progress a new religion arose in Arabia which copied the Christian emphasis on immortality. Mohammed's followers carried his teaching half round the world from Morocco to the East Indies. Sometimes they came into conflict with Christian communities, but in general they displaced nature religions with vague or crude concepts of life after death.

It was not until the beginning of modern times, some six or seven hundred years ago, the Christian and Moslem teachings had finished their work of converting the primitive peoples of Northern Europe and Central Asia to a definite belief in personal immortality with personal responsibility for conduct. In Eastern Asia the Buddhist notion of the absorption of the soul into the general consciousness of the universe still prevailed. The native peoples of Africa and America still remained with a half belief in the underworld; an immortality unrelated to character and on a far inferior level of reality to the life on earth. Christian missionaries in all three regions—Eastern Asia, Africa and America—have since introduced their more rational and definite ideas of the future life, and even those peoples who have not become converts to Christianity have undoubtedly been influenced by Christian thought.

No general religious census has ever been taken, but today probably 60 per cent. of the people of the world have a clear and strong belief that personal immortality, with reward and punishment based on personal deserts, is the destiny of every human being. Fifteen hundred years ago—and it must be remembered that man has been abroad on the earth for some hundreds of thousands of years—it is doubtful if such a belief was held by 10 per cent. of the people then living. The doctrine of immortality, in short, is a comparatively new belief, and it is a growing belief.

Nor is Christianity, in other respects, being undermined. Those who profess it may not be as passionate or as narrow as in the past about dogmas and creeds; but does that prove decay? Was Europe more Christian, for example, when its adherents burnt each other at the stake? Was it more Christian when it turned half a continent into a shambles over the interpretation of the Scriptures? More Christian when men hated each other more for the love of God?

Pessimists and Jeremiahs are always with us. Today one of their favorite wails is that Christianity is being destroyed. Yet the truth is that there is no institution on the face of the earth more vigorous, more far-reaching in its influence upon men's lives, more tremendous in shaping human destiny. If there is anything more impressive in this life than that tonight hundreds of millions of people all over the globe will turn their eyes and minds and hearts to a little spot in Jerusalem where, nineteen centuries ago, a Man was born, we should like to know what it is.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

And now to get together for a bigger Peterborough.

Stanley Lowe's deficit in the aldermanic race was much lower than the first counts indicate. He finished but two votes behind Ald.-elect Hamilton.

Judging by the figures, Toronto has had enough of Mr. Foster. Another case of the pitcher, etc.

Returns from the Board of Education seem to indicate that the figures have been "doctored."

John Crane's answer to an ovation from his fellow-Rotarians on his election was a declaration that their light bills would go out just the same, a statement that drew a sotto voce comment from one Rotarian that cranes' bills are usually long.

Daylight saving ranked next to the mayoralty contest in interest, judging by the telephone inquiries answered by The Examiner.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, January 4 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was very quiet, there being little demand from any source. Owing to advance in the premium for No. 2 Canadian Western oats in the Winnipeg market, local prices for this grade were marked up 1½c per bushel, but other grades were unchanged. The volume of business was small.

The trade in spring and winter wheat flour was slow, but values were unchanged.

The undertone to the milfeed market was firm, with a moderate amount of business passing in all lines. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet, and prices were unchanged.

A fair amount of business was done in eggs and prices were steady at the recent decline noted. The receipts were 740 cases.

The potato market was without any new feature to note, prices being unchanged under a quiet demand. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.15 per bag of 90 pounds; Prince Edward Island Whites at $1.05 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.00 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk; and New Brunswick Whites at 95c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

A steady feeling prevailed in the market for imported beans, but the volume of business was small. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were quoted at $2.65 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $2.75 per bushel, ex-store.

The demand for butter showed no improvement and the tone of the market was about steady. The receipts were 46 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the cheese trade, but values ruled steady. The receipts were 55 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, January 4 (Canadian Press). — As lively upturns in the value of wheat yesterday accompanied reports that selling pressure of Southern Hemisphere wheat has passed the maximum for this season, estimates were current that 50 per cent. of the Argentine exportable wheat surplus has already been sold. Profit-taking, however, led to a reaction from the day's top prices here.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 5c to ¾c net higher. Corn finished ¼c to ⅝c off, oats unchanged to ⅛c to ¼c lower, and provisions unchanged to 12c decline.

Indications of good export demand for wheat from North America were much in evidence yesterday, especially wheat in position for prompt shipment. About 600,000 bushels of North American wheat was taken to be shipped to Europe, and it was stated that nearly all available wheat for such use had been advanced to a rail-cost basis. Another strengthening factor was the decided falling-off in the world shipments, together with announcement of 2,044,000 bushels decline of the United States wheat visible supply. Besides, further unfavorable reports were received about lack of snow protection for domestic winter wheat.

Word that Argentine wheat shippers were asking decidedly higher prices yesterday tended further to stimulate buying in Chicago, and among the purchasers of future deliveries here were trans-Atlantic interests and houses woth connections north-west. Reports widely circulated were to the effect that European consumers had become more inclined than of late to follow market upturns, especially so millers in Great Britain who had been unsuccessfully awaiting a break in world prices owing to favorable harvest news from Argentina.

In the corn market, 3,820,000 bushels enlargement of the visible stock proved to be more than a counter-balance for excellent cash demand. Cash corn was ½c to 2c higher compared with May, and offerings from the country were extremely small. Oats followed corn.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, January 4 (Canadian Press). — Cattle receipts, 7,000; best fed steers, $18.25; yearlings, $7.00 heifer yearlings up to $13.75; meaty, sausage bulls, up to $8.90, mostly $8.50 to $8.75; vealers, $13.50 to $15.00 to big packers; outsiders, $15.00 to $16.00.

Hog receipts, 35,000; top, $9.00; bulk good and choice 210 to 300 pounds, $8.80 to $9.00; 160 to 200 pounds, $8.75 to $8.95; 130 to 150 pounds, $8.25 to $8.75; bulk pigs, $8.00 to $8.50; selected strong weights upward to $8.65 or better; bulk packing sows, $7.75 to $8.15.

Sheep receipts, 22,000; top to all interests, $13.50; bulk good and choice 78 to 88 pound lambs, $12.75 to $13.25; good choice 93 to 100 pound offerings, $12.00 to $12.50, depending on quality and weight; fat ewes, $6.00 to $6.75; scattering, $11.75 to $12.75.

EARLY CLOSING LAWS MAY GO

Government Committee Recommends Removal of Several British Restrictions.

LEGACIES OF WARTIME.

LONDON, Jan. 4.— (Canadian Press Cable).—For some time derision has been heaped upon the regulations with regard to the early closing hour of shops which are largely a legacy from war days when shops, with certain exceptions, were compelled to close at eight p.m. primarily with a view to economy in fuel, light, and labor. The regulations have been derided partly because they are regarded as an infringment on the liberty of the subject and also because of their obvious irritating anomalies. For instance, a person may not legally buy tobacco, candies, or ice cream in a theatre of public house after 9.30 p.m.

A committee of the government has been looking into the matter of the regulations in question with a view to straightening out the tangle that has been causing inconvenience ever since the war and the committee has just issued its report. The report recommends the discontinuance of the regulations affecting hours of sale of refreshments in theatres and public houses and allowing the sale in theatres during the whole performance and in public houses during licensed hours.

WAR MEMORIAL.

The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir:

One of the most important things at which Peterborough should aim in 1928 is the completion of a memorial to the men who fell in the great war. It is now ten years since that war ended, and in this decade many have passed away who would have liked to see a fitting memorial erected in Peterborough.

Ten years is a long time—and the silence in regard to Peterborough's memorial seems to indicate that construction is no nearer than it was when the City Council talked it over on June 6, 1921. If the plan approved seven years ago cannot be carried out, let a new plan be formulated. The money has been subscribed, and the people who paid it should know what is being done—or what is proposed to be done.

Support this demand for erection of a war memorial in Peterborough in 1928.

MILL DESTROYED NEAR BELLEVILLE

Owner of Hastings Paper Mills Expected To Rebuild at Once.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The Canadian Press correspondent journeyed to the scene of the fire which destroyed the Hastings Paper Mills in the early hours of Monday morning. Damage was caused to an amount of $100,000, only partially covered by insurance. There is nothing left but a heap of ashes and a smoldering blaze on each side of the mill where the rags and paper are kept that are used for the manufacture of their products.

The mill is owned and managed by O. A. Porritt and was purchased from the Lazier estate some time ago. Repairs to the extent of $35,000 had been made two years ago.

Mr. Porritt could not be located about the city, but it is understood a new mill will be built almost immediately. Thirty men were thrown out of employment by the conflagration, but a few will be given jobs by the Byers Construction Company at Corbyville.

Long serious illness and complications often follow Colds, Grip and Influenza. Guard your health against this danger. Price 30c. (Made in Canada)
